The government has adopted a plan to facilitate and simplify the filling in of conscription registration cards June 5. Circulars containing the twelve questions to be asked and advice as to how they should be answered have been prepared for distribution.

How to Answer Questions.

The circular, which bears the heading, "How to Answer Questions on Registration Cards," reads as follows:

"Questions will be asked for you to answer in the order in which they appear on this paper. These questions are set out below with detailed information to help you answer them.

"Do not write on, mark or otherwise mutilate these instructions. Do not remove them. They should be carefully read so that you will have your answers ready when you go before the registrar.

"All answers will be written on the registration card in ink by the registrar, who should be careful to spell all names correctly and to write legibly.

"1. Name in full. Age in years, ——

"This means all your names spelled out in full.

"State your age today in years only. Disregard additional months or days. Be prepared to say 'nineteen' or 'twenty-five,' not 'nineteen years three months' or the like.

"2. Home address.

"This means the place where you have your permanent home, not the place where you work. Be prepared to give the address in this way: '232 Main street, Chicago, Cook county, Illinois;' that is, give number and name of street first, then town, then county and state.

Write Birth Date in Advance.

"Date of birth.

"Write your birthday (month, day and year) on a piece of paper before going to the registrar and give the paper to him the first thing. Example: 'August 5, 1894.'

"If you do not remember the year, start to answer as you would if someone asked you your birthday, as 'August 5.' Then say, 'on my birthday this year I will be (or was) —— years old.' The registrar will then fill in the year of birth. Many people do not carry in mind the year they were born. This may be obtained by the registrar by subtracting the age in years on this year's birthday from 1917.

"4. Are you (1) a natural born citizen; (2) a naturalized citizen; (3) an alien; (4) or have you declared your intention to become a citizen (specify which)?

"(1) If you were born in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, you are a natural born citizen, no matter what may have been the citizenship or nationality of your parents. If you were born in Porto Rico you are a citizen of the United States, unless you were born of alien parentage. If you were born abroad, you are still a citizen of the United States, if your father was a citizen of the United States at the time you were born, unless you have expatriated yourself.

"(2) You are a naturalized citizen if you have completed your naturalization; that is, if you have 'taken final papers.' But you are not a citizen if you have only declared your intention to become a citizen (that is, if you have only 'taken out first papers'); in the latter case you are only a 'declarant.'

"You are also a naturalized citizen if, although foreign born, your father or surviving parent became fully naturalized while you were under twenty-one years of age, and if you came to the United States under twenty-one.

"(3) You are a declarant if, although a citizen or subject of some foreign country, you have declared on oath before a naturalization court your intention to become a citizen of the United States. Receipt from the clerk of the court of the certified copy of such declaration is often called 'taking out first papers.' You are not a declarant if your first paper was taken out after September 26, 1906, and is more than seven years old.

"(4) You are an alien if you do not fall within one of the three classes above mentioned.

"5. Where were you born?

"First name the town, then the state, then the country, as 'Columbus, O.; 'Vienna, Austria;' 'Paris, France;' 'Sofia, Bulgaria.'

"6. If not a citizen, of what country are you a citizen or subject?"

"This need be answered only by aliens and declarants. Remember that a 'declarant' is not yet a citizen of the United States. If an alien or declarant, state the name of your country, as 'France,' 'Japan,' 'China,' etc.

What Is Your Job Right Now?

"7. What is your present trade, occupation or office?

"This does not ask what you once did, nor what you have done most of the time, nor what you are best fitted to do. It asks what your job is right now. State briefly, as farmer, miner, student, laborer (on farm, in rolling mill, in automobile, wagon or other factory, etc. If you hold an office under state or federal government, name the office you hold.

"If you are in one of the following offices or employments, use one of the names hereafter mentioned: 'Custom house clerk, 'employed in the transmission of the mails,' or 'employed in an armory, arsenal or navy yard, 'mariner actually employed in the sea service of citizen or merchant within the United States.'

"8. By whom employed? Where employed?

"If you are working for an individual, firm, corporation or association state its name. If in business, trade, profession or employment for yourself, so state. If you are an officer of the state or federal government say whether your office is under the United States, the state, the county or a municipality. In answer to the question as to where you are employed give the town, county and state where you work.

"9. Have you a father, mother, wife, child under twelve or a sister or brother under twelve solely dependent upon you for support (specify which):

"Consider your answer thoughtfully. If it is true that there is another mouth than your own which you alone have a duty to feed do not let your military ardor interfere with the wish of the nation to reduce war's misery to a minimum. On the other hand, unless the person you have in mind is solely dependent on you do not hide behind petticoats or children.

"10. Married or single (which)? Race (specify which)?

"This does not ask whether you were once married, but whether you are married now. In answer to the question as to your race state briefly whether Caucasian, Mongolian, negro, Malayan or Indian.

As to Past Military Service.

"11. What military service have you had? Rank? Branch? Years? Nation or state?

"No matter what country you served, you must give complete information. In answering these questions first name your rank, using one of the following words: 'Commissioned officer,' 'noncommissioned officer,' 'private.' Next, state branch in which you served in one of the following words: 'Infantry,' 'cavalry,' 'artillery,' 'medical,' 'signal,' 'aviation,' 'supply,' 'marine,' 'navy.' Next, state the number of years' service, not counting time spent in the reserve. Finally, name the nation or state you served. If you served under the United States or one of the states of the United States, name your service in one of the following terms: 'National Guard' (of such and such a state), 'militia' (of such and such a state), 'volunteers of United States' or 'regular army (navy) of United States.'

"12. Do you claim exemption from draft? Specify grounds.

"Because you claim exemption from draft, it by no means follows that you are exempt. For the information of the war department you should make a claim now if you intend to prosecute it. Some persons will be exempted on account of their occupations or offices, some on account of the fact that they have relatives dependent upon them for support. Your answer touching these things will be important in supporting the claim you now intend to make in your answer to the present questions. Be sure, therefore, that the grounds you now state are in conformity with your answers to questions 7 and 8.

"In stating grounds you claim as exempting you use one of the following terms: If you claim to be an executive, legislative or judicial officer of the state or nation, name your office and say whether it is an office of the state or nation. If you claim to be a member of a religious sect whose creed forbids its members to participate in war in any form, simply name the sect. If you are employed in the transmission of the United States mails or as an artificer or workman in an armory, arsenal or navy yard of the United States, or if you are a mariner employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States, so state. If you are a felon or otherwise morally deficient and desire to claim exemption on that ground, state your ground briefly. If you claim physical disability, state that briefly. If you claim exemption on any other ground, state your ground briefly."

WHERE AIRMEN WILL TRAIN

Six Colleges Designated by the War Department as Points for the Instruction of Aviators.

The work of turning out army aviators will be quickened 50 per cent as the result of an order issued by the war department.

In the future the groundwork and elementals of aerodynamics will be taught to army aviator students at six of the larger universities throughout the country under the direction of army officers. This will enable those in charge of operations to devote their entire energy to turning out competent aviators, who will take their place as reserve lieutenants in the signal corps.

The schools which have been designated to do the elementary work are the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cornell university, Ohio State university, University of Illinois, University of Texas and the University of California.

TRIESTE BATTLE ENTERS 18TH DAY; ITALIANS ADVANCE

LATINS REACH MOST FORMIDABLE NATURAL BARRIER BETWEEN THEM AND GOAL —MEDEAZZA ENTERED.

SENSATIONS IN AUSTRIA PROMISED; BERLIN UPSET

Battle Between Liberals and Reactionaries Continues—Further Ministerial Resignations in Vienna and Budapest Are Reported Impending —Hollweg Is Attacked.

Rome, May 29.—The Italians, having fought their way forward to within two miles of Duino, the most formidable natural barrier between them and Trieste, the great battle now enters its eighteenth day without any sign of an abatement in the fury of the struggle.

Vienna stubbornly refuses to concede the Italian victories, but the map tells the story of General Cadorna's steady advance.

Latins Reach Medeazza.

Duino marks a point at which the Carso plateau almost touches the sea. Protected by the ocean on the one side it is powerfully defended to the north by Mount Querceto.

At the foot of Mount Querceto, facing west, lies the little town of Medeazza, and the Italians have smashed their way to within a few hundred yards of this village.

From no other theater of the war comes any news of importance.

Teuton Powers Face Crises.

The battle between the reactionaries and Liberals in Austria-Hungary goes merrily forward and there are reports of further impending ministerial resignations in Vienna and Budapest. Sensations are promised at the sessions of the Austrian parliament, but it remains to be seen how much news will be able to escape the censor.

In Germany the violence of the attacks on Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg indicates the acuteness of the political crisis, but the recess of the reichstag renders even more meager than usual the information that seeps across the border.

"Lines Unbroken," Says Vienna.

Vienna, May 29.—"Our defenders' lines remain unbroken," declares an official statement on the Italian front fighting, claiming capture of 13,000 prisoners from the enemy since the beginning of the tenth Isonzo battle. Furious fighting was reported.

POLICE QUELL CHICAGO SOCIALIST DISTURBANCE

Bruised Heads and Arrests Follow Rioting Started by 2,000 Undesirables—Germans Suspected.

Chicago, May 29.—An anarchistic mob of some 2,000 undesirables of the pro-German socialistic element held an overflow peace terms meeting in the Auditorium and came to grief when a riot call was sent in and police and secret service reserves scattered the participants, broke heads, arrested many and took the ringleaders before the government investigating bureau, where they were to be questioned and later arraigned in court.

Arrests of several suspected German agents was expected as a direct result of the riot, it was announced by Hinton G. Clabaugh, special investigator for the department of justice.

100,000 U. S. SOLDIERS TO GO ON BATTLE LINE SOON

Statement Issued in London—America to Furnish 3,500 War Planes and 6,000 Aviators.

London, May 29.—An official statement issued here says that, counting the Americans serving in the British and French armies and the additional units ordered to France, there will shortly be 100,000 Americans in France.

The statement says 3,500 war airplanes will be constructed and 6,000 aviators trained in the United States this year.

Another contingent of the American medical corps has arrived in England. The contingent comprised units from Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Decides on Tax Exemptions.

Washington, May 29.—Involving further reduction of the house tax bill by $15,500,000, the senate finance committee has decided to exempt motion picture films, jewelry and chewing gum from taxation. A new confectionery tax was considered.

Paris Women's Strike Spreads.

Paris, May 26.—The strike of women workers has spread rapidly and has met with considerable success. Milliners, furriers, lace makers, embroiderers, water proofers and feather workers are out. Employees of several department stores reached an agreement with the managements regarding Saturday half holidays and extra pay on account of the high cost of living. Butchers, waiters and grocers' unions are considering joining the strike. Fur trade workers reached an agreement.

GERMANS LOSE 3 AIRCRAFT IN RAID; SEVENTY-SIX SLAIN

SIXTEEN ENEMY RAIDERS VISIT SOUTHEAST ENGLAND—DAMAGE INFLICTED IN ORE TOWN SAYS REPORT.

50 WOMEN AND CHILDREN SLAUGHTERED BY ENEMY

Casualties Announced in Official Report by Head of Home Defense Forces—Encounter Takes Place in Mid-Channel—Allied Flyers Return Safely.

London, May 28.—Sixteen German aircraft have just raided southeast England.

Seventy-six persons were killed and 174 wounded.

Of the dead 23 were children and 27 women, the injured included 19 children and 93 women. The casualties were announced in an official report issued by Lord French, commander of the House Defense forces.

Three German Raiders Lost.

Three of the German raiders were shot down by British aviators who drove the invaders back across the North Sea.

One British aviator engaged three of the enemy off the coast of Belgium and sent one into the sea. Two German machines fell into the water in the retreat.

Nearly all the damage occurred in ore towns where some bombs fell in the streets causing considerable casualties among the civilian population.

Report by Marshal French.

The following report was made by Field Marshal Viscount French:

"A large squadron of enemy aircraft—about 16—attacked southeast England between 5:15 and 6:30 o'clock last evening. Bombs were dropped at a number of places, but nearly all the damage occurred in one town, where some bombs fell into the streets, causing considerable casualties among the civil population. Some shops and houses also were seriously damaged.

British Planes Pursue.

"Airplanes of the Royal Flying corps went in pursuit and the raiding aircraft were engaged by fighting squadrons of the royal naval air service from Dunkirk on their return journey. The admiralty reports that three enemy airplanes were shot down later by the latter."

An admiralty statement says:

"Naval airplanes attacked the airdrome at St. Dennis Westre, near Bruges, dropping many bombs.

"In the evening several enemy aircraft returning from the raid on England were engaged oversea. An encounter took place between one British and three hostile airplanes in midchannel, and one of the latter was destroyed. Several encounters also took place off the Belgian coast, in which two large twin-engined hostile machines were shot down. All our machines returned safe."

This is the second German raid on England within three days.

FORMER RUSSIAN CZAR'S FAMILY HOES POTATOES

Romanoffs Join "Back to the Soil" Movement—Spectacle Is Enjoyed by Big Audience.

Petrograd, May 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Romanoff, with the Misses Romanoff and Master Romanoff, have joined the "Back to the soil" movement. They are planting and hoeing potatoes in the park at Tsarskoe Selo palace—where the same group, when they were known as the royal family, used to deal out life and death to all the Russians.

The spectacle of the seven members of erstwhile royalty garbed in peasants' clothes and doing peasants' work, was enjoyed by a big audience.

SLACKERS WOULD BE QUAKERS

Rush to Escape Draft to Cause Placing of Ban on Conversion.

New York, May 28.—Slackers can't be Quakers.

So great has been the rush of conscriptable youths to the tenets of the Quaker faith, whose members are exempted from conscription by virtue of their religious opposition to war, that the Society of Friends has planned to bar all converts of military age for the period of the war. James Wood, presiding officer of the New York yearly meeting, will so recommend to the society generally. Indications are that the ban will be put on throughout the country.

Loss of Warcraft by U. S. Denied.

Washington, May 28.—A categorical denial that any American naval vessels have been sunk in the war has been issued by Secretary Daniels to counteract a "campaign of vicious rumors that is being carried on so industriously by persons unknown." was the first official notice to be taken of reports of disasters that started almost as soon as American destroyers were in the war zone. "The department has given repeated assurance that its policy is to be one of absolute frankness."

Her Garden.

"I'm going to have a garden, John."

"Oh, yes, of course."

"And I'm going to raise macaroni and spaghetti and noodles for soup."

"That'll be nice."

"And strawberries; I must raise some strawberries."

"But they'll require sugar, you know."

"Of course. I've got a place in the garden to raise sugar. I think I'll raise powdered sugar; I guess it's easier to raise than lump sugar."

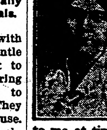
NERVOUSNESS AND BLUES

Symptoms of More Serious Sickness.



Washington Park, Ill.—"I am the mother of four children and have suffered with female trouble, backache, nervous spells and the blues. WOMEN! IT IS MAGIC! LIFT OUT ANY CORN

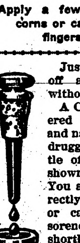
Apply a few drops then lift corns or calluses off with fingers—no pain.



Just think! You can lift off any corn or callus without pain or soreness.

A Cincinnati man discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Any druggist will sell a tiny bottle of freezone, like here shown, for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it right off.

Freezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't eat away the corn or callus, but shrivels it up without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Hard, soft or corns between the toes, as well as painful calluses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. If your druggist hasn't freezone, tell him to order a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

That Was Easy.

One small Great Bend chap was allotted a 6-foot space in the back yard in which to raise a garden "just like daddy's." He didn't give it all the intelligent care daddy's garden got, however, and when daddy's radishes sprouted, the little boy's produce hadn't made an appearance. That difficulty was easily corrected. The little boy simply pulled enough out of daddy's garden to replenish his own.—Kansas City Star.

FARMING NOW A BUSINESS

The Modern Day Farmer Applies Business Methods and Seeks More Than a Living on the Farm.

A nation-wide cry is being made for more economy and greater production, and probably never was the need of foodstuffs equal to that of the present. Grain prices are the highest in the nation's history and today the agricultural fields of America offer inducements that are unequaled in any other line of commerce or business. The ideal life is that close to nature, enjoying the freedom of God's great outdoors and fulfilling a duty to humanity by producing from a fertile soil that which is essential to the very existence of a less fortunate people who are actually starving to death for foodstuffs that can be produced so economically in the United States and Canada.

High prices for all grains, undoubtedly, will be maintained for a number of years, and it appears a certainty that the agriculturist will reap a bounteous return for his labor and at the same time carry out the demands of patriotic citizenship. A wrong conception has been generally noticed as to "Life on the Farm." It has been, to a large extent, considered as only a place to live peacefully and afford a living for those who are satisfied with merely a comfortable existence. Such a wrong impression has been created, in a measure, by the lack of systematic business principles to farming in general. But today farming and agriculture have been given a supremacy in the business world and require the same advanced methods as any other line of commerce. In no other business does a system adoption pay better than on the farm, and it is certain that there is no other line of work, that, generally speaking, needs it as much. The old idea of getting a living off the farm and not knowing how it was made and following up the details of each branch of farming to get the maximum of profit, at the least expense, is fast being done away with.

Farming is now being considered as a business and a living is not sufficient for the modern agriculturist; a small per cent on the investment is not enough, the present-day farmer must have a percentage return equal to that of other lines of business. The prices for produce are high enough, but the cost of producing has been the factor, in many places, that has reduced the profit. It is the application of a system to the cost of various work on the farm that it is possible to give figures on profits made in grain-growing in Western Canada.

Mr. C. A. Wright of Milo, Iowa, bought a hundred and sixty acres of land in Western Canada for $3,300 in December, 1915, and took his first crop from it in 1916. After paying for the land in full and the cost of cultivating it and marketing the grain, he sold his grain at $1.55 a bushel (a low price compared with the present market), had a surplus of $2,472.67. His figures are as follows:

4,487 bushels worth $1.55 at Champion	$6,954.85	$6,954.85
Threshing bill 11c per bushel	493.57
Seed at 95c	144.00
Drilling	160.00
Cutting	160.00
Twine	50.00
Shocking	40.00
Hauling to town 3c	134.61
Total cost	1,182.18
Cost of land	3,300.00
	$4,482.18	$4,482.18
Net profit after paying for farm and all cost		$2,472.67

S. Joseph and Sons of Des Moines, Ia., are looked upon as being shrewd, careful business men. Having some spare money on hand, and looking for a suitable investment, they decided to purchase Canadian lands, and farm them.

With the assistance of the Canadian Government Agent, at Des Moines, Ia., they made selection near Champion, Alberta. They put 240 acres of land in wheat, and in writing to Mr. Hewitt, The Canadian Government Agent at Des Moines, one of the members of the firm says: "I have much pleasure in advising you that on our farm five miles east of Champion, in the Province of Alberta, Canada, this year (1916) we harvested and threshed 10,600 bushels of wheat from 240 acres, this being an average of 44 bushels and 10 pounds to the acre. A considerable portion of the wheat was No. 1 Northern, worth at Champion, approximately $1.85 per bushel, making a total return of $19,610, or an average of $81.70 per acre gross yields. And by aid of a thorough system were able to keep the cost of growing wheat at about 25 cents a bushel."

Messrs. Smith & Sons of Vulcan, Alberta, are growers of wheat on a large scale and have demonstrated that there is greater profit in Western Canada wheat-raising than probably in any other business anywhere. Speaking of their experience Mr. Smith says:

"I have three sections of land at the present time and am farming yearly 1,200 to 1,400 acres of land. My returns from the farm for the past two years have been around 200%, that is for every dollar I have spent I have received three, now I do not know where you can do that well.

"This is surely the country for the man with the small capital as the land is still reasonable in price, payments in long term and work of all kinds for every man to do. I feel that if I was turned out here without a dollar that in less than ten years I could own a section of land and have it well equipped."

Western Canada's soil and climate is suitable to graining large and profitable yields of wheat, many so large that those not acquainted with the facts hesitate to believe the reports sent out by the farmers in that country. As an evidence of their sincerity in reporting correct yields affidavits of a couple of grain growers are reproduced.

"I Newell J. Noble, of the town of Nobleford, Province of Alberta, do solemnly declare that from 1,000 acres of wheat on the said farm there was, in the season of 1916, threshed 54,395 bushels of wheat, being at the average of 54 bushels and 23 pounds per acre. And that from 394.69 acres of oats on the said farm, there was threshed in the said season of 1916, 48,506 bushels of oats, being at the average of 122 bushels and 30 pounds per acre.

"And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously, believing it to be true and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of The Canada Evidence Act." NEWELL J. NOBLE.

A Woman Takes Affidavit as to Yields.—On January 4, 1917, Mrs. Nancy Coe of Nobleford made oath as follows:

In the matter of yield of wheat, oats and flax on my farm for harvest of 1916, I, Nancy Coe, of the town of Nobleford, Province of Alberta, do solemnly declare that I threshed from 115 acres on my farm 6,110 bushels of wheat (machine measure, which it is believed will hold out in weights fully —about three-fourths of the crop already having been weighed), being at the average of 53 bushels and 8 pounds per acre, and that from 48 acres of flax on stubble ground, I threshed 993 bushels of flax, being at an average of 20 bushels and 38 pounds per acre, and that from 5.06 acres of oats I threshed 586 bushels, machine measure, being at an average of 115 bushels and 27 pounds per acre. —Advertisement.

Lesson From the Lily.

How easily we lose poise, swept by the current of life! Our root is not deep enough. Consider the lily resting on the face of the waters, its roots far below. How serene it rides the ripples, and how confidently it has sought the light, that its life may expand [illegible] above the turbulence of the waves.—Trinities and Sanctities.

Fireproof Wood.

To make wood fireproof, slack a small quantity of fresh lime and add water until it has the consistency of cream; stir well and add one pound of alum, 12 ounces of commercial potash and about one pound of salt. Stir again and apply while hot. Two or three coats will keep wood fireproof for many months.

The Holt Public school closed its years work by having a picnic on the school grounds, last Friday.

Many parents and friends attended and much interest and surprise was manifested in the school exhibits which were carefully and attractively arranged in the different rooms. Pupils in the manual training room certainly did credit to their teacher Mr. Prushek, in the large exhibit of furniture they so cleverly made. Nor were the girls in the Domestic Science room in the background of achievments. Many useful and beautiful articles of wearing apparel were made by them which testifies of the skill and patience Miss Lawson, their teacher had, in instructing the girls along this line of work. The work in the different grades shows plainly that the teachers have given their best in trying to raise the efficiency of our school and each and everyone should appreciate to the fullest, their untiring effort to make our school a credit to the community.

BIG INDEMNITY TO BE ASSESSED U. S.; PRUSSIAN THREAT

SEE ALLIES STARVED OUT, PEACE WITH RUSSIA AND AMERICA LEFT ALONE IN FIELD TO BEAR BRUNT OF WAR.

OFFICER SEES VICTORY BEFORE U. S. AWAKES

Germans Base Their Hopes on Triumph of Submarines, Russian Peace and "Sluggish, Half-hearted America"—Revolution in Germany Far Off, Papers Assert.

With the British Armies in the Field, June 5.—The war will be over and a staggering indemnity saddled on the United States before she knows she is in—according to the Prussian attitude today.

The prisoners reflect this view. A typically arrogant Prussian officer jeered contemptuously as he stood inside a barbed wire compound, fresh from a battlefield where the Canadians had mauled his division into scraps.

Victory Is Seen.

"Before America awakes we will have starved England, France and Italy into submission, and have made peace with Russia, leaving America alone in the field," he said.

The plain truth is that Germany is prepared to fight a telling defensive war indefinitely—provided she is able to keep her hungry population in line. The Prussian officer and prisoners generally agree to this, basing their hopes principally on the U boats, a separate peace with Russia and the "sluggish, half hearted American public."

Teuton Revolution Discounted.

Talks with German prisoners and documents captured in the British advance do not encourage the belief there will be a German revolution, at least not soon. The junkers still control Germany and Hohenzollernism is as rampant as over. The German high command, despite terrific losses, is depending on machine guns and barbed wire to compensate for the thinning ranks in Germany's line.

The only antidote is to fight. If the Germans are to be beaten in the field, the fight necessarily will be long.

CHARGED AS BEING SPIES; DEATH ON CONVICTION

Four Men Arrested in New York Thought to Have Smuggled News to Germany of U. S. Activity.

New York, June 5.—Four men believed to be German military spies smuggling American secrets to the kaiser through letters concealed in trunk lining aboard liners leaving this port will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock.

The penalty on conviction during wartime is death by shooting.

Government code experts are puzzling over the batch of letters seized from the prisoners. Tests were being made to disclose the use of invisible ink.

The police made public the names of the three men. They are Harry Perissi, superintendent of a steamship company, with offices in New York; George Melcher, a Harlem saloonkeeper, and Irving Bonaparth, a clerk, who lives in the Bronx. The police declined late today to give out the name of the fourth prisoner.

Two are native born Americans, one is a naturalized native of Sweden, and the fourth is the son of a German army captain.

Government officials believe the arrests may lead to clearing the mystery of Germany's knowledge that American destroyers were on their way to England in time to sow their path with mines.

PRINCE ILL; TRIP POSTPONED

Italian War Envoys Compelled to Put Off Visit to U. S. Cities.

Washington, June 5.—The trip of the Italian war mission through the south and middle west has been postponed owing to the illness of the Prince of Udine and Signor William Marconi. Italians living in this country were urged to register by the Prince of Udine, head of Italy's war mission, in an address to a delegation of his countrymen who called on him at the embassy. At the home of Joseph Leiter, where the prince is stopping, it was said that he is suffering from a slight fever which developed from a cold.

What's Doing in Minnesota

Minneapolis. — A party of 27 Minnesota men, which recently sailed for France to enter ambulance service in the Norton-Harjes corps, has arrived safely in Bordeaux.

Olivia. — The Renville county chapter of the American National Red Cross, with jurisdiction over all of Renville county, has 615 members, as the result of a ten days' campaign for members.

Duluth.—The ice at the end of the lake is so mushy now that boats find little difficulty in getting through. Tugmen say that in a few days the ice will have worn away, for that process now is going on.

St. Paul. — Minnesota began June business with the biggest June 1 cash balance of record in its treasury. Treasurer Rines announced $6,191,733.73 in cash in his official possession at the close of business May 31.

Blooming Prairie.—Blooming Prairie business men, 100 strong, plan to give material aid to farmers of this vicinity, in the form of their own services at such a time as they are needed and other help cannot be obtained.

St. Paul.—State Treasurer Rines, State Auditor Preus and two of the latter's deputies, M. J. Desmond and Oscar Arneson, have returned from an eastern trip made primarily to inspect accounting systems preparatory to changing that of the state.

Eveleth.—Serbians on the Minnesota iron ranges are organizing to return to the Balkans and fight under the colors of the Allies. A company of 100 men is being recruited in this vicinity under the direction of the Serbian National Defense society.

Brainerd. — Bob Nukoyich was killed and two other miners were injured in a free-for-all knife battle which took place in the rooming house of Louis Malovich, on Balkan street, Crosby. A woman over whom the fight is said to have started is held.

Minneapolis.—Whether or not Minnesota will have ninety more licensed dentists this year is to be decided by the state board of examiners. The work of the men taking the examination at the University of Minnesota Dental college has been graded.

Minneapolis. — The Minnesota College of Agriculture is sending out warnings to gardeners who are planting beans this year. The warning is to the effect that bean planters must be on the guard against two serious bean diseases — anthracnose and blight.

Minneapolis.—Many stores in the Twin Cities are perpetrating a gross libel on the navy bean, according to D. C. Arny of the University of Minnesota Farm school. Mr. Arny says soy beans are being sold under the name of navy beans. Soy beans are cheaper.

St. Paul. — Major Oliver J. Quane, Second infantry, Minnesota national guard, has been suspended for six months by Brigadier General F. E. Resche, on conviction before a court-martial of charges of insubordination preferred against him by Colonel W. T. Mollison, Faribault, of the Second regiment.

Duluth—Following a long and vigorous campaign for street car extension and reduction from 10 to 5 cent fare on prominent car line extensions, immediate steps for condemnation of the Duluth Street Railway company's plant, under the exercise of the right of eminent domain, have been ordered unanimously by the Duluth City Commission.

Minneapolis. — Appointment of C. G. Schultz, a young Minneapolis attorney, as secretary of the new state blue sky law commission has been tentatively agreed upon. Because the law creating the commission was not effective until July 1 and no funds available until August 1, it was explained, no official action toward organizing had been taken.

Winona. — Tardiness of the steamer Quincy, first of the packets in the St. Paul-St. Louis trade on its voyage, was explained by the fact that river lamps have not yet been lighted and that the channel has shifted greatly during the past winter and spring. The boat was compelled to feel its way; but once the new treacherous places are discovered the boats will be able to maintain the schedule. Running on time will be the supreme effort of the lines.

Austin—Peter Paule, 26, of Austin, Minn., designated by Colonel W. T. Mollison as one of the members of the Second infantry, Minnesota national guard, to attend the officers' reserve training school, Fort Snelling, has been rejected as an alien enemy. Captain Adjutant C. H. Mason, after examining Paule, said there was no possibility of his entering the camp. Paule was born in Germany and came to the United States as a small boy after the death of his parents. He lived at Austin with his grandmother. He had supposed himself a citizen, he said, although he had never applied for papers.

St. Paul. — Early formation of an additional artillery regiment and field hospital corps to augment the Minnesota National guard and the state's fighting forces, as favorably recommended by the State Military board, probably will be ordered, Governor Burnquist announces.

St. Paul. — The State Land Improvement board, created by the last Legislature and provided with $50,000 a year to prepare tracts of state land for settlement, will be made up of A. P. Silliman, Hibbing; Otto Bergh, Grand Rapids, and L. B. Arnold, Duluth, Governor Burnquist announces.

PINE INDUSTRY IS MENACED BY RUST

MINNESOTANS WARNED AGAINST IMPORTING TREES BY STATE ENTOMOLOGIST.

USE MEAL IN PLACE OF FLOUR

Appeal to Minnesotans to Assist in Conservation of Food for Exportation Is Issued—Policies Are Outlined.

St. Paul.

To keep out the white pine blister rust which, if it should get into Minnesota, would ruin the white pine industry in this state, F. L. Washburn, state entomologist, is urging residents not to import white or other five-leafed pines.

His appeal is based on the fact that white pines and evergreens are being shipped in from Illinois. While at present the nursery from which these shipments have been made is supposed to be free from rust, shipments from 1908-1909 are believed to have been the source of infection around St. Croix Falls, Wis., and across the St. Croix river in Minnesota. The state entomologist has power to destroy suspicious stock within a radius of half a mile of plantings or nurseries containing such stock.

A quarantine recently was established against Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Use of Corn Meal Urged.

A. D. Wilson, head of the agricultural department of the Minnesota Agricultural college, who recently was appointed chairman of the committee on food production and food conservation, in an interview, has outlined the general policy which will be pursued in the committee's fight for the preservation of food during the war.

"This year the question of conservation is much greater than that of production," Mr. Wilson said. "What we intend doing is to urge the use of corn meal in place of white flour, cut meat consumption 10 pounds per capita annually and try to abolish the manufacture of liquors in which grain is used. The substitution of corn meal for flour will not be undertaken unless great economy becomes absolutely necessary, but if the need should arise we could save 150,000,000 bushels of wheat for export through this single change. The substitution would not be a disagreeable one."

Sanitary Corps for Army Camps.

Creation of a state sanitary corps to safeguard the moral and physical welfare of men in Minnesota military camps have been recommended by Dr. H. M. Bracken, executive officer of the State Board of Health, to Governor Burnquist and it probably will be referred to the State Public Safety Commission for early action. Dr. Bracken's suggestion is in line with that made by Secretary of War Baker in a letter to governors of all the states, calling for co-operation.

* * *

Ruling on School Appropriations.

The school appropriations made by the 1917 Legislature can be used for meeting any school obligations incurred to that time. This is the opinion of Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith, expressed in a letter to Governor Burnquist, who, in vetoing a portion of the school aid appropriations bill several weeks ago, declared it was not clear to him whether school funds could be used for meeting prior "moral obligations."

* * *

Urges Coal Relief Measures.

A telegram urging that "extraordinary measures" be adopted immediately to avert a threatened fuel shortage in the Northwest by insuring an adequate supply of bituminous coal moving to Lake Erie for the head of Lake Superior has been sent President Wilson by Governor Burnquist, following a conference between the governor and prominent coal dock men of Duluth.

State Seal Butter to Be Worth More.

State to Inspect "Movie" Theaters.

The office force of the state fire marshal has begun the task of putting into operation the law passed by the last legislature providing for state supervision of all motion picture theaters. Blanks are being sent to proprietors of all such places of amusement to be filled out and returned. The blanks provide for specific details, especially as regards seating accommodations, exits, fire hazards, and provisions made to prevent fires or explosions. Return of the forms will be followed by inspection.

Easily Proved.

At a mill in Bolton the workers were having a discussion about who was the quietest man they knew.

They got a minder to act as judge. Then they got their thinking apparatus to work, to think who was the quietest man they knew. Many hundred names were mentioned. The judge was about to give his decision when he saw a minder who had never mentioned one.

Then judge then said: "Neaw, Jack, does tha not know any quiet mon?"

"Well," said the minder, "I think I just know one."

"Well, out with it," said the judge.

"Well, I think owd Bill Kite the quietest mon I know."

The minders looked, and then they all exclaimed at once: "Why, mon, he's dead!"

"I know that. I think he's the quietest mon I know. He's never spoken to me for nearly twenty years!"—London Tit-Bits.

New Language in Making.

A new language is in the making in France, where the French and English troops have developed a peculiar language, known only to themselves, which answers all their common needs. The words nonplus the official interpreters, but an English soldier with no French at all can ask a French soldier with no English at all for virtually anything he wants—and gets it.

FOUR WEEKS IN HOSPITAL

No Relief—Mrs. Brown Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"For years I suffered so sometimes it seemed as though I could not stand it any longer. It was all in my lower organs. At times I could hardly walk, for if I stepped on a little stone I would almost faint. One day I did faint and my husband was sent for and the doctor came. I was taken to the hospital and stayed four weeks but when I came home I would faint just the same and had the same pains.

A friend who is a nurse asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it that very day for I was suffering a great deal. It has already done me more good than the hospital. To anyone who is suffering as I was my advice is to stop in the first drug-store and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before you go home."—Mrs. W. C. LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

How to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out.

This drug dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without even irritating the surrounding skin.

A small bottle of freezone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

If your druggist hasn't stocked this new drug yet, tell him to get a small bottle of freezone for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

LOOTING OF BANK IN PETROGRAD IS URGED BY RIOTERS

HEAVILY ARMED ANARCHISTS PARADE CARRYING BANNERS INSCRIBED "DOWN WITH AUTHORITY!"

CRIMINALS SET FREE, MAKE CAPITOL UNSAFE

Wave of Violent Crimes and Robberies Sweeping Petrograd—6,000 Clerks Strike, Demanding Double Wages—Minister of Commerce Resigns.

Petrograd, June 4.—A number of heavily armed anarchists paraded the Nevsky prospect bearing banners inscribed, "Down with authority! Long live the Social revolution!"

Speakers at various meetings of the paraders urged the people to loot the banks.

Soldiers and Sailors Join.

Many soldiers and sailors joined in the demonstration. The paraders were armed with rifles, revolvers and grenades. No attempt was made to arrest them.

Russia's criminals, all released from prison in the first joyous celebration of independence, are fast making Petrograd unsafe. A wave of robberies and violent crimes is sweeping the city.

Commerce Minister Quits.

Minister of Commerce Konovoloff has tendered his resignation on account of differences with the minister of labor as to financial and economic measures.

A millionaire merchant, Gregorioff, was shot down at his mansion in the very heart of the city by three men. The trio claimed to be anarchists and demanded money from the merchant.

Militiamen and workers responding to Gregorioff's cries for help killed one bandit and captured a second. The third committed suicide. The 30,000 roubles ($15,000) which they had forced Gregorioff to give them were recovered.

Released Criminals Bold.

When the new democratic government took hold, all criminals were released from the prisons. They sought out the cities and towns and have grown bolder and bolder in thievery and murder.

The unrest in the city has been augmented by the strike of 6,000 clerks in Petrograd's shops. They are demanding double wages—retroactive since the start of the war—which would be an equivalent of from 10,000 to 20,000 roubles ($5,000 to $10,000) per clerk.

Petrograd Shops Close.

Many shops were closed, proprietors declaring that they would remain so. Some owners insisted even if the clerks' demands were acceded to, the men would not work. Twenty-five shopkeepers complied with their employes' demands.

No additional details have been received on the rioting at Kiev, where 15,000 absentee soldiers were said to have organized a formidable demonstration in protest against Minister of War Kerensky's rigorous orders punishing desertion with penal servitude. The latest information was that a number of rioters were killed and wounded.

The Journal of the workmen and soldiers' delegates announced that confiscation of property and money may be necessary owing to the slow progress made in obtaining subscriptions to the Russian liberty loan.

SERB WOMEN, CHILDREN, HANGED BY THOUSANDS

Austrians, Taken Prisoner, Say Bulgars, Because of Atrocities, Termed Barbaric By Own Allies.

Udine, Italy, June 4.—Fragmentary news received here through neutral countries of widespread insurrectionary movements in Serbia is supplemented by statements of Austrians captured in the recent Italian advance.

The insurgents were gradually surrounded by Austrian, German and Bulgarian regiments and all who fell into their hands, chiefly old men, women and children, are declared to have been massacred.

Fierce resistance was offered for three weeks and heavy losses inflicted on the invaders, especially the Bulgarians. The insurgents finally succumbed to superior numbers and were hanged by the thousands.

According to the prisoners the Bulgarians were guilty of such atrocities, especially against women and children, that even their Austro-German allies termed them barbaric.

Kidnaped Baby Still Missing.

Springfield, Mo., June 4.—James Holland Keet's 14-months-old son, who has been kidnaped, is still missing, but an attempt has been made by the kidnapers to get into touch with Keet, police believe. Shortly after 1 o'clock a small boy was observed to sneak stealthily up to the Keet home. The banker answered the door bell and took the message, read it and disappeared in the house. A few minutes later he backed out his roadster and hurried away. Two hours later he was back—without the child.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Let us realize that thoughts are forces, that like creates like, and attracts like and to determine one's thinking therefore is to determine his life.—Ralph Waldo Trine.

SHELLFISH DISHES.

When the oyster season closes clams, crabs and shrimps have their season. In many parts of our country these may be obtained fresh from the water, but the canned variety is not to be despised.

Plain boiled crab eaten right from the shell with a bowl of melted butter to dip them into, must once be eaten to prove it is one of the choicest of dishes.

Crab Salad.—The crab meat is carefully removed from the shell after being cooked in boiling salted water, mixed with salad dressing and served on lettuce or a bed of water cress.

Deviled Crab.—To the meat from a dozen crabs add a tablespoonful of bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one hard cooked egg, chopped fine, a dash of pepper, two tablespoonfuls of salad dressing and onion or catchup to suit the taste. Put this mixture into the cleaned shells, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are brown.

Clam Chowder.—Fry four slices of salt pork, cut in fine dice, until brown; then add two tablespoonfuls of flour, and one large onion chopped fine. When the onion is light yellow add a cupful or two of diced raw potato and a pint of boiling water and when they are nearly tender drop in a quart of clams that have been chopped or ground, season with salt and pepper, add a pint of hot milk and serve piping hot with crackers.

Crab Stew.—Melt a tablespoonful of butter, add two of flour and cook until well blended. Add a beaten egg with a pint of milk, a pinch of soda and the meat of half a dozen crabs, salt, pepper and celery salt to taste. Serve with hot hominy. Shrimps carefully cleaned are served with celery on a bed of lettuce with salad dressing.

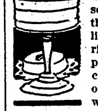
Crab Croquettes.—Prepare the crabs as for deviled crab, removing the brown part. Mold in the form of croquettes, add a little baking powder to the bread crumbs used for dipping, using a yolk of egg and as much cold water as egg. Dip the croquettes in the crumbs, then egg and crumbs again and fry as usual in deep fat.

Fish Soup.—This is made of the fish bones and trimming cooked with carrots, bay leaf, leeks, parsley, a half dozen oysters and three potatoes, using a quart of the fish stock.

Happiness depends quite as much on what we don't do as upon what we do do.

Gold is good in its place: but living, patriotic men are better than gold.—J. R. Lowell.

GOOD SEASONING.



There seems to be no difference of opinion in regard to the value of properly seasoning food. A plain dish, with an artist's hand in seasoning, becomes something unusual and delightful, while all the rich foods in the world put together with no care as to combination or of proper seasoning will be "a mixture and a mess."

We must revive the old-fashioned herb garden of our grandmothers if we are to realize the true zest of well-preserved herbs. She realized that her meats, soups, as well as cakes, doughnuts and crullers, lacked charm without the well-chosen herbs or spices. She did not know that when she used a bit of parsley to garnish her platter of cold meat she was contributing to the health of her family as well as their artistic sense. Parsley acts upon the kidneys, assisting in the elimination of waste.

Some of the most inexpensive seasonings that may be grown in the kitchen garden, and will prove a delight to see growing as well as to use in winter to increase the palatability of various dishes, are the following: Parsley, mint, dill, tarragon, sage, thyme, marjoram, chervil, horseradish, mustard, celery (celery tips dried), caraway seed, and mushrooms, dried. To these we add curry, mace, nutmeg, cloves, mixed pickle spices and bay leaves.

Mint is used with lamb in different salads and as an addition to a refreshing drink.

Sage as a seasoning in stuffings for pork roasts or poultry or ham. Added to cornmeal mush for frying on as a seasoning for string beans.

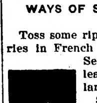
Thyme and marjoram, with fowl, squab or fish and in dressing for meats and with boiled beans.

Chervil as a garnish for salads and meats, green mustard sprinkled over lettuce or any salad, horseradish as a relish for meat and a seasoning for pickles as well as sauce for fish. Curry adds zest to various meat dishes or served with rice or cabbage, cauliflower, carrots or onions.

Dill, fresh, in egg or plain salads, cream soups or boiled fish.

Happiness is the only good. The place to be happy is here. The time to be happy is now. The way to be happy is to make others so.—Robert Ingersoll.

WAYS OF SERVING FRUITS.



Toss some ripe even sized strawberries in French dressing to marinate. Serve them on lettuce leaves with chicken or lamb.

Strawberry Gateau.—Make a round sponge cake and when cold scoop out the inside and cover with a pink icing, then fill the center with whipped cream and strawberries that have been cut up and sugared to taste. Pile high and garnish with small ripe berries. Make a handle of angelica and serve at once.

Strawberry Sirup.—Take six pounds of strawberries, two pints of water, two ounces of tartaric acid and the sugar needed. Dissolve the acid in the water and pour over the fruit. Let stand twenty-four hours, then strain off the juice without crushing the fruit. All or three cupfuls of sugar to every pint of juice and when boiling hot, bottle and seal. This sirup may be used for fruit drinks, pudding sauces and sherbets.

Cherry Mousse.—Cook together a pound of cherries and one-half cupful of sugar. Put two tablespoonfuls of cherry juice into a basin, add the yolks of two eggs and cook over water stirring until creamy; dissolve one and a half teaspoonfuls of powdered gelatin with a half cupful of cherry juice, add it to the yolks, with one-half cupful of whipped cream and the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and a few drops of red color. Pour into small wet molds lined round with paper; decorate with whipped cream and pistachio nuts.

Fruit Salad.—Take a cupful of strawberries, one-half cupful of ripe raspberries, half a cupful of stoned cherries, three bananas, one-half cupful of red currants, one-half cupful of white currants and two tablespoonfuls of chopped coconut. For the salad dressing, cook together a half cupful of water, six tablespoonfuls of sugar, and a cupful of fruit juice, when thick as sirup remove and chill. Pour over the fruit and sprinkle with chopped coconut just before serving.

Almond Sauce.—Stone and chop six olives, add half a cupful of blanched and shredded almonds and half a cupful of celery cut fine. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise.

When serving a cold drink, to make the glass more attractive roll it in hot water then fill with the iced drink.

To be honest, to be fearless, to be just, joyous, kind. To get up immediately when we stumble, face again to the light and travel on without wasting even a moment in regret.—R. W. Trine.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE.

The following dish is a good one for a hot dish, as a large number may be served at slight cost.

Hot Chicken Sandwich. — Cook the chicken until very tender in plenty of water, which will be used in making the gravy. Cool and remove the meat from the bones and cut it into bits with the scissors. Put the skin and giblets, omitting the liver, through the meat chopper and mix the chicken with enough stock to make the mixture moist; season well with salt and pepper. Thicken the remaining stock with one and a half tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with cold water, using this amount for every cupful of stock. Let it boil and season well. When serving, allow two slices of bread cut thin; place one slice on a hot plate, spread a spoonful of the chicken mixture over it and cover with a second slice, then dip a ladle of gravy over it. Serve with a generous portion of well-cooked rice or mashed potatoes. One chicken cooked and served in this manner will serve 45 people.

Boiled Russian Dressing.—Take two-thirds of a cupful of any kind of boiled salad dressing, four tablespoonfuls of strained chili sauce, two tablespoonfuls of diced pimentos, a half tablespoonful of chives cut in half-inch lengths, and a tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar. Mix all the ingredients and chill well; then serve on lettuce.

Egg Dish.—Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a baking dish, cover with crumbs and pour over a half a can of mock turtle soup diluted with a third of a cupful of hot water. Break five eggs very carefully over the top. Sprinkle with half a teaspoonful of salt, an eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper and a third of a teaspoonful of curry powder well mixed. Dot with bits of butter and bake from 12 to 15 minutes.

Green Pea Omelet.—A few left-over green peas may be stirred into an omelet just before putting to cook and served with a circle of them around the platter.

Certain-teed

Everywhere under the sun—wherever roofs are laid—Certain-teed stands for these two things:

Efficiency, Economy

CERTAIN-TEED roofing is the most efficient and economical type of roof for factories, farm buildings, garages, etc., because the first cost is less than that of metal, wood shingles or tar and gravel. CERTAIN-TEED costs less to lay than any other kind of roof. It will not rust, is not affected by fumes, gases and acids, coal smoke, etc.; it is light weight and fire retardant.

Certain-teed Roofing

is the best quality of prepared roofing. It pays to get the best. The only difference between the first cost of a good roof and a poor one is in the materials—the labor, freight, etc., costs the same in both. As CERTAIN-TEED Roofing is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply) it will be in splendid condition years after a poor quality roof has to be replaced.

160 Acre Homesteads Are Actually Free to Settlers and Other Land Sold at from $15 to $20 per Acre

The great demand for Canadian Wheat will keep up the price. Where a farmer can get near $2 for wheat and raise 20 to 45 bushels to the acre he is bound to make money—that's what you can expect in Western Canada. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed Farming in Western Canada is fully as profitable an industry as grain raising.

Buy Liberty Bonds Today

THE SHARE OF EVERY AMERICAN FAMILY IS $100

Buy Your Share Now

THAT America may strike the winning blows for the liberty of the world your government calls today for financial volunteers. Today is Liberty Loan Day. The Liberty Loan of $2,000,000,000 being sold to the 100,000,000 people of the United States means that the share of each individual is $20, or the equivelent of $100 a family.

In asking you to subscribe to the Liberty Loan your Government does not ask you to spend your money. Instead it holds out an opportunity to save and invest. It offers bonds backed by all of the resources of the richest nation in the world—bonds which can be immediately turned into cash — which pays 3½% interest—and which are exempt from all taxes except those on estates and inheritances.

Every cent of this money will be spent in this country for supplies for our soldiers and for materials for the Allies. This will help your business.

WHAT LIBERTY BONDS ARE

Liberty bonds are United States Government Bonds secured by all the resources of the Federal Government. They are issued in multiples of $50 and bear interest at the rate of 3½% per annum, payable semi annually December 15 and June 15 of each year. These bonds mature in 30 years and may be redeemed by the Government in 15 years. Should the Government put out any future issues at an interest rate higher than 3½% before the close of the war, the "Liberty Loan" will immediately become convertible into higher rate bonds.

REMEMBER BELGIUM

Our country—and that means every one in our country—is at war today for the protection of our nation. This Loan is the first step in this war. If you do not respond now and the Imperial German Government should win this war the fate of your home would be the fate of the homes of Belgium.

Today you share in the prosperity of your nation—the richest in the world. If the iron heel of the Hohenzollerns should conquer, you would have no choice as to what would be done with your property. It would be taken from you by force.

DO YOUR SHARE

Every man, woman and child should feel it his duty to subscribe something to the Liberty Loan. If you cannot buy an entire bond yourself, club together with your family and purchase several bonds. You can pay for these bonds in full or in five installments as follows:

Payment for a	$50 Bond	$100 Bond	$500 Bond	$1000 Bond
On application	$ 1.00	$ 2.00	$ 10.00	$ 20.00
On June 28th	9.00	18.00	90.00	180.00
On July 30th	10.00	20.00	100.00	200.00
On August 15th	15.00	30.00	150.00	300.00
On August 30th	15.00	30.00	150.00	300.00
	$50.00	$100.00	$500.00	$1000.00

Plus accrued interest to be settled with final payment August 30th.

Don't wait for anyone to ask you to buy a bond. Go at once to your nearest bank or post office and subscribe. This bond issue is your chance to volunteer. If this money is not raised by bonds, your government will be forced to draft it in the form of taxes.

TODAY IS LIBERTY LOAN DAY

As you lay your flowers on the graves of those who in the past have given their blood for your country, declare that you too will give "the last full measure of devotion,"—that you will prove yourself worthy of their sacrifice by today doing your share for Liberty, and subscribing to this bond issue.

BRITISH EXPERT LAUDS RAILROADS OF UNITED STATES

Tells Congress Committee That They Lead World.

NO GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

It Would Mean Political Control and Loss of Efficiency—Declares That Crisis Confronts Country on Account of Transportation Situation—Lowest Freight Rates to Be Found in United States.

Washington, May 14.—That the United States is face to face with a serious crisis in its commercial affairs, due to the conditions by which its transportation system is confronted, was the opinion expressed by W. M. Acworth, England's leading authority on railways, before the Newlands joint committee on interstate commerce at a special session held here to enable the committee to hear his views before his departure for London this week. Two steps are necessary, according to Mr. Acworth, to avert this crisis and to solve the threatening railroad problem confronting the country.

The first is to allow the railroads to charge freight rates sufficient to meet the great advance in operating expenses which is taking place and to enable them to command the credit necessary to provide the extensions and improvements needed to meet the growing demands of business. The second is to do away with the multiple and conflicting systems of regulation that now hamper railway operation and to provide one centralized regulatory agency with such local subdivisions as may be necessary.

Higher Rates a Public Necessity.

Mr. Acworth's views on the transportation situation in the United States were expressed in answer to questions by members of the committee, who asked him to apply his knowledge of railway conditions throughout the world and of the experience of other countries with government ownership to the present problem before the United States.

"The fundamental factor in the situation is very simple," said Mr. Acworth. "It lies in the fact that you cannot get three-quarters of a cent's worth of work done for less than three-quarters of a cent, no matter whether the agency performing it is a government or private enterprise. Freight rates must advance when the cost of performing the service advances as it is doing at present, just as the price of bread or meat or any other commodity increases with increased cost or production."

In answer to a question Mr. Acworth said that he thought American freight rates had been at much too low a level for several years past, that they had reached this low point during the period of cutthroat competition among the roads and had since been held there by regulating bodies. Unless relief were afforded to the carriers very promptly, he said, the result would be a tremendous loss to the people of the whole country through insufficiency of transportation facilities.

Weakness of Government Ownership.

On the subject of government ownership of railways Mr. Acworth said:

"It is impossible to obtain satisfactory results on government railways in a democratic state unless the management is cut loose from direct political control. Neither Australia nor any other country with a democratic constitution—perhaps an exception ought to be made of Switzerland—has succeeded in maintaining a permanent severance. In France, in Belgium, in Italy, parliamentary interference never has been abandoned for a moment. The facts show that government interference has meant running the railways not for the benefit of the people at large, but to satisfy local and sectional and even personal interests.

Prussia, Mr. Acworth said, was the best example of an efficient government railway system, and he pointed out that military considerations were treated as of paramount importance in the Prussian railway system. While American freight rates had been reduced nearly 40 per cent in thirty years, rates in Prussia were nearly as high as at the beginning of the period. While the charge for moving a ton of freight one mile in the United States was a trifle over three-quarters of a cent, the rate in Prussia was 1.41 cents.

As illustrating the difference in rates between government and private roads Mr. Acworth compared the railways of New South Wales, Australia, with those of Texas. While the amount of traffic to each mile of line was about the same in both cases, he pointed out, the Texas railways performed for the public four times as much service as the government owned roads of New South Wales. The charge in Texas for hauling a ton of freight one mile was less than 1 cent, while in the Australian state it was well over 2 cents.

"American railways lead the world," said Mr. Acworth. "Nowadays when men in any other part of the world want to know how to run a railway they come to the United States and study your railways here. The American railways are entirely the result of private enterprise, and I think they go a long way toward proving the case against government ownership."

ORDNANCE PLANS BARED BY TRAITOR OR SPY—DANIELS

GERMAN AGENT OPERATING IN NAVY DEPARTMENT OR PROVING GROUNDS, SECRETARY OF NAVY ASSERTS.

OFFICERS OF PERSHING'S STAFF ARRIVE IN PARIS

Report Last Lap of Voyage Uneventful—German Hold On Submarine Bases at Ostend and Zeebrugge Believed Threatened by Allied Drive.

Washington, June 12.—That a spy or traitor to the government is operating in the Navy department or the proving grounds at Indianhead is the declaration of Secretary Daniels before the Senate naval affairs committee.

Daniels' charges developed when Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey presented copies of confidential reports bearing on ordnance, which he said had been sent him in an anonymous letter.

To Substantiate Charges of Laxity.

The reports were designed to substantiate charges of laxity, which resulted in the accidents aboard the American liners Mongolia and St. Louis during gun practice.

When the committee resumed investigation of the Mongolia shell accident, Senator Frelinghuysen produced the letter. Secretary Daniels asked to have it turned over to the secret service.

Attempt to Find Author.

Senator Frelinghuysen said he had attempted to find out something about the author and could not.

Secretary Daniels urged the committee to uncover the author of the letters and make him disclose everything. Secretary Daniels contended that charges of incompetency were made in the letters against inspectors and contained grave reflections upon the basic defense of the country. One of the letters was postmarked Detroit, Mich.

Pershing's Officers in Paris.

Paris, June 12.—Colonels McCarthy, Taylor and Ireland and Captains Dunn and Moore, the advance guard of Pershing's staff, have reached Paris. The populace had not been apprised of their arrival and only a few local officials were on hand to extend a welcome.

Paris is planning a tremendous reception to Major General Pershing.

The American officers said their voyage to Bologne and the trip from there to Paris were uneventful.

Drive On U-Boat Bases Seen.

London, June 12.—The wiping out of the German salient at Messines apparently is merely the prelude to a far mightier battle. After a German reaction of a surprisingly feeble character, the British have resumed trench raids from north of Ypres to as far south as Epehy, 70 miles as the crow flies, but far more than that along the tortuous windings of the battle front.

From Ypres the Allied front curves sharply to the sea and an advance here would threaten the German hold on their great submarine bases on the Belgian coast, Ostend and Zeebrugge.

CAPITOL HEARS JAPAN IS SENDING ARMY TO CHINA

Tokio Making Preparations on Gigantic Scale—Domination of Republic Believed Object.

Washington, June 12.—Japan is making preparations on a gigantic scale to quell disorders in China incident to the various rebellions against the Peking government, according to secret advices to Washington.

Japanese troops, it is reported, are being dispatched in large numbers to the continent.

The opinion is widely held that this move is likely to turn out another step in the Japanese program to acquire complete domination of China.

IRISH AGREE TO CONVENTION

Factions to Map Out Future Home Rule at Meeting.

London, June 12.—All Irish parties have agreed to the government's plan for a convention of all factions which shall map out future home rule for Ireland, Premier Lloyd-George has announced in the house of commons.

John Redmond, nationalist leader, will be invited to nominate five members of the Irish convention. Sir John Lonsdale also will be invited to nominate five members, the premier added, and William O'Brien two members.

Sues For Million Heart Balm.

New York, June 12.—Miss Honora May O'Brien, 28 years old, has started her effort to get $1,000,000 heart balm from John B. Manning, aged stock broker, in the supreme court at Long Island City. Manning is 85 and has been a widower 12 years. He is rated a multimillionaire. Miss O'Brien, who was Manning's stenographer before he wanted to marry her, is a native of Ireland, where Manning also was born. They met in Ireland years ago and when she came to America they met again, when the courtship began.

What's Doing in Minnesota

St. Paul.—James H. Ege, charter member of the first G. A. R. post in Minneapolis and former state commander of the organization, died here after a long illness. A daughter and two sons survive.

St. Paul.—While more than 200,000 Minnesota young men are offering themselves to Uncle Sam for service in France, 500 veterans of the Civil War assembled in St. Paul for their annual G. A. R. encampment.

Saloonkeepers who permit men to become intoxicated in their places and who help or allow their bartenders to ply men with liquor are liable to damages for death or injuries that may result from the consumption of the liquor, the Minnesota supreme court has decided.

Construction of the Twin City-Duluth highway, which is to be aided by federal funds, will be completed as far as the north line of Washington county this fall, grading will be under way for some distance north, and the road will be completed to Duluth next season, officials of the state highway department predicted.

Moorhead.—The need of rain to insure the potato crop in the Red River valley is indicated by many familiar with the crop conditions of this section. In the vicinity of Sabin and Baker, the largest potato raising district of the state, a good soaking rain would benefit the crop, which was missed by recent rains which soaked territory surrounding that district.

St. Paul.—Eighteen colonels in the United States army have been promoted to be brigadier generals. Among them are Col. W. H. Sage, now in command of the officer training camp at Fort Snelling; Col. S. D. Sturgis, formerly of St. Paul, brother of Mrs. Edmund Pennington of Minneapolis; Col. E. F. Glenn, formerly commandant at the University of Minnesota in the early nineties.

St. Paul.—The Rev. William C. Pope, senior priest of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Minnesota, St. Paul pioneer of 1857, soldier of the Indian wars, organizer of the Church of the Good Shepherd in 1868, and pastor of its congregation continuously since that time, died at his home here of pneumonia, by which he was attacked following an operation. Mrs. Pope is so seriously ill that she has not been told of her husband's death.

St. Paul.—The state printing commission has elected Sam Y. Gordon of Browns Valley, state expert printer to succeed Joseph T. Mannix, who has held the office since 1909. The appointment is effective Aug. 1. Mr. Mannix said he had no intimation of a proposed change in the office and has no definite plans for the future. Secretary of State Julius A. Schmahl said he voted to re-elect Mannix, while State Auditor J. A. A. Preus and State Treasurer Henry Rines supported Gordon.

St. Paul.—The state military board will meet at the capitol soon to further consider plans for the organization of an additional artillery regiment and field hospital corps in the Minnesota National guard. It is planned to enlist one new battalion in Minneapolis and St. Paul and the other in three Southern Minnesota towns, probably Mankato, St. Peter and Albert Lea, Captain Rhinow said, but active recruiting is delayed pending decision on officers to be commissioned in the new unit.

St. Paul.—Minnesota will supply 13,756 men when the draft is applied to registered men. This is based upon 625,000 for service in the first increment.

These figures, say Washington advices, may be slightly reduced by enlistments. The quota is figured on the pro rata population of the state. The war department adds to the total to be drafted the enlistments since April 1 and the total strength of the national guard. That number stands nationally at 935,943.

Washington. — Prohibition forces throughout the nation are making a determined effort to force Congress to enact dry legislation, at least for the war. Every senator and representative is being swamped with letters, postal cards and petitions urging the passage of a prohibitory law. Minnesota is particularly active in this campaign. Petitions are being received from every congressional district. Fully half the signatures are those of women. The petitions have been circulated throughout the state.

Minneapolis.—Minnesota and the Northwest will make a census of the skilled labor man-power of this section of the country for the government with a view to its use in the various branches of the military service in the work for which the men are trained. The census also is being made in the hope that as the government draws men to its service, the men can be taken from the various individual industries on a pro rated plan so as not to interfere with the efficient operation of the plants.

Stillwater.—Sherman F. Staples is dead. He was a son of the late Edward Staples and a grandson of the late Isaac Staples, a pioneer lumberman and merchant. He is survived by a widow (daughter of the late Samuel McClure, a pioneer lumberman), and two children.

Brainerd.—The Crow Wing county public safety commission organized at Brainerd, with R. R. Wise, director for the county, chairman of the meeting, elected as officers: President, R. R. Wise; vice president, S. R. Adair; secretary, Fred T. Lincoln, and treasurer, Giles P. O'Brien.

BURNQUIST TO HEAD STATE CAMPAIGN

TO BE CHAIRMAN OF GENERAL COMMITTEE OF RED CROSS TO RAISE MINNESOTA QUOTA.

$2,000,000 WANTED IN STATE

National Campaign Provides for Raising $100,000,000 and Minnesota Is Expected to Do Its Share Toward That Amount.

St. Paul.

Governor Burnquist will head the general committee for the state Red Cross campaign, according to the announcement made from the state headquarters. E. N. Huntress, experienced Red Cross campaign worker assigned to the Minnesota district by the society's Washington office, will be state campaign director and Harry Wilbern of Minneapolis will be associate director. The state quota of the national campaign for $100,000,000 is $2,000,000.

★ ★ ★

Contest Over School Finances.

The prospect for a sharp contest at the July meeting of the State High School Board over Governor Burnquist's proposal that any deficit in school aid which may have occurred in the past two years be paid out of the appropriation for this year, increased with the appearance of a letter to school superintendents and members of school boards by John Munroe, superintendent of schools at Faribault, and newly appointed member of the High School Board.

Mr. Munroe states that the attorney general, having held that such payment could be legally made by the board, the matter should have been determined at the recent meeting of the High School Board, that local boards could have arranged their budget accordingly, but that State Superintendent C. Schulz opposed paying the deficit, and his opposition forced the board to defer action until July.

★ ★ ★

State to Fall Short.

Of 90,000 men registering in 59 counties, approximately 50,000 may claim exemption, according to a tabulation made by Adjutant General Fred B. Wood.

The total registration of 116,135 against the government estimate of 123,593 was shown in official returns from 66 counties and Duluth city. These were exclusive, however, of Minneapolis, St. Paul and other thickly populated districts. At the present ratio, the Minnesota total will fall short by approximately 15,000 of the official estimate of 250,551.

Tabulations were complete on 59 counties and the city of Duluth. The grand total of 102,568 in this table includes 91,788 white citizens of whom 51,150 claim exemption; 171 colored citizens with 93 claiming exemption; 126,659 aliens and 670 alien enemies.

★ ★ ★

State's Army Quota Short.

In addition to its quota of the new national army to be raised by the selective draft, Minnesota must furnish more than 10,000 men for the regular army and national guard. These ranks will be filled by draft if enough volunteers do not come forward. The number of men needed for the new guard units are: One regiment of field artillery, 1,308 men; one battalion engineers, 513; one radio signal company, 78; one supply train, 309; and one engineers' train, 170; a total of 8,207.

★ ★ ★

Discuss Tornado Relief Fund.

An appeal from municipal authorities at Mattoon and Charleston for financial help for Illinois tornado relief work was taken up by the Minnesota organization of the American Red Cross at a meeting in Governor Burnquist's office at the Capitol. The Governor called the meeting of officials who raised the Red Cross fund for the Baudette-Spooner fire sufferers in 1910, and it was reported that an unexpected balance of nearly $13,000 in that fund may be found available.

★ ★ ★

Woman Assistant to School Head.

Word is received that Miss Katherine Hamilton, supervisor of elementary work in the Decatur, Ill., public schools, has resigned to come to St. Paul as an assistant superintendent of public schools. School officials said this means the inauguration here of a school administrative organization involving two or three assistant superintendents specializing in various departments of the school system.

★ ★ ★

War Field Training for Nurses.

Candidates for degrees at the school for nurses, University of Minnesota, are to be given a year's course in field nursing, university authorities announce. College women will be admitted to the nurses' school for a two years' course of intensive training, the required third year of study to be spent in the field.

★ ★ ★

Co-operation of Cities Asked.

Co-operation of Twin City officials is asked by Governor Burnquist in keeping all army camps clean. The War department has declared that immoral influences must be removed from all places where soldiers or recruits gather. This order will be enforced, Secretary of War Baker said in a letter to Governor Burnquist, by taking the camps away from cities that do not see to it that liquor and other bad influences are kept beyond the reach of men at the different military posts.

TO GUARD WORKERS' HEALTH

National Board to Supervise Conditions in Plants Working on War Contracts, Is Urged.

A health conservation board, corresponding to the general munitions board announced by the council of national defense, is imperatively needed to supervise health conditions in government plants and to co-operate with similar state boards in the regulation of private plants under contract with the government. Dr. Frederick Martin of the council of national defense is thoroughly qualified to head such an organization, says the New Republic. No labor laws should be suspended or modified except after investigation and approval by this body of experts. Indeed, it would be to the best interest of the nation if the government could be persuaded to make minimum standards of hours, wages and shop conditions integral parts of all munition contracts. In war time the workers will be willing to forego comforts and to work nearer the margin of physical exhaustion than in times of peace, but the country cannot afford the extravagance of paying for work done during incapacity from fatigue or the further extravagance of urging armies of workmen toward relative incapacity by neglect of proved physiological law.

He'd Come Back.

A boy who had done something to incur the wrath of his mother and then had taken to his heels was hotly pursued for some distance by her.

Finding it was useless to continue the pursuit, and almost beside herself with rage, the old lady shouted at the top of her voice:

"I'll give anybody sixpence to catch that boy."

The boy instantly stopped and, turning around, shouted in reply:

"Give me the sixpence and I'll come back!"

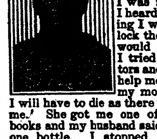
SICK WOMAN HAD CRYING SPELLS



Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Enhaut, Pa.—"I was all run down and weak inwardly. I had female troubles and nervous feelings and my head bothered me. I would often have crying spells and feel as if I was not safe. If I heard anyone coming I would run and lock the door so they would not see me. I tried several doctors and they did not help me so I said to my mother 'I guess I will have to die as there is no help for me.' She got me one of your little books and my husband said I should try one bottle. I stopped the doctor's medicine and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It soon made a change in me and now I am strong and do all my work."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS BAUGHMAN, Box 86, Enhaut, Pa.

Nerves All On Edge?

Just as nerve wear is a case of kidney weakness, so is kidney trouble a cause of nervousness. Anyone who has backache, nervousness, "blues," headaches, dizzy spells, urinary ills and a tired, worn feeling, would do well to try Doan's Kidney Pills. This safe, reliable remedy is recommended by thousands who have had relief from just such troubles.

A North Dakota Case

Mrs. Eva May Franklin, 1320 Front St., Fargo, N. D., says: "My kidneys troubled me and my back ached intensely. I had headaches, tired easily and was weak. The action of my kidneys was irregular, too. Doan's Kidney Pills not only strengthened my kidneys and cured the backache, but made me feel much stronger. I haven't had a sign of kidney trouble since."

200 MEN TRAPPED IN BIG BUTTE MINE; 150 THOUGHT DEAD

HALF OF 415 MEN WORKING ON PROPERTY OF SPECULATOR MINE UNACCOUNTED FOR WHEN FLAMES BREAK OUT.

FEDERAL RESCUE CARS ARE RUSHED TO SCENE

Entombed Miners Believed to Have No Chance for Life—Twelve Bodies Are Recovered—Efforts of Rescuers Prove Fruitless Because of Smoke and Gas.

Butte, Mont., June 11.—With 35 known dead and 167 men missing as the result of a fire which broke out in the Speculator copper mine, Butte is facing the worst mining disaster in its history. The fire broke out in the lower levels of the mine, starting from a broken power cable that carried electricity to the underground pumps. Lower levels of the mine quickly filled with smoke and gas.

Escape Through Other Mines.

There were 415 men on the night shift. Of these 213 escaped through levels connecting with other mines. The gas spread to the Diamond mine and took a further toll of life in that property.

Helmet men, mine rescue crews and safety-first squads from all the mines in Butte undertook to penetrate the gasfilled workings of the Speculator, the Diamond and high ore mines, in the hope of finding the missing miners.

Officials said that if the 167 missing miners are not found to have made their way to the high ore mine workings they are doomed.

Missing Men Probably Doomed.

The fire which started on the 2,400 foot level spread quickly, cutting off the escape of men on lower levels. Dense smoke retarded rescue work. Miners from adjoining properties ordered up from underground as a precaution, went to work as rescuing gangs, aiding national guardsmen who had been called to the scene. They were able to do little.

Rescue Efforts In Vain.

Their efforts were fruitless. After the arrival of the bureau of mines safety first cars, which carried gas and smoke proof helmets from Red Lodge and Colorado Springs, rescuers equipped with safety helmets tried to enter the shaft but were driven back to the surface.

Rescue Cars To Scene.

Pittsburgh, June 10.—Officers of the bureau of mines stationed here received word from the district engineer at Butte that probably 100 men at least had perished in the accident at Speculator mine.

Rescue car No. 5, which belongs in that district, has been at Billings, Mont., and has been called to the scene, as has car No. 2, which is in Colorado.

The mining interests at Butte have one of the best rescue organizations in the country. It will co-operate with trained crews from the federal cars.

CHARGES THAT LEAGUE IS FOE TO LIBERTY LOAN

Head of Reserve Band Says Non-partisan Organization Is Blocking Campaign in Northwest.

Minneapolis, June 11.—Governor Theodore Wold of the Minneapolis Federal Reserve bank said officially that the bank has received what appears to be substantial evidence that the Non-Partisan League is working to defeat the success of the Liberty Loan campaign in the northwest.

The Non-Partisan League is strong in North Dakota, operates extensively in Minnesota, and maintains national headquarters in St. Paul.

Washington has been advised of the situation, Mr. Wold said. A thorough investigation is being made, and further reports will go to Washington as fast as the facts can be established, he added.

BALFOUR HAS REACHED HOME

Arrives in London Safely After Trip to United States.

London, June 11.—Foreign Secretary Arthur J. Balfour arrived at a British port on his return from his trip to America at the head of the British mission. Mr. Balfour at once departed for London, arriving there late in the day.

Minister Balfour arrived at a Canadian port in the middle of April and touched American soil first at a Maine village April 21.

"Business as Usual" U. C. T. Slogan.

Owatonna, Minn., June 11.—Resolutions indorsing the "business as usual" slogan for the war period were adopted here at the closing business session of the annual conference of the grand council of United Commercial Travelers of Minnesota and North Dakota here. Other resolutions opposed any increase of the second class postage rate, urged individual members of the order to invest in Liberty Loan bonds, and favored the erection soon of a home for the member of the order at an early future time.

LET US RAISE OUR OWN VEGETABLES.

Now is the time for the forehanded woman to look to her gardening if she hopes to have vegetables for her family this winter. Our women can show their patriotism in no better or more convincing way than by conserving food, elimination of waste and producing her own vegetables on every available foot of ground that can be cultivated. Spinach, chard, peas, beans, cauliflower, tomatoes and corn may all be satisfactorily canned at home, and, even counting the initial cost of glass jars, putting up one's own vegetables costs no more than buying the cheapest grade of tin-canned ones at the grocery, while the expense after one has acquired the jars is very small. One may buy the standard makes for five and ten cents as needed, thus making it possible to lay in a good stock by degrees.

If there were no other advantage in putting up one's own vegetables, when they are in their prime and may be canned a few at a time, it would pay in the matter of convenience, as one may can in pints, quarts or two-quart sizes. In tomatoes, the average grocer carries nothing smaller than the quart can, which once opened must be used at once. One's own little pint jars hold just enough for a sauce for a soup for two or three and its superior quality is beyond question.

Later in the season plans are being made to hold canning clubs for all who desire instruction in the art of canning vegetables. In the meantime prepare. It might be well to think of the future. If war does become a reality, we will need all the surplus that can possibly be spared from home to furnish the hospitals. If each housewife in her canning season sets apart a few cans of fruit, vegetables and glasses of jelly for her country it will mean a splendid supply in time of need.

There is a jewel which no Indian mines can buy, no chemic art can counterfeit; it makes men rich in greatest poverty, makes water wine, turns wooden cups to gold, the homely whistle to sweet music's strain; seldom it comes, to few heaven sent, that much in little, all in naught—Content.

THE VALUE OF SUCCULENT VEGETABLES.

We underestimate the value of the succulent green vegetable, usually counting it as bulk with little nourishment. Many of our green vegetables besides their acids and mineral matters, contain a most valuable, but as yet little understood, growth determinant. This substance makes clover and alfalfa so valuable as food for growing stock. We will soon be eating and appreciating alfalfa bread, as it is being more used for human food.

Vegetables are appetizers, for example, the onion, garlic, chives, parsley and celery. The woody fiber being indigestible, serves as a brush in the alimentary canal to carry along all waste and excite peristaltic action. Vegetables, because of their bulk, satisfy hunger without over-feeding. In their service as a broom to the body, they keep the system cleansed, beautifying the complexion and removing all waste that clogs the skin and produces sallow, muddy complexions.

The proper cooking of vegetables is another important thing to bear in mind. All vegetables when cooked should be put on to cook in boiling water. Salt may be added to those vegetables that are not toughened by its use, for example, potatoes and other fibrous root vegetables. Too long cooking, especially of such delicately flavored vegetables as asparagus will dissolve the flavor and send it out with steam, so both nourishment and flavor will be lost. Left-over green vegetables, or in fact any kind of vegetable, makes a good cream soup. Asparagus, string beans, tomatoes in any form, and celery with onion all make most delicious salads.

A garden containing all the crisp vegetables used for salads and as many others as the space allows will be a constant source of delight all the summer and fall. Pumpkins and squashes, as well as cucumbers and melons will all climb on the back yard fence and take up little room on the ground. Planting beans with corn saves space and gives the beans something to climb upon.

Tender young carrots cooked in as little water as possible so that every bit of the mineral matter is saved and then served with butter, salt and a grating of nutmeg with a dash of lemon juice is a most delicious vegetable for which to cultivate an appetite.

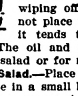
Tomatoes peeled and sliced down nearly to the stem end, making petals like a flower, then fill the center with chopped pepper and onion and place a spoonful of mayonnaise on top, is a most dainty spring salad.

There is a road to yesterday—
A wondrous thoroughfare,
Where wanton breezes idly play
And blossoms scent the air.

It stretches long and far and straight;
It wanders up and down!
It passes many an open gate
And many a little town.

GOOD THINGS WORTH TRYING.

For the lovers of ripe olives the following will be enjoyed: Soak them for an hour or two in olive oil to which a clove of garlic has been added. Place the olives while soaking in the ice chest and serve them without wiping off the oil. Do not place them in ice as it tends to make them watery. The oil and garlic may be saved for salad or for more olives.



Carrot Salad.—Place a spoonful of mayonnaise in a small head of lettuce and in the mayonnaise mix grated raw carrots until the dressing is pink as shrimp. The carrots should be grated very fine.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Ripe Olives.—Scoop out the pulp from the tomatoes. Fry a small onion chopped fine in butter, add the pulp that has come out of the tomatoes and a cupful of ripe olives from which the seeds have been removed, two tablespoonfuls of breadcrumbs, salt and pepper. Fill the tomatoes and bake.

Savory String Beans.—Cook the beans until tender. Melt a tablespoonful of butter or beef drippings in a frying pan and cook in it a small onion, finely chopped, until tender, but not brown. Add the beans to the onion, season well with salt and pepper and add a dash of vinegar to give it zest.

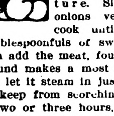
Sponge Cake.—Take four eggs, one cupful of sugar and one cupful of flour. Beat the whites of the eggs very stiff, then fold in the sugar a quarter of a cupful at a time, add the yolks one at a time, cutting each in half and stir them in so lightly that the mixture is streaked with yellow. Cut the flour into the egg in the same way, put into a buttered pan and bake forty-five minutes.

Small green onions sliced thin and sprinkled over lettuce with a handful of fresh peanuts and French dressing make a most delicious salad.

The difference between pride and vanity depends upon whether we have it or it is possessed by someone else.

WHAT TO EAT.

The following is a homely dish well liked by most people:



Pot Roast.—The secret of well flavored, tender meat is usually in the cooking. A pot roast should cook at a low temperature. Slice two onions very thin, cook until yellow in two tablespoonfuls of sweet drippings then add the meat, four pounds of the round makes a most delicious roast, and let it steam in just enough water to keep from scorching. Cook at least two or three hours, when a fine gravy will be formed and the onion will all have disappeared. A can of tomatoes with two chopped boiled carrots will be an addition to the gravy, or if one likes a sour gravy a tablespoonful of vinegar added gives zest to the dish.

Beef Tongue With Raisins.—So far raisins are one of the good things that haven't jumped into the high prices, though any day they may be beyond reach. Wash a fresh beef tongue and place in a kettle with a teaspoonful of salt and boiling water to cover. Simmer very gently one hour. Remove and take off the skin, trimming the roots carefully. Place in a casserole with a teaspoonful of butter and two cupfuls of water with three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and any flavoring herbs. Cover and cook four hours slowly. An hour before serving add a cupful of seeded raisins, one-half a tumbler of currant jelly and more water if needed. Just before serving, thicken the sauce with two tablespoonfuls of flour, wet to a paste with water. Cook long enough to cook the starch.

Macaroni With Sausage.—Put layers of cooked macaroni in a buttered dish and alternate with layers of cooked leftover sausage, hamburger steak or other chopped meat, add some good beef gravy or if none is at hand a cupful of rich white sauce. A few tablespoonfuls of tomato puree add variety to the dish.

String beans, peas and asparagus, if boiled in an open saucepan, will have a better color. Cabbage, onions and turnips will not scent the house if cooked uncovered, as the steam and odor passes off without combining under the lid.

PAIN? NOT A BIT!
LIFT YOUR CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

No humbug! Apply few drops then just lift them away with fingers.

This new drug is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. It is called freezone, and can now be obtained in tiny bottles as here shown at very little cost from any drug store. Just ask for freezone. Apply a drop or two directly upon a tender corn or callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off, root and all, with the fingers.

Not a twinge of pain, soreness or irritation; not even the slightest smarting, either when applying freezone or afterwards.

This drug doesn't eat up the corn or callus, but shrivels them so they loosen and come right out. It is no humbug! It works like a charm. For a few cents you can get rid of every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses on bottom of your feet. It never disappoints and never burns, bites or inflames. If your druggist hasn't any freezone yet, tell him to get a little bottle for you from his wholesale house.—adv.

Tin Music.

One of the inmates of the Masonic home near Franklin is past ninety years of age. In all his long life he had never heard a phonograph. Recently the members of one of the lodges in the state presented the home with a phonograph. This was a source of wonder to the old man. He had occasion to visit some friends in Franklin, and while there was asked how he liked his new home. "It's all right," he said, "just fine. And, say, we've got a machine down there that is the queerest thing I ever saw. They take a pie pan that has a hole cut in the middle, and put it in the machine. Then they turn a crank and grind up that tin, and it makes music. It's dang good music, too."—Indianapolis News.

Up to the Cook.

"Hi, Mr. Jack, mighty surprised to see you out here," said a negro cook in one of the Indiana company barracks for candidates for the officers' reserve corps at Ft. Harrison. "You sure look different."

"Mr. Jack" looked at the negro and recognized him as a waiter for years in the cafes of big hotels down town.

"What are you doing here?" he asked.

"I'm the cook for the company, and if you don't get enough to eat just sneak 'round to the kitchen."

"I surely will," said the soldier. "I gave you about a million dollars in tips in my life and it's up to you to make good."—Indianapolis News.

Cheaper Than Potatoes.

Carl J. Carter, prosecuting attorney of Bartholomew county, passed a delivery truck from a grocery. In the rear of the truck were a half-dozen oil cans and on the end of each spout was a gumdrop.

"What's the idea?" Carter asked the man in charge.

"Gumdrops are cheaper than potatoes," he replied.—Indianapolis News.

Serious Work to Do.

"Are you going to take any city boarders this summer?"

"No," replied Farmer Corntossel. "Me and th' hired men will be so busy raisin' food crops that we won't be able ter entertain 'em with our quaint rural dialect and unsophisticated ways."

CULTIVATE! CULTIVATE!

Produce More Food, But at the Lowest Cost.

A trip through most of the grain growing districts of Western Canada, and information received from authentic sources, reveals that the spring seeding of wheat, barley and oats is finished and the grain is having a most rapid growth. Men of farming experience here say that the conditions are similar to those years when there was an abundant harvest reaped. During the past year a number of new settlers came into the country, and they will undoubtedly have a good crop this year. This added to the normal acreage, made considerably less by the lack of labor owing to the number who have gone to the front, will give a fair general yield. It is surprising the growth that this country is capable of producing.

Wheat has this spring germinated and shown three or four inches growth in five or six days, and with anything like favorable weather, harvesting should commence about the 15th of August, or a little over one hundred days from first seeding. Hundreds of farmers throughout this vast country paid for their entire holdings out of one year's crop and it would not be surprising if the same experience met a great many more this year.

The best authorities on the wheat situation give it as their opinion that for many years to come, wheat prices will be high. They base their opinion on a scientific calculation and their reasoning seems to be sound. Anyway, it is quite evident that for some years to come, the producer of wheat will be amply rewarded for any effort he may make to develop this branch of agricultural industry. Money may be made on the high-priced lands of the wheat-growing districts of the United States, but it is a question if these high-priced lands would not be more profitably employed in other branches of farming than in growing the smaller grains, leaving it to lands just as productive for wheat, less expensive to operate, and with a much smaller initial price, to provide the world with this necessity of life. Here is where Western Canada, with its vast rich fertile plains, its low railway rates, its exceptionally good shipping privileges, its excellent climate, and its perfect social conditions, has a combination of advantages not possessed by any other portion of the continent.

Furthermore, these lands, of unexcelled quality, are extraordinarily cheap, while for the man who does not care to undertake farming on so extensive a scale there is the free homestead which offers him all the opportunity for which he is looking.

The prospective purchaser will have no difficulty at all in making a selection of a fine piece of land, well located and convenient to transportation, which may be had for from $15 to $25 an acre, and the railway companies or other holders of large tracts are always glad to sell on easy terms. Or if he desires a farm that is already under cultivation and improved, many such are to be had from farmers who already have made comfortable fortunes and are ready to retire.

It is not to the grain grower only that Western Canada offers great opportunities. If one wishes to go in for cattle raising, there are great stretches of range land both free and for lease; and in many sections of the country there are the finest of grazing lands that may be purchased at very low prices.

The appeal which has been sent out both by the United States and Canadian governments, for an unstinted, unlimited production of food stuffs to prevent what might otherwise be a famine throughout this great continent—and then consequently, throughout the world—should in itself arouse all the ambition and desire in the heart and soul of the man who is not fighting at the front, to produce all he can. In addition, there is the potent fact that no chances are being taken in answering the appeal. Take it from either standpoint you answer the country's call, although not fighting, and you are also insured against any loss by the high prices that are bound to exist for some time. Whether it be in the United States on its excellent grain lands or in Canada on its splendid grain lands, all should do their bit.—Advertisement.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Buy Liberty Bonds Today

THE SHARE OF EVERY AMERICAN FAMILY IS $100

Buy Your Share Now

THAT America may strike the winning blows for the liberty of the world your government calls today for financial volunteers. To-day is Liberty Loan Day. The Liberty Loan of $2,000,000,000 being sold to the 100,000,000 people of the United States means that the share of each individual is $20, or the equivelent of $100 a family.

In asking you to subscribe to the Liberty Loan your Government does not ask you to spend your money. Instead it holds out an opportunity to save and invest. It offers bonds backed by all of the resources of the richest nation in the world—bonds which can be immediately turned into cash — which pays 3½% interest—and which are exempt from all taxes except those on estates and inheritances.

Every cent of this money will be spent in this country for supplies for our soldiers and for materials for the Allies. This will help your business.

WHAT LIBERTY BONDS ARE

Liberty bonds are United States Government Bonds secured by all the resources of the Federal Government. They are issued in multiples of $50 and bear interest at the rate of 3½% per annum, payable semi annually December 15 and June 15 of each year. These bonds mature in 30 years and may be redeemed by the Government in 15 years. Should the Government put out any future issues at an interest rate higher than 3½% before the close of the war, the "Liberty Loan" will immediately become convertible into higher rate bonds.

REMEMBER BELGIUM

Our country—and that means every one in our country—is at war today for the protection of our nation. This Loan is the first step in this war. If you do not respond now and the Imperial German Government should win this war the fate of your home would be the fate of the homes of Belgium.

Today you share in the prosperity of your nation—the richest in the world. If the iron heel of the Hohenzollerns should conquer, you would have no choice as to what would be done with your property. It would be taken from you by force.

DO YOUR SHARE

Every man, woman and child should feel it his duty to subscribe something to the Liberty Loan. If you cannot buy an entire bond yourself, club together with your family and purchase several bonds. You can pay for these bonds in full or in five installments as follows:

Payment for a

	$50 Bond	$100 Bond	$500 Bond	$1000 Bond
On application	$1.00	$2.00	$10.00	$20.00
On June 28th	9.00	18.00	90.00	180.00
On July 30th	10.00	20.00	100.00	200.00
On August 15th	15.00	30.00	150.00	300.00
On August 30th	15.00	30.00	150.00	300.00
	$50.00	$100.00	$500.00	$1000.00

Plus accrued interest to be settled with final payment August 30th.

Don't wait for anyone to ask you to buy a bond. Go at once to your nearest bank or post office and subscribe. This bond issue is your chance to volunteer. If this money is not raised by bonds, your government will be forced to draft it in the form of taxes.

TODAY IS LIBERTY LOAN DAY

As you lay your flowers on the graves of those who in the past have given their blood for your country, declare that you too will give "the last full measure of devotion,"—that you will prove yourself worthy of their sacrifice by today doing your share for Liberty, and subscribing to this bond issue.

Fire in Middle River

Fire from an unknown origin completely destroyed the Red Lake Falls Milling Company's elevator at Middle River Tuesday night. The agent, C. A. Berg, saved his books, by crawling thru the fire and smoke. He had about 800 bushel of grain on hand which was to have been loaded out the next day.

A telephone call for help reached our people a little before 9 o'clock and several autos and the two railroad speeders loaded with men quickly responded but upon arrival they found they were powerless to help without more hose. The fire was quite a distance from the power house and their hose was not long enough to reach it. The other elevator was barely saved by hard work even to carrying water to the roof in pails and having men there to put out the sparks as they fell. It is reported that one of these men was badly burned.

HEAVY ATTACK BY ENEMY IN FRANCE FORCES HAIG BACK

TREMENDOUS ASSAULT ON NEWLY WON POSITIONS EAST OF MONCHY LE PREUX COMPELS BRITISH TO RETIRE.

MACEDONIA RETIREMENT IS REPORTED BY BERLIN

British Withdrawal from Struma Lowlands Also Heralded by Bulgarians —Russians Resume Offensive— Saloniki Expedition Criticized in Commons.

London, June 19.—A tremendous German attack on newly won British positions east of Monchy Le Preux forced the British to fall back from certain advanced posts, Field Marshal Haig reports.

Reports from Berlin and Sofia assert a general retirement of the British in the Struma lowland, Macedonia.

Active participation of Russian troops on the northern front is reported by Petrograd.

Compelled to Retire.

"Early Monday morning the enemy strongly attacked our new positions east of Monchy Le Preux," Haig stated. "After severe fighting we were compelled to fall back from certain advanced posts in front of our main new position. We still hold Infantry hill."

Monchy Le Preux, five miles southeast of Arras, is one of the turning points on the General Hindenburg front, being on the so-called Drocourt-Queant "switch line." It has been the scene of tremendous fighting ever since the British struck out from the Vimy ridge and drove toward Douai.

Berlin Readjusts Activities.

Berlin official reports hinted at readjustment of fighting activities on two widely separated fronts.

First was the resumption of offensive war by the Russians in the Lutsk sector, which, combined with Petrograd dispatches detailing the vote of a secret session of the duma urging an immediate offensive, gave great hope here that Russia was making ready to "do her bit."

Second was the Berlin statement indicating a withdrawal by the British Saloniki expeditionary force from certain positions in the Struma lowlands. An official Bulgarian report also asserts the British are making a general retirement there.

Explanation Sought.

There have been numerous attempts in the house of commons to obtain from the ministry an explanation of the full reasons of the British participation in the Macedonian offensive.

Certain members have insisted that the British forces now there under General Sarrail could be utilized to vastly better effect on the western front, backing up Field Marshal Haig's offensive.

ENORMOUS SUPPLIES OF FUEL FOR NAVY ORDERED

Secretary Daniels Directs Producers to Furnish Coal and Oil At Prices to Be Fixed Later.

Washington, June 19.—Secretary Josephus Daniels has ordered coal and oil producers to supply the enormous quantities needed by the navy at prices to be fixed later by the president when the federal trade commission has determined a fair rate. The navy will purchase 1,750,000 tons of coal and 50,000,000 barrels of oil under this application of authority granted by congress.

A basic price of $56.20 a ton was fixed for steel plates in contracts for 10 steel ships signed by Chairman Denman of the shipping board. Future contracts will be let at that price instead of $95 paid for steel in some earlier contracts.

Secretary Daniels said that the coal operators proposed to furnish coal at a rate of $2.95 a ton at the mine. The navy has been paying $2.88 a ton delivered.

Gilbert. — J. Neimi, the village water wagon driver, was taken off his wagon by officers and arrested for not registering in accordance with the provisions of the draft law.

Minneapolis. — The Minnesota National guard, including the new units about to be organized, will need about 3,350 recruits to bring the organization up to full war strength.

St. Cloud. — J. C. Munro, former grand commander of the state Masonic body, died at his home here. He was secretary of the St. Cloud lodge for the last thirteen years. He was 74 years old.

St. Cloud. — A $1,000,000 theatrical corporation with Minneapolis as the nucleus, has been formed by a company headed by Frank E. Nemec, a local exhibitor, and a number of bankers and others.

Virginia. — Nick Luona, 28 years old, an I. W. W., was shot in the back by a policeman at Virginia, Minn., while seeking to escape arrest as a slacker. Sixty-one arrests have been made in and near Virginia.

St. Paul. — Rains have finally checked the forest fires in Northern Minnesota and conditions are greatly improved, according to reports to the capitol. More charges of incendiary forest fires have been received.

Northfield. — Eighty-two received diplomas at the 50th annual commencement exercises of Carleton college in Skinner Memorial chapel. Prof. Maria Sanford and President-emeritus Cyrus Northrop of the University of Minnesota delivered the commencement addresses.

Cloquet. — Three men were injured, one seriously, here when the piston rod in the Cloquet water power mill broke and partially wrecked the plant. John Sironen escaped death when rescued from the slasher chain, on which he had been thrown and which was carrying him into a rapidly revolving saw.

Minneapolis. — Every organization of women in Minnesota will be expected to dovetail its war work with that of all the other organizations. War work centralization will be through the woman's auxiliary committee of the State Public Safety commission, of which Mrs. T. G. Winter of Minneapolis is director.

Minneapolis. — More than 33 per cent of Minnesota's fire losses are partly preventable, 25 per cent are strictly preventable and a large percentage of the balance are "unknown but probably preventable," according to a report furnished Chief Ringer of the fire department by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

St. Paul. — Reports from 14 additional scattered counties in Minnesota all carry the same story, "Crop prospects are excellent." Fred D. Sherman, immigration commissioner, has given out reports from Ottertail, Houston, Nobles, Pennington, Waseca, Dakota, Todd, Goodhue, Wilkin, Mower, Lincoln, Renville, St. Louis and Pipestone counties.

St. Paul. — Captain W. F. Rhinow, military secretary to Governor Burnquist; Colonel William J. Murphy, newly commissioned commandant of the proposed Second Minnesota field artillery, and Major Harry L. Brady, United States disbursing officer, left last Friday for an automobile tour of Southern Minnesota towns to look after plans to enlist a new artillery battalion.

St. Paul. — Organization of the additional regiment of artillery and a new field hospital corps to strengthen the Minnesota National guard and increase the state's contribution to the fighting forces of the nation is to be deferred temporarily, Captain Walter F. Rhinow, military secretary to Governor Burnquist, indicated, pending further investigation on plans to assign a battalion of new artillery units among Southern Minnesota towns.

St. Paul.—Governor Burnquist, who has been mentioned as a possible aspirant for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Knute Nelson, who, it has been announced, would not succeed himself, has announced officially he would not become a candidate for the office. "I should prefer," the governor said, "to be a candidate for re-election as governor, should I determine to remain in public life." State Auditor Preus has been considered a likely man.

St. Paul. — With only St. Paul city, Koochiching county and the Northwest angle precinct returns lacking, Minnesota registrations under the selective draft proclamation totaled 197,015 against the government's estimate of 215,578 for the districts included. Every slacker in Minnesota will be arrested. Both state and federal authorities have received specific orders to arrest every man eligible under the selective draft act who failed to register for military duty.

ROADS MAY ATTACK STATE 2-CENT RATE

U. S. COURT'S DECISIONS MAY AFFECT SITUATION—MOVE TO BE CONTESTED.

HAPPENINGS AT STATE HOUSE

What Is Transpiring in the Different Departments Where the Affairs of State Government Are Administered.

St. Paul.

Minnesota's 2 cent passenger rate may be attacked as a result of a decision in the United States circuit court at St. Louis and the decision rendered by the United States Supreme Court in the South Dakota express rate case.

Such an attempt is considered probable by C. E. Elmquist, member of the State Railroad Commission, who says that any such action in Minnesota will be vigorously contested.

E. C. Lindley, general counsel of the Great Northern railroad, said the Great Northern railroad, said in these two cases might be broad enough to affect the situation in Minnesota, but that he could not say definitely until he had seen the text of the decisions. Nothing new in principle is involved, he said.

State Draft Returns 221,747.

The official Minnesota return, showing 221,747 selective draft registrations, has been sent by Governor Burnquist to Provost Marshal General E. H. Crowder at Washington, D. C. Koochiching county reports completed the returns. Minnesota's registration is now 18,804 below the government estimate of 250,551, but is subject to corrections on rechecks of the summaries and to supplementary returns on late registrations.

Exemption claims are indicated on the cards of 108,796 out of 194,163 white citizens and of 589 out of 982 negroes registered. The Indians included 32 in Carlton county, the cards of other Minnesota red men having been sent direct to Washington by the Indian agent.

Aliens numbering 24,599 and 1,971 alien enemies make up the balance of the state registration total.

Preliminary checks of the summary, Adjt. Gen. Fred B. Wood said, indicate that there will be numerous changes in the present returns by counties.

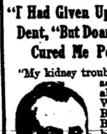
Pine Rust Fight Is Begun.

Six experts from the state entomologist's office have begun a campaign for the eradication of the white pine blister rust. Every nursery, park, cemetery and private grove in the staate is to be inspected. F. L. Washburn, state entomologist, is in charge of the work and his five assistants are running down every "lead" from infected nurseries. In two instances diseased stock has been found and adjoining pines destroyed. The work of inspection is not confined to pine groves.



"Doans Saved My Life"
"I Had Given Up Hope" Says Mr. Dent, "But Doan's Kidney Pills Cured Me Permanently."

"My kidney trouble began with backache, which ran on about a year," says W. H. Dent, 2213 Reynolds Street, Brunswick, Ga. "My back got so I was at times unable to sleep, even in a chair. Often the pain bent me double. I would be prostrated and someone would have to move me. Uric acid got into my blood and I began to break out. This got so bad I went to a hospital for treatment. I stayed there three months, but got but little better. Dropsy set in and I bloated until nearly half again my size. My knees were so swollen the flesh burst in strips. I lay there panting, and just about able to catch my breath. I had five doctors; each one said it was impossible for me to live.

"I hadn't taken Doan's Kidney Pills long before I began to feel better. I kept on and was soon able to get up. The swelling gradually went away and when I had used eleven boxes I was completely cured. I have never had a bit of trouble since. I owe my life and my health to Doan's Kidney Pills."

Venal Justice.

Former President Taft, during a visit to Texas, said at a dinner in Galveston:

"There is a story which illustrates the importance of keeping our judges out of business or trade.

"It's a story about a magistrate who was also a flour and feed dealer. A farmer was brought before the man for failing to notify of a case of cattle disease. The magistrate delivered judgment as follows:

"'You are fined $5 for this offense, with $2.50 costs, making $7.50, and $9 you owe me for your last bill of feed, or $16.50 in all—$16.50, or thirty days.'"

BUSINESS GOOD IN CANADA

No Financial Depression, and None Since the War Began.

A well-known correspondent of an important Western daily paper recently made an extended visit to Western Canada, and in summing up the results, after going thoroughly into conditions there, says there is no financial depression in Canada, nor has there been anything of the sort since the war began. Anyone who has watched the barometer of trade, and seen the bank clearings of the different cities grow and continue to grow will have arrived at the same conclusion. The trade statistics reveal a like situation. The progress that the farmers are making is highly satisfactory. As this correspondent says: "It is true there have been adaptations to meet new conditions, and taxes have been revised, and that a very large burden of added expense in many lines has been assumed, but it has all been done methodically, carefully and with full regard for the resources to be called on.

"That this has been done fairly and wisely is proved by the present comfortable financial position.

"With the exception of a restricted area in the east, Canada is not an industrial country. The greater portion of the Dominion must be classed as agricultural area, with only an infinitesimal part of it fully developed.

"Lacking complete development, the agricultural portion of Canada has naturally placed its main dependence upon fewer resources than would be the case in the States. Even in peace times, business would be subject to more frequent and wider fluctuations, due to the narrower foundation upon which it rests.

"Thus, Canada has been able to come up to the war with efficiency and sufficiency and to maintain and even advance its civilian activities.

"Canada's first element of financial strength lay in its branch bank system. This system has two great advantages: it makes the financial resources of the Dominion fluid so that supplies of capital can run quickly from the high spots to the low spots; also, it places at the command of each individual branch the combined resources of the whole institution so that there is an efficient safeguard against severe strain at any one point.

"Here in Winnipeg, the all-Canada banking houses maintain big, strong branches and, as elsewhere in the Dominion, these held to an attitude of saneness and solidity that prevented even the start of any financial disturbance.

That business generally is now coming strong on an even keel is largely due to the absolute refusal of the banks, both branch and independent, to exhibit the slightest signs of excitement or apprehensiveness.

"For all Canada the savings bank figures are astonishing. Beginning with 1913, they are, for the fiscal year ending March 31:

1913	$622,928,968
1914	663,650,230
1915	683,761,432
1916	738,169,212
1917	888,765,698

"These figures represent what Canadians have put away after paying the increased living cost, which is about the same as in the States, all increases in taxes and imports of all kinds made necessary by the war and generous subscriptions to war bond issues.

"Prohibition has helped greatly in keeping the money supplies circulating in the normal, necessary channels. Tradesmen generally attribute a large part of the good financial condition to the fact that the booze bill has been eliminated. Canada takes law enforcement with true British seriousness.

"Financially, as in every other respect, Canada has developed sufficiency. She has done it in spite of initial conditions which would not look promising in the States and she has done it in a big, strong way.

"One of the best things we did," said one of the leading Winnipeg bankers to me, "was to decide early in the game that we simply would not borrow trouble.

"We started in ignorance of how the war would develop and without knowing exactly what our resources were, and had to find the way.

"And yet Canadians are not overburdened with taxes nor are they complaining of them. For the common people there has been but a slight tax increase, if any, in a direct way. Indirect payments, of course, are made in the shape of higher prices for living commodities, but the price advance on such items is no heavier than in the States in the same period."—Advertisement.

PEACE OFFER SENT TO SLAVS THROUGH SWISS, PAPER SAYS

PROPOSAL FOR PEACE REPORTED BY STOCKHOLM PUBLICATION —FORMER TEUTON ADVANCES DENOUNCED.

STRONGHOLD CAPTURED BY ITALIANS, ROME SAYS

Cardona Takes Guns and Other Booty —Spanish Army Reported Leading Revolutionary Movement Which Threatens Nation's Ancient Throne—Issues Not Clear.

Stockholm, June 18.—The Social Demokraten says: Germany has made an offer of peace to Russia through a member of the Swiss federal council.

Various moves on the part of Germany and Austria since the Russian revolution to arrange a separate peace with Russia have been reported, although not in the form of an offer directly by either government. A week ago the Council of Workmen and Soldiers of Russia made public the fact that the German commander in chief on the Eastern front had sent a wireless message inviting the Russian armies to a separate armistice to be followed by secret negotiations with the German leaders. This proposal was denounced by the council.

Vienna Denies Rumor.

Maxim Gorky, the Russian author, last month made it known that D. Rizow, the Bulgarian minister at Berlin, had attempted to inveigle him into secret peace negotiations. It was reported recently from Petrograd that two Austrian generals, ten other Austrian officers and 15 privates had appeared in Kishinev, Russia, declaring that they were peace delegates. This report was denied in Vienna.

Italian Troops Advance.

Rome, June 18.—General Cardona's troops swept forward in another successful offensive dash east of Adaniello, capturing "a strongly fortified position at Corno Cavento," according to an official war office report. The remnants of the garrison and 275 guns were captured with other booty.

Spanish Throne Menaced.

The upheaval caused by the great war, which has already hurled two monarchs from their thrones, now menaces the ancient throne of Spain. The utmost exertions of the Spanish censors have failed to suppress completely the reports of grave happenings in the peninsular kingdom.

The Spanish army is taking the lead in the revolutionary movement, which is further accelerated by the food scarcity and industrial unrest. Rumors of revolt have been current for several months and at the end of May it was announced that the constitutional guarantees would be suspended while the government prohibited all public manifestations in respect to international questions. This was followed by an outbreak at Barcelona June 1, the seriousness of which was indicated by the fact that the soldiers sided with the revolters and imprisoned a number of their officers.

People Favor Allies.

The exact part which the issues of the war play in the Spanish crisis is difficult to determine. The masses of the people have been greatly credited with being strong pro-Ally in sentiment while the aristocracy leaned toward the side of Germany.

Aged Actress Dies in New York.

New York, June 18.—Mrs. Sedley Smith, America's oldest actress, died in her sleep at her home in this city. Her last appearance was a year ago. Her husband died many years ago. Mrs. Smith's birthday was an "event" in stageland, and on this occasion she received hundreds of letters.

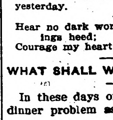
Most of the things that are put off until tomorrow should have been done yesterday.

Hear no dark words, and no forebodings heed;
Courage my heart!

WHAT SHALL WE HAVE TO EAT?



In these days of soaring prices the dinner problem as well as the other meals is one that is constantly growing harder of solution. We hope with a full supply of vegetables fresh from our well-tended gardens that we can cut down on much outside expense, as well as eliminate waste.

Eggs are fairly reasonable and with rice still within reach we shall be able to keep up the body balance if enough thought is given to the preparation of the food given to the children. Adults need food only to supply waste and give heat and energy, while the growing youth need building material which is supplied in green vegetables, milk, cream, butter and eggs, of which they must not be deprived.

Summer squash, spinach, chard, green corn are all vegetables that when well seasoned with some form of fat will make a good meal.

Vegetable soups using a few bones to give flavor to the stock and a small piece of soup-meat, with the addition of vegetables should make two or three good meals. Two toasted slices of bread well buttered placed in the bottom of the soup plate and the soup poured over it will make a most satisfying luncheon for a child or anyone not doing hard labor. The soup meat after all the extractives have been removed is still nutritious meat and with a little judicious seasoning makes a good meat loaf or chopped with cold potatoes or bits of vegetables left from the soup a good hash results.

The first day serve the soup with vegetables and small cubes of the meat, the next time the meat may be in the form of a loaf, and if any is left the hash will be its last appearance.

Cook a cupful of rice until tender, adding a teaspoonful of salt. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter and add one teaspoonful of curry powder. Stir this lightly into the rice. Pack in buttered molds and let stand until well molded. For those who do not enjoy curry a little chopped green pepper cooked in butter adds a most appetizing flavor.

People who mind their own business usually succeed. They have so little competition.

Time is money, provided you don't spend a dollar's worth of time trying to save a penny.

DISHES FROM THE HOME GARDEN

If indications are any criterion, of home vegetables this summer we will all have all we need and be able to divide with apartment friends, as everybody has a garden spot watched and tended with care. Vegetables taken fresh from one's own garden that have been cared for by members of the family, are much more appreciated than those that are bought in the market and are often wilted and unpalatable.

Spinach.—This is one of our valuable spring greens, called the broom of the blood because it contains valuable mineral matters which are especially valuable in the spring to purify the blood. Cook it in the water that clings to the leaves after washing if you want to retain all of the mineral salts. Pouring off the water from the vegetables after cooking wastes the mineral matters largely as they are soluble in water.

Don't imagine because so many women say so, that soup meat is not nourishing. Soup meat has lost its chief charms, the delicate extractive and flavor which appeal to the taste and smell, but the food is all there and with a little care in seasoning a most delicious meat loaf will result. Add a clove of garlic to a pint of chopped meat, one small onion, a dash or two of red pepper a little poultry dressing with salt, mold into a loaf and press. Serve either hot or cold.

In soup making the addition of vegetables makes a soup much more nourishing than those without, as the vegetable acids, mineral water and the recently discovered substances which are so important to growth called "growth determinant" are all invaluable as food. Any small bits of vegetables may be used as soup flavor and at the same time provide those elements so necessary to the body processes.

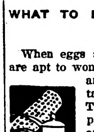
Gipsy Stew.—Cook together a few new potatoes, new carrots, peas and onions, add three or four slices of crisply cooked bacon broken in bits or a little salt pork cut in cubes and browned, add a little hot milk and serve as a chowder with crackers or as a vegetable.

Swedish Rye Bread.—Add to a quart of hot milk a tablespoonful of salt and three-quarters of a cupful of sugar. Add a softened yeast cake, beat well and stir in a quart of wheat flour and a quart of rye, mix well and set to rise. When light, add another quart each of wheat and rye and a little more sugar; knead well and make into six or seven small loaves. If a bread-mixer is used it will be easier to knead as the rye is hard to handle.

If all the world's a stage, a lot of us need more rehearsals.

This would be a much different world if we were all as free with assistance as we are with advice.

WHAT TO EAT IN PLACE OF MEAT.



When eggs are very expensive we are apt to wonder what there is good and wholesome that will take the place of meat. The fuel value of food depends largely upon the amount of fat it contains. When cream, butter milk and olive oil are used freely there is less desire for the fat of meats. Such oils as are extractions of seeds and nuts are more and more common on the market and may be found after fair trial to be worth consideration. The distinctive flavors which have been the only objection to them are gradually being eliminated by greater care in their preparation. There are those who have become accustomed to the flavor by frequent use.

Olive oil is a valuable food much recommended by dieteticians. A salad dressed with oil and served with a cracker or two, with a piece of cheese and a cup of cocoa will supply all the nutriment needed for an ordinary luncheon.

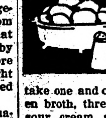
The value of soups, unless cream or purees, is rather overestimated, as the food value of a strong broth which is ninety-five per cent water, even tasting good, is not very great. Soups serve a valuable purpose in stimulating the flow of gastric juices to meet the heavy dinner which follows.

Cheese in combination with rice or macaroni will take the place of meat at luncheon or even a dinner. Crackers dusted with cheese and served with the salad add much food value to the meal. Cheese must not be looked upon only as a relish and we need to give it larger place in our menus.

Pie and doughnuts, contrary to the usual idea, are most nourishing foods for those who work in the open, for picnic lunches. A healthy body will take care of such food with no trouble. Nuts, beans and vegetables served with cream sauces are all foods which will supply all the needed nitrogen without meat.

It is easy enough to be present
When everyone's singing a song,
But the diner worth while
Is the one who will smile
And will stay when your speech is too long.

SOMETHING FOR DINNER.



Cut a chicken or fowl as for fricassee and cook slowly until tender. Salt when nearly done. Remove to a platter on which is spread crisp buttered toast or baking powder biscuits, split or broken in halves. Pour over the following sour cream gravy: take one and one-half cupfuls of chicken broth, three-fourths of a cupful of sour cream and two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour creamed together. Cook the flour, butter and broth together until smooth, add seasonings and the sour cream, not allowing it to boil as the cream will separate.

Vegetable Curry.—Fry one large onion in two tablespoonfuls of butter until yellow add to this a cupful of boiling water, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and a half teaspoonful of curry powder, cook for five minutes, then add a pint of green peas, a cupful of diced turnips, two cupfuls of potatoes and a half cupful of shredded carrots, all previously cooked. Let stand ten minutes to season and serve very hot. Nice with lamb.

Batter Graham Bread.—At night make a batter of a quart of tepid water, a teaspoonful of salt and about three cupfuls of graham flour, with a yeast cake dissolved in a fourth of a cupful of warm water. Cover closely and let rise. In the morning add a cupful of sugar and enough graham flour to make the dough so stiff that it may be lifted with the hand. Butter pound-sized coffee cans, and fill half full, let rise until three-quarters full and bake an hour in a slow oven.

Asparagus Soup.—Remove the tender tips from a bunch of asparagus and cook in boiling water until tender. Cut the stalks in small pieces and add them to three cupfuls of well seasoned veal or chicken stock, together with a bay leaf, three tablespoonfuls of rice, one tablespoonful each of minced onion, and parsley which should be friend in butter; simmer 30 minutes. Rub through a sieve, add a half cupful of cream, season with salt and pepper and pour onto a well beaten egg yolk. Serve the tips as a garnish.

Would Have Doctors Exempted.

Many members of the medical profession are indignant at the fact that medical students have not been exempted from military service under the compulsory-service bill, although theological students have been exempted. The need for a supply of physicians, of course, will be increased by the war, which will take many of them to the front. Keeping enough doctors at home to take care of the civil population is one of the perplexing questions faced by the council of national defense. Also, the number of students in this country has been reduced in recent years by the strict standards imposed upon schools, which has put many of them out of business and increased the length of time required for a physician to qualify for practice.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply on the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

At little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound, and dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding skin. Just think! You can lift off your corns and calluses now without a bit of pain or soreness. If your druggist hasn't freezone he can easily get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat
The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by helping her raise immense wheat crops.
You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.
Mixed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.
There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

HOW SHALL WE PAY FOR THE WAR?

A Constructive Criticism on the House Revenue Bill.

LOANS BETTER THAN TAXES

Five Reasons Why Excessive Taxes at the Outset of War Are Disadvantageous—Great Britain Example Worthy of Emulation—How the Taxes Should Be Apportioned.

By EDWIN R. A. SELIGMAN,
McVickar Professor of Political Economy, Columbia University.

On May 23, 1917, the House of Representatives passed an act "to provide revenue to defray war expenses and for other purposes." In the original bill as presented by the Committee of Ways and Means, the additional revenue to be derived was estimated at $1,810,420,000. The amendment to the income tax, which was tacked on to the bill during the discussion in the House, was expected to yield another $40,000,000 or $50,000,000.

In discussing the House bill, two problems arise:

I. How much should be raised by taxation?

II. In what manner should this sum be raised?

I. How Much Should Be Raised by Taxation?

How was the figure of $1,800,000,000 arrived at? The answer is simple. When the Secretary of the Treasury came to estimate the additional war expenses for the year 1917-18, he calculated that they would amount to some $6,000,000,000, of which $3,000,000,000 was to be allotted to the allies, and $3,000,000,000 was to be utilized for the domestic purposes. Thinking that it would be a fair proposition to divide this latter sum between loans and taxes, he concluded that the amount to be raised by taxes was $1,800,000,000.

There are two extreme theories, each of which may be dismissed with scant courtesy. The one is that all war expenditures should be defrayed by loans, and the other is that all war expenditures should be defrayed by taxes. Each theory is untenable.

It is indeed true that the burdens of the war should be borne by the present rather than the future generation; but this does not mean that they should be borne by this year's taxation.

Meeting all war expenses by taxation makes the taxpayers in one or two years bear the burden of benefits that ought to be distributed at least over a decade within the same generation.

In the second place, when expenditures approach the gigantic sums of present-day warfare, the tax-only policy would require more than the total surplus of social income. Were this absolutely necessary, the ensuing havoc in the economic life of the community would have to be endured. But where the disasters are so great and at the same time so unnecessary, the tax-only policy may be declared impracticable.

Secretary McAdoo had the right instinct and highly commendable courage in deciding that a substantial portion, at least, of the revenues should be derived from taxation. But when he hit upon the plan of 50-50 per cent., that is, of raising one-half of all domestic war expenditures by taxes, the question arises whether he did not go too far.

The relative proportion of loans to taxes is after all a purely business proposition. Not to rely to a large extent on loans at the outset of a war is a mistake.

Disadvantages of Excessive Taxes.

The disadvantages of excessive taxes at the outset of the war are as follows:

1. Excessive taxes on consumption will cause popular resentment.

2. Excessive taxes on industry will disarrange business, damp enthusiasm and restrict the spirit of enterprise at the very time when the opposite is needed.

3. Excessive taxes on incomes will deplete the surplus available for investments and interfere with the placing of the enormous loans which will be necessary in any event.

4. Excessive taxes on wealth will cause a serious diminution of the incomes which are at present largely drawn upon for the support of educational and philanthropic enterprises. Moreover, these sources of support would be dried up precisely at the time when the need would be greatest.

5. Excessive taxation at the outset of the war will reduce the elasticity available for the increasing demands that are soon to come.

Great Britain's Policy.

Take Great Britain as an example. During the first year of the war she increased taxes only slightly, in order to keep industries going at top notch. During the second year she raised by new taxes only 0 per cent. of her war expenditures. During the third year she levied by additional taxes (over and above the pre-war level) only slightly more than 17 per cent. of her war expenses.

If we should attempt to do as much in the first year of the war as Great Britain did in the third year it would suffice to raise by taxation $1,250,000,000. If, in order to be absolutely on the safe side, it seemed advisable to increase the sum to $1,500,000,000, this should, in our opinion, be the maximum.

In considering the apportionment of the extraordinary burden of taxes in war times certain scientific principles are definitely established:

How Taxes Should Be Apportioned.

(1) The burden of taxes must be spread as far as possible over the whole community so as to cause each individual to share in the sacrifices according to his ability to pay and according to his share in the Government.

(2) Taxes on consumption, which are necessarily borne by the community at large, should be imposed as far as possible on articles of quasi-luxury rather than on those of necessity.

(3) Excises should be imposed as far as possible upon commodities in the hands of the final consumer rather than upon the articles which serve primarily as raw material for further production.

(4) Taxes upon business should be imposed as far as possible upon net earnings rather than upon gross receipts or capital invested.

(5) Taxes upon income which will necessarily be severe should be both differentiated and graduated. That is, there should be a distinction between earned and unearned incomes and there should be a higher rate upon the larger incomes. It is essential, however, not to make the income rate so excessive as to lead to evasion, administrative difficulties, or to the more fundamental objections which have been urged above.

(6) The excess profits which are due to the war constitute the most obvious and reasonable source of revenue during war times. But the principle upon which these war-profit taxes are laid must be equitable in theory and easily calculable in practice.

The Proposed Income Tax.

The additional income tax as passed by the House runs up to a rate of 60 per cent. This is a sum unheard of in the history of civilized society. It must be remembered that it was only after the first year of the war that Great Britain increased her income tax to the maximum of 34 per cent., and that even now in the fourth year of the war the income tax does not exceed 42½ per cent.

It could easily be shown that a tax with rates on moderate incomes substantially less than in Great Britain, and on the larger incomes about as high, would yield only slightly less than the $532,000,000 originally estimated in the House bill.

It is to be hoped that the Senate will reduce the total rate on the highest incomes to 34 per cent, or at most to 40 per cent, and that at the same time it will reduce the rate on the smaller incomes derived from personal or professional earnings.

If the war continues we shall have to depend more and more upon the income tax. By imposing excessive rates now we are not only endangering the future, but are inviting all manner of difficulties which even Great Britain has been able to escape.

Conclusion.

The House bill contains other fundamental defects which may be summed up as follows:

(1) It pursues an erroneous principle in imposing retroactive taxes.

(2) It selects an unjust and unworkable criterion for the excess-profits tax.

(3) It proceeds to an unheard-of height in the income tax.

(4) It imposes unwarranted burdens upon the consumption of the community.

(5) It is calculated to throw business into confusion by levying taxes on gross receipts instead of upon commodities.

(6) It fails to make a proper use of stamp taxes.

(7) It follows an unscientific system in its flat rate on imports.

(8) It includes a multiplicity of petty and unlucrative taxes, the vexatiousness of which is out of all proportion to the revenue they produce.

* * *

The fundamental lines on which the House bill should be modified are summed up herewith:

(1) The amount of new taxation should be limited to $1,250,000,000—or at the outset to $1,100,000,000. To do more than this would be an unwise as it is unnecessary. To do even this would be to do more than has ever been done by any civilized Government in time of stress.

(2) The excess-profits tax based upon a sound system ought to yield about $500,000,000.

(3) The income-tax schedule ought to be revised with a lowering of the rates on earned incomes below $10,000, and with an analogous lowering of the rates on the higher incomes, so as not to exceed 34 per cent. A careful calculation shows that an income tax of this kind would yield some $450,000,000 additional.

(4) The tax on whisky and tobacco ought to remain approximately as it is, with a yield of about $250,000,000.

These three taxes, together with the stamp tax at even the low rate of the House bill, and with an improved automobile tax, will yield over $1,250,000,000, which is the amount of money thought desirable.

The above program would be in harmony with an approved scientific system. It will do away with almost all of the complaints that are being urged against the present. It will refrain from taxing the consumption of the poor.

It will throw a far heavier burden upon the rich, but will not go to the extremes of confiscation. It will obviate interference with business and will keep unimpaired the social productivity of the community.

It will establish a just balance between loans and taxes and will not succumb to the danger of approaching either the tax-only policy or the loan-only policy. Above all, it will keep an undisturbed elastic margin, which must be more and more heavily drawn upon as the war proceeds.

TERMS USED IN FEEDING

Scientific Nomenclature Reduced to Every-Day Meanings.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Stockfood consists briefly of three chief parts or compounds, omitting the water and minerals. They are:

Protein (containing nitrogen), a muscle former.

Fat (not containing nitrogen), a fuel or fattening substance.

Carbohydrates (meaning made of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen).

These three substances are called organic matter, because they will burn.

Mineral matter is called inorganic. An animal can live on protein alone, but would not under normal conditions, because protein (or albumen) is only found mixed with fat in the case of meat and with fat and carbohydrates in the case of plants and cereals. Familiar examples of protein are white of egg, lean meat and the gluten which can be chewed out of wheat. Fat or oil we all know.

Carbohydrates include sugar, starch, cellulose, fibre, gums, etc.

To keep alive and not lose weight an animal must have small amounts of protein and larger amounts of fat or carbohydrates. They serve as building material to replace worn-out tissue and flesh and also to furnish power (energy) to move, work, and do all the inside work of the body.

The ash or mineral matter furnishes bone material and is also necessary but abundant in nature. A growing animal needs plenty of protein and ash (bone food) and of carbohydrates and fat. A grown-up animal needs less of either the first two, but plenty of the last two. A pregnant animal needs plenty of food for its unborn young.

BUYING FEED INGREDIENTS

Difficult to Buy Proper Feed Stuffs at Random.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

There are not a dozen feed stores in the country that carry in stock all the ingredients of a first-class mixed feed at all times and at reasonable prices, and usually they do not carry feeds of the same high quality used by the mixers who work scientifically through a laboratory. This is human nature. Competition compels a dealer to sell the cheapest quality. The best quality of feed is seldom carried, because the average buyer will not pay the highest price. A good many experiment stations in a general way will advocate that a farmer mix all his own feed, but they are human like the rest of us and they will use recognized brands in their own feeding operations rather than go to the trouble and take the time to follow their own advice.

There are a good many herds at experiment stations which are kept as sort of a clinic for professors to practice theories upon. The poor brutes are used a good deal as guinea pigs in hospital practice. On the other hand, at the experiment stations are to be found many of the finest animals ever bred.

The mixed feeds of the first grade can be fed alone or in connection with home-grown corn, oats or barley. To do this widens your ration, and it is correct to do so if it will reduce your cost of feeding. Mixed feeds, therefore, are largely a matter of arithmetic.

You can usually get the result for less money than by feeding more expensive grains separately.

THE MANURIAL INGREDIENTS OF FEEDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Nitrogen is the most important and most valuable fertilizing element supplied by feeds, and it is in this element that they show the greatest variation.

The Connecticut Experiment Station states that it was found that the average mixed fertilizer contained 2.95 per cent nitrogen and showed in a table that eighteen of fifty-two different feeds contained 3.23 per cent. Among this list is cottonseed and linseed meals, gluten seed, middlings, brewers' and distillers' products and a few of the feed mixtures. It is obvious, therefore, that a wise selection of feeds enhances the value of the manure and consequently plays an important part in farm economy.

BARLEY PRODUCTS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Prof. J. P. Street, in the Annual Report of the Connecticut Agricultural Station for 1912, says: "That malt sprouts should receive more consideration from dairymen, especially in comparison with many of the proprietary mixed feeds containing only from one-third to one-half as much protein as malt sprouts, prices being considered."

He also states that dried brewers' grains, prices considered, in connection with the feed's high analysis, is one of the cheapest high-grade feeds on the market.

WHAT'S IN A MIXED FEED?

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A high-grade mixed feed suitable for any kind or breed of dairy cow should have high protein content, with an exact digestible analysis. It can be mixed with corn, oats, barley, hay or other forage, which should be grown upon the farm, provided the mixture would save the farmer any money. As a rule, the ingredients of the highest grades are corn, distillers' grains, gluten feed, cottonseed meal, hominy meal, malt sprouts, brewers' grains, linseed meal, pure wheat bran and salt. The best grades contain no cheap fillers of any kind and so the food is highly concentrated and roughage can be supplied at home.

Finest Dates Grow There.

Beyond the land of the Berbers, in the far south of Morocco, lies the great oasis of Tafilet, famous for its vast groves of date-palms. Here, for hundreds of square miles, the land is covered with a thick growth of the tall, straight stems of the palm, and the product of these close-growing trees is enormous in quantity. They produce the finest dates in the world.

GREATEST OF WAR LOANS.

More than two and one-half times as many persons answered the call of the Liberty loan as responded to Germany's first war loan of 4,460,000,000 marks, approximately 1,061,490,000 dollars. The first German loan was floated in September, 1914, when victory seemed certain. The subscribers to this loan numbered 1,177,233.

Great Britain's first loan was 458,147,702 pounds sterling, approximately $2,229,575,792. It was taken by 100,000 subscribers or less than 4 per cent of the number that subscribed to America's first war loan.

Measured by the standard of total subscribers, the Liberty loan stands in a class by itself as a nation's first war offering.

NOTE TO CARRANZA SENT AS RESULT OF NEW HIGH OIL TAX

FIRM REPRESENTATIONS AGAINST ADVANCES IN TAMPICO OIL FIELDS MADE BY AMERICAN GOVERNMENT.

KAISER'S AGENTS BUSY IN GULF COAST REGION

Teuton Consul in Tuxpan District Stirring Up Trouble—Great Britain Understood to Have Seconded Representations—Tone of Note Is Firm.

Washington, June 26.—Firm but friendly representations to Mexico against new high taxes in the Tampico oil fields and other representations against the so-called "denationalization" of foreign companies, have been made to the Carranza government by the United States government, it has been learned.

Great Britain is understood to have seconded the representations against the oil taxes, though whether she took the course of sending the note to Carranza is not known.

Would Fill Mexican Treasury.

The taxation representations, entirely friendly in tone, but quite insistent upon a change, seek to lower taxes which many oil men now regard as almost confiscatory.

The other representations are directed against the Carranza decree compelling all foreign companies to operate under a Mexican charter, thus taking them out from under the protection of their own guns.

Carranza's position is known to be that the oil taxes will furnish considerable money to run his government; but the American and British governments hold that with their large drafts of oil for navy and air service they are entitled to a greater consideration than has thus far been shown them.

German Agents Busy.

The new tax law goes into effect July 10. Foreign operators, including Americans, will probably pay their taxes under protest, relying on the hope and belief that General Carranza will make modifications.

Agents of the kaiser have been busy plotting to bring on complications all through the oil region of the Gulf coast.

Unknown to Carranza, it was learned the German consul in the Tuxpan district has been stirring up trouble.

Effort to Have Reserve Opened.

Some disturbances have occurred, but these have not been sufficient to cause any particular alarm in government circles. Oil has been coming out freely at the rate of hundreds of thousands of barrels a day. Meantime there is an effort on the part of some government authorities to have California oil reserves opened up to meet increasing needs for crude oil.

The navy maintains its reserve should be kept intact; the interior department feels that America's needs at present, especially for her proposed airplane fleet, are such that freeing of supplies would be advisable.

OFFICIAL COUNT SHOWS 9,569,382 REGISTERED

Final Returns Made Public—Enrollment 96% of Estimate—Shortage Offset by Enlistments.

Washington, June 26.—Official war registration returns with Niagara county, New York, and three Wyoming precincts missing, made public, show a total enrolment of 9,569,382, or approximately 96 per cent of the census bureau's estimate. The apparent shortage is more than offset by the number of men in the army and navy who were not required to register.

Of the registrants reported 7,347,794 are white citizens; 953,890 colored; 123,865 aliens from countries other than Germany; 111,823 unnaturalized Germans, including those who have taken out first papers; and 6,001 Indians.

GREEK CABINET QUITS; VENIZELOS MAY ACT

Athens, June 26.—The entire Zaimis ministry has resigned. It was reported that Elutheros Venizelos, former premier and president of the provisional Greek government, now en route here, would probably be named by King Alexander as the head of a new cabinet.

On Trial for Alleged Gold Theft.

Cheyenne, Wyo., June 26.—Antonio Cuaz and 17 other men, accused of conspiracy to defraud the United States government through the sale to mints and assay offices of several hundred thousand dollars worth of gold alleged to have been stolen from mines in the Cripple Creek, Col., district, went on trial in United States district court here. The conspiracy is alleged to have extended over several years and to have had ramifications in many states east and west. Cuaz was arrested in San Francisco.

What's Doing in Minnesota

Rochester.—The fifty-second annual convention of the Universalist churches of Minnesota has just been held here.

Twenty-eight members attended the quarterly meeting of the Red River Valley Medical association at Thief River Falls.

More than 3,000 gathered in the Dodge Center park for the forty-first annual program of the Dodge County Old Settlers' association.

Patrick Hammel, of Duluth, has won his fight to establish a claim to partnership in Cuyuna range from lands valued at $5,000,000.

Henry Slade Goff, educator, author, poet, soldier and pioneer of the northwest, is dead at his home in Minneapolis. He was 75 years old.

Twenty-five vacancies in the Sixth enlisted engineers' regiment, now in training at Detroit, Mich., are being held open for recruits from St. Paul.

Winona.—The state convention of Elks opened here June 21 and brought 2,000 or more visitors. The city has taken on its gala attire. Flags are draped in the business district.

An unfavorable report has been submitted to the House by the Secretary of War and chief of engineers upon the proposed drainage project of Traverse and Big Stone lakes.

St. Paul.—The Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission has continued until July 5 further hearings on the application of Minnesota railroads for a 15 per cent horizontal increase in intrastate freight rates.

St. Paul.—Governor Burnquist has re-appointed William F. Houk, commissioner of labor. The appointment is for two years. Houk was first appointed by Governor Eberhart in 1911 and has served continuously since.

The bodies of the two young men and two young women who were drowned when a launch in which they were returning from an outing down river struck a submerged piling, have been found two miles below the city.

St. Paul.—A warning has been issued to manufacturers and licensed dealers in intoxicants to see that the state laws are observed with regard to selling liquor. A "bone dry" order is threatened if the warning is disregarded.

St. Paul.—The state supply of automobile license tags is again exhausted, Secretary of State Schmahl announces. Special certificates are being issued to license applicants to protect them against arrest for failure to display licenses.

The annual meeting of the veterans of the St. Paul railroad, of this division, known in 1864 as the Central Minnesota and McGregor Western railroad, has just been held in Austin, thirty-three of those who were in the service, 1864 and 1870, attending.

Twenty farm superintendents and gardeners from fifteen state institutions attended a semi-annual convention at Fairmont. Demonstrations in soil tests and spraying of plants to rid them of disease and parasites were featured. Prof. R. S. McIntosh lectured at the state school for the feeble-minded.

Winona.—Roadmaster G. H. Clayton probably saved the lives of several score of passengers on the North Western railroad when he drove his gasoline speeder over a device that derailed the machine and caused minor injuries. Clayton's car was demolished but he escaped without broken bones.

Virginia. — A general Industrial Workers of the World strike of Mesaba iron range miners was threatened in an appeal "to workers in the iron industry," made in circulars. The miners are urged to prepare for a walkout, and to demand that the imprisoned "fellow workers," who are slackers, be released.

Deer River.—Fighting interference by government authorities in their medicine dance, which they hold a religious rite and unobjectionable to even the white brother, a delegation of Indians, representing about 1,000 Chippewas on the Red Lake reservation, have appealed to Governor Burnquist to use his influence at Washington in their behalf.

The American flag predominated in the annual parade of Minnesota Elks, the crowning feature of the order's annual convention in Winona. There was little of the ludicrous that heretofore has characterized the annual pageant. Two companies of national guard, five bands, two drum corps and 1,000 members of the order participated. Every Elks lodge in Minnesota is represented at the convention.

St. Paul.—The Minnesota Public Safety Commission has asked permission of T. W. Gregory, United States attorney general, to erect a stockade at Fort Snelling in which to confine the registration slackers. The message to Attorney General Gregory advised him that the St. Louis county jail is now overcrowded with draft slackers. More than 200 men are being held and more than 100 additional arrests are anticipated.

Waseca.—Colonel W. J. Murphy, commanding officer of the new Second Minnesota Field artillery, told members of the Waseca Commercial club that this city probably will get one of the three new batteries to be organized in the southern part of the state.

A. C. Gooding, of Rochester, former state treasurer, has been elected president of the Minnesota Bankers' association, succeeding Henry von der Weyer, of the Merchants National bank, St. Paul. The bankers were the guests of the St. Paul bankers on a steamboat excursion down the river.

The State Public Safety commission has passed a resolution calling upon police officers of the state to enforce 1917 laws against criminal syndicalism and interference with military enlistment.

The commission issued a statement to the effect that it apprehends no recurrence of last summer's trouble on the Iron Range.

Wood Checks Guard Accounts.

What was believed to be a hopeless attempt to find missing property, valued at between $38,000 and $50,000 and unaccounted for in Minnesota national guard records, has been begun by Adjutant General Fred B. Wood, following a conference with Governor Burnquist, Captain W. F. Rhinow, military secretary to the Governor, and Major H. L. Brady, Federal property and disbursing officer, and custodian for the government of Minnesota national guard property.

Approximately $48,000 of unpaid 1916 bills are outstanding against the guard in addition to the unaccounted military property, it is reported.

"It is hard to see how General Wood can do much," Major Brady said. "He is short on property and it is up to him to find out where the shortages exist and where the property now is.

"But he does not know where he can find the property and probably no one else does."

Demands by Governor Burnquist and the chief of the Federal militia bureau for an immediate accounting started General Wood in the work of checking over lists. He refused to make any statement.

FARMS THE SOURCE OF WEALTH

Careful Tillage, Good Management and a Beneficent Soil.

Reading the reports of the managers of the chartered banks in Canada, one is struck by the wonderful showing that they have made during the past two or three years. They are careful in their statements, and while they attribute the success that they have met with, together with that which has followed other lines of business, they are careful to emphasize the fact that the condition of big business may not continue. On the other hand, they point out that the material and fundamental source of wealth is the farm. While other lines of business may have their setbacks, and while care and scrupulous care, will have to be exercised to keep an even balance, there is but little risk to the farmer who on economic and studied lines will carry on his branch of industry and endeavor to produce what the world wants not only today, but for a long distance into the future, with a greater demand than ever in the past.

Speaking recently before a Canadian bank board at its annual meeting, the vice president, once a farmer himself, said:

"The farm is the chief source of wealth. We have now three transcontinental railways with branches running through thousands of miles of the very best undeveloped agricultural land in the world. In the natural course of things, these must attract immigration. The products of the farm are now commanding the highest prices ever known, and in my opinion even after the end of the war, high prices for foodstuffs must continue to prevail. With the mechanical appliances now available for farm work, the farmer needs no considerable supply of extra capital, but should be helped to the extent needed upon good security. The food supply of the world is short, the demand is likely to increase rather than decrease. Development of mines, extension of factories and the reconstruction of devastated Europe must all call for supplies for the workers. On the whole, the farmer has been helped rather than hurt by the war, and will continue to be, at least for a long time to come."

Many men of authority and intelligence support what the vice president has said, and their statements are borne out by the facts that readily present themselves. The different grain-producing countries of Europe have been robbed of the man power that developed their agriculture, the farms have been devastated and laid waste. Full and complete reliance will have to be placed on the United States and Canada, and from what we see today, it will take the combined forces of these two countries to come anywhere near meeting the cry that will go out for food. The warnings and appeals sent out by the heads of these two countries are none too soon nor too urgent. Therefore, it becomes necessary for those who can produce to exert themselves. Secure land, rent it, buy it. Get it somewhere, some way, and have it operated. The Canadian Government, sending out its appeal, is not selfish in this matter. Thousands of acres in the United States await the tiller's efforts, and none of it should be idle. Canada, too, offers wonderful advantages, with its free lands and its low-priced lands, to those desirous of helping the nation, and improving their own condition at the same time. Many are taking advantage of this wonderful opportunity.—Advertisement.

Caesar Rodney's Ride

By Richard J. Beamish

HOW the historians and romanticists have missed the true and dramatic story of Caesar Rodney's ride is one of the mysteries which surround the Declaration of Independence.

Pennsylvania and South Carolina had voted against independence. New York held aloof because her delegates had not received instructions from the assembly. Congress was in turmoil, the army panic-stricken, the sentiment for submission to Great Britain growing hourly in all the colonies. It was necessary that all the colonies should vote in the affirmative if independence was to be proclaimed, as the defection of anyone in the federation would mean division and inevitable defeat.

In the vote that was taken in the State House (now Independence Hall) on July 1, Delaware's vote was not cast, there being but two of the three delegates present. Thomas McKean voted for freedom, and George Reed against it. Caesar Rodney was ill at his home with a cancer that had attacked his face to such an extent that he was compelled to wear a veil to conceal the fearful ravages of the disease.

McKean shrewdly calculating that if Delaware's vote was cast for independence on the following day, Pennsylvania and South Carolina might be induced to change their votes, sent a horseman to Rodney and arranged relays of horses to bring the sick man to Philadelphia.

In spite of the terrific heat, the urging of relatives and the commands of a nurse and physician, who warned him that the ride might mean his death, the patriotic Delawarean set out for Philadelphia. There with his remaining strength Rodney cast the vote of Delaware for American independence. Edward Rutledge of South Carolina thereupon was deeply moved and changed the vote of his colony. After a stormy scene the Pennsylvania delegates opposed to independence left the chamber, and the patriotic faction, with Franklin at its head, promptly cast the colony's vote for freedom.

Rodney rallied from the strain of his ride and died at Byfield a few years later in his forty-sixth year.

TEACHERS, tell us of Rodney, Rodney of Delaware!
Some of you start and stammer. Others stand mute and stare.
Put up your sums and fables. Listen that you may hear
The gallop of Caesar Rodney with Death always riding near.

Heat, like a thick, black blanket, closely on Byfield lay.
It harried the flesh and spirit of him who waited for day,

His fevered eyes watched the candle that blinked like a far-off star.
They looked from a face upon which all the grace was hid by a cruel scar.

Out of the heat and blackness clamors a-trooping came,
Barking of dogs and a thunder of knocks on a door's stout frame.
Sternly a nurse hissed, "Silence!" and then came a stranger's call:
"McKean bids you ride. I will be at your side. Come quickly or freedom will fall."

"He'll die on the way," shrilled a servant, but Rodney was out of his bed.
"Boots, horses and spurs," he commanded; "and the veiling to cover my head."
"Horses are posted to meet you," the voice in the doorway said.
"It is well. I am ready." The weak voice was steady. "I will vote or you'll bear me there dead."

It's seventy miles to the State House in the city of William Penn.
Seventy miles of torture, to forward the freedom of men.
For some in the Congress were Tories and others too timid to dare,
So Rodney must ride that his vote might decide the ballot of Delaware.

Neck by neck through old Dover they galloped, and Rodney bent low to his task.
It was gray in the East when he tarried to cover his face with the mask.

A woman screamed loud at the vision, but Rodney was riding again,
Though, beneath him, the back of his horse was a rack to torture the bravest of men.

Great weariness came upon Rodney. He galloped as one in a dream;
But lightning-like pains broke his trances as rocks break a mountain stream.
Somewhere, in the misty morning, his comrade faltered and fell.
Thence rode at his side, with a long silent stride, a Shape that Rodney knew well.

The tropical heat-haze closed round him, the Veiled and the wraith at his side,
At inns and by-lanes he changed horses, then, on with the furious ride.
Weakness at last made him falter. He fed and then slumbered awhile.
But the will was so strong that the rest was not long, for the goal still lay many a mile.

And then he came into the city, the half-Tory town of Penn.
Down Passyunk Road he galloped, past wondering women and men.
His veil streamed, a pennon of Freedom, and his limbs hung like bags of sand;
But the horse he bestrode knew the turns of the road and needed no guiding hand.

So to the State House came Rodney, merely the shell of a man.
There McKean met and bore him as gently as only a sturdy friend can.

Steadied him in the chamber, and gloried to hear him declare:
"For the right to be free, and to end tyranny, we vote aye, for our Delaware."

You know the rest of the story, you teachers who teach by rote,
How prudent South Carolina announced the change of its vote;
How Pennsylvania also veered round in Freedom's gale;
How the Thirteen broke from their necks the yoke, and a nation came through travail.

Paint us a noble portrait, Story or Sargent or Chase.
One of the missing Signers Show us an eager face.
Glorified through its veiling, and we will uplift it where
He ended his ride with Death by his side, brave Rodney of Delaware.

INDEPENDENCE DAY IN 1835

Revolutionary Officers and Soldiers Still Living and Taking Part in the Celebrations.

(From Files of New Hampshire Telegraph, Nashua, N. H., 1835.)

Revolutionary Soldiers: —The committee of arrangements for the celebration of the Fourth of July respectfully invite all the remaining officers and soldiers of the Revolution in this and the neighboring towns to join the citizens in celebrating the anniversary of our national independence on Saturday the Fourth of July next. They are requested to meet at the Washington house on the morning of said day.—Issue, June 22, 1835.

The presentation of a standard by the ladies of this community to the Nashua guards will add much to the interest of the coming celebration of the Fourth. We anticipate for those who take part an excellent and highly interesting celebration.

Its coming was welcomed with appropriate manifestations of joy and rejoicing through the medium of bells and cannon. The procession formed under direction of Capt. Thomas G. Buck, as chief marshal, with able assistants, at half-past ten on the green, near Tyler's Coffee house, and proceeded under escort of the Nashua guards commanded by Capt. Daniel M. Fisk, to the Oval, where the standard was presented by Miss Ann G. Smith, assisted by Misses Belinda Gibson and Sarah Knowlton, her aids. It was accepted by Ensign Sheldon.

Procession then moved to Rev. Mr. Nott's church. Order of exercises: 1. Select music, by the choir; 2, prayer by Rev. Mr. Pratt; 3, hymn, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," etc., read by Rev. Mr. Emmons; 4, Declaration of Independence, by B. F. French, Esq.; 5, oration, by Jonathan Lewis Clark; 6, prayer, by Rev. Mr. McGee; 7, music, by the choir; 8, benediction, by Rev. Mr. Mott.

The procession was again formed and proceeded to the Washington house, where a splendid dinner was provided.

Citizenship Imposes Duty

Citizens of a free nation owe a duty, not only to their country and themselves, but to the whole world—to humanity. There is hardly a moment in the life of any man when some sacrifice for liberty and free government is not called for. This is as true in peace as in war. The lesson is being impressed on the national conscience today as it has not been before for many years.

HE PLANTED "RARE FLOWER"

Amateur Gardener Discovered That the Brassica Campestri Was Known to Others as Turnips.

"I am a victim of the 'every-man-his-own gardener,'" said the North Alabama street man. "In my back yard in a space no larger than a tablecloth. I have planted seeds of a dozen kinds of vegetables and will soon be entirely independent of the greengrocer. If the city ordinance were not adverse to practical economy I should finish the meat dealer by keeping a couple of shoats.

"While I was putting in my garden a friend of mine came by and asked why I did not put in something to beautify the front yard. 'Here,' he said, 'are some seeds of the brasica campestris. When these come up you'll have something.'

"'What colored flower has it?' I asked.

"'Yellow,' was the answer.

"So I planted the seeds and they came up promptly.

"A neighbor passing by asked what I had in the bed. I had written the name brassica campestris in my notebook, and spelled it out to him. I told him it was a rare flower with a beautiful yellow blossom.

"'All right,' he said. 'I have some. We call 'em turnips.'

"My kind friend has gone on a trip. When he gets back there'll be something doing."—Indianapolis News.

WAYS OF SUMMER BOARDERS

They Are Usually Very Witty Persons Who Make Comical Remarks to the Farmer.

Summer boarders are people who spend several weeks in the country each summer longing for a trip home. They are usually very witty persons and make comical remarks to the farmer. Aside from the board they pay him the farmer cleans up a tidy sum each summer sending the things his boarders say to the comic weeklies. A summer boarder can merely look at a cow and quick as a wink he will say something funny. The farmer puts this down in a book he always carries around with him. In the course of a couple of weeks he has several pages of good jokes to sell at his own rates, says the Philadelphia Star.

If you board with a farmer this summer say some funny things to him about the cows or the pigs. If he keeps a horse always poke fun at his horse. He will laugh at the funny things you say. Then he will go in and open up a can of fresh country peas out of his own cellar so that when you go back to the city you will miss the country vegetables. When you leave be sure and tell him how you enjoyed the country eating so that he can laugh some more.

Wouldn't Have Him.

"Very handsome typewriter you've hired," commented his aristocratic sister.

"Um."

"I s'pose she'll be marrying you for you money, next."

"No danger, sis. She knows too much about the business."

Many people when granted favors shy at gratitude as if it would bite them.

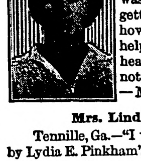
All love messages of the prudent man are of the wireless variety.

A tramp abroad in the morning for your health is worth two at the back door looking for something to eat.

Too Sick To Work

Many Women in this Condition Regain Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Convincing Proof of This Fact.



Ridgway, Penn. — "I suffered from female trouble with backache and pain in my side for over seven months so I could not do any of my work. I was treated by three different doctors and was getting discouraged when my sister-in-law told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her. I decided to try it, and it restored my health, so I now do all of my housework which is not light as I have a little boy three years old." —Mrs. O. M. Rhines, Ridgway, Penn.

Mrs. Lindsey Now Keeps House For Seven.

Tennille, Ga.—"I want to tell you how much I have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About eight years ago I got in such a low state of health I was unable to keep house for three in the family. I had dull, tired, dizzy feelings, cold feet and hands nearly all the time and could scarcely sleep at all. The doctor said I had a severe case of ulceration and without an operation I would always be an invalid, but I told him I wanted to wait awhile. Our druggist advised my husband to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has entirely cured me. Now I keep house for seven and work in the garden some, too. I am so thankful I got this medicine. I feel as though it saved my life and have recommended it to others and they have been benefited".—Mrs. W. E. Lindsey, R. R. 3, Tennille, Ga.

How Animals Feed.

The squirrel carries it food in its mouth by means of its paws, while the elephant uses its trunk. The giraffe, anteater and toad employ their tongues, but spiders masticate their food with horny jaws.

The caterpillar is provided with saw-edged jaws, and uses them so well that every day he consumes at last three times his own weight in food. Toads, turtles and tortoises do not possess teeth.

Frogs have only an upper row of teeth, and lobsters and crabs have a set of teeth in their stomachs. The tiger and lion do not grind their food; as a matter of fact, their teeth only work with an up-and-down movement, much like chopping knives.—Minneapolis Tribune.

The Most Unkindest Cut.

A physician claims to have discovered an explosive so powerful that a five-grain tablet of it would wreck New York's tallest building. All right, doctor! Just pass into that dark room up the corridor of time, third door at your left, and join the chap who discovered that mild green substitute for gasoline that could be manufactured for a cent a gallon.—Providence (R. I.) Evening Bulletin.

"All right; take him a cocktail."

No Quarter for Him.

Mrs. Jones was standing in the doorway talking with old Mr. Ham, a neighbor. They were speaking in uncomplimentary terms about an impostor who had lately passed through the village, swindling right and left.

"He'd better not come around here again!" exclaimed Mrs. Jones indignantly. "If he does, I'll give him no quarter."

"Quarter!" shouted the enraged old man; "quarter! Well, I guess not! I wouldn't give him ten cents!"—Youth's Companion.

DOUBLE DUTY

A Dairy Ration Has Two Main Uses—Life and Product.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A ration is divided into two parts:

1. The part needed to maintain or keep the animal alive.

2. The part needed to make stored up material like wool, fat, meat or milk.

Milk is roughly in solids, one-third each casein (protein), fat and sugar. The casein in milk can only be furnished by the protein in the food. The fat and sugar may be derived from either protein, fat or carbohydrates.

If a cow has the ability to give 50 pounds of milk containing two pounds of casein, and only gets enough protein to make one pound of casein, then she will only give 25 pounds of milk.

A balanced ration is one that has just the exact amount of protein, fat and carbohydrates that the cow needs. Just what this is we cannot ever say exactly, because the amounts vary from week to week and no two cows are alike, nor are feeds alike.

A practical ration is one that has sufficient protein and enough total food to make the greatest amount of milk without the cow losing weight.

A commercially successful ration is the one that makes the most milk or profit, keeps the cow healthy and enables the use of the most roughage.

All the hay and ensilage a cow can eat will keep her alive and make about 15 pounds of milk. Any more milk has to come from grain or grain feed.

The farm can usually raise carbohydrates cheap in the form of hay and ensilage, and, outside of clover, peas, etc., protein can usually be bought cheaper than it can be raised.

The average price of protein feeds with 20 per cent digestible protein was about $25 to $35 per ton before the war, but the prices are much higher now, while hay (clover) with 5½ per cent digestible protein has been rated at $10 per ton, so the protein feed at $40 would furnish protein about the same as clover at $10.

DIFFERENT COWS, DIFFERENT FEEDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

No suggestions that we can offer nor any other formula that can be made can be followed to the letter as a druggist follows the prescription of a physician. Feeds vary in their nutritive values, some being better than the average and some not as good, and cows vary in their ability to digest and transform nutriment. These conditions make it necessary for the feeder to use a good deal of judgment and not follow too blindly the suggestions of others. Any good stock feed is recommended as a base, to be supplemented by home-grown roughage.

CONCENTRATES FOR RATIONS

Taken From an Article by E. S. Savage, Professor of Animal Husbandry, New York College of Agriculture.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A good rule to follow in all rations is to have at least three plants represented in the ration. There are seven factors which should be considered: (1) Bulk, (2) Digestibility, (3) Relation between the digestible protein and carbohydrates and fat, (4) Variety, (5) Suitability of the feeds to the animal and product, (6) Palatability, (7) Cost.

As an example, choosing the cheapest feeds relatively, considering manurial values, suitability and all, we would recommend the following mixture of grains as suitable for dairy cows at present prices:

600 pounds distillers dried grains.
400 pounds gluten feed.
300 pounds wheat bran or brewers dried grains.
400 pounds hominy feed.
300 pounds cottonseed or oil meal.

SALT FOR CATTLE.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Professor Henry says that a cow requires three-quarters of an ounce per day per 1000 lbs. of weight and six-tenths of an ounce per day per 20 lbs. milk. Therefore, a cow which weighs 1200 lbs. and gives 30 lbs. milk should have 1.8 ounce salt. It must be remembered, however, that salt is generally included in high-grade dairy feeds. It is well to give cows access to extra salt. They will take what their roughage demands.

THE PRICE OF FEED.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Feed is handled on a smaller margin than coal, ton for ton. The retail feed dealer who buys in carload lots can sell as cheap as the manufacturer can in less-than-carload lots, the difference in freight rates being the dealer's gross profit. In nearly every instance, a group of farmers can order their feed, through a dealer, in carloads and make a material saving. The difference in freight alone will show a good profit.

Take the chill off the drinking water in cold weather and cows will drink more and produce more.

Don't figure too fine on rations. Be liberal but don't overfeed. You can kill all of your profit by feeding more than the cow can assimilate.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The human element in dairy feed is important. Two men may have the same equipment, one make good money, the other fail, while both are supposed to be feeding by the same system and the same tables.

Horse sense is good cow sense.

FARMER FEED EXPERTS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A farmer who has devoted his lifetime to the study of feeding generally has more success through his common sense methods than any scientific analysis can supply. If such a feeder could have on hand all of the ingredients (most by-products of cereal manufacture), which according to the market at the time would be more economical, he could, through his experience, be very successful in mixing his feeds. But the difficulty with the average man is to maintain an economical ration from the products of his own farm.

He may be an expert, if he chooses to study out a new ration every time the market changes, but he generally prefers to let someone who makes a business of mixing feeds do it for him. No doubt the majority of users of mixed feeds begin to buy it because of a shortage of forage and grain crops on the farm.

If such a man will keep books he will find that as a usual thing the use of mixed stock feed is a mere matter of arithmetic whether he could buy the ingredients cheaper than he could buy them in a so-called "balanced" ration.

MUST TASTE GOOD.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A dairy ration must, of all things, be palatable so that a cow will eat it. It must be bulky and coarse so as to avoid indigestion and sickness. It must contain a variety of foods so that the cow will not tire of it or get off her feed. It must contain enough real protein—all protein is not alike. It must contain the right amounts and kinds of mineral substances necessary to life, health and milk secretion. It must be highly digestible. Many feeds are only about fifty to sixty per cent digestible and the work of excreting so much waste matter is costly in that it uses up the energy of the food to do it.

SUCCESSFUL FEEDING.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

It is most significant and probably the best argument for mixed feeds when it is considered that a large number of the most prominent and skilled men in America have discarded their own mixed feeds and rations because they have found a satisfactory brand of feed which will make as much milk at less cost and no trouble and, above all, keeps cows in perfect health.

Many agricultural schools and experiment stations use and have used them for the same reason.

You can verify this by writing to any experiment station and they will give you the names of mixed brands which are best adapted to your purpose.

FIVE POUNDS OF MILK ON ONE POUND OF GRAIN.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

C. H. Packard, of Delavan, Wisconsin, a progressive and practical dairyman, was not satisfied with his ration of home-grown feed. Although he mixed his ration with brains and it seemed to be theoretically correct, he thought he would try out his own mixture in comparison with a first class dairy feed. Much to his surprise he found that he could save about five lbs. of grain per cow per day and nearly 5 cents per cow. He figured his own grain at prices much below the wholesale market and bought his mixed feed at retail.

Also when his ration was figured according to Armsby or Energy method his mixed feed proved to be the right combination to make a balanced ration with his own farm roughage.

EXPENSIVE PASTURE.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When you stop to consider that an acre of pasture will feed a cow, but that that same acre will raise ten tons of silage during the time the cow is feeding on it, it would seem that a grass cafeteria would be the most expensive way to feed your stock.

MORE FEED, MORE MILK.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Cows of a decided dairy type will return the greatest profit when fed to their full capacity.—Nebraska Experiment Station.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Ordinarily, silage will correct the tendency to costiveness. When it is not sufficiently effective for this purpose, add enough old process oil meal to keep the droppings moderately soft, but not necessarily loose. Usually all that is needed is to increase the allowance of concentrates.

There are always two sides to every question. If the government insists on more bran in flour, bossy will have to turn to still more artificial bran.

Wheat bran is a dear feed. Barley and rye by-products are more economical.

Poverty holds a mortgage on the feeder who can see nothing but the price. Some feeds are as cheap at $50 as other at $25 per ton.

When you buy hay for cows it usually costs more than grain by-products, although it costs half as much per ton.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

It is a fair assumption that any farmer who talks against mixed feeds does not know what a mixed feed ought to be. There is no danger of any man buying a fraudulent feed. The state laws are very stringent on this point and if any man has any doubt as to the value of a feed, all he has to do is to write his State Experiment Station and get the truth.

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline."

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

Mr. American Citizen

Do you realize that the United States Navy is still short many thousands of men to properly man the ships now building to be ready for active war service the latter part of this year?

The Navy needs real men—red blooded Americans who are willing to do their bit for good old U. S. A. as did the men and boys of 1776 and 1861. Are you going to sit tight and "Let George do it" and in the future be ashamed to answer your children and grandchildren when they say "Daddy, what did you do during the great War?," or are you going to be in a position to say to them "Daddy was a Navy Volunteer, fought for this country of ours and helped to make the blessings of Liberty secure for ourselves and our posterity, and also helped save some of the starving mothers and children of Europe." Now is the time for you to step forward and volunteer for the Navy—always found ready when needed by your Uncle Sam. Men of the type of Farragut, Dewey, Lawerence, Perry and Nathan Hale are wanted. There are plenty of them in this county who will "make history" when they finally volunteer. The Northwest has never been found wanting when the Nation needed men. Volunteer now, write or telegraph Navy Recruiting Station, at Minneapolis. Branch stations at St. Paul, St. Cloud, Duluth and at Brainerd, Minn., and Fargo, Grand Forks, Minot and Bismarck, N. D.

Slavery Originated in the East.

Absolute slavery seems to have appeared in the eastern colonies somewhat earlier than in the southern, for slavery existed in New York in 1628, in New Jersey in 1628, in Massachusetts in 1630, in Connecticut in 1631 and in Delaware in 1636. There was a statutory recognition of slavery in Massachusetts in 1641, which was considerably ahead of such recognition of slavery in Virginia or Maryland.

BRAZIL NAVY AIDS AMERICA IN HUNT FOR SEA RAIDERS

BEGINS CO-OPERATING WITH U. S. FLEET IN SOUTH ATLANTIC WATERS—WASHINGTON SENDS ENVOYS.

FORMAL DECLARATION OF WAR HELD DOUBTFUL

Rio de Janeiro Government Inclined to Regard Action as Defensive Only—Argentina May Yet Join Allies, State Department Feels.

Washington, July 2.—Brazil's navy has begun co-operating with the American fleet in South American waters in hunting down German sea raiders and watching for German submarines.

Sending of a special diplomatic mission to Brazil to arrange for greater co-ordination of forces and the closest possible co-operation of the two governments, is under consideration by the United States.

War Not Yet Declared.

Without formal declaration of war, Brazil thus probably has joined the United States against Germany. Coincident with the inauguration of Brazil's naval operations a plan for protecting her merchant ships in their voyages to allied ports with frozen meats and other foodstuffs, has been put into effect.

Whether Brazil will supplement her action by a formal declaration of war is not known here and by some officials such action is regarded as doubtful.

Action Held Defensive.

The government at Rio de Janeiro is inclined to regard its action rather defensive than aggressive.

For the present it is believed Brazil's part will be adequately done if she contributes to the safety of southern seas and to the movement to Europe of foodstuffs.

Brazil's navy is the largest of the South American group and in connection with the American fleet commanded by Admiral Caperton, it is believed the work of keeping the South Atlantic clear of enemy craft will be greatly facilitated.

Won't Patrol Argentine Waters.

It is not the intention of the Brazilian government at present to use its navy in patrolling water off Argentina, but that feature, it is believed, will not weaken materially the scheme of ocean sweeping, since the long field of operations off the coast of Brazil comprises the more important sector of southern operations.

Argentina May Act.

Hope is still felt at the State department that the Argentine government yet may join the war for world democracy. This was indicated by dispatches from Buenos Aires, which say it is regarded by some there as merely a question of time before Argentina will adopt a course similar to that of Brazil.

GOVERNORS CALLED ON TO NAME DRAFT COURTS

Are Warned of Gravity of Task—Farmers, Big Employers and Laborers to Be Represented.

Washington, July 2.—Warning of the gravity of the task, the war department has called upon state governors for their nominations to the upper tribunals that will single out the men for America's new armies. On the boards the farmer, the big employer and the laboring man each will have "a friend at court."

In a letter to each governor Secretary Baker drew attention to the double responsibility that rests upon the boards—to raise armies and at the same time avoid injuring the vital industrial needs of the nation. He declared it was the "most vital problem of the war to strike a balance between military and industrial necessity."

HELD FOR DEATH OF 62 BABIES

Two Men Under Arrest in Missouri—Government Investigates.

St. Louis, July 2.—Two men are under arrest at Kennett, Mo., in connection with the deaths of 62 children from enterocolitis in Scott and Dunklin counties.

The men are held on prohibitive bail, with bond in case bail should be offered subject to approval by government officials in Washington before they can be released, it is said.

Government agents from Washington and St. Louis are said to have gone to Kennett, where they are conducting a rigid investigation.

Have Clue to Murderer of Girl.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 2.—Miss Theola Gerken, of Woonsocket, S. D., who was shot and killed on a street here and her girl chum, Miss Mabel Houlihan, met two young men the night before the murder while on their way home. The four arranged an engagement for the next evening, which the girls did not keep. This information was obtained by the police along with other clues, which they believe will lead to the capture of the murderer. The names of the young men were not revealed.

Plans whereby Minnesota will have a day all her own at Peoria, Ill., fair, September 18 to 29, have been announced by Fred D Sherman, state immigration commissioner. The state's immigration exhibit will be shown at this fair, in competition with those of several other states, for a large silver trophy cup offered for the best state display of crop products.

The American flag predominated in the annual parade of Minnesota Elks, the crowning feature of the order's annual convention in Winona. There was little of the ludicrous that heretofore has characterized the annual pageant. Two companies of national guard, five bands, two drum corps and 1,000 members of the order participated. Every Elks lodge in Minnesota is represented at the convention.

BREAD AS ECONOMICAL FOOD

Would Be Used More Extensively If Home-Baked Variety Was Always Good, Say Government Experts.

If home-baked bread were uniformly well made, it would be used more extensively than at present in place of more expensive foods, say specialists in the United States department of agriculture, and this would be a distinct economy. From the standpoint of nutrition it makes very little difference whether breadstuffs are served in the form of bread or in the form of breakfast cereals, side dishes with meat, or desserts.

A man engaged in moderate muscular work can profitably consume about three-fourths of a pound a day of breadstuffs in any one of these forms. This quantity is the equivalent of one pound of baked bread. As a matter of fact, however, it is not probable that in the average family this quantity is consumed and the deficiency is made up by the use of more expensive substances. Of course bread alone is not sufficient for the maintenance of health, but from both an economical and a hygienic point of view should be used more extensively than it usually is, declare the experts.

War Spirit Contagious.

Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree was more than once placed in a perplexing position by the loss of members of his cast during his tour throughout Canada and the United States. No less than ten members enlisted, including two ladies for service in war hospitals. One humorous incident occurred after the engagement of a "deputy" in the United States. She was not very much interested in the war prior to her appointment, but the talk behind the scenes among the company bore so frequently on the loss of relatives at the front that she felt one night impelled to volunteer as a nurse, was eventually accepted, and her place had to be filled.

WARNS OF DANGER IN PEACE BEFORE ALLIES WIN GOAL

LLOYD GEORGE DECLARES INDEMNITIES TO PREVENT FUTURE WARS ARE ESSENTIAL, IN SPEECH.

PEACE IS POSSIBLE NOW ONLY AT KAISER'S PRICE

British Premier Says Germany Wants Economic and Other Control Over Invaded Nations—Asserts Russia Will Become More Formidable.

Glasgow, June 30.—Peace without victory would constitute the greatest disaster in the history of mankind.

Indemnities constitute an essential part of the mechanism of civilization everywhere and insure future peace.

Mesopotamia can never be restored to the Turks because of their blasting tyranny. The same holds true of Armenia.

Must Fight to End.

The Allies must fight on until they have reached the end they set out to attain when they accepted Germany's challenge to civilization.

These are some of the salient statements made here by Premier Lloyd George in a discussion of questions of peace.

Early Peace a Disaster.

In discussing the question of peace Premier Lloyd George said that if the war should be concluded a single hour before the Allied powers reached the end they set out to attain at the beginning of the war it would be the greatest disaster that ever befell mankind.

"Without indemnities," the prime minister went on, "we have no guarantee against a repetition of events."

For Democracy's Future.

Lloyd George predicted that the Russian revolution would eventually insure "victory of a higher and more exalted nature than any one could have contemplated before — because now free people are fighting for democracy's future."

"Russia will regain her strength with a bound and become mightier and more formidable than ever," Lloyd George asserted. "Although these distractions had the effect of postponing complete victory, they made victory more sure than ever, more complete than ever, and, what is more important, they made surer than ever the quality of victory."

Can Have Peace at Enemy Price.

"No doubt we can have peace now at a price. Germany wants peace—even Prussia desires it. They said: 'Give us some indemnity for the wrongs we have done, just a little territory here and a little there and just a few privileges in other directions and we will clear out.' We are told that if we are prepared to make peace now Germany will restore the independence of Belgium. But who has said so?

"No German statesman has ever said he would restore the independence of Belgium. The German chancellor came very near to it, but all the junkers fell on him and he received a sound box from the mailed fist.

Germany Seeks Control.

"No doubt Germany wants peace," declared the British premier in his speech, "but it is a peace which would give her economic and other control over the countries which she has invaded."

Held for the crime at the police station at his own request is Morris P. Bradford, manual training teacher at the school.

CANADA TO PASS DRAFT BILL

Labor's Threat of Strike Believed Unavailing.

Ottawa, June 30.—Canada's bitterly debated conscription bill is expected to become law, despite the threat in commons from Alphone Verville, Labor member, of a general strike unless the proposed measure is first submitted to the people.

The general feeling is that the bill will pass in the house with from 40 to 60 majority and that it will undoubtedly be carried in the upper house.

Suffragettes Finish Jail Term.

Washington, June 30.—Welcomed by their militant suffrage sisters and hailed as heroines, six White House pickets stepped forth from the district women's prison after doing a "three day bolt." Militants greeted the prisoners and took them to the Cameron house where a suffrage breakfast was served. The women seem almost famished. Thursday they had for breakfast boiled rice, molasses and coffee; Friday, raspberries and cream, creamed eggs, bacon, hot rolls and coffee.

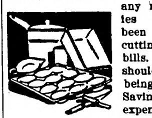
INEXPENSIVE DISHES.

To be popular these days means the ability to use economy and pass on any new discoveries which have been helpful in cutting down food bills. Wisdom should be used in being economical. Saving food at the expense of the health of the family is being "penny wise." For the plump, well-fed individual a meal missed two or three times a week will be found most advantageous, and let that food or its equivalent be given to those who have not food enough.



Butterscotch Pie.—Line a deep plate with pastry and fill with the following mixture: Melt two large tablespoonfuls of butter and a cupful of brown sugar; cook till a rich brown, then add a large cupful of scalded milk. Simmer until the sugar is dissolved and whip in the yolk of an egg which has been stirred with a tablespoonful of cornstarch. Bake until the custard is set and spread with a meringue made from the egg white well beaten and a tablespoonful of powdered sugar. Flavor both filling and meringue with vanilla.

Strawberries Preserved Whole.—Crush two quarts of small berries and simmer gently for 20 minutes, then strain. For a pint of juice allow a pound of sugar. Heat the sugar and add the juice, return to the heat and cook until thick, skimming when necessary. Fill hot glasses with hulled, whole berries, cover with the boiling sirup and put on covers.

Bran Pudding.—To a half-cupful each of bran and whole-wheat flour, add one-half cupful of chopped raisins, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one cupful of milk, one well-beaten egg, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one teaspoonful of grated lemon rind and a half-teaspoonful of salt. Steam two hours and serve with a hot lemon sauce.

Irish Stew.—Cut up and brown in a hot pan a pound of mutton. Add sliced potatoes, onions, carrots, a teaspoonful of flour, salt and pepper to season; cover with a cupful of boiling water and stew gently for two hours. Pile on a dish and serve hot.

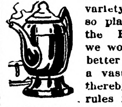
Tomato With Sardines.—Place slices of tomato with two skinned and boned sardines to each slice, arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with French dressing.

Those who will live on white flour exclusively will have various forms of liver and stomach troubles as well as constipation.

"Out of the silence comes thy strength." Try to be calm for a few days, be silent, patiently listen and wait for the strength that is bestowed on all. Begin today.

ECONOMICAL LIVING.

Everybody is trying to be as careful as possible about wasting foods and not serving any great variety. If we could all so plan our lives using the Fletcher methods, we would have infinitely better health and save a vast amount of food thereby. One of the first rules is: 1. Do not eat until you are hungry even if you skip two or three meals. 2. Never eat when you are hurried, worried, unhappy or angry. 3. Consult the appetite before eating and eat just what is demanded at the time. 4. Hold every mouthful of food in the mouth as if it were the last you ever expected to get. Give the entire attention to it, taste it until there is no taste left. Enjoy it for all it is worth. The third rule is the one on which trouble might easily hinge, as those who have appetites have not all trained them to right living.



In discussing rule three with Mr. Fletcher one man said, "Can the indulgence of the animal appetites lead to temperate habits when history shows that they have always, from the beginning of time, led to gluttony? Why, if I followed my appetite, I should never pass a saloon and should always go to bed with my boots on every night." Mr. Fletcher replied, "Suppose you try it and see." The stipulations were that he should surrender without a struggle to everyone of his impulses to eat or drink, the one condition being that he should make sure that the impulse sprang from a physical demand and not a mental craving. He proved that it was a restless mind and not physical appetite that was calling for alcohol. The principle that excess springs not from our natural appetites, but from acquired cravings, teaches us that our natural appetites, rightly observed, understood and interpreted can be trusted to guide us aright. By following this teaching the desire for elaborate and expensive concoctions as well as condiments or liquors will be lost and an appreciation for the delicate and subtle flavors of such food as rice and bread will be developed. This man who advocates the indulgence of the appetite eats but one meal a day, and that is of the simplest foods.

Laugh!
For mirth is next to health,
 When mirth springs up from innocence and fun;
Laugh! 'Tis quite ahead of wealth!
 'Tis joy that knows no pang when once begun!

PRUNE DISHES.

There is no more wholesome fruit than the luscious dried prunes which are always in market. It is an advantage to buy the large-sized prunes, as the smaller ones have as large pits with less meat.

Prune Cake.—Take a half cupful of shortening, add one cupful of molasses, a cupful of sour milk, one egg and a cupful of brown sugar. Mix a teaspoonful of soda in the sour milk, add a little salt and spices to taste, with four cupfuls of flour and three and a half cupfuls of chopped prunes. Bake in a slow oven.

Stewed prunes, pitted and cut fine, filled into a baked shell and covered with sweetened whipped cream, make a most delicious dessert.

Stuffed Prunes.—Select large, perfect prunes. Steam them until tender but not too soft. Remove the pits carefully and stuff the prunes with finely chopped hickory nuts and raisins well mixed. Other fillings may be used, but this seems to be especially good. Roll in granulated sugar just before sending to the table.

Prune juice is especially good for small children, alternating it with orange juice. These juices supply the needed mineral ingredients necessary to the blood.

Prune Brown Bread.—Take a cupful of corn meal, two cupfuls of graham flour, one-half cupful of molasses, one cupful of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of finely chopped pitted prunes which have not been stewed. Scald the corn meal and add the other ingredients. Put into greased tins and steam three hours.

Simple Prune Whip.—Press a cupful of well-cooked prunes through a colander, add one-half cupful of sugar and the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Mix lightly and heap in sherbet cups. This is especially good for children or invalids, and also makes a fine cake filling.

Potted Lentil Cheese.—Mix well cooked lentils with grated cheese, various seasonings, press to squeeze out all the moisture and put into glasses. Keep in a cool dry place.

Such savory plants must sure be good
That serve at once for emblems and for food.

THINGS TO CONSIDER.

A pound of split peas, whatever the price, is at the present moment a better food than a pound of meat. Peas are easily digested. Peas, beans, macaroni, rice and oatmeal are all superior foods. Potatoes digest in about the same time as beans, but the advantage is far on the side of the beans.

This year with potatoes so high, the substitutes have been studied greatly to the disadvantage of the ubiquitous potato. Rice is cheap and is more easily digested than potatoes; it takes rice one hour to digest, the potato three. Rye, as well as whole wheat and cornmeal, should take the place of white bread on our tables.

In the cooking of vegetables in many households the valuable mineral salts are thrown down the kitchen sink and the family are being starved for the elements that keep a well-balanced organism. The doctor is called on to administer iron which should be taken naturally from the vegetable foods.

It should be the aim of every house mother to study the needs of her family as to the physical, mental as well as moral life. There is no doubt that food has a great influence upon the body and mind. Many a man is a drunkard because of insufficient food or improperly balanced diet

Children who are given highly seasoned foods, pickles and condiments, are paving the way for future stomach trouble or dissipation. Poor cooking, bakers' bread and such food creates dyspepsia and its gnawings are often mistaken demands for stimulants until the habit is formed

Food should be properly but not over, seasoned. To season food to such an excess that its flavor is entirely disguised is neither good sense nor good cooking. Salt should be used to make food more palatable, an excess of salt is not good for the system, and pepper and all spices should be used most sparingly.

After the pie is made and put into the oven, unless you are a most exact workman there will be small bits left which may be used in several ways.

Nellie Maxwell

NEW METALS BEING SOUGHT

Manufacturers Looking for Substitutes for Those Now Used, Because of Advance in Prices.

The recent advance in price of many of the more commonly used metals has led manufacturers to adopt or consider the adoption of various substitute metals or alloys for certain purposes. The advice of the bureau of standards has frequently been sought in this connection. An interesting field of investigation is opened up by such inquiries.

It appears that the metals traditionally and currently used for various articles are in many cases no better adapted for the purpose than others, and a slight difference in price would warrant a substitution. It is not usually possible, however, to suggest substitutes offhand, as there are many factors involving manufacturing peculiarities, durability and other physical and chemical properties that first have to be determined. "There is," says the bureau, "a very wide field of research here, which would undoubtedly repay manyfold the efforts put upon it."—Scientific American.

Psychology and the War.

Prof. G. Stanley Hall of the Clark university, United States, places the subject of applied psychology on a high plane in relation to the war. He states:

"Whatever system has been employed, it is evident that applied psychology has produced results in this war which it was never possible to attain before. Men have endured more, they have shown more heroism and daring and have submitted to more punishment than in any previous war. No such slaughter would have been possible in former wars, without provoking a panic. This has unquestionably been due to the system of psychological selection, not only for the various grades of service but for special activities within each grade. Our country may as well think of going to war without first-class military equipment as without a knowledge of applied psychology. The council of national defense seems to have recognized this; and the National Research council within that body will, I understand, contain representative psychologists."

Save the Babies

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. There can be no danger in the use of Castoria if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher as it contains no opiates or narcotics of any kind.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Raise High Priced Wheat on Fertile Canadian Soil

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming in Western Canada is as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. There is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. Smart Man.

After the supper party the host handed round a box of cigars with an expansive smile of the help-yourself-and-don't-mind-me variety.

"Lovely cigars, ye know!" he declared, offering the box to the first guest. "They were a present from my wife."

Gently but none the less firmly, every man present swore that smoking would expand his heart to colossal proportions, or else that he had sworn off the weed for the duration, says London Ideas.

When they had all gone the host extracted a card from under the first layer of cigars: "From Uncle James."

"That little speech saved me that box," he mused "Jolly smart wheeze!"

The Reichsrath a Babel

That parliament of Babel the reichsrath, now engaged in playing an obscure part in the Austro Hungarian peace hunt, is permitted to express its emotions in eight official languages—symbolic of the war of tongues raging in the empire itself. In the great vocal chorus the Slavonian may be said to have struck the strident top note, for the very word he has coined for himself expresses the belief that no man is a talker except himself. "Slowan," in Old Slavonian meant "to speak," and as the Slav understood no other speech, the others were naturally the dumb dogs.—London Daily Chronicle.

Finest Dates Grow There.

Beyond the land of the Berbers, in the far south of Morocco, lies the great oasis of Tafilet, famous for its vast groves of date-palms. Here, for hundreds of square miles, the land is covered with a thick growth of the tall, straight stems of the palm, and the product of these close-growing trees is enormous in quantity. They produce the finest dates in the world.

Wrong Position for Sleep.

Sleep cannot knit up the raveled sleeve of care or do any other reparative knitting, if the head is bent sharply to an acute angle with the collar joints. Frequently men and women who have slept in this supposedly objectionable fashion for years and years suddenly lose the capacity for sleep with no new discoverable reason. It is difficult to convince them that the elasticity and resiliency of youth has heretofore made up for their lifelong awkward pose.

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline."

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

So many cows have been butchered in the eastern states that there is such a shortage of milk that it is selling for 14 to 16 cents a quart in New York city. There is also a shortage of beef cattle there, and they are looking to the west for beef and butter. Don't veal your calves, they are more valueable to keep until they are older. Hides, leather and shoes were never so high as at present. We would strongly advise farmers to keep their calves.

Slavery Originated in the East.

Absolute slavery seems to have appeared in the eastern colonies some what earlier than in the southern, for slavery existed in New York in 1628, in New Jersey in 1628, in Massachusetts in 1630, in Connecticut in 1631 and in Delaware in 1636. There was a statutory recognition of slavery in Massachusetts in 1641, which was considerably ahead of such recognition of slavery in Virginia or Maryland.

MARE ISLAND NAVY YARD'S MAGAZINES WRECKED BY BLAST

BLACK POWDER STOREHOUSES EXPLODE—EIGHT MISSING ARE BELIEVED LOST—THIRTY ARE HURT.

CENSORS SUPPRESS ALL NEWS OF THE EXPLOSION

No Official Statements Available—Newspaper Men and Other Outsiders Barred From Entrance—Thousand Marines Fight Fire—Houses Damaged.

Vallejo, Cal., July 10.—The black powder magazine, at the south end of Mare Island navy yard, blew up shortly before 8 o'clock Monday morning.

Eight persons are missing and are feared to have perished. Thirty injured persons have been taken to the navy yard hospital, but it is not believed any of them will die.

No Official Report.

This is the latest information gathered by newspaper men investigating the terrific explosion which shook the navy yard, Vallejo, South Vallejo and surrounding cities. No official statements of any kind have been issued and this statement is based on reports by workmen and rescuers who returned to Vallejo after battling the resultant fire at the navy yard, or telephoned their reports to their families.

Opinions As To Cause Lacking.

First reports that the entire magazine of the navy was destroyed. Later, workmen explained that what is known as the black powder magazine consists of several buildings. One of these is the "black powder store house," and it was there the explosion occurred.

Nearly three hours after the explosion it was impossible to get any definite statement from navy officials at the yard. Newspaper men and other outsiders were still barred from entrance.

No opinion as to the cause of the explosion has been ventured by returning workmen.

Houses Damaged.

It is impossible to get details because of the strict censorship established by the Navy department at the beginning of the hostilities with Germany and which is still in effect.

One of the workmen, returning to Vallejo, declared his belief that all the houses at the scene had been "blown to pieces."

So terrific was the blast that most of the houses in South Vallejo across the straits, facing part of the yard where the magazine was located, were badly damaged. Most of them had their fronts blown in and several were unroofed. The roof of the roundhouse at that point was blown in.

Marines Fight Flames.

A few minutes after the explosion all the naval officers at Mare Island, and about 1,000 marines and other recruits, were hurried to the scene to fight the fire which was expected to result.

The explosion was the most terrific heard hereabouts in years. The blast was heard as far away as Sacramento, where buildings were rocked and dishes shaken from shelves. It was also felt in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley.

An All-around Surprise.

When the first shipment of frozen eggs had arrived, their extreme hardness astonished the brokers, and a gentleman calling at a broker's office was amazed to see him taking aim at the wall with an egg.

"What the dickens are you doing?" he asked.

But the man let drive, the only result being a slight dent in the wall.

The thing being explained to him, he took a couple of eggs and put them in his trousers pocket, intending to startle his wife with them. Arriving home, he waited till the family were seated at dinner and then banged one of the eggs at the new wallpaper.

But the smile quickly faded from his face. The egg had thawed.

One morning after a visit to the zoo, Marian asked to play "monkey," and her mother laughingly answered, "All right, I'll be the monkey while I dust. Now what shall I do?"

"Oh, no, I'll be the monkey," said Marian, "and you has to go buy peanuts to feed me first."

FARM MORE LAND

Cultivate for the Soldier at the Front.

This question of conservation of food has become so agitated by those who have a knowledge of what it means in the preservation of life, who have made a study of the food conditions, and the requirements of the country, that it is beginning to arouse the entire nation. The economist whose duty it is to study the output and compare it with the consumption, sees a rapidly creeping up of one on the other, and, when the appetite of consumption gets a headway on the output, where will the nation be? It is time the people were aroused, for there is danger ahead unless the intelligence of the people is awakened to the facts. The crop of 1917 will be less than an average one, and see the work it has to perform. It has to feed the man producing it, and he is of less efficiency today than a year ago. His strength has been reduced by the drawing away of the thousands from the farms, who are now in the ranks of the consumer instead of in that of the producer. There is an inverse ratio here that can only be understood when confronted with the appalling figures presented by those in charge of the conservation work. The army has to be fed, dependents cared for, the navy has to have provisions, and we cannot sit idly by and see the women and children of the countries across the sea starve. There is such a great call for active participation in the matter of providing food, that those who are left at home in charge of this work have a responsibility placed upon them fully as great as has the man at the front who has gone out to protect the homes, the sanctity and the honor of those who are left behind. The producer should think only of this; there should be economy, not only of labor. Every acre of available land should be producing. Advantage should be taken of every daylight hour. It must not be a case of how much can we make. It must be a case of "fight" with those who have gone overseas, but in our way, fight to win the war. Where that spirit pervades will be found the spirit of the patriotic American. There is no difficulty in securing land in any of the states. It may be rented on easy terms or purchased at low prices, and there should be little difficulty arranging with bankers to get the necessary funds to carry on operations. Should you not be able to get what you want in your own state, Western Canada offers an immense wide field for operations at the lowest possible cost, and Americans are welcomed with open arms. Homesteads of 160 acres each may be had on easy conditions, and other lands may be purchased at low prices on easy terms. The yields of all kinds of small grains are heavy. The prospects for a 1917 crop are excellent, and it looks today as if there would be as good a return as at any time in the past, and when it is realized that there have been yields of forty and forty-five bushels of wheat over large areas this should be encouraging. Now that the two countries are allies and the cause is a common one there should be no hesitation in accepting whatever offer seems to be the best in order to increase the production so necessary, and which should it not be met, will prove a serious menace. Particulars as to Canadian lands, whether for purchase or homestead, may be had on application to any Canadian Government Agent.—Advertisement.

"Well, you see," explained the citizen in an undertone, "our pastor preaches until he hears the whistle blow, and that confounded express was twenty minutes late last Sunday."

AIR RAID ON HEART OF LONDON WORST OF WAR IS BELIEF

TWENTY GERMAN AIRPLANES BOMBARD METROPOLIS—DROP EXPLOSIVES ON CITY FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES.

INVADERS SLAY 37 AND MAIM 141, SAYS REPORT

Sky Pirates Fly Fast and Low—Thousands Witness Battle—Roar of Guns Deafening—People in Capital Urge Quick Reprisals.

London, July 9.—Twenty German airplanes have bombarded London in one of the greatest war raids ever made by the enemy, according to an official statement by the war office.

For 15 minutes the air pirates rained explosives on the city, doing great damage in the very heart of the metropolis. They finally fled before the fire of anti-aircraft guns.

Thirty-seven persons were killed in the air raid and 141 injured, it was officially announced this afternoon.

Three Are Shot Down.

An official statement, issued by the British admiralty, said that three of the German airplanes which had dropped bombs on London had been brought down at sea.

"Enemy airplanes returning from the raid were met 40 miles off the east coast," the admiralty statement said. "Two crashed into the sea and a third fell flaming into the Scheldt. Our machines returned safely."

Engaged Over North Sea.

From the admiralty's statement, it is apparent the raiding airplanes were engaged out over the North sea in a runnig fight. The River Scheldt empties into the North sea after passing Antwerp.

Two parties of aviators appeared along the north bank of the Thames, moving north and west across the city. It was about 9:30 o'clock in the morning and the streets were thronged with people. Few persons realized that a raid was in progress until the sound of explosions from the bombs was heard.

Fly Fast and Low.

Almost simultaneously with the blasts of the bombs came the booming of the anti-craft guns.

The Germans were traveling at tremendous speed and appeared to be flying at a lower altitude than in the last raid when they exacted such a heavy toll of life in London.

With the first popping of bombs and guns, people indoors rushed to the streets to gaze at the pirates swarming in the skies. There were many women and children among the excited spectators. The police and soldiers had difficulty in holding back the people. Many persons were seen at windows.

Noise of Battle Deafening.

Anti-aircraft guns throughout the city and British airplanes immediately engaged the hostile craft and for a time the sound of exploding bombs and the vicious reply of guns was flew the squadron of raiders, pur- deafening. Straight over the city sued by bursting shrapnel.

The sun was shining brightly but the sky was overcast with a haze such as is favorable to raiders. Notwithstanding the haze, however, the Germans were visible plainly to the people in the streets.

Reprisals Are Demanded

The German air raiders came from the north and left by way of the south. Glass in some of the streets in the city resembles that in the streets of New York and its suburbs following the explosion on Black Tom island in the upper New York harbor last July.

The people in the capital are urging that quick reprisals be taken.

PINSK REPORTED AFIRE, SLAVS START NEW DRIVE

Russian Artillery Leveling All Obstacles—Violent Fighting in Progress—Enemy Positions Taken.

Petrograd, July 9.—Violent fighting has begun on the Russian front west of Pinsk. The city of Pinsk is in flames according to announcement by the semi-official news agency.

The Russian artillery, the announcement says, is leveling all obstacles.

The Russians have captured the fortified forest of Sianka with all the enemy's organized positions and also Hill 388. They have penetrated the village of Godov.

Advices from the front record the taking of first line trenches in Galicia by troops of the Eleventh army, who also at some points captured second line positions.

Institutions Bequeathed Millions

The KITCHEN CABINET

A man never reaches his highest efficiency until he loves his work more than his pay envelope.

Many a fellow has been cornered who isn't square.

DAINTY RAMEKIN DISHES.

Small amounts of food may be served in small casseroles or ramekins without the suggestion that they are leftovers. Vegetable leftovers may be taken from the table, put into the ramekins, and covered with a cream sauce, then when the meal is to be served all that is necessary is to add a spoonful of buttered crumbs and set them in a pan of hot water in the oven to heat. Asparagus tips, peas, beans, cauliflower, or onions, or two or three of each may be served, allowing the family to make a choice of the one most pleasing. Leftover desserts, of various kinds, may be reheated and served with addition of a little fruit or a custard or some liquid sauce which enhances the flavor of the pudding.

A hard-cooked egg added to a few ramekin dishes of macaroni and white sauce, or rice and cheese, will make an appetizing dish.

Dried beef, lobster, crab, chicken, or any remnant of beef, may be served in this manner most attractively.

Chicken pie in ramekins is worth trying. Put a few bits of chicken and some of the gravy and a little cream into a ramekin, place a biscuit on top to just fit it; punch a few holes in it to let the steam escape, and bake until the biscuit is brown. Set ramekins in another dish so that no gravy is wasted, if it boils over.

Beef Tongue En Casserole.—Choose a tongue which has been slightly corned, remove all of the unsightly portions, rub with flour to which has been added a dash of ginger and allspice. Fry a few slices of salt pork, then put in a sliced onion and the tongue, tying it into shape. Flour it lightly on all sides. Make a cupful of gravy, adding the juice of a lemon, three tablespoonfuls of shredded almonds and a half cupful of seeded raisins. Put the tongue in a round casserole, pour the gravy over it and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Untie the meat, turn out on a plate, and serve with the gravy over it.

Casseroled Calves' Hearts.—Fry an onion in a little bacon fat, roll four calves' hearts in flour and brown. Put into a hot casserole one cupful of stock, a shredded pimento and half a teaspoonful of mixed whole spices. Cover tightly and bake two hours. Garnish the meat with curled bacon.

Good manners are made up of petty sacrifices. Temperance, courage, love are made up of the same jewels.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY.

As we will soon have an abundance of green peas it is timely to consider some of the many ways of serving them. If one desires to have every bit of the flavor as well as the mineral salts in the peas, the pods should be boiled after shelling the peas and the liquor used in which to cook them. The custom of cooking any tender green vegetable in a large amount of water and then throwing away the water is most reprehensible at any time and especially now when every scrap of food should be conserved.

The liquid in which the vegetables are cooked is rich in soluble matters that are valuable in the body and should never be thrown away but served with the vegetable as a sauce or added to soup stock.

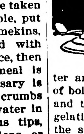
In cooking any of the succulent green vegetables, salt should not be added until they are ready to be seasoned. If peas are inclined to lack sweetness a teaspoonful of sugar to a pint of peas will aid wonderfully in the flavor of the finished dish. Cook all vegetables in boiling water and peas in an open kettle as they keep their green color better.

For variety one may enjoy some of the following ways of preparing peas:

Peas With Braised Carrots.—Put four tablespoonfuls of butter into a saucepan with two cupfuls of freshly shelled peas, a bunch of mint, one peeled onion, half a cupful of cream, a well washed crisp head of lettuce, finely shredded and a teaspoonful of sugar; cover and cook for twenty minutes, shaking the pan occasionally while the contents are cooking. When the peas are cooked, remove the onion and mint from the pan, add three egg yolks that have been beaten with two tablespoonfuls of cream, a pinch of salt and red pepper, shake until the contents are well mixed, then dish up the peas. Cook the carrots shredded in strings in a very little water, add three tablespoonfuls of butter to the tender drained carrots and dust with paprika and fry until a golden brown, then add a cupful of stock or the liquor in which the carrots were cooked; simmer one hour. Serve with the peas.

It really doesn't make much difference what a man thinks, so long as he doesn't think out loud.

INEXPENSIVE SUMMER DISHES.



There can be no improvement on the sweet, juicy, ripe strawberry, and we all agree with the writer who said "God might have made a better berry, but he never did." For those who like variety a few simple ways of using the strawberry will follow:

Southern Strawberry Gelatin.—Soak half a package of gelatin in half a cupful of cold water and when dissolved add a cupful of boiled water; add a cupful of sugar and the juice of half a lemon to the gelatin while it is hot, and then add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs as it begins to stiffen. Arrange alternate layers of firm, ripe berries and the gelatin in layers, serve in a large or in individual dishes. Plain sweet cream may be served with this, but it is not necessary. Strawberries with French dressing on lettuce make a most tasty salad to serve at luncheon.

Florida Favorite.—Make a lemon jelly and let it cool partly. Line a mold with thin strips of sponge cake and pour over a layer of the gelatin and allow it to stiffen. The remainder of the gelatin is kept in a warm place. Fill the mold with ripe berries and pour over the remainder of the gelatin. When cold and firm the loaf is turned from the mold and served plain or with a few whole ripe berries.

Marble Mousse.—Whip a pint of cream sweetened and flavor to taste. Before putting it into the mold melt two tablespoonfuls of cocoa or chocolate with the same amount of sugar. Put a few tablespoonfuls of the whipped cream into the bottom of the mold, then add a little dab of chocolate, alternating with the plain cream until all is used. Pack and freeze as usual. When the mousse is cut it will have the marble effect. Strawberry jam may be used equally as well for those who prefer those flavors.

If you have never tried waffles for breakfast with fresh strawberries mashed to a paste with sugar served with them, there is a gustatory delight yet awaiting you.

Strawberries mashed with powdered sugar and used with whipped cream as a cake filling is hard to find an equal in deliciousness.

Miracles are good, but to relieve a brother, to draw a friend from the depths of misery, to pardon the virtues of an enemy, these are greater miracles.

A FEW THIRST QUENCHERS FOR HOT DAYS.

There is nothing that more appeals to the palate than a well blended drink, cool and refreshing, on a hot day.

Mint Punch.—From 12 stalks of mint strip off all the leaves and chop them very fine, rub to a paste, adding a pint of cold water, add a pound of sugar, boil five minutes, and strain through a cheesecloth. When cold add the juice of six lemons. At serving time place this mixture in a punch bowl over a block of ice, throw in a bunch of fresh mint leaves and add sufficient apollinaris water to give it sparkle, and serve at once.

Currant Punch.—Whip to a froth a tumblerful of currant jelly, adding one pint of boiling water; add a half-cupful of sugar and the juice of a lemon; then put aside to cool. At serving time add a quart of plain cold water and a bottle of sparkling water.

Ginger Punch.—Boil for five minutes a pint of water and a pound of sugar with the grated yellow rind of a lemon; strain, and while hot stir into it two sliced bananas and a quarter of a pound of candied cherries; stand aside to cool. At serving time put a good sized block of ice into the punch bowl, add the juice of six lemons to the banana mixture, turn it into the punch bowl, add two bottles of ginger ale and one quart of sparkling water. Serve at once.

Iced Cocoa.—Put two heaping teaspoonfuls of cocoa into a double boiler, add a half-pint of boiling water, and cook five minutes, add a half-pint of milk, beat thoroughly, take from the fire, and stand aside to cool. At serving time fill the glasses one third full of chipped ice, add a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, fill the glass two-thirds full of cocoa, and fill with whipped cream.

Ice tea, if made fresh then cooled and served in the same way the cocoa is served, with the exchange of a slice of lemon for the cream, allowing each to add sugar to taste, makes a most refreshing drink.

A very hot beverage such as hot milk or soup are stimulants to the digestion, while colder drinks retard the digestive processes. It is best to give cold drinks between meals rather than with them.

WET ROPE SAVES LIFE OF INDIAN

Dampness Causes Noose Placed Around Neck by Bandits to Stretch.

BEARS CHARMED LIFE

Has Slain Many a Wild Beast With No Other Weapon Than a Tomahawk, Which He Prefers to a Rifle.

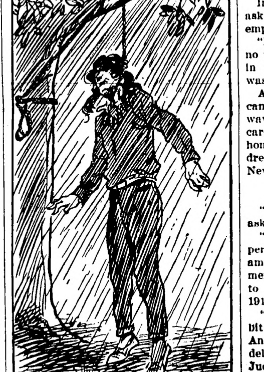
Antlers, Okla.—Bear Claw, Indian ranch owner, recently escaped hanging near his home here, when a timely rain dampened the rope which bandits had put around his neck. The downpour and the resultant stretching of the rope made it possible for him to reach ground with his toes and free himself.

"Bear Claw is the terror of horse and cattle thieves in the region of Jack Fork mountains. It was while he was pursuing some "rustlers" who had made off with his cattle that darkness settled and made the Indian easy prey for the bandits. They waylaid him and strung him up to a tree, expecting that he would soon be dead. The rain that started to fall immediately saved his life.

Fought Bear With Tomahawk.

The stoic old Indian has had many other narrow escapes from death. A few months ago a bear cornered him in the mountains, when the red man's only weapon was the tomahawk which he invariably carries. After a fierce encounter the bear's head was split open and the Indian escaped without a scratch.

Last summer a ten-year-old boy became lost from his parents, who were camping near Bear Claw's ranch. The lad had wandered into the woods when a panther knocked the boy to the ground with his paw. The animal was about to carry its victim away when Bear Claw appeared and killed the beast with one shot from a rifle. The Indian firmly refused to accept any money from the grateful parents, who later gave him a gold medal.



Dampness Made the Rope Stretch.

Bear Claw No Man for Dress

Bear Claw is a fine type of Indian, being wealthy and educated. But he has an utter disdain for "swell" clothes. He always wears a necklace of bears' claws, but this habit did not give him his name. He had the name before he knew what a bear's claw looked like. His tomahawk has seen him safely through many combats with beasts or men as savage as beasts.

ONLY WIFE AS ESCORT KEEPS HIM FROM JAIL

Emporia, Kan.—If Harvey Williams, an Emporia blacksmith, is seen on Emporia streets, except in the company of his wife, he must serve out a three months' jail sentence, imposed upon him here.

Williams, convicted on a disorderly charge, was given three months in jail by the Rev. J. H. J. Rice, the Emporia police judge, and paroled. He will be allowed to travel from his shop to his home unmolested, but otherwise he may leave home only in the company of his wife. Williams accepted the conditions of his parole.

Wants to Know Wife's Name

Chicago.—"Will you do me a favor of telling me the name of the girl I married in Will county in February, 1912, and also the day and hour of the marriage?" This request was sent by W. A. Montgomery to the clerk of Will county.

DOG FANCIERS FACING RUIN

Dealers in England See Disaster in High Taxes Placed on Animals to Conserve Food Supply.

Dog fanciers in England, especially the women, say that the new dog taxes are going to kill the business they have been carefully building up for years. They do not object to the suggested increase on old licenses, but they fear the big tax on new dogs is going to frighten away all their customers.

There are many British women with small incomes living in the country who have invested most of their money in dogs as a business. They were willing to mark time till the end of the war, looking forward to a revival in their business afterward. Trade is of course slack just now, but with no money coming in at all they will be unable to retain their kennels.

One fancier spoke bitterly of the sensational stories told in certain quarters about pampered dogs and the impossible amount of food they were accused of eating.

In Precinct 3, Muncie, the registrar asked of a youth: "Do you claim exemption and, if so, on what grounds?"

"I have a wife and child, and see no way in which I could support them in the army," was the reply, which was noted, and the youth left.

A few minutes later the young man came rushing back, all out of breath, waving his card: "Hey, change this card!" he shouted. "I've just been home, and find I now have two children instead of one."—Indianapolis News.

"Have you a calendar for 1914?" asked the gentleman.

"I don't know, sir," replied the salesperson. "We might have such a thing among the odds and ends in the basement. But if you wish to make a gift to someone, surely a calendar for 1917—"

The cynical person was standing in front of a part of an exhibition of local art talent labeled "Art Objects."

The native, swelling with pride, awaited the visitor's verdict.

"What do you think of our efforts?" he asked at last.

"Well," said the cynical one, "I suppose Art does object, and I can't blame her, but there doesn't seem to be any help for it."

Finest Dates Grow There.

Beyond the land of the Berbers, in the far south of Morocco, lies the great oasis of Tafilet, famous for its vast groves of date-palms. They produce the finest dates in the world.

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline.

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

Mr. American Citizen

Do you realize that the United States Navy is still short many thousands of men to properly man the ships now building to be ready for active war service the latter part of this year?

The Navy needs real men--red blooded Americans who are willing to do their bit for good old U. S. A. as did the men and boys of 1776 and 1861. Are you going to sit tight and "Let George do it" and in the future be ashamed to answer your children and grandchildren when they say "Daddy, what did you do during the great War?," or are you going to be in a position to say to them "Daddy was a Navy Volunteer, fought for this country of ours and helped to make the blessings of Liberty secure for ourselves and our posterity, and also helped save some of the starving mothers and children of Europe." Now is the time for you to step forward and volunteer for the Navy-- always found ready when needed by your Uncle Sam. Men of the type of Farragut, Dewey Lawerence, Perry and Nathan Hale are wanted. There are plenty of them in this county who will "make history" when they finally volunteer. The Northwest has never been found wanting when the Nation needed men. Volunteer now, write or telegraph Navy Recruiting Station, at Minneapolis. Branch stations at St. Paul, St. Cloud, Duluth and at Brainerd, Minn., and Fargo, Grand Forks, Minot and Bismarck, N. D.

WILSON MAKES PLEA

PRESIDENT ASKS MANUFACTURERS AND MINE OWNERS TO BACK U. S. IN WAR.

TOLD TO FORGET PRICES

President Declares Victory or Defeat Depends on Prices—Denounces Dollar Patriots—Everyone Must Make Sacrifices.

Washington.—President Wilson appealed to the country's business interests Wednesday to put aside every selfish consideration and to give their aid to the nation as freely as those who go to offer their lives on the battlefield.

In a statement addressed to the coal operators and manufacturers he gave assurance that just prices will be paid by the government and the public during the war, but warned that no attempt to extort unusual profits will be tolerated.

The president's statement follows:

"The government is about to attempt to determine the prices at which it will ask you henceforth to furnish various supplies which are necessary for the prosecution of the war, and various materials which will be needed in the industries by which the war must be sustained. We shall, of course, try to determine them justly and to the best advantage of the nation as a whole; but justice is easier to speak of than to arrive at, and there are some considerations which I hope we shall keep steadily in mind while this particular problem of justice is being worked out.

Promises Just Price.

"Therefore I take the liberty of stating very candidly my own view of the situation and of the principles which should guide both the government and the mine owners and manufacturers of the country in this difficult matter.

"A just price must, of course, be paid for everything the government buys. By a just price I mean a price which will sustain the industries concerned in a high state of efficiency, provide a living for those who conduct them, enable them to pay good wages, and make possible the expansions of their enterprises which will from time to time become necessary as the stupendous undertakings of this great war develop.

Must Face the Facts.

"We could not wisely or reasonably do less than pay such prices. They are necessary for the maintenance and development of industry, and the maintenance and development of industry are necessary for the great task we have in hand.

"But I trust that we shall not surround the matter with a mist of sentiment. Facts are our masters now. We ought not to put the acceptance of such prices on the ground of patriotism."

"Patriotism has nothing to do with profits in a case like this. Patriotism and profits ought never in the present circumstances be mentioned together.

"It is perfectly proper to discuss profits as a matter of business, with a view to maintaining the integrity of capital and the efficiency of labor in these tragical months, when the liberty of free men everywhere and of industry itself trembles in the balance; but it would be absurd to discuss them as a motive for helping to serve and save our country.

"Patriotism leaves profits out of the question. In these days of our supreme trial, when we are sending hundreds of thousands of our young men across the seas to serve a great cause, no true man who stays behind to work for them and sustain them by his labor will ask himself what he is personally going to make out of that labor.

"No true patriot will permit himself to take toll of their heroism in money or seek to grow rich by the shedding of their blood. He will give as freely and with as unstinted self-sacrifice as they. When they are giving their lives, will he not at least give his money?

Assails "Bribery."

"I hear it insisted that more than a just price, more than a price that will sustain our industries, must be paid; that it is necessary to pay very liberal and unusual profits in order to 'stimulate' production; that nothing but pecuniary rewards will do—rewards paid in money, not in the mere liberation of the world.

"I take it for granted that those who argue thus do not stop to think what that means.

"Do they mean that you must be paid, must be bribed, to make your contribution, a contribution that costs you neither a drop of blood nor a tear, when the whole world is in travail and men everywhere depend upon and call to you to bring them out of bondage and make the world a fit place to live in again, amidst peace and justice?

"Do they mean that you will exact a price, drive a bargain, with the men who are enduring the agony of this war on the battlefields, in the trenches, amidst the lurking dangers of the sea, or with the bereaved women and pitiful children, before you will come forward to do your duty and give some part of your life, in easy, peaceful fashion, for the things we are fighting for, the things we have pledged our fortunes, our lives, our sacred honor to vindicate and defend—liberty and justice and fair dealing and the peace of nations?

"Of course you will not. It is inconceivable. Your patriotism is of the same self-denying stuff as the patriotism of the men dead or maimed on the fields of France, or else it is not patriotism at all.

Full Dollar's Worth.

"Let us never speak, then, of profits and of patriotism in the same sentence, but face facts and meet them. Let us do sound business, but not in the midst of a mist.

"Many a grievous burden of taxation will be laid on this nation, in this generation and in the next, to pay for this war; let us see to it that for every dollar that is taken from the people's pockets it shall be possible to obtain a dollar's worth of the sound stuff they need.

"Let me turn for a moment to the ship owners of the United States and the other ocean carriers whose example they have followed, and ask them if they realize what obstacles, what almost insuperable obstacles, they have been putting in the way of the successful prosecution of this war by the ocean freight rates they have been exacting.

Making War a Failure.

"They are doing everything that high freight charges can do to make the war a failure, to make it impossible.

"I do not say that they realize this or intend it. The thing has happened naturally enough because the commercial processes which we are content to see operate in ordinary times have without sufficient thought been continued into a period where they have no proper place.

"I am not questioning motives. I am merely stating a fact, and stating it in order that attention may be fixed upon it.

"The fact is that those who have fixed war freight rates have taken the most effective means in their power to defeat the armies engaged against Germany. When they realize this we may, I take it for granted, count upon them to reconsider the whole matter. It is high time. Their extra hazards are covered by war risk insurance.

Warning Is Sounded.

"I know, and you know, what response to this great challenge of duty and of opportunity the nation will expect of you; and I know what response you will make.

"Those who do not respond, who do not respond in the spirit of those who have gone to give their lives for us on bloody fields far away, may safely be left to be dealt with by opinion and the law—for the law must, of course, command those things.

"I am dealing with the matter thus publicly and frankly, not because I have any doubt or fear as to the result but only in order that in all our thinking and in all our dealings with one another we may move in a perfectly clear air of mutual understanding.

Must Have Same Prices.

"And there is something more that we must add to our thinking. The public is now as much a part of the government as are the army and navy themselves; the whole people in all their activities are now mobilized and in service for the accomplishment of the nation's task in this war; it is in such circumstances impossible justly to distinguish between industrial purchases made by the government and industrial purchases made by the managers of industries, and it is just as much our duty to sustain the industrials of the country with all the industries that contribute to its life as it is to sustain our forces in the field and on the sea.

Think Not of Self.

"We must make prices to the public the same as the prices to the government. Prices mean the same thing everywhere now. They mean the efficiency or the inefficiency of the nation, whether it is the government that pays them or not. They mean victory or defeat. They mean that America will win her place once for all among the foremost free nations of the world or that she will sink to defeat and become a second-rate power alike in thought and in action. This is a day of her reckoning and every man among us must personally face that reckoning along with her.

"The case needs no arguing. I assume that I am only expressing your own thoughts—what must be in the mind of every true man when he faces the tragedy and the solemn glory of the present war, for the emancipation of mankind.

"I summon you to a great duty, a great privilege, a shining dignity and distinction. I shall expect every man who is not a slacker to be at my side throughout this great enterprise. In it no man can win honor who thinks of himself."

RUSSIANS ATTACK FURIOUSLY ALONG ENTIRE FRONTIER

BATTLE RAGING FROM GULF OF RIGA TO ROUMANIA—AUSTRIANS IN FLIGHT IN CARPATHIANS.

TEUTONS SHIFT TROOPS; LEMBERG IS THREATENED

Germany Draining French and Italian Fronts—Dolina Falls to Russians—Enemy Plans Counter-Offensive—Allied Baltic Fleet in Fine Condition.

Washington, July 17.—Desperate battles are raging over the entire Russian front from the Gulf of Riga to Roumania, according to messages received by the Russian embassy here.

The Austrian army on the southern front in Galicia is reported in full flight into Carpathians, with Cossacks in pursuit. The Slav troops have occupied Dolina, one of the key forts defending Lemberg and only 30 miles from that stronghold.

Kaiser Drains Other Fronts.

Germany is draining every soldier possible from the French and Italian fronts and rushing them to the Russian front to stay the rush of the Slav troops.

On the northern front near Riga, German reinforcements are rushing up by sea transport.

On the Lemberg front the troops are being shifted back and forth by means of heavy automobiles in an attempt to prevent further advances by General Korniloff.

On the southern front in the Carpathians the Austrians are said to be in full flight.

Key to Lemberg Taken.

The occupation by the Russians of the Galician town of Dolina is reported in a Petrograd dispatch to the Idea Nazionale of Rome, as quoted in a Central News dispatch from that city.

The Austrian army of General Boehm-Ermolli is said to have been thrown back in the Carpathians.

Dolina is an important Galician center, 22 miles southeast of Stryj and about 15 miles southwest of Kalusch. It is another of the key cities around Lemberg, which lies 30 miles to the north.

Baltic Fleet Fit.

The German re-enforcement of the Riga front by transport is understood here to be for a German counter offensive as a diversion to the severe Russian attacks further south. This has been long threatened and it is thought now that General von Moedre, in command there, has been given orders to go ahead.

Dispatches report that the Russian Baltic fleet is in splendid condition and capable of meeting any naval offensive in that quarter. Former Deputy Nipko of the first duma, commissary officer of the fleet, has just made a long report to Minister of War Kerensky, saying that the ships are in fine shape, the men enthusiastic for action and the land forts well supplied with war material.

Mill City Girl Drowned in Chicago.

Chicago, July 17.—Miss Queen Duckler, of Minneapolis, a visitor at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Emma Ansell, here, was killed on the Wheeling road, south of Halfday. Miss Duckler, with Mrs. Ansell, Meyer Berkowsky, and M. Rudd, were speeding northward just before 3 a. m. The dimmed lights on Berkowsky's car made indistinct the railings on a bridge over a tributary of the Des Plaines river and the car plunged over. It overturned in midair. Miss Duckler was caught under the car and drowned.

"Dressmaking Not an Art."

That dressmaking is not an art, but labor, was held by a jury in the United States district court recently, in the case of Albert de Vroye, husband of Marie de Vroye, fashionable dressmaker, says the St. Louis Star. He was fined $1,000 for violation of a federal statute forbidding the importation of contract labor into the United States.

The statute leaves several exceptions, including actors and artists. Shepard Barclay, attorney for De Vroye, contended a skilled dressmaker is an artist.

The prosecuting witness was a Belgian woman. She testified that in 1911 she answered an advertisement inserted by De Vroye in a Brussels newspaper for a premier dressmaker, capable of designing and executing dress patterns. She testified she was hired by De Vroye in Brussels at 375 francs (about $72) a month and brought to the United States.

WAS SIMPLE 'WAR LUNCHEON'

Woman Wanted Something as Unpretentious as Possible and She Got It at Ten Dollars a Plate.

The matter of war rations depends entirely on the individual, as is indicated by the following story from New York:

The other day one of the feminine customers on the Plaza hotel approached an assistant manager and told him that she wanted to give a "war luncheon"—something quite simple and unpretentious.

"Yes, madam," said the assistant manager, mentally groaning at another example of thrift.

"Now," said the woman, "I want champaigne served instead of cocktails while my guests are in the reception room. I want"—and she named a brut which costs $10 a quart. "And for luncheon I want some caviar"—and on and on she went, with the assistant manager's pencil scratching busily as she talked and his spirits rising with each scratch.

"How much?" she asked after she had explained the menu. "How much will that be?" The assistant manager made a hasty calculation.

"Ten dollars a plate," he said.

"Oh, dear!" she said. "Isn't food becoming almost prohibitive! There will be plates for twenty. Please have everything as simple as possible."

NEW ARMY QUOTA FOR EACH STATE IS MADE PUBLIC

WAR DEPARTMENT FIGURES SHOW HOW AMERICA'S TOLL OF MANHOOD WILL BE DISTRIBUTED.

NEW YORK TO GIVE 69,241; OREGON ASKED FOR LEAST

Figures Based on Initial Draft of 687,000 Men—Federal Census Population Estimates Used—Minnesota Required to Furnish Approximately Nine Regiments.

Washington, July 14.—The toll of manhood that each state must furnish to America's citizen army, is announced by the War Department.

The figures are based upon a total initial draft of 687,000 men. In assigning the quota that each state must yield, the War Department used the federal census population estimates.

New York High; Oregon Low.

New York leads all others with 69,241. Oregon is asked to yield the least—717.

Many of the Western states' quotas are unusually low because the registration was only 50 to 80 per cent of the first estimates of the census bureau. Other states in the Middle West—Ohio, Wisconsin, Illinois—ran over the estimates by 10 to 20 per cent.

The quotas were sent to the governors of each state and territory and the commissioners of the District of Columbia, who were directed to apportion the quotas through the local boards.

More Peace Propaganda in Russia.

Petrograd, July 14.—Germany is desperately pouring a new flood of propaganda into Russia in a superlative effort to dampen the popular war ardor. The directing point seems to be Stockholm. Some of the evidence of this tide of argument as gathered were German arguments against further Russian advances on the ground that the German minority Socialists had agreed to every point of the Russian peace aims, even including Alsace-Lorraine. Agitators are spreading these arguments.

Undoubtedly.

A party from the west of England was being shown over the British museum and in one of the rooms the keeper pointed out a collection of antique vases which had been recently unearthed.

"Do you mean they were dug up?" echoed one of the party.

"Yes, sir."

"What—out of the ground?"

"Undoubtedly."

"What—just as they now are?"

"Perhaps some little pains have been taken in cleaning them, but in all other respects they were found just as you see them."

The countryman turned to one of his companions and, with an incredulous shake of the head, whispered:

Tons of Gold Dollars.

The statement that there has just been counted in New York, at the United States assay office, the enormous sum of $765,000,000 in gold may be visualized somewhat when this is translated into ounces, pounds and tons, writes Girard in the Philadelphia Ledger.

While it has been asserted that this sum probably is the largest amount of gold coin and bullion ever accumulated in one place, it is well to remember that only so recently as a year ago there was said to be $800,000,000 in gold and bullion in the Russian State bank.

The sum in New York figures out something like this. There are approximately 39,000,000 ounces or 3,000,000 pounds or 1,946 tons. The figures are not exact.

Marine Life.

According to C. R. Shoemaker of the United States National museum, the Danish West Indies offer an interesting field for study in marine life. In one of his expeditions to St. Thomas he found among other specimens, great numbers of a beautiful dark purplish red crab and many species of small, vividly-colored fish swimming about the coral. These were in shades of red and blue, and through the clear waters were beautiful objects.

Rastus as Detective.

Rapid disappearance of coal from his bin alarmed Major Higgins and he determined to trace it. He questioned the man who tended his garden.

"George," he asked, "where do you reckon my coal has disappeared to?" George scratched his head thoughtfully. "Well, sir," he replied, "Ah—ah—ah reckon them squirrels done took it. Yes, squirrels, Major Higgins. That was nut coal, sir."

From a mother's point of view it is always the sins of the father that are visited on the children.

How Much the Little Heroes Need Our Help!

It is less theatrical to give a bowl of soup to a hungry, frightened little child than to stanch the wound of a fallen soldier in the fighting line, but the American Red Cross has undertaken to care for the suffering civilians in war-torn Europe as well as to nurse the wounded fighters. These little ones are just as heroic, in their way, as any man who charges the German guns. And the children are often wounded, too.

Here is an extract from a letter written by Mrs. Marian Bonsall Davis, who was for six months a volunteer worker in France, among those noncombatants who are almost hourly in danger from German guns and bombs:

"Because so many bombs fall on the town of Nancy, and because the place is sometimes bombarded, the children all know that on a certain signal they must run into the cellar of the nearest house marked with the great red cross. There, perhaps, they will have protection.

"There are children in the hospitals, victims of the bombs. There is one little girl, both legs taken off by a German bomb, hugging tight her dolly, with never a smile on her grave face.

"There are two little boys who also suffered amputations because of the bombs. They begged to be allowed to lie in the hospital ward with the wounded soldiers, and when the soldiers heard of the request they smiled and said "bien!" (It is well.) And now the little fellows are inordinately proud of the mutilations that permit them to lie in the ward of crippled soldiers, the equals in rank of the heroes of battle.

"Then there are the little ones in the refugee colonies. If you have helped with your money, with service, to carry the world-burden, you can look into their eyes; otherwise you turn your head when they gaze at you with child wisdom.

"These little ones are very like other children except in one thing—no horrible thing can ever surprise them. Their baby eyes have looked upon the unspeakable. They have gazed on violence and wrath in their most perverted forms, have seen their grandparents hunted and driven, their mothers hunted down. They are too young to know that these things are not a common part of life. And they are so much older than you in knowledge of violence and suffering and terror, yet because you are so big, and seem to them wise, they look up to you in child appeal.

"When you have seen that from these little ones, you have touched the war; and when you have touched the war, there is only one kind of relief possible to you—and that is to help. There is a very definite, practical way to help—the American Red Cross. Every cent you give will go further than you ever would believe that a cent could go. A cent will give a bowl of soup to a hungry, frightened child."

O'CONNOR, RED CROSS CHASER OF CYCLONES

The world is full of rainbow chasers, but the one and only official cyclone chaser is John J. O'Connor, director of the central division of the American Red Cross, with headquarters at Chicago. The Red Cross Magazine has graphically told how he personally administered relief at Newcastle and New Albany, Ind., when those cities were wrecked by storms. But it is not generally known that, beginning with the disaster at Mattoon and Charleston, where 90 lives were lost, Mr. O'Connor directed relief work in 55 communities scattered over seven states! Not only did he get calls for help from several of the nine states then in his division, but Washington ordered him to take over the cyclone relief work in Kansas and Oklahoma, which ordinarily are administered from Denver.

MAKE YOUR CHOICE—IT'S RED CROSS OR IRON CROSS

One of the most striking phrases expressive of the duty of every American to uphold the Red Cross is that of J. Roe Purchase, editor of a trade paper in Chicago. Here is what he tells his readers:

"You'd better bear the Red Cross burden now than bear the Iron Cross burden all the rest of your life."

Never was spoken a truer word. The first appeal of the Red Cross was for $100,000,000, which means about $1 per capita. This fund is for the care of sick and wounded soldiers, and the destitute in war-desolated lands.

But when the German heel is stamped down upon a land—Belgium, Serbia, Poland, Roumania, France—as far as the crown prince has been able to go—there is no such thing as a contribution; it is confiscation. Why, more money has been ravished from the one city of Brussels than the Red Cross asked for its whole first year campaign. Millions of dollars in "fines" are taken from every Belgian city every month. Only a few weeks ago a fine of millions was imposed on Brussels because a newspaper published by Belgians in England had printed a story of German savagery.

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline.

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

The Army Draft

Everyone who registered June 5th comes under the draft law and will be called in the order their number was drawn at Washington last Friday and Saturday. Just before the drawing commenced it was found that in some places, particularly in New Jersey, that the names had not been shuffled or mixed according to instructions before having been numbered serially. So it was decided to draw all the numbers at that time and save the work and expense of a second or more drawings. The numbers were then mixed so that they do not follow in rotation, and are the same for all the states and territories, and the drawing was done as fairly as it is possible to do. The first number drawn was 258. The holder of that number in Marshall county is Henry Gust Walhaupt of Comstock township. If about 400 names are needed to make up Marshall county's quota of 179 men, they will be called in the order their numbers were drawn. We understand those drawn for the first draft will be notified when to appear for examination. No one is exempt until he has received his discharge by the local board, which is composed of the county auditor, sheriff and a physician.

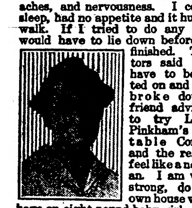
A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Woman Saved From a Serious Surgical Operation.

Louisville, Ky.—"For four years I suffered from female troubles, headaches, and nervousness. I could not sleep, had no appetite and it hurt me to walk. If I tried to do any work, I would have to lie down before it was finished. The doctors said I would have to be operated on and I simply broke down. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the result is I feel like a new woman. I am well and strong, do all my own house work and have an eight pound baby girl. I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which every woman dreads."—Mrs. NELLIE FISHBACK, 1521 Christy Ave., Louisville, Ky.



Everyone naturally dreads the surgeon's knife. Sometimes nothing else will do, but many times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved the patient and made an operation unnecessary.

IDEA JUST SUITED DR. HALE

Famous Minister Declares That He Had Always Wanted His Church Called "The Exeter Club."

The sexton of Edward Everett Hale's church suffered from that convenient form of deafness that prevented a man from hearing what he does not wish to hear and enables him to hear what he does wish to hear. Occasionally, when sweeping the sidewalk in front of the church, some stranger would ask him for information, and his usual answer was a wave of the hand. "I'm totally deaf, totally deaf. You will have to ask someone in the church."

It often happened that Doctor Hale, in the midst of a busy day, would find the luncheon hour at hand and an important appointment still unmet. It was his custom to invite his caller into his study and ask the janitress to make an oyster stew. The sexton resented Doctor Hale's informality.

The time came for a new sign to be placed on the front of the church, and Doctor Hale and the assistant pastor were standing in the vestry aisle discussing just what the wording of it should be. To their surprise the conversation was suddenly interrupted by the deaf sexton, who stood far enough away to make doubtful the ability of a normal person's overhearing what had been said. "I'll tell you what to put on that sign!" he exclaimed. "'Come in! Everybody welcome! Meals served at all hours of the day and night!'"

"All right," said Doctor Hale quickly, "That's what we will do. I've always wanted to call the church 'The Exeter Club!'"—Youth's Companion.

The Essential Spirit.

"Can you recite the Declaration of Independence?"

"No," replied the man in khaki. "All I can remember is, 'When in the course of human events it becomes necessary.' And I expect soon to land somewhere in France to ascertain what's necessary and then attend to it."—Washington Evening Star.

SELECTIVE ARMY HAS BEEN DRAWN AT WASHINGTON

Order for Liability for Service Established by Historic Lottery.

258 FIRST NUMBER OUT

Secretary Baker Takes Out Initial Number—Drawing Continues All Day Friday and Throughout Night.

Long List of Numbers Given in Order as Drawn, From Which Those Who Will Be Called to Serve in First Army Will Be Selected.

Washington, July 21.—The drawing for the big United States army was not completed until early Saturday morning. The drawing began at 9:45 Friday morning, and continued throughout the day and night. Altogether 10,500 numbers were drawn from the big fish bowl. It was officially stated that the first 1,000 numbers drawn represented more than 1,000,000 men, and it is not considered probable that men representing any number drawn after the first 2,000 will be called before any exemption board for the first army. The first eight numbers were drawn respectively by Secretary of War Baker, Senator Chamberlain of the senate military committee, Congressman Dent of the house military committee, Senator Warren and Representative Kahn, ranking minority members of the senate and house military committees; Maj. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, acting chief of staff of the army; Maj. Gen. Enoch Crowder, provost marshal of the army; and Major General McCain, adjutant general of the army. After the first eight numbers had been drawn the regular tellers took hold, and worked through until the long task was completed.

In only a small number of the largest districts will the numbers above a few thousand affect registrants. Of the 4,557 registration districts throughout the country the largest has something over 10,200 numbers, while the smallest has only about 185, and the average is about 3,000. As the drawing proceeded, 157 numbers were withdrawn before one low enough to affect the smallest district came out. It was 126, placing 4,557 men numbered 126 on their local lists as 157th in order of liability.

The following list shows the numbers in the order in which they were drawn. The first number in each case represents the order in which the second, or red-ink registry, number was taken from the bowl. Four numbers are given in each line. Beginning with the first number, which was drawn by Secretary Baker.

BAKER OPENS DRAFT DRAWING

Secretary of War Explains Briefly the Care Taken in Arrangements.

Washington.—Secretary Baker made a short address in opening the selective army drawing ceremonies. He said:

"We have met this morning to conduct the lot or draft by which the national army and such additions as may be necessary to bring the regular army and the National guard up to war strength, are to be selected. This is an occasion of very great dignity and some solemnity. It represents the first application of a principle, believed by many of us to be thoroughly democratic, equal and fair in selecting soldiers to defend the national honor abroad and at home.

"I take this occasion to say that every step has been most honestly studied with a view not only to preserving throughout the utmost fairness in the selection, but also to preserve all those appearances of fairness which are necessary to satisfy the country that this great selection has been made in accordance with every principle of justice.

"There are assembled here this morning, in addition to officers of the army, who are going to conduct for the most part the mechanical part of the work, the chief of staff, the adjutant general and other men high in the military establishment, and the drawing is to be held under the observation of the senate and house military committees, so that both the executive and legislative branches of the government are here to see that fairness is given to every person."

POISON GAS FOR HIGHWAYMEN

Army Man Invents Device Designed to Prevent Robbers From Entering Railway Car.

It would be a sad gang of robbers who tried to break into the railway car invented by George W. Meyers of the United States army and described in the Popular Science Monthly. They would be greeted with clouds of poisonous gas fumes.

Meyers' robber-proof car works with extreme simplicity. Two tanks, in which fumes of cyanide of potassium are stored, under pressure, are fitted inside the car at each end. These are connected with a perforated pipe which extends all around the door of the car, just in back of the outer framework. Should the train be held up, the locomotive engineer would telephone the guards within the car, who would immediately open the valves of the tank. The fumes would stream out through the pipe perforations and into the robbers' faces. The door being gas-tight, the deadly gas could not penetrate the car.

In His Pocket.

To prevent private automobiles entering the road at Fort Benjamin Harrison leading past the quartermaster's office, and interfering with government hauling, a civilian employee has been placed at the junction of the quartermaster's road with the main road entering the post from the south. It is his job to permit only automobiles bearing Q. M. D. signs to pass him, says the Indianapolis News.

The other day an automobile, plainly a private machine and driven by a liveried chauffeur, turned down the forbidden road.

"Hey, where you goin'? Have you got a pass?" shouted the traffic man.

The chauffeur nodded "Yes."

"Where you got it?" the traffic "cop" continued.

"I've got it here in my pocket," the chauffeur replied.

"All right, then, go ahead," the traffic "cop" ordered, and the chauffeur winked as he shifted gears and started down the road.

Funny Big Boy Scouts.

Two Ohio members of the officers' reserve corps at Fort Benjamin Harrison were walking along East Tenth street, near the technical high school campus, two weeks ago. They passed a group of small boys, who gazed, so the men thought, in tremendous admiration and awe. Just as the near-officers-maybe puffed out their chests in just pride, one of the young irrepressibles shouted:

"Oh, Jimmy, look at the funny big Boy Scouts."—Indianapolis News.

Companions in Suffering.

"I'm glad this car isn't heavy enough to hurt you," said Mr. Chuggins to the man he had run over.

"It's mighty uncomfortable under there, just the same."

"I know it. But think of me! I have spent hours under that car trying to fix it."

EXEMPTION RULES ARE MADE PUBLIC

Directions for Registered Men Given Step by Step.

ALL CLAIMS UNDER OATH

Industrial Needs and Dependents Are Chief Basis on Which Draft May Be Avoided—Make Claims in Person.

Washington.—Provost Marshal General Crowder has issued complete instructions for the men registered under the selective conscription law. So that everyone will understand just what is to be done, he gives the directions, step by step, as follows:

1. LOCAL BOARDS—In every county in the United States and for every city of over 30,000 there are one or more local exemption boards. Each of such boards is in charge of the registration cards of persons registered in the area, over which the board has jurisdiction, and has jurisdiction of all claims for exemption, except those based on industrial grounds. FIND OUT WHAT BOARD HAS YOUR CARD AND WHERE THE OFFICE OF THAT BOARD IS.

2. DISTRICT BOARDS—In every federal judicial district there are one or more district boards, having appellate jurisdiction over a number of local boards and having original jurisdiction of claims for exemption on industrial grounds. IF YOU INTEND TO MAKE A CLAIM ON INDUSTRIAL GROUNDS, INCLUDING AGRICULTURE, LEARN WHAT DISTRICT BOARD TO APPLY TO.

Meaning of Numbers.

3. RED INK SERIAL NUMBERS—Every board has numbered the cards in its jurisdiction with red ink in a series running from 1 to the number representing the total number of cards in its jurisdiction. Lists showing the names of persons in the jurisdiction of each board and the red ink number of each are open to inspection at the office of each board. INSPECT THE LIST AND INFORM YOURSELF OF YOUR RED INK SERIAL NUMBER.

4. ORDER OF LIABILITY—These red ink numbers are to be drawn by lot to determine the order in which registered persons are to be called by the various local boards. As soon as the drawing is complete lists showing the order in which these red ink numbers are drawn will be published in the press, and will be posted at the office of each local board. GO TO YOUR LOCAL BOARD AND FIND OUT THE ORDER IN WHICH YOU STAND FOR CALL.

5. As soon as quotas are assigned to each state and each board, each board will call upon persons whose cards are in its jurisdiction instructing them to present themselves for examination. This call will be posted at the office of the local board and the papers will be requested to print it. A notice will also be mailed to you, but the posting of the list at the office of the board will be deemed sufficient notice to charge you with the duty of presenting yourself. The law therefore makes it your duty to inform yourself when you are called. The mailing is for your convenience, but if the letter never reaches you you cannot make that an excuse.

Watch the lists at the office of your board and see when you are called for examination.

6. Physical examination—you must report for physical examination on the day named in your call.

If you are found physically disqualified the board will give you a certificate which will explain to you what your further duties are.

If you are found physically qualified and file a claim for exemption within seven days after your call you will be given ten days after filing your claim of exemption to file proof in support of your claim of exemption. See (VII) below.

Watch for Your Name.

If you are found physically qualified and file no claim for exemption, or if you do not appear for physical examination, your name will be posted to the district board as one who was called for military service and was not exempted or discharged. On the eighth day after call, or within two days thereafter, copies of the list of persons so posted to the district boards will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in a place at the office of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to you at the address on your registration card.

THEREFORE WATCH THE NOTICES POSTED IN THE OFFICE OF THE BOARD ABOUT TEN DAYS AFTER THE DAY YOU WERE CALLED AND MAKE ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE PROMPT RECEIPT OF MAIL.

7. EXEMPTION OR DISCHARGE. No claim or discharge on account of the industry in which you are engaged can be decided by a local board. (See Par. XV, below.)

WHETHER YOU FILE A CLAIM OF EXEMPTION OR NOT, YOU MUST PRESENT YOURSELF FOR PHYSICAL EXAMINATION ON THE DAY NAMED IN THE NOTICE.

From the day notice that you are called is mailed and posted you have seven days in which you may file a claim of exemption or discharge. The form for filing this claim is simple. If you wish to file such a claim—

Go to the board and get Form 110 for exemption or Form 121 for discharge. If the board has not the printed forms ask to consult the form pamphlet and copy the form shown there.

Fill out the proper form and file it with the board.

Do this within seven days of the posting and mailing of notice to you to present yourself.

The following are the only grounds for exemption:

That you are an officer, legislative, executive or judicial of the United States, a state or territory, or the District of Columbia.

That you are a regular or duly ordained minister of religion.

That you were on May 18, 1917, a student preparing for the ministry in any recognized theological or divinity school.

That you are in the military or naval service of the United States.

That you are a subject of Germany, whether you have taken out papers or not.

That you are a resident alien who has not taken out first papers.

In addition to claims for exemption claims for discharge may be made on any of the following grounds, which are the only grounds for discharge by a local board:

That you are a county or municipal officer.

That you are a custom-house clerk.

That you are employed by the United States in the transmission of mails.

That you are an artificer or workman employed in an armory, arsenal or navy yard of the United States.

That you are employed in the service of the United States (under certain conditions). See paragraph (e) of section 20, Regulations.

That you are a licensed pilot regularly employed in the pursuit of your vocation.

That you are a mariner actually employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States.

That you are a married man with a wife or child dependent on you for support.

That you have aged or infirm parents dependent upon your labor for support.

That you have a widowed mother dependent on your labor for support.

That you are the father of a motherless child under sixteen dependent upon your labor for support.

That you are a brother of an orphan child or children under sixteen dependent on your labor for support.

That you are a member of any well-recognized religious sect or organization organized and existent May 17, 1917, and whose then existing creed or principles forbade its members to participate in war in any form and whose religious convictions are against war or participation therein in accordance with the creed or principles of said religious organization.

These are the only grounds for exemption or discharge by a local board.

Another person can file a claim in your behalf, but must use different forms in filing the claim.

8. Proof of claims—Your claim of exemption or discharge must be filed within seven days of the day on which notice to you that you are called was posted and mailed. But after you have filed your claim for exemption or discharge you have ten days within which to file proof.

The method of proving claims is very simple, but it is rather exact. If you follow the rules given below you will have done what is required of you:

(a) Go to the local board and consult the regulations to find out the form number of the affidavits that you must submit for your particular claim.

(b) Ask the board for the blank affidavits that are necessary in presenting your proof; if the board has not the forms, ask to consult the pamphlet of forms.

(c) Have the affidavits properly accomplished and return them to the board within the time limit assigned you—ten days from the filing of your claim.

Remember:

(a) You must submit your proof in the prescribed form and the board has no authority to exempt or discharge you unless you submit all the affidavits required by regulations.

(b) There will be no argument before the board and no proof other than the prescribed affidavits, unless the board calls for other proof, which it will do in only a limited number of cases.

Action as to Claims.

9. WHEN CLAIMS ARE DECIDED. Every claim for discharge or exemption will be decided by the local board within three days after your affidavits have been filed.

10. CERTIFICATES OF EXEMPTION OR DISCHARGE—If your claim is allowed, a certificate of exemption or discharge will be issued to you.

Remember:

(a) This certificate may be recalled at any time.

(b) If it is temporary or conditional it becomes of no effect when the time or the condition named is fulfilled.

(c) You have been drawn for military service and when the condition that has postponed your posting to the colors ceases you may be recalled at any time.

(d) Remember that your case may still be appealed to the district board by the government, and on this appeal your certificate may be withdrawn at once. When so withdrawn you stand precisely as though you had been selected for military service by the local board.

11. ADVERSE DECISIONS ON CLAIM—If your claim is disallowed by the local board your name will be certified and sent by the local board to the district board as one who has been called for military service and not exempted or discharged. Within two days thereafter, if practicable, a list of those so certified to the district board will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in the offices of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to the address on the registration card.

Therefore, if you have filed a claim for exemption and proof in support thereof watch the notices in the office of the local board, beginning about five days after you have filed your proof, to see what disposition was made of your case and make arrangements for the prompt receipt of mail.

Carrying Up Appeals.

12. HOW TO CLAIM APPEALS TO DISTRICT BOARDS—Claims of appeal may be made by a person within ten days after the day when notice has been posted and mailed that such person's name has been certified to the district board as one who has been called for service and not exempted or discharged.

Therefore if you desire to appeal—

(a) Go to the local board and get or copy form 153 or 154 for filing your claim of appeal.

(b) Get or copy also form 151 or 152 for notifying the district board of appeal.

(c) File your claim of appeal (153 or 154) with the local board.

(d) Send your notice of appeal (form 151 or 152) to the district board.

(e) Do this within ten days from the day when notice that your name was certified to the district board was posted and mailed.

Remember:

(a) You can only appeal the final order of the board exempting or discharging or refusing to exempt or discharge you. You cannot appeal other orders or actions of the local board.

13. PROVING YOUR APPEAL—You have five days after the district board receives your notice that you have filed a claim of appeal in which to file evidence additional to that filed by you in the local board, but all such evidence must consist of affidavits.

Reception of Decisions.

14. DECISIONS ON APPEAL—The decision on your appeal must be made within five days of the closing of proof, and you will be notified by mail of the action of the board on your appeal.

15. CLAIMS FOR DISCHARGE ON INDUSTRIAL GROUNDS—Only the district board can receive claims for discharge on the ground that they are engaged in industry, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment, the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency.

Such claims must be filed with the district board on or before the fifth day after the mailing and posting of notice that you have been certified by the local board as one who has been called for service and not exempted or discharged.

If you desire to file such a claim:

(a) Get a copy at the local or district board of form 161 or 161a.

(b) Fill the form out properly.

(c) File it with the district board within five days after the mailing and posting of notice that your name has been certified from the local board to the district board. See section 44, regulations.

16. PROOF IN SUPPORT OF INDUSTRIAL CLAIM—Only affidavits can be used in filing proof before the industrial board of a claim for exemption on industrial grounds. All such affidavits must be filed within five days after the filing of the claim.

Industrial Claim Rulings.

17. DECISIONS ON INDUSTRIAL CLAIM—Within five days after the closing of proof in any industrial claim the district board must decide the claim.

If the decision of the district board is in favor of the claim the board will issue a certificate of discharge. If the decision is against the claim the district boards will so notify you.

Remember that you have been called for military service and that the certificate of the district boad is only conditional on your remaining in the kind of industrial service on account of which you were discharged. No such exemption shall continue when a cause therefor no longer exists and your certificate of discharge may be withdrawn or modified by the district board at any time that the district board shall determine that the circumstances require it.

18. APPEALS TO THE PRESIDENT—Only decisions of district boards on industrial claims for discharge can be appealed.

If you desire to appeal the decision of the district boards to the president, you may do so within seven days of the date of mailing to you of the decision of the district board. To perfect your appeal:

(a) Get or copy from the district or local board Form 163.

(b) Fill out the form and file it with the district board.

(c) Do this within seven days after the mailing of notice to you of the decision of the district board in your case.

19. HOW YOU WILL BE NOTIFIED—As soon as your case is finally disposed of, the adjutant general of your state will notify you by mail that you have been selected for military service.

Your local boards will post a list of all persons selected for military service in a place at the office of the local boards accessible to public view. The local boards will also give lists of persons selected for military service to the press with the requests for publication.

Notice that you have been selected for military service will not necessarily order you into service.

The notice to report for military service will come when the government is ready to receive you.

New Method of Waterproofing.

A French scientist has recently recommended a comparatively simple formula for waterproofing shoes and clothing. It is a solution of paraffin and gasoline, the proportion being approximately one avoirdupois ounce of paraffin to one quart of gasoline. For shoes it can be applied warm, with a brush, while clothes can be dipped into it cold. The solution tends to preserve the softness and color of the material. Uniforms can be treated with it without removing the buttons or insignia.

Familiar.

Enthusiastic D. A. R.—Wasn't that a great speech made by the grand old senator, when he so eloquently and tearfully appealed to young Americans to buckle on the armor of patriotism and march forth to battle with the enemies of their country's flag?

Legless Old Soldier—I guess so, lady. I know it sounded blamed familiar. It reminded me of the speech he made to me privately, in the perilous times of 1863, when he coaxed me to be his substitute.—The Lamb.

Poultry Flocks Smaller.

Reports recently gathered concerning 5,298 flocks of poultry on farms and in small towns in all parts of the country show that the average number of hens per flock this year is 107, as compared with 146 in 1914. This information, which was obtained by an incubator manufacturer in the middle West, indicates that shortage of supply had been an important factor in producing present high prices for poultry and eggs. It appears that a very considerable number of poultry raisers have sacrificed many of their hens for the sake of immediate profits—a policy the effects of which are now being felt by the entire country.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Flesh Color.

The large, portly colored man entered the drug store and looked around uncertainly.

"Young man," he said to the clerk confidentially, "has you got any letter paper and envelopes with flesh-colored borders?"

"Was it mourning paper you wished for, sir?" inquired the clever clerk.

"You's struck it exactly! But I dis remember the name. Gib me a box of it, if you please, sah."

THE AVERAGE REFORMER.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The average reformer having so little at stake himself, plunges about like a bull in a china shop, regardless of the results of his ardor.

An amusing incident is told of the Secretary of Commerce. The can manufacturers put up a howl that unless they could get tin-plate to make up, no canning of fruits and vegetables could be done, so without looking over the field it is said that an order was made that steel was to be diverted by the manufacturers from other projects and put at the disposal of the can manufacturers. It looked all right on the face of it, but when the manufacturers of harvesting machinery demanded steel which they contracted for, and found that there was not steel for aprons, it having been diverted to cans, a hurry-up call modifying the order was issued, so that our harvesting machines could be made in time for the growing crop.

This illustrates how many plans are ignorantly made robbing Peter to pay Paul. Every enthusiast who has a pet reform which is always hitting some other business instead of his own, never looks around to see what the effect will be before he plunges. The manufacturers of feed and the most successful feeders in the country have a right to demand that that delicate machine—the dairy cow—shall not be wrecked by hasty legislation.

Revolutionary reforms are seldom efficacious. Anything which disturbs the food equilibrium should be handled gradually. Experience has shown that the most efficient way to handle cereal products is to remove the human food first and feed the residue to stock. Any other system is sheer extravagance.

WRONG FEEDING METHODS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

There is an old story about a ship captain who had a medicine chest. A sailor was sick and he found that No. 47 in his book was the indicated remedy, but alas! the bottle of No. 47 was empty, so he took equal parts of No. 40, which was strychnine, and No. 7, which was carbolic acid, and added them together and made No. 47—and the sailor died.

The application of this old story is that many a feeder will think that if a little of cottonseed or oilseed meal is good, a whole lot will be better. And, like the man who put the green spectacles on the horse and fed him shavings—just after he got him trained the horse died.

It is human nature to experiment in feeds, and the poor cow has to suffer for an overdose or an underdose before the proper ration is established.

DIFFICULT TO MIX FEEDS

A More Scientific Result Can Be Produced By Machinery.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

As no two lots run alike, it is very difficult to mix straight by-products of oats, barley, rye, corn, cotton-seed, flaxseed, etc., by measure, because it is purely guessing. Only a few years ago intentional fraud or unintentional carelessness was the rule. Before the feed laws were passed, each manufacturer adulterated all the trade would stand.

Every car of feed sold to the consumer is not analyzed, and the farmer cannot become a feed expert because he has no laboratory. Not one car out of five hundred is officially inspected. In the old days country millers were throwing feeds together with no knowledge of feed and were ruining valuable cows and making the farmer poorer. In those days the feed tables were wrong, the feeds didn't fit the tables; the digestible analysis method was incorrect; feed standards for animals were not agreed upon nor complete; the animals didn't fit the standards; the buyer didn't know what was in the feeds he bought to mix; and there was an unavoidable variation in the concentration of the feed.

These conditions have been largely overcome through the joint action of the government and state experiment stations and the mixed feed manufacturers who have every facility for maintaining a uniform product. By using these scientifically prepared feeds, many a herd has doubled its yield and profits. There are some painters who can buy lead, oil and dryer and mix and match their own color uniformly but the best painters of today have learned that mill-made brands are much better than anything they can mix with a paddle. The same is true in fertilizers to a great extent. In mixed feeds there can be no economy in home mixing because the mixing factories, being near the large markets, can utilize by-products to the very best advantage. Home mixing cannot be accomplished at one-tenth of a cent per lb., besides the result is never twice alike and cannot be without the help of a laboratory.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A practical test shows that eight tons of a first class dairy feed will replace 13 1-3 tons of farm grain, making a proportionate saving of about $20 per ton and it also puts three times as much fertilizer back on the [illegible] in the grain this farmer could sell.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

There is no sense in hauling two loads of cheap feed when one load of high-grade feed will do the work and costs but three-fourths as much as the two loads.

LIVE STOCK SHOW WILL BE BIG ONE

Minnesota State Fair To Co-operate With Government Officials In Campaign To Save The Fast Diminishing Producing Herds—Stock Exchange To Be Held To Bring Buyer and Seller Together.

One of the most important features of the Minnesota State Fair, which this year is to be held September 3 to 8, and which is to be conducted as a government "Food Training Camp," will be the livestock exhibits.

These exhibits have always been an important part of the State Fair, but they are made doubly important this year because of the fact that the great world war has for several years been draining the supply, especially in America, which has been obliged to feed the world almost from the very start of the struggle for humanity.

Realizing the great necessity of producing and conserving food, the government officials at Washington have joined the movement recently started to make the fairs and expositions throughout the country centers where the people can be taught these things.

Especially are the government officials eager to stimulate the raising of sheep, swine, horses, cattle and poultry and they will leave no stone unturned in the effort to produce greater efficiency.

To this end the State Fair management has offered inducements in the way of attractive premiums for the best in the various branches in the livestock department.

A Livestock Exchange.

Among the various features which will interest those who are interested in the raising of stock, and also those who attend the wonderful shows held each year at the fair, will be the cattle exchange, which is to be located near the livestock pavilion. This exchange will serve a double purpose; it will bring together men who have high grade cattle to sell and men who wish to buy such cattle.

The idea of instituting a cattle exchange was originated by Prof. H. H. Kildes, head of the dairy husbandry department of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, who is recognized as one of the best authorities in the country on the dairy industry, and who has long realized that stringent measures must be adopted if the producing herds of the country are to be saved. He is authority for the statement that the dairying industry of the United States is being seriously threatened by the rapidity with which the herds are being killed off and that something must be done at once to impress upon the people that they must do their share or there will be a disastrous shortage of food from those sources.

The wonderful opportunity afforded the government to spread the doctrine of production and conservation of food through the big state fairs and expositions will doubtless do more than anything else to remedy the situation which exists at present and which each year has been getting more serious.

First Training Camp.

At the Minnesota State Fair, which is to be the model "Food Training Camp" for the country, and which will be copied by the other big fairs and expositions, thousands of people from all sections of the Northwest will gather and to these persons will be given the urgent message of President Woodrow Wilson—that each and every individual in the country must realize the importance of and must do his share in producing and conserving food if America and her allies are to win the titanic struggle for democracy and humanity.

Farmers and stock growers all over the West will doubtless take advantage of the opportunity to show their stock this season. The State Fair officials are of the opinion that the livestock show this year will far surpass any yet held, despite the war conditions, and that the campaign already started by the government to encourage production and conservation will have its effect.

Secretary Thomas Canfield of the Minnesota State Fair is optimistic over the prospects of the big annual show and believes that, with the government behind it to the extent of sending several exhibits and also speakers the 1917 State Fair will be the best ever.

"We are doing everything in our power," said Mr. Canfield, "to encourage the raising and showing of livestock of all kinds. We want to cooperate with the government so as to stimulate activity, especially in the raising of stock. No efforts will be spared this year to make the displays in the different departments of the livestock section the best we have ever had. We have experts who this year will give their co-operation in every possible way and, I believe, the results of the fair will be evident in the next two or three years."

Secretary McAdoo, submitting estimates to congress at Washington for the new war budget, said the first year of the war promised now to cost $10,735,807,000 exclusive of loans to the allies, making it necessary to raise more than $6,500,000,000 additional revenue.

An American army of 1,000,000 men for service abroad at once, instead of the 500,000 contemplated for the first draft, is foreshadowed by the Washington government's request for an additional $5,000,000,000 made to the senate finance committee. The first million men are to be made up of the first draft army of 500,000, the National Guard and the regulars. It is improbable that the first draft will be increased, but the government is arranging its finances for other drafts without the necessity of going to congress again for money.

JUNKERS STAGED GERMANY'S RECENT "CRISIS" IS CLAIM

RUTHLESS ELEMENT WORKING HARD WITH TEUTON PEOPLE TO JUSTIFY MILITARISM—ERZBERGER HELD TOOL.

CHARGES ALLIES SEEK TO "ENSLAVE GERMANY"

Michaelis' Peace Interview Made Occasion For Bitter Assault On England and France—Negotiator Talks For "Peace By Understanding."

London, July 31.—Germany's Junkers are working hard with the German people to justify militarism. An effort by the militarists to delude the public into belief that Germany is beset by rapacious foes who started the war to dismember Germany is what London sees behind the "peace interview" granted by Chancellor Michaelis of Germany and Foreign Minister Czernin of Austria. The reported presence in Switzerland of Matthias Erzberger, the political leader recently head of the reichstag coalition, presumably as a peace negotiator, was regarded as proof that the militarists deliberately staged the recent "crisis" in the parliament and that Erzberger was merely a tool of those interests.

Interview Made Assault on England.

Michaelis' peace interview was rather an assault on England and France. He charged the Allies with secret agreements aiming at "enslavement of Germany." He was particularly bitter in responding to Sir Edward Carson's suggestion that the first step toward peace would be for Germany to announce her willingness to surrender occupied territory.

Count Czernin's statement was along the usual Germanic lines, asserting complete agreement between Germany and Austria-Hungary and reiterating the old plea that Germany's enemies were responsible for continuation of the war.

"Peace By Understanding."

Of curious collateral interest in the peace talk was an interview attributed to Dr. Erzberger at Zurich, in which he declared if he could talk with Premier Lloyd George or Foreign Minister Balfour a few hours, an "understanding" which would permit peace negotiations would result.

The Michaelis and Czernin statements come on the eve of the Moscow conference of Russian governmental leaders. This coincidence was too striking not to arouse comment here. Moreover, it was pointed out that the German strictures on the Allies' "aim of conquest" were probably carefully prepared with the idea of creating distrust in Russia against England and France in view of Russia's insistence on a war policy of "no annexations."

The Last of the Caribs.

The Carib Indian was the first representative of Lo the poor red man to meet the tide of European travel. He was the one found by Columbus and the later Spanish explorers in the West Indies, and he has given the Caribbean sea his name. Thus he is assured a monument as long as geography shall last, and he needs it, because as a living race he has practically disappeared.

How many thousands of Caribs dwelt in the West Indies in 1492 is largely a matter of conjecture. They quickly began to die out under the hand of the conqueror, who worked them as slaves, and shot them when they made war. Today it is doubtful whether there are a hundred pure-blooded Caribs alive. Practically all of them live on the British island of Dominica, on a reservation set apart for them called Salybia.

"There's a Reason"

GRAIN CROPS ARE PROMISING

Western Canada 1917 Crops in Good Shape.

While it is a little early to predict what the Western Canada grain crop will produce, there is every indication at the present writing that the 1917 crop will give an excellent return. Reports received from all portions of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta speak of good growing weather, a fairly advanced stage of all grains, with prospects as good as in the past two years. Should conditions continue as at present, it is safe to conclude that Western Canadian farmers, already free of debt, as a result of the splendid crops and prevailing high prices, expect from this season's returns to be in a position that will place them away beyond any fear of the future.

The acreage of Western Canada will be about the same as last year. Seeding was somewhat later than last year, but germination was quicker. The only possible drawback now would seem to be a scarcity of harvest hands, but it is felt by the authorities that the situation will be pretty well cared for by that time.

Land values are increasing, but there is room for a much greater increase than in the past, owing to the returns that farmed land will give when compared with its cost. In some districts land that could have been bought five years ago for $15 an acre is changing hands at $60 an acre, the seller satisfied that he is giving the purchaser good value for his money. And why not, when it is known that in a great many cases during the past two years crops have been grown on this land that have produced a profit of forty and fifty dollars per acre, over and above cost of production. These cases, while not general, were not exceptional.

In addition to the lands that are offered for sale by railway companies, land companies and private individuals, the homesteading areas offer great inducements for those who are willing to do a little pioneering for a year or two. By that time settlements would come into existence, and this means a condition similar to that enjoyed by many of the older settlements of today—schools, churches, railways. The land is of high-class quality, strong and vigorous, easily worked, and capable of producing the very best of crops.

The demand for all grains for some years will be great, and it will require all the resources of man, beast and soil to meet it. That the prices will be good goes without saying, but at the present time there is something more appealing than the lucrative prices that prevail. That is, the desire to assist in winning the world war. The man at the plow is doing his "bit," and the spirit of patriotism that prevails will lead him into a broader sphere of action. No matter where he may be he will look about him that he may find land to further develop the country's resources. It is possible that his own state may furnish the land, in which case he will be quick to take advantage of the offer. If land in his own state is not available, Canada (now our ally) will be glad to furnish it in unlimited quantity, as she is vitally interested in largely increasing the supply of foodstuff which is now as urgently needed and is as valuable as ammunition to the allied countries.

The appeal made by Mr. Hoover, United States controller of foods, and also by Hon. W. J. Hanna, Canadian controller, emphasizes the need of the allies, urges economy and the prevention of the waste in food, and bespeaks whole-hearted public co-operation. Speaking of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and their European allies, they say:

"For nearly three years their man power has been engaged in the direct work of war, and in some cases large areas of their most productive lands have been overrun by the enemy. Their food shortage and the food to supply the armies of Canada and the United States must be wholly provided from this side of the Atlantic. The supply must also be sufficient to cover losses at sea. Australia, New Zealand, the Argentine Republic and other countries are not now available to relieve the situation because of their remoteness and the shortage of tonnage.

"The crop of storeable foods grown in Canada and the United States suitable for shipment overseas threatens to be entirely inadequate to meet the demand unless the whole people determine by every means in their power to make up the shortage. Every individual is under a direct obligation to assist in rationing the allied forces. There must be national self-denial and national co-operation to provide the necessary supplies."—Advertisement.

MORE U. S. TROOPS ARRIVE SAFELY AT A EUROPEAN PORT

DISEMBARKATION IS WITNESSED ONLY BY REPRESENTATIVES OF GENERAL STAFF AND FEW SPECTATORS.

GOVERNMENT MAKES NO COMMENT ON DISPATCH

Declines to Give Out Any Information On Landing—Soldiers Shout, "Are We Downhearted?" Then Answer Selves With Roaring "No"—Cheers Follow.

A European Port, July 30.—Another American contingent has safely arrived and disembarked.

The American troops arrived by the same steamer on which Kermit Roosevelt, his wife and child traveled. When tenders went alongside the vessel the men were in high spirits and frequently shouted:

"Are we downhearted?" which was answered with a roaring "No," given with great enthusiasm.

No Demonstration.

Representatives of the general staff watched the disembarkation. There was no civic demonstration. Only a few spectators knew of the landing. These cheered and the troops cheered back. The men entrained quickly and left for their new quarters. A signal company remained at the port for some hours and these were the only representatives of the contingent which the public saw.

Government Withholds Comment.

Washington, July 30.—The government withholds information or comment on the foregoing dispatch.

MOTHER OF BOLLINGER BABY DIES; SHOCK CAUSE

Passes Away In Room Adjoining That In Which Deformed Infant Was Allowed to Die.

Chicago, July 30.—The death of Baby Bollinger, the hopelessly deformed infant whose life Dr. Harry J. Haiselden refused to save at the German-American hospital in November, 1916, is believed to have been directly responsible for the death of Mrs. Anna Bollinger, the baby's mother.

"After the baby's death," said Allen Bollinger, husband of the dead woman, a repair foreman in the Lincoln avenue car barns, "my wife fell into a settled melancholy and wasted away. The child died in a room in the hospital adjoining that in which its mother was confined."

CARLOS AVERY RE-APPOINTED

State Game Chief Retains Position—Farrell to Retire.

St. Paul, July 30.—Governor J. A. A. Burnquist has announced the reappointment of Carlos Avery as state game and fish commissioner. He has selected W. S. Moscrip of Lake Elmo as state dairy and food commissioner, he said, but Mr. Moscrip has asked for time to consider, and the appointment cannot be positively announced. He is to succeed J. J. Farrell of Carver.

Avery and Farrell are both democrats, appointed by Governor W. S. Hammond, and have held office under Governor Burnquist for a year and a half.

RUSSIAN FRONTIER CLOSED

To Allow Only Those With Passports To Travel Before Aug. 15.

Petrograd, July 30.—The provisional government, in view of the existing exceptional circumstances, has issued a decree closing the frontiers of Russia until Aug. 15 inclusive both for persons desiring to enter and those wishing to leave the country. The only exceptions will be persons holding diplomatic passports and diplomatic couriers.

Check But Fail To Stop Germans.

London, July 30.—Russia has failed so far to do more than slow up the German advance in Galicia. Dispatches indicate a hardening of the Russian lines in the threatened sector and desperate offensive attacks launched at other points in the great front, designed to relieve the pressure that was strongly closing about Czernowitz.

Teutons Repulsed In West.

Paris, July 30.—After a violent bombardment, the Germans returned to the offensive on the Aisne front, delivering a series of attacks. The war office announces that the Germans were repulsed with heavy losses.

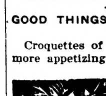
Bail For Woman Anarchist.

New York, July 30.—Emma Goldman, anarchist, convicted of conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the selective draft law, was expected to be released from the Tombs late Saturday on $25,000 bail, according to her attorney. Miss Goldman was brought back to New York from the penitentiary at Jefferson City, Mo., where she had been taken following her conviction. The action to admit her to bail was granted by Justice Brandeis in the United States supreme court, pending the determination of her appeal.

The KITCHEN CABINET

"Eat what you want when you want it" is wise counsel only for those who have trained themselves by long practice and careful attention to their peculiar needs to want what is proper.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE.



Croquettes of lamb are made much more appetizing by the addition of a little parboiled and chopped green pepper.

Fish Souffle.—Make a white sauce of two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one cupful of milk, salt and pepper and a teaspoonful of onion juice. When cooked, pour over two well-beaten egg yolks, add one cupful of cooked whitefish flaked. Add two stiffly beaten whites of eggs and bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Corned Beef Puff.—To a cupful of cooked corned beef, chopped fine, add two cupfuls of mashed potato, which has been seasoned with four tablespoonfuls of milk and three of butter, season with salt and pepper and add the beaten yolks of two eggs, then fold in the whites. Bake 25 minutes in a quick oven.

Mint and Parsley Sandwiches.—Take a cupful each of mint leaves and parsley, pound them to a paste with a tablespoonful of onion juice; when smooth, add two tablespoonfuls of butter and cream them until well mixed. Chill and use as a butter for sandwiches.

Tutti-Frutti Sandwiches. — Put through a meat chopper a cupful of pecan meats, one tart apple and a cupful of raisins; moisten with a little thick sirup made from white sugar and water boiled together, add a little lemon juice and spread on buttered whole-wheat bread.

Rice Custard.—Wash a half cupful of rice, put it in a double boiler with one quart of milk and cook until tender, then add four well-beaten eggs, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla and a pinch of salt. Mix well and put into a pudding dish. Cover with a meringue made from the whites of the eggs with four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Brown in the oven.

Chocolate Sultana.—Make a custard of a third of a cupful of milk, one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, one egg and a third of a cupful of cocoa, a fourth of a cupful of raisins and the same amount of walnut meats. Spread on white bread, the top slice being cut with a doughnut cutter, and the cavity is filled with the mixture.

Candied cherries finely chopped, moistened with orange and a little lemon juice makes a most delicious sweet sandwich filling. Use on either white or brown bread. Cold cooked eggs and boiled ham chopped fine and mixed, using a little butter to make the filling creamy is another nice filling.

A girl who would have a graceful carriage, a sound digestion, a clear complexion and fine teeth must work for them every day, and no work is better for the purpose than the ordinary work about the house done with diligence and carefulness.

SWEET OMELETS AS DESSERTS

As eggs are now at their cheapest which is not cheap by any means, but far cheaper than they will be when December comes, it is wise to use eggs more freely and pack them for winter use. When they are 75 cents a dozen we may congratulate ourselves that we have a supply for everyday needs.

For a sweet omelet to add lightness one or two whites may be added to the usual combination. Most tastes prefer the fluffy, foamy, omelet made by beating the whites until stiff then stirring in the beaten yolks lightly, after adding a tablespoonful of water for each egg, and a pinch of salt.

Orange rind, finely grated sprinkled over the omelet, after it is ready to fold, using the juice of the orange for the moisture instead of water and sections of orange laid around the omelet just as it is ready to serve is one nice, sweet omelet. Sprinkle with powdered sugar just before serving.

Almond and Maple Omelet.—Put a handful of blanched and halved almonds into an omelet pan that is ready for the omelet. Pour in the egg mixture and cook well on the bottom, being careful to run a knife around the edges, to let the soft egg cook well, through to the center, and using care not to scorch the almonds. Roll and place in the oven to finish and pour a hot maple sirup over the omelet just as it goes to the table. A spoonful of creamed peas, asparagus chopped ham, or many other bits of fish, flesh or fowl may be added to an omelet, enhancing its food value as well as its palatability.

Strawberry or raspberry jam spread over an omelet, just before folding, or fresh berries, using a few mashed with sugar for a sauce to serve with the omelet, is a most dainty dish.

Omelet aux Marrons.—Make a puree of 25 large chestnuts, cook them until soft, then pound to a paste adding cream, mix a little grated chocolate or cocoa and sugar and cook a few minutes. Cover the omelet with this mixture, fold and sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve.

There are no friends like old friends
To help us with the load
That all must bear who journey
O'er life's uneven road;
And when unconquered sorrows
The weary hours invest
The kindly words of old friends
Are always found the best.

CREOLE DISHES.

The Creole housewife can make an appetizing meal from what many of our servants would throw away; and she is proud of her art. On special occasions elaborate menus are offered, but as a rule economy governs the cookery.

Lost Bread.—Stir two well-beaten eggs into a pint of milk, adding a bit of salt and sugar if desired. Cut six slices of white bread and soak them a few minutes in the custard, then fry in a little hot butter or sweet fryings.

Molasses pies are very popular 'way down South. Take a pint of molasses, beat into it three eggs and one large spoonful of butter. Pour the mixture into a pie plate lined with rich paste and bake.

Pork and Apple Pie.—Line a deep dish with nice fat pork, cut very thin and slice some apples. Place a layer of apples then a layer of pork. Sprinkle each layer with allspice, pepper and sugar. Have three or four layers and let the last one be apples. Sprinkle with sugar and spice and cover with a top crust. Bake one hour.

Milk Cracker Pudding.—Split milk crackers and place a few raisins inside, put the halves together and lay them in a cloth bag. Lay in a steamer or tie closely and drop into boiling water; leave room enough in the cloth for the crackers to swell. Remove in 15 minutes and serve with a rich sauce of butter, sugar, fruit juice and nutmeg.

A loaf of bread may be cut nearly through in four or five places, raisins sprinkled into the slits and then the loaf is tied up. Place in a cloth and boil half an hour. Serve with a rich pudding sauce.

Gumbo.—Slice two onions and brown in butter, add a pound each of ham and lean beef, cut in cubes and well dredged with flour; put into the kettle with the onions, when well fried add one each of okra, corn and tomatoes, salt, pepper, six or eight cloves and a little paprika. Boil all together in about two quarts of water all day. Serve with a spoonful of rice in the center of each serving.

There is in the world a Paradise
That no man enters alone,
For only the light of a woman's eyes
Can make the pathway known.

BEGIN NOW TO PREPARE RELISHES.

The following is an excellent and simple recipe for pickling onions. Take the silver-skinned onions the size of marbles, peel with a silver knife, wipe dry. Prepare a strong brine of salt and water, and let the onions soak in this two days, then drain them and wipe them quite dry. Put them into jars with a little pepper, mustard and allspice, steeped in a little vinegar, pour this hot over the onions, using two teaspoonfuls each of allspice, whole peppers and a teaspoonful of mustard seed to a quart of vinegar. When the jars are filled see that two inches of vinegar or more are above the onions or they will not keep.

Walnuts are pickled just as one does onions. They must be picked green and tender enough to be pierced with a needle.

Bengal Recipe for Chutney.—Take one-half pound of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half a pound of garlic, one-fourth of a pound of powdered ginger, one-half a pound of onions, one-fourth of a pound each of dried chillies, and mustard seed and three fourths of a pound of stoned raisins, two pints of the best vinegar and 30 unripe sour apples. The sugar is cooked with part of the vinegar to make a sirup. The garlic, onions and chillies are pounded into a mortar. The mustard seed is washed in cold vinegar and dried in the sun, the apples cored, sliced and boiled, and one and one-half pints of vinegar. When all this is done and the apples quite cold, put them into a large pan and gradually mix the ingredients, and cook, including the remaining vinegar. Stir until the whole is well blended and then put into bottles for use.

Tomato Chutney.—One pound of ripe tomatoes put through a sieve, one pound of peeled, sliced apples, a half pound of raisins, a fourth of a pound of peeled onion, the same of brown sugar, a fourth of a pint of vinegar, one-fourth of an ounce each of powdered ginger and black pepper. Mince and simmer together until dark and thick.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by helping her raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.

There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or How Women Fish.

It doesn't serve to mellow a man's disposition to take a woman or two into the boat when he goes bass fishing. For women always want to fish, yet never could they or would they stick those horrid, nasty, wriggling angleworms on the hook. So, between baiting their hooks and removing the perch and pumpkin seeds and straining your spine to keep the boat from turning turtle and the lines from getting snarled up, you have a most enjoyable outing, do you not? Yes, you do not: I'll run the risk of answering that question for you, "Zim" writes in Cartoons Magazine. And then, when you finally hook a five-pound bass weighing at least three pounds and eight ounces by his own standard scales and play him for twenty minutes against their earnest entreaties not to bring that big, ugly thing into the boat or else they'd jump out!—you calmly ease up on the line and give him slack, also his freedom do you not? Yes, you do not: And when the day is spent, they tell you what a gorgeous time they have had and make you promise to fetch them again, and you promise of course, do you not? You do like heaven!

INTEREST INCREASES IN FOOD CAMP

President Wilson And Food Administrator Hoover Back Movement To Utilize State Fairs And Expositions As Food Training Camps—People To Be Taught To Produce And Conserve.

The Food Training Camp to be conducted in connection with the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 3 to 8, is expected to prove one of the strongest cards in the government's food conservation campaign in this section of the country.

The food training camp movement is gathering force every day; public interest is becoming aroused; practically every organization in this state taking part in the food conservation work is co-operating to make the camp a success; the government has endorsed and is now helping to direct the movement and the exhibitors at the fair are offering to do their share in making it a success.

Practically every department at the fair will take a part in the work of food training. Virtually all of the exhibitors will in their displays, lay emphasis upon the necessity of conserving our food supplies. Lecturers and demonstrators will be on hand to explain the food problems which now confront the American people, the plan being, not only to impress upon all visitors to the fair the necessity of making an economical use of food, but to show specific ways in which every man, woman and child may do a share.

Government Enthusiastic.

The government, particularly, is enthusiastic over the possibilities the food training camp offers for teaching food efficiency. Not only Mr. Hoover, food administrator, but President Wilson, himself, and the Department of Agriculture have endorsed the camp. It is the plan of the government to make the most of the opportunities offered by sending out lecturers and demonstrators to speak at the fair, and by arranging a series of exhibits by the different government departments, including the Army, Navy, Agricultural and Mr. Hoover's food department.

The government sees in the food training camp, for one thing, the possibility of reaching, in a result-getting manner, the men and women of the rural districts and from the farm. This has been one of the government's big problems in its food conservation campaign.

The people of the cities it is not so difficult to reach because of the many clubs and other organizations which already exist and which have taken up the food conservation work. As a large part of the attendance at the Minnesota State Fair comes from the rural districts, the food training camp, the government believes, offers a good opportunity to reach them with a direct appeal.

For, it is necessary that they be reached if the fruits and other food products, grown in abundance, are to be saved and prevented from going to waste.

The livestock exhibits and the exhibits and demonstrations to be put on by the dairy department of the University Farm are other departments in which valuable food efficiency work will be done. The directors of the fair are urging a greater production of meat by working for large exhibits of livestock so that the farmer may study the different types and breeds and decide as to which is best for the purpose.

To Develop Herds.

Much of the effort of the University Farm will be directed to the development of more efficient dairy herds and to the utilization of all possible dairy products. Much milk, especially skim-milk, goes to waste in this state every year, and the dairy exhibits will point out the way to make use of all this food which is now being wasted.

In order to make the food training camp the greatest possible success in order that both the government and the people may derive the maximum benefit from it, the Minnesota State Fair directors are endeavoring to make the exposition a record breaker in all departments this year.

As one way of encouraging attendance plans have been outlined for materially increasing the exhibits, and a greater variety of amusement and entertainment features have been secured.

Auto races, aviation, vaudeville, and a number of big spectacles, including the "War of the Nations," a gigantic display in which the famous British tanks and the other great forces of modern warfare are seen in action, are some of the entertainment features.

LIVE STOCK SHOW WILL BE BIG ONE

Minnesota State Fair To Co-operate With Government Officials In Campaign To Save The Fast Diminishing Producing Herds—Stock Exchange To Be Held To Bring Buyer and Seller Together.

One of the most important features of the Minnesota State Fair, which this year is to be held September 3 to 8, and which is to be conducted as a government "Food Training Camp," will be the livestock exhibits.

These exhibits have always been an important part of the State Fair, but they are made doubly important this year because of the fact that the great world war has for several years been draining the supply, especially in America, which has been obliged to feed the world almost from the very start of the struggle for humanity.

Realizing the great necessity of producing and conserving food, the government officials at Washington have joined the movement recently started to make the fairs and expositions throughout the country centers where the people can be taught these things.

Especially are the government officials eager to stimulate the raising of sheep, swine, horses, cattle and poultry and they will leave no stone unturned in the effort to produce greater efficiency.

To this end the State Fair management has offered inducements in the way of attractive premiums for the best in the various branches in the livestock department.

A Livestock Exchange.

Among the various features which will interest those who are interested in the raising of stock and also those who attend the wonderful shows held each year at the fair, will be the cattle exchange, which is to be located near the livestock pavilion. This exchange will serve a double purpose; it will bring together men who have high grade cattle to sell and men who wish to buy such cattle.

The idea of instituting a cattle exchange was originated by Prof. H. H. Kildes, head of the dairy husbandry department of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, who is recognized as one of the best authorities in the country on the dairy industry, and who has long realized that stringent measures must be adopted if the producing herds of the country are to be saved. He is authority for the statement that the dairying industry of the United States is being seriously threatened by the rapidity with which the herds are being killed off and that something must be done at once to impress upon the people that they must do their share or there will be a disastrous shortage of food from those sources.

The wonderful opportunity afforded the government to spread the doctrine of production and conservation of food through the big state fairs and expositions will doubtless do more than anything else to remedy the situation which exists at present and which each year has been getting more serious.

First Training Camp.

At the Minnesota State Fair, which is to be the model "Food Training Camp" for the country and which will be copied by the other big fairs and expositions, thousands of people from all sections of the Northwest will gather and to these persons will be given the urgent message of President Woodrow Wilson—that each and every individual in the country must realize the importance of and must do his share in producing and conserving food if America and her allies are to win the titanic struggle for democracy and humanity.

Farmers and stock growers all over the West will doubtless take advantage of the opportunity to show their stock this season. The State Fair officials are of the opinion that the livestock show this year will far surpass any yet held, despite the war conditions, and that the campaign already started by the government to encourage production and conservation will have its effect.

Secretary Thomas Canfield of the Minnesota State Fair is optimistic over the prospects of the big annual show and believes that, with the government behind it to the extent of sending several exhibits and also speakers the 1917 State Fair will be the best ever.

"We are doing everything in our power," said Mr. Canfield, "to encourage the raising and showing of livestock of all kinds. We want to co-operate with the government so as to stimulate activity, especially in the raising of stock. No efforts will be spared this year to make the displays in the different departments of the livestock section the best we have ever had. We have experts who this year will give their co-operation in every possible way and, I believe, the results of the fair will be evident in the next two or three years."

The Army Draft Again.

So far as we have beeh able to learn very few young men from this vicinity failed to pass the physicial examination for the army draft. Among those who failed to pass are: Albin Dahl, Frank Brown, Oscar Norbeck and Albert Oscar Knutson. Ole Ellingson and A. Skoglund were not passed on as they are not citizens. The most of the farmer boys and all of the married men will claim exemptions, which will most probably be granted and another call for more men for examination made at once, so as to fill the countys full quota for the new army.

Slavery Originated in the East.

Absolute slavery seems to have appeared in the eastern colonies somewhat earlier than in the southern, for slavery existed in New York in 1626, in New Jersey in 1628, in Massachusetts [illegible] in Delaware in 1636. There was a statutory recognition of slavery in Massachusetts in 1641, which was considerably ahead of such recognition of slavery in Virginia or Maryland.

Offenders to Be Run Down and Punished Regardless of the Cost—High Officials Confer—Tenant Farmers, Indians and Negroes Burn Bridges.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Federal troops may be sent into Oklahoma and other states to quell antidraft demonstrations which recently have assumed growing proportions. The possibility of sending federal troops into sections where antidraft agitators have been busy, was discussed at conferences between officials of the justice and war departments. The national guard of the country has gone under federal control.

To Be Caught at Any Cost.

Persons resisting the draft law, department of justice officials announced, whether in Oklahoma or elsewhere, will be sought out, run down and brought before the proper authorities, no matter at what cost.

Provost Marshal General E. H. Crowder and Assistant Attorney General Fitts, in charge of the enforcement of the draft law, conferred as to steps to be taken to check draft agitators in North Carolina, Georgia, Oklahoma and other localities.

Face Trial as Deserters.

"Any eligible man taking part in such movements may make my work much easier," said General Crowder. "We will certify them into the new national army, order them to camp and if they fail to answer, we will treat them as ordinary deserters. Then they will not have an opportunity to face an exemption board of their neighbors, but will be made to face a military court."

Mobs Running Rampant.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 5.—Indulging in a dream of revolution and resisting the draft law, at least half a dozen armed bands of tenant farmers, half-breed Indians and negroes are running rampant throughout five counties in east central Oklahoma today.

Three Bridges Burned.

Three railroad bridges are reported to have been burned by the mobs. They are two structures of the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf railway near Calvin and across the Canadian river at Tyrola and one over Salt creek, between Konowa and Maud.

500 to 1,500 Resisters.

As the disturbed territory is about 100 miles long by 90 miles wide, the topography of which is rugged and full of thickets, only an estimate can be made of the total number of rioters. Reports placed the number of resisters variously at 500 to 1,500.

SHIPS BEING BUILT ARE COMMANDEERED BY U. S.

About 675 Vessels Affected By Order Score of Largest Yards Notified By Telegraph.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The shipping board has telegraphed orders to more than a score of the country's largest shipyards requisitioning all ships of 2,500 dead weight tons or more now building. Management of the yards will be in the hands of the present owners, but under government direction.

About 675 ships are affected by the government's order. Their aggregate tonnage is more than 1,500,000. Included are many English, Norwegian, and other vessels on foreign account.

The shipyards and owners of the vessels will receive compensation for the construction work on them so far. The government will take over the contracts and expedite completion of the ships in order to make room for more emergency vessels to overcome submarine losses.

Allies To Fight Until Victory Is Won.

London, Aug. 6.—David Lloyd George, British premier, in the presence of a distinguished gathering in Queens hall to mark the third anniversary of the declaration of war, reiterated the aims for which the Entente Allies were fighting and indicated such were the only conditions under which they would consent to a suspension of hostilities with the Central Powers. The meeting was under the auspices of the National War Aims committee and was probably the greatest patriotic demonstration of the year.

Railroad Laborers on Strike.

Davenport, Iowa, Aug. 6.—Two hundred unorganized laborers at the Rock Island railroad shops at Silvis, Ill., are on strike, demanding a 10 per cent wage increase. Whether a funeral procession would be permitted when the body of Frank Little is borne to the train for transportation to Yale, Okla., was uncertain. City officials fear further violence. Friends of the slain agitator are confident there will be no interference. The inquest has been opened by Coroner Lane, with miners as his jury.

Minnesota State Fair Food Training Camp

SEPTEMBER 3 TO 8

MUCH HONEY WASTED

John Jager—Bee Expert, Tells of Chance for Conservation.

John Jager, superintendent of the Bee and Honey exhibit of the Minnesota State Fair, is authority for the statement that in Minnesota alone there is wasted annually about $19,000,000 in honey which is allowed to go untaken and that there is, therefore, a splendid opportunity for work along the food conservation idea.

If this situation is true in Minnesota, it is also true in other Northwestern states and when the figures are compiled an amazing amount of the purest food obtainable—nature's own food—is found to be absolutely wasted.

Mr. Jager explains that the reason for this tremendous waste is that there are altogether too few bee keepers and he recently predicted that the government will some day provided apiaries for wounded and crippled soldiers returned from the European battlefields, who will be unable to do work of any other kind.

The government this year is to utilize the fairs of the country as food training camps as a means of spreading the doctrine of production and conservation of food and in Washington authorities of the government, working in co-operation with representatives of the fairs, are busy preparing exhibits and demonstrations to show the people how best they can do their individual "bits" to make the movement a success.

Mr. Jager will have charge of the bee and honey exhibit at the state fair and recently he stated that this year's show will be far superior to those of recent years and that visitors to his department will be told of the necessity for more bee keepers and of the attractiveness of the business from a money making point of view.

"Honey is one of nature's purest foods," declared Mr. Jager recently, "and it is a shame to see so much of it actually go to waste merely because there are not enough bee keepers to take care of it. There is a fine chance for attention by those who are working for the conservation of food and I look for added interest in the bee business, which, to my notion, is the most interesting and paying business one can enter.

"There is so much scientific research work connected with bee keeping," he concluded, "that even professional men are beginning to desert their professions and go into the business of raising bees."

INTEREST IS GENERAL

People in All Classes Join Food Conservation Move.

That the food conservation movement has taken on a national aspect and that there is general interest being manifested in it is evident from the reports being published in newspapers throughout the country.

The Twin Cities and the surrounding territory are deeply interested and people in all walks of life have already demonstrated that they are ready and willing to do their bits to help the work along.

Women in the humblest homes are doing all they can to save food and the same may be said of those of the wealthy classes. Prominent people in every line of activity have been enlisted in the cause and during the coming year there should be noticeable results of the work.

So widespread is the interest in the movement that it is predicted the exhibits and demonstrations at the variour fairs which will be turned into food training camps will be given more attention than any of the other features.

War conditions have caused most women to study to do their own housework in the most economical and practical way, is the opinion of a well known member of a women's club. Through the conservation movement to be carried on by the food training camps at the various state fairs the most efficient methods of conserving food and of doing housework are to be explained and demonstrated by government experts.

This is the first year the government has given its official recognition to the fairs and it is predicted both the fairs and the government will benefit by it.

To Divide Roumanian Crop.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—(Via London.)—In addition to the conference of representatives of the Central Powers called to meet at Budapest to discuss the Danube problems, there will be this month an important conference of German and Austro-Hungarian representatives in Vienna to discuss the future disposition of the Roumanian crops. The present understanding covers only the current year.

Mrs. De Saulles Thought Insane.

New York, Aug. 6.—Belief that Mrs. Bianca De Saulles was temporarily insane when she shot and killed her former husband, John L. De Saulles, former famous Yale football player at his Long Island home, has been expressed by Attorney Uterhart, attorney for Mrs. De Saulles. Fear that Mr. De Saulles would insist on keeping their four-year-old son longer than he is said to have agreed, was assigned by Mr. Uterhart as the cause of the mother's dementia and the consequent tragedy.

"I had one of the worst cases of kidney complaint imaginable," says Mrs. Wm. Vogt, 6315 Audrey Ave., Wellston, Mo., "and I was laid up in bed for days at a time.

"My bladder was inflamed and the kidney secretions caused terrible pain. My back was in such bad shape that when I moved the pains were like a knife-thrust. I got so dizzy I couldn't stoop and my head just throbbed with pain. Beads of perspiration would stand on my temples, then I would become cold and numb.

"My heart action was affected and I felt as if I couldn't take another breath. I got so nervous and run down, I felt life wasn't worth living and often wished that I might die so my suffering would be ended. Medicine failed to help me and I was discouraged.

"Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I could tell I was being helped after the first few doses. I kept getting better every day and continued use cured me. A Turkish Love Story.

A Turk knocked at his beloved's door, and a voice answered from within, "Who is there?"

Then he answered, "It is I."

Then the voice said, "This house will not hold thee and me."

And the door was not opened.

Then went the lover into the desert, where there is nothing but Allah, and fasted and prayed in solitude.

And after a year he returned and knocked again at the door.

And again the voice asked, "Who is there?"

And he said, "It is thyself."

And the door was opened to him.—Exchange.

HE WAS WAITING PATIENTLY

Constant Attendant at Play Was Bound to Be on Hand when Erring Wife Was Caught by Husband.

A problem play was being produced in Chicago. One evening it was discovered that a certain man, evidently from the rural district, had attended the play six nights in succession and always sat well down in front. Each night he leaned forward eagerly in his seat and drank in the words of the drama.

These facts were communicated to the theater press agent, who scented a good story. Approaching the interested spectator between the acts, he apologized for his intrusion and said: "Would you mind telling me just why you are so interested in this play? Do you know some member of the cast?"

"Nope," said the man from the outlands. "That ain't it. But I'll tell you about it. You know the scene in the private room of the restaurant, where the dark man and the other man's wife get up and leave by the left-hand door just a moment before the woman's husband enters by the right-hand door?"

"Yes," said the press agent expectantly.

"Well," said the interested spectator, "some night the husband's going to come in before they leave."

Her Idea.

Wifey—James, make a little garden for me in the back yard.

Hubby—Going into amateur gardening?

Wifey—Yes; I get some bird seed and I'm going to try to raise canaries.

"I'm glad you're over the draft age."

"Why?"

"Think how humiliated I should be to have to admit that I was dependent on your stingy salary every week for my living."

The True Word.

Two elderly New York clubmen who have retired spend much of their time gazing out upon the Fifth avenue throngs from their leather rest chairs at a club lounge window.

Charles B. Towns was seated near them the other day. A very stunning woman of middle age passed in a handsome turnout.

"I wonder how old she is?" said one.

"Woman is as old as she looks," was the reply.

There was a pause. "And man is not old until he quits looking," said the first—and both resumed their gazing.

Quite Happy.

Through the wild way of her good-for-nothing husband, a hard-working charwoman had to remove to a little two-roomed cottage, where there was scarcely space to sneeze without shaking the ornaments from the mantelpiece.

"It's hard lines for you to be brought down like this, after what you've been accustomed to," said a sympathetic neighbor. "I don't doubt you feel very miserable, Mrs. Jones."

"No, I don't," the charwoman stoutly denied. "I'm happier here by a long way than I used to be in the old place. For one thing, when my husband comes home in a brute of a temper, he can't throw me down the cellar steps, as he used to, 'cos there ain't none now!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Didn't Seem to Be "Free" Seeds.

An Indiana congressman recently made a liberal distribution of free seeds, sending them to his constituents in franked envelopes on which appeared the regular warning, "Penalty for private use, $300," says the Indianapolis News. A few days later one of his supporters wrote:

"I don't know what to do about those garden seeds you sent me. I notice it is $300 fine for private use. I don't want to use them for the public. I want to plant them in my private garden. I can't afford to pay $300 for the privilege. Won't you see if you can fix it so I can use them privately? I am a law-abiding citizen, and do not want to commit a crime."

An Apology.

"Are you not ashamed to use poisoned arrows?

"I'm doing the best I can in my limited way," whimpered the savage. "Of course, poisoned arrows only get 'em one at a time. But we lack the mechanical facilities for wholesale operations with U-boats."

The State In Brief

On the basis that it is unpatriotic not to work during the vacation period in war times, Winona business men and their employes are enlisting to work on farms through the Minnesota Safety Commission's farm labor bureau in Winona.

The Federal Trade Commission will begin in a few days a flour milling investigation as a part of its general food inquiry. A corps of investigators under Dr. E. O. Merchant of the commission will come to Minneapolis within a few days from Washington for the purpose.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Minnesota Commission of Public Safety, of which Mrs. T. G. Winter is director, offers a prize of $15 for the best patriotic poster made by a pupil in the public schools of the state, and $5 for the second prize.

Another advance of 10 cents a ton in the price of coal has gone into effect at Duluth. Consumers are paying the highest prices in the history of the trade there. Quotations in anthracite coal are now $1.10 higher than at this time last year. Dealers do not hold out hope of lower prices.

The threat made by Industrial Workers of the World agitators in Gogebic county, Michigan, that the Mesaba range miners would walk out in sympathy with the Wolverine strike, was branded falsehood by miners themselves at Hibbing, who are satisfied with conditions and wages.

At least 75 per cent of the men examined so far by Minneapolis ward boards have signified intention of claiming exemptions, according to announcements from those boards which have begun their tasks. The chief reason given for exemption claims is that of dependent families or other relatives.

The First Minnesota infantry will be continued on property guard service in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth until August 15, and possibly until August 31, depending on the organization of the new Fourth infantry, according to a telegram received by Governor Burnquist, from General Barry at Chicago.

A new form of patriotism has developed in Winona. Notaries public have come forth prepared to do their "bit" in the war. Notices have been sent local young men who will report for physical examinations for the new selective army. Those who ask exemption will require affidavits. These the notaries public will furnish free.

A near riot occurred at Hutchinson when J. O. Bentall, a socialist speaker, accused Postmaster Sam G. Anderson of holding up mail for him containing anti-draft literature. The postmaster jumped on the platform and offered to thrash the speaker. Fully 5,000 persons, mostly German farmers, witnessed the affair. Bentall later apologized and escaped from the town before a mob, made up of draft supporters, could reach him.

With a prospect of dozens of crates of berries going to waste because of the labor shortage, fruit growers in the vicinity of Minneapolis are sending out urgent S. O. S.—or rather, "Save Our Berries"—calls for amateur pickers. A hurry call for pickers came to the Minnesota Public Safety commission's free employment bureau. Some of the farmers, rather than allow the berries to rot on the bushes, are offering 50 per cent for the picking.

Students at the Fort Snelling officers' training camp who fail to qualify for commissions and the students who already have been dismissed from camp are to have an opportunity to enlist in the infantry service of the national army with the understanding that they are to be assigned as noncommissioned officers and that they may be promoted to commissioned grades. This information was received by Brig. Gen. William H. Sage, camp commandant at Fort Snelling, in a telegram from the Central department.

Conrad Heimlein, 55 years old, a well known Goodhue county farmer, was killed near Red Wing when struck by lightning.

W. H. Sherman, 60 years old, of Winnipeg, formerly wholesale liquor dealer, died at Detroit from potomaine poisoning.

Forest fires which threatened early Sunday to become serious in the Bemidji neighborhood are reported under control by rangers at Brush, Shevlin, Leonard, Lengby, Ebro and Witched Forest.

Winona hotels will not join in the meatless day proposals unless all hotels in the state agree upon definite days upon which to refrain from using meat, according to C. A. Hine, manager of Hotel Winona.

Establishment of public markets in Minnesota cities and suspension of license regulations hindering food products sales are recommended to city councils in a resolution adopted by the State Public Safety Commission in executive session at the Capitol.

Instructions have been issued to department commanders to withdraw no national guard troops from their states without first consulting the governor of the state to which the units belong. In case of a disagreement between any governor and commander the proposal must be submitted to Washington. This is according to word received by Governor Burnquist from Washington.

After his mother warned him to stay away from the river, Clifford Mahnes, 13 years old of St. Cloud went in bathing Saturday and was drowned.

GOOD ROADS WORK TO BEGIN SHORTLY

STATE AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO SHARE IN COST OF IMPROVING HIGHWAYS.

TO HELP MARKET NEW CROPS

Eleven Are Named by State Food Commission to Assist in Fighting Waste in Selling Products.

St. Paul.

Minnesota good roads work toward which the federal government will contribute $142,000 this year, will begin within the next few weeks, George C. Scales, assistant manager of the Minneapolis office of the United States department of public roads, announces.

The first project to which the government will contribute will be a $110,000 road in Chisago county. Other road work in which the government will join includes a $46,000 project in Freeborn county, and a $160,000 expenditure in Pine county; Crow Wing county, $60,000; Mille Lacs county, $100,000; Winona county, $24,000, and Washington county, $20,000.

* * *

The markets division of the state food production and conservation commission perfected plans to educate the farmers and gardeners in every county of the state through a personal service campaign to advantageously market their surplus products without waste to themselves or the consumers.

The plan is intended mainly to aid the producer in finding markets for crops he has grown for the first time.

A corps of eleven representative men will scatter over the state to cover every county and assist the local committees already proposed by the State Public Safety Commission to work out various market problems.

Special attention will be given to arranging for storage for perishable crops on the farms and in towns.

The movement will extend also to distribution of the coal supply, deliveries of necessary machinery and machine repairs and to handling crops.

Other Appointments.

Other appointments announced by Gov. Burnquist are:

Carrie Rankeillour of Minneapolis, member of the State Board of Examiners of Nurses, vice Harriet B. Leach of Minneapolis, resigned.

Mrs. Margaret Huntington of Northfield, member of State Library Commission, re-appointed.

W. M. Taber of Park Rapids, member of State Forestry Board, vice H. Oldenburg of Carlton, who declined reappointment.

J. F. Ingersoll of Crookston, member of State Board of Grain Appeals re-appointed.

W. H. Rubins of Minneapolis, member of Governing Board of State Art Society, vice Edwin H. Hewitt of Minneapolis, whose term expired, and Mrs. Andreas Ueland of Minneapolis and Thomas C. Holyoke of St. Paul, re-appointed.

State Food Quiz Program.

Beginning with the "staff of life," the state investigation committee charged by the Minnesota Public Safety Commission with the duty of ascertaining the cost of living and notably any exorbitant prices of the necessities of life decided at a meeting at the Capitol to inquire first into the cost of flour.

"Ham and bacon and other meats will be taken up next," the chairman, Colonel C. H. March, said, "but the flour prices will be dealt with first of all. Then in order will be considered the prices of wheat and next the prices of pork and beef and other meats as staple food products."

Quane Quits Second Infantry.

Major Oliver J. Quane, St. Paul, has announced his decision to resign from the Second Minnesota Infantry to become a major in the newly organized Second Minnesota Field artillery.

This followed the commission to Major George T. Gorham as lieutenant colonel of the new regiment of gunners.

Will Not Remove Sheriff.

Sheriff Joseph J. Urness of Mahnomen county will not be removed from office on the evidence on which the State Public Safety commission recommended his summary removal by Governor Burnquist under the authority of the 1917 law creating the commission, according to a statement made last night by the governor. The sheriff denied the charges on which the state commission recommended his removal and the governor was advised that removal at this time would be ill advised.

WHERE SEASONS ARE MIXED

Caves Exist in United States in Which Ice Freezes in Summer and Thaws in Winter.

There are several caves in the United States where nature seems to have become confused as to the seasons, according to Popular Science Monthly. During the late spring and summer ice forms, but as winter comes on the interior of the caves becomes milder, the ice gradually melts and a kind of subdued summer sets in underground.

One of these peculiar caves is to be found at Coudersport, Pa., and one at Decorah, Ia. The superstitious among the residents of those localities give the caves a wide berth and look with suspicion upon anyone daring enough to attempt to investigate them. Edwin S. Balch of Philadelphia, who has made a study of the subterranean ice mines, as they are called, states that according to the theory evolved by investigators the formation of the caverns is such that the cold air of winter does not penetrate and settle in them until late in the spring at the time when the water from spring thaws is seping through the walls and roof. This water meeting the cold air freezes and stays frozen all summer until, as the fall season approaches, the warm summer air at last finds its way into the cave and melts the ice.

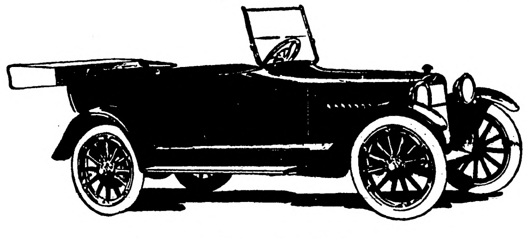
SAXON "SIX"

A BIG TOURING CAR FOR FIVE PEOPLE



25.9 Miles Per Gal. of Gas

234 stock model Saxon "Sixes" travel 70,200 miles July 18 and set grand average of 25.9 miles per gal. of gas

To give a national demonstration of the remarkable gasoline economy of Saxon "Six", 234 Saxon dealers joined in a 300 mile drive July 18.

A grand average of 25.9 miles per gallon of gasoline was registered for the 70,200 miles of travel.

Consider that this run took place in 234 different parts of the country, under 234 different sets of conditions, over 234 different kinds of roads.

Consider that these 234 cars were stock model Saxon "Sixes", not "tuned up" special cars, not cars with "doped" gasoline.

That proves that this 25.9 miles per gallon of gasoline is the ordinary the average performance of 234 Saxon "Sixes" taken right out of stock.

And it proves as nothing else would prove, the gasoline economy your Saxon "Six" will give you. No other car in its class can match this record.

Furthermore, these 234 Saxon "Sixes" averaged 175 miles per quart of oil.

And not a single instance of mechanical trouble occurred throughout the entire 70,200 miles.

There is the proof that Saxon "Six" is your kind of a car. Price f. o. b. Detroit, $935.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing women for victory

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

You can save 45 cents by subscribing by the year through us instead of buying single copies. Call at our office and examine the current issue or mail your (new or renewal) subscription to us at once. Remember, a year's subscription for only 25 cents for the magazine that would be cheap at $1.50.

SOLD SHOTGUN FOR TEN DOLLARS

And Filed on Western Canada Land. Now Worth $50,000.

Lawrence Bros. of Vera, Saskatchewan, are looked upon as being amongst the most progressive farmers in Western Canada. They have had their "ups-and-downs," and know what it is to be in tight pinches. They persevered, and are now in an excellent financial position. Their story is an interesting one. Coming in from the states they traveled overland from Calgary across the Battle river, the Red Deer river, through the Eagle Hills and on to Battleford. On the way their horses were stolen, but this did not dishearten them. They had some money, with which they bought more horses, and some provisions. When they reached Battleford they had only money enough to pay their ferriage over the Saskatchewan river, and this they had to borrow. It was in 1906 that they filed on homesteads, having to sell a shotgun for ten dollars in order to get sufficient money to do so. Frank Lawrence says:

"Since that time we have acquired altogether a section and a half of land, in addition to renting another three quarters of a section. If we had to sell out now we could probably realize about $50,000, and have made all this since we came here. We get crops in this district of from 30 to 35 bushels of wheat to the acre and oats from 40 to 80 bushels to the acre. Stock here pays well. We have 1,700 sheep, 70 cattle and 60 horses, of which a number are registered Clydes."

Similar successes might be given of the experiences of hundreds of farmers throughout Western Canada, who have done comparatively as well. Why should they not dress well, live well, have comfortable homes, with all modern equipments, electric light, steam heat, pure ventilation, and automobiles. Speaking of automobiles it will be a revelation to the reader to learn that during the first half of 1917, 16,000 automobile licenses were issued in Alberta, twice as many as in the whole of 1916. In Saskatchewan, 21,000 licenses were issued up to the first of May, 1917. In its monthly bulletin for June the Canadian Bank of Commerce makes special reference to this phase and to the general prosperity of the West in the following:

"Generally speaking the western farmer is, in many respects, in a much better position than hitherto to increase his production. Two years of high prices for his products have enabled him, even with a normal crop, to liquidate a substantial proportion of his liabilities and at the same time to buy improved farm machinery. His prosperity is reflected in the demand for building materials motor cars and other equipment. It is no doubt true that some extravagance is evidenced by the astonishing demand for motor cars, but it must be remembered that many of these cars will make for efficiency on the farm and economize both time and labor."—Advertisement.

Why Bottle Was Empty.

One delight of small Harold was to go on an errand to a neighboring store. After school yesterday at No. 3 he was sent by his mother to get a siphon of vichy. He was long in returning. When he did arrive, his mother scolded him for consuming so much time.

"Why," she exclaimed, "and the siphon is nearly empty. Do you mean to tell me that is all the vichy there was in the bottle when you got it?"

"Well, mamma," Harold replied, "on the way home I met little Sarah's cat."

"Well?"

"The cat said 'p-s-s-t' to me and the siphon said 'p-s-s-t' to her."

Maybe He Did.

The couple had stopped before the brilliantly bejeweled window of a shop in Fifth avenue, near Thirty-seventh street, New York. The girl, petite and altogether a treat to the passing masculine eye—passing, but hesitatingly so—was gowned charmingly in something which clung to her affectionately, pardonably so.

"Oh, Harold!" she exclaimed, "did you know that knee vanity boxes were becoming all the rage?"

"So I see," replied the unashamed Harold.

"You horrid thing! You do not."

SOCIALIST ENVOYS TO PEACE MEETING DENIED PASSPORTS

ALLIED NATIONS FOLLOW UNITED STATES' LEAD—FORBID ATTENDANCE AT STOCKHOLM PARLEY.

LLOYD GEORGE BITTERLY ARRAIGNED IN COMMONS

Premier Criticized By Arthur Henderson Who Resigned As Member of Cabinet—Bonar Law Holds Conference With Enemy Subjects Is Illegal.

London, Aug. 14.—The Allied nations have agreed that no passports shall be issued to Socialists desiring to attend the international conference scheduled in Stockholm next month at which peace was to be discussed.

Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, speaking for the government in the house of commons, announced that Great Britain, France and Italy had agreed with the United States that passports permitting attendance at the Stockholm conference would be withheld.

Bonar Law's Statement.

Mr. Bonar Law said:

"The law offices of the crown have advised the government that it is not legal for any person resident in his majesty's dominions to engage in a conference with enemy subjects. Therefore permission to attend the Stockholm conference will not be granted."

England's decision not to grant passports was also announced by Foreign Minister Arthur J. Balfour. He told commons that passports for Irish trade unionists to Stockholm could not be granted.

Invitations By Slavs.

Invitations to the conference were originally issued by the Russians. Premier Kerensky is declared to be opposed to the session, but whether passports will be denied Russian delegates is not yet clear.

The decision of the governments to act in concert in refusing passports will nullify the action taken by French Socialists in voting to send ten delegates.

Arthur Henderson, who resigned as Labor member of the British cabinet, following action taken by the Labor party in voting to send delegates to Stockholm, bitterly arraigned Premier Lloyd George in the house of commons.

TEMPORARY "DRY" ORDER IN KANSAS CITY SEEN

U. S. Marshals "Advise" Nearly 300 Saloonkeepers To Close While Troops Are In Town.

Kansas City, Aug. 14.—United States deputy marshals have been "advising" between 200 and 300 saloonkeepers, principally in the heart of the business district, to cease the sale of intoxicating liquor in line with President Wilson's recent proclamation ordering saloons closed within half a mile of military camps.

Federal officials expected that the outcome would make the downtown district of Kansas City "dry" for the first time in its history.

The troops quartered here may be moved out of the city within a few days and the saloons permitted to reopen.

TWO OF TWENTY GERMAN RAIDERS BROUGHT DOWN

Enemy Airplanes, Which Killed 23 and Injured 50 In England Attacked Off Flanders Coast.

London, Aug. 14.—Two of the German airplanes which raided the coast resort of South End and other towns Sunday, were brought down by British flyers, the admiralty announces.

The machines were brought down off the coast of Flanders. One of them was a "Gotha," the new type of German plane, while the other was a seaplane.

The admiralty statement estimated 20 machines as taking part in the raid which resulted in the death of 23 persons and the injury of 50.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Denouncing Senator La Follette "and his pacifist colleagues in Congress" as "friends of the kaiser," Rev. D. H. Martin, pastor of Wesley M. E. church, declared them "unfit to hold seats in Congress." The pastor's sermon was on "The Friends of the Kaiser in America."

To Curb U. S. Gasoline Waste.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Warning of the possibility of drastic action by the federal government to stop excessive pleasure use of automobiles during the war in order that the gasoline needs of the United States and its Allies may be met is given in a statement issued by Director Van H. Manning of the Bureau of Mines, in which he asks the co-operation of automobile owners in stopping the practice. Enough gasoline to care for the requirements of America and perhaps those of its Allies would be saved.

TEUTONS EJECTED FROM ST. QUENTIN REGION BY FRENCH

DRIVEN FROM POSITIONS THEY HAD PREVIOUSLY CAPTURED THE GERMANS ALSO LOSE GROUND NEAR FAYET.

SIX GERMAN ASSAULTS ON BRITISH ARE FAILURES

Army of Crown Prince in Flanders Suffers Further Losses—Canadians Come in For Heavy Shelling By Enemy—Austrians Are Gaining on Russians.

Paris, Aug. 13.—North of St. Quentin French troops have made important progress in the region of Fayet, says the official statement given out by the French war department. The French ejected the Germans from a large part of the terrain which they had captured on the night of August 9-10.

Six German Attacks Fail.

London, Aug. 12.—Six German assaults were made on the British positions to the east of Ypres during the night, according to the British official statement. They all broke down after fierce fighting.

Field Marshal Haig reported the British maintained their positions to the east of Ypres and gained ground near the Ypres-Menin road.

Gain on Teuton Lines.

Both the British and French armies in Flanders have again struck hard blows at the Germans and made further gains in the line of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria. While the fighting has occurred only on isolated sectors, it appears that the heavy artillery duels all along the front are the forerunners of a resumption of the big allied offensive which the rain stopped almost at its inception more than a week ago.

Driving eastward from the sector of Ypres, the British took all the German first line positions east of Hooge, on a nine-mile front, between Frezenburg and the Ypres-Menin road, and held them in their entirety despite the usual counter-attacks launched by the Germans under an extremely heavy barrage fire.

French Capture Farms.

To the north near Bixschoote and Langwarck, French troops have captured several farms held by the Germans and also have captured a number of machine guns. These gains are another forward step toward the Ostend-Lille railroad.

The Canadians, in their trenches at the doorstep of Lens and the British forces holding trenches south of Vimy ridge are coming in for intensive shelling from the Germans. On the long-neglected front near St. Quentin the Germans have delivered a surprise attack of considerable proportions, but were unsuccessful except at some weak points in the center of the French line. The Germans suffered heavy casualties in these attacks.

Likewise along the Aisne front the Germans have delivered onslaughts against the French, but here also they met with defeat.

Russians Lose Positions.

Aside from the front in France little fighting of moment is taking place except in Galicia, Bukowina and southern Moldavia. In all these sectors the Germans and Austro-Hungarians are declared by Berlin to be continuing their gains. Southeast of Czernowitz the Germans have penetrated the Russian frontier positions and further south with their allies they have taken height positions between the Trotus and Putna valleys, and in southern Moldavia, in the region of Fokshani, they have thrown their forces across the Suchina river on a wide front.

Allied warships have been bombarding the Turkish batteries along the coast of Asia Minor, according to a dispatch from Athens.

OFFERS PEACE RESOLUTION

La Follette Wants U. S. to Definitely Define Objects.

Washington, Aug. 13.—A peace resolution has been introduced in the Senate by Senator La Follette providing that the United States define definitely the objects for which it shall continue to wage war and that the Allies also make a public restatement of the peace terms which they will demand.

The resolution seeks to put congress on record as opposing support by the United States for annexation or indemnities for other nations and proposes the amassing of a common fund by all the belligerents for restoration of battle-devastated territory.

Regular Army at War Strength.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The regular army is raised to its full strength of 300,000. Twenty-three states which filled their quotas are California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Recruiting will continue without any let-up, as the war department expects to keep up a steady flow of volunteers into the reserve.

Disturbing Remark.

A country lawyer was defending a prisoner who had killed a man by hitting him on the head with a brick. The case against the prisoner being quite clear, the counsel endeavored to get his client off by making a perfervid speech. He said: "The responsibility of defending my client is almost overwhelming. This morning, as I was walking in my garden enjoying the lovely sunshine and balmy air, listening to the birds singing, and looking at all the beautiful flowers, I said to myself, 'My poor client, immured in his cell, can see none of these things!'"

Just then a spectator at the back of the court shouted: Neither can the man he hit on the head with a brick!"

WOMAN COULD HARDLY STAND

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fulton, N. Y.—"Why will women pay out their money for treatment and receive no benefit, when so many have proved that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make them well? For over a year I suffered so from female weakness I could hardly stand and was afraid to go on the street alone. Doctors said medicines were useless and only an operation would help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved it otherwise. I am now perfectly well and can do any kind of work."—Mrs. NELLIE PHELPS, care of R. A. Rider, R.F.D. No. 5, Fulton, N. Y.

Children and Untruths.

Why do children lie? Edwin S. Puller in the Mothers' Magazine answers the question by saying that the imagination of a child is stronger than his intellect, that fiction is as real to a child as fact.

"The cure for lies inspired by imagination," he asserted, "is the education of the child's intellect to distinguish between fact and fancy. As his error is mental, not normal, his cure must be mental. It would be a grave error of training to attempt to suppress his imagination as a cure for his untruths. Imagination is the mainspring which moves his mentality to growth, hence it should be directed into rational channels and not curbed.

The Secret of Youth.

After all, the plain truth is that adventure consists less in the experiences one actually has than in the indefatigable expectancy with which one awaits them, writes Edgar J. Goodspeed in the Atlantic. Indeed, I sometimes fear that people must be divided into those who have adventures and those who appreciate them. And between the two the affinity for adventure is greater treasure than the experiencing of it. If we are possessed of the affinity, adventure itself is, at most, just round the corner from us. This opens the life of adventure to all who crave it. What possibilities lie in merely crossing a street, for example! Some one remarked the other day as he dodged across among the motorcars, "Why not take a chance now and then and lead a real life for a few minutes?"

I therefore recommend the life of adventure. It conceives each day as a fresh enterprise, full of delightful possibilities and promise, and so preserves the wine of life from growing flat.

Here is the secret of youth.

Squelched.

A family tree is unquestionably of equal value to some persons as is real estate of a more material nature. But it all depends upon whether or not the branches of the tree are clean limbed. This was the decision reached by the two men discussing ancestry and heredity and such philosophy.

"I had my own family pedigree traced by a genealogical authority last week," said the taller of the two men.

"Indeed! What did it cost you?"

"Fifty dollars hush money."

In the western section of Minnesota, in the Red River valley region, a good crop is being harvested. This is true particularly of Clay, Wilkin and Norman counties. The grain crop is better than earlier reports indicated. Rain has been of material benefit to the potato and corn crops. The great potato acreage in Clay county now bids fair to yield well.

MINNESOTA WHEAT CROP TO BE 61,332,000 BUSHELS

Minnesota's wheat crop this year will be 61,332,000 bushels, or approximately 34,000,000 bushels more than last year, according to the United States Department of Agriculture estimates for Aug. 1.

COST TO STATE OF FOURTH INFANTRY

EXPENSE AMOUNTS TO HALF MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR FOR ONLY FIVE COMPANIES.

NO CHANGE IN FOOD PLANS

State Dairy Commissioner Gives Opinions on Distribution Following Conference He Attended at Washington.

St. Paul.

A war bill for Minnesota taxpayers will be increased at the rate of an additional $500,000 a year for maintenance of the new Fourth infantry of the Minnesota national guard which is being organized to remain at home and relieve the First Minnesota infantry and other forces now guarding industries and other property. Capt. W. F. Rhinow, military secretary to the governor, announced that the new regiment would be maintained from the general revenue fund of the state under legal provision.

Announcement of the plans for organization of the new regiment caused much speculation as to how it would be financed. Guardsmen in state service receive $2 a day and 75 cents additional for subsistence, and a military statistician estimated that maintenance of a full regiment would cost the state approximately $1,000,000 a year. Then it was explained that only five companies are to be recruited and the expense probably would not exceed $500,000 a year.

Subsequent reports were that the regular national guard funds of about $116,000 for the current year and a balance of approximately $500,000 in the $1,000,000 appropriation of the Public Safety commission would not warrant such an expenditure. The announcement by Captain Rhinow yesterday that the general revenue funds of the state may be drawn upon for the maintenance of the new regiment ended speculation on the subject of finances.

No Change in Food Distribution.

Continuation of food distribution through the usual channels without important changes in methods during the war was predicted by Commissioner J. J. Farrell of the State Dairy and Food commission. He has just returned from a brief conference in Washington, D. C., with Herbert C. Hoover, federal food controller, and the annual meeting at Atlantic City of the American Association of Dairy, Food and Drug Officials, of which he was president.

"Food distribution will go on through the regular established channels, in my opinion," said Mr. Farrell, "and the most important wartime regulation will be toward preventing waste and speculation.

"Government officials may be expected to keep in close touch with available supplies to guard against unnecessary shortages. The federal control will be primarily to conserve foodstuffs.

"The merchants 'in transit,' those who keep food surpluses in cars on track and pay demurrage and still make big profits, will be eliminated to a great extent, I believe."

To Charge for State Patients.

Secretary Downer and E. W. Allen, an agent of the State Board of Control, have gone to Columbus, Ohio, to inspect a system by which that state collects $10 a month for the care of patients in state hospitals and asylums for the insane. A similar system is to be established in Minnesota under a 1917 law and may be copied after the Ohio plan. Investigation, to determine which patients are financially able or who have relatives who can partly reimburse the state for their care, was begun several weeks ago by the board of control. The board of control members are in St. Cloud today for a quarterly conference with superintendents of state institutions on new laws relating to child welfare.

Anti-Draft Talk Wide.

Anti-draft sentiment has infected large areas in scattered sections of Minnesota and is fast spreading, Secretary John S. Pardee of the Public Safety Commission said, following receipt of reports of new outbreaks in various districts and in advance of a conference of safety commissioners to further discuss the existing conditions.

The state war board has given much consideration to the prevalence of un-American sentiment in various localities of the state, but has yet to make public any moves to counteract it other than to instruct local authorities of their sworn duty to prevent disorder and to enforce the laws, notably that relating to unlawful assembly.

Hearing of Officials Postponed.

Postponement for a few days of the conference with New Ulm officials who took part in the recent anti-draft meeting there was announced today by the Public Safety Commission because of lack of a quorum. The officials previously were cited to appear before the board late today.

The members said that postponement of the meeting with New Ulm and Brown county officials for a full quorum did not indicate that any drastic action was contemplated.

HAWAIIANS SEEK DEATH IN LAVA

Fanatics Attempt to Make Sacrifice to Pele, the Goddess of Fire.

LED BY SCHOOL GIRL

Twenty-Six Persons Begin Trip Up the Lava-Encrusted Slopes, but Exhaustion Thwarts Their Purpose.

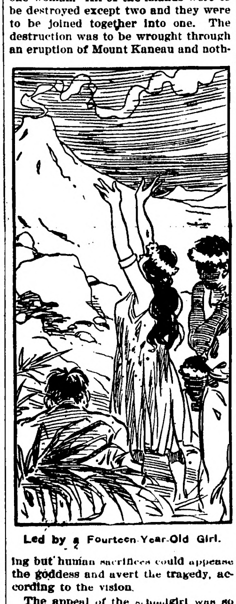
Honolulu.—Twenty-six Hawaiians, led by a fourteen-year-old schoolgirl, sought to fling themselves into the boiling lava of Kilahea crater on the recent anniversary of King Kamehameha the Great. The fanatics were attempting to make a human sacrifice to Pele, the goddess of fire. Their plans were frustrated when they fell exhausted on the mountainsides after the long journey toward the volcano.

The pilgrimage was started from Hookena, Hawaii, by old men and women, children and even infants in arms, all unprovided with food and water and scantily clad. The blazing sun of the lava-encrusted slopes overcame the pilgrims after a day and a night of continuous traveling, and they were found by A. R. Gasper, who operates an automobile stage around the island from Hilo to Kona.

Vision Revealed to Girl.

The schoolgirl, Kaneau by name, had recently made an appeal to the people of Hookena telling them of a vision that had been revealed to her in a dream. She said that the spirit of the goddess Pele had come to her and told of the destruction that was to visit the islands on the king's anniversary.

Every living being was to be destroyed, she said, except one man and one woman. All of the islands were to be destroyed except two and they were to be joined together into one. The destruction was to be wrought through an eruption of Mount Kaneau and nothing but human sacrifices could appease the goddess and avert the tragedy, according to the vision.



Led by a Fourteen-Year-Old Girl.

The appeal of the schoolgirl was so eloquent that 26 persons were imbued with the spirit of primitive Hawaii and decided to sacrifice themselves. They planned to go to the brink of the crater and leap into the seething lava.

USES FIRE TO START MULE

Percy Lands in Jail After Furnishing Considerable Excitement for Fire Department.

Pleasantville, N. J.—Percy Cline saw a balky Missouri mule leaning sound asleep against a lamp post in one of the busiest streets of Pleasantville last night. Percy stopped and watched with interest while the mule owner tried every conceivable way to make the animal go, except the Missouri sure-fire method of tickling the mule's left hand hoof with a straw, but the mule only blinked, sighed deeply and settled himself more firmly against the post.

"I'll bet I can make her go," remarked Percy with the modesty of genius. "I'll build a fire under her, and then she'll go."

"If you do," said an agent of the S. P. C. A., who was also a spectator, "I'll arrest you for cruelty to animals."

"Shucks!" said Percy. "You can't be cruel to a mule. I'll do it, and I bet he'll go."

He did. And the mule did. And the agent did.

The fire department put out the fire, the society's agent put Percy in jail and the mule was still going in the general direction of San Francisco when last seen.

Kimball, Neb.—A bolt of lightning snipped off one toe from the foot of Mrs. Isaac Barrett when she was sitting on her porch during a storm. She was left otherwise uninjured.

Kilauea's Lava Lake.

Early reports indicate that the alarms of war will not prevent many Americans from visiting their new national park in Hawaii. Three celebrated volcanoes, Kilauea, Mauna Loa and Haleakala are in the new reservation. The lava lake at Kilauea, a spectacle which has drawn thousands of visitors in past years from every part of the world, will be, it is predicted, unusually spectacular this season because of the recent increased volcanic activity in the region.

This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming in Western Canada is as profitable an industry as grain growing.

APOLOGIZING TO THE TIGER

Raymond Blathwayt Tells of His Experiences While Connected With a Traveling Menagerie.

In a book of reminiscences, "Through Life and Round the World," Raymond Blathwayt tells the following story in connection with a traveling menagerie he attached himself to while knocking about the West during his salad days.

"One day just after breakfast," he says, "I peeped in at the messroom door. There was a full-grown tiger licking the jam and bacon off the plates.

"'Oh, I beg your pardon!' I ejaculated, as I hastily shut the door. A moment after I met Jack, the tiger's keeper.

"'I can't find that other tiger nowhere,' he said to me. 'I guess I've mislaid the old critter.'

"'You have,' I testily replied, for I was a good deal annoyed with the danger I had so narrowly escaped. 'You'll find him in the messroom licking the plates.'

"'Thank you, mate,' he said.

"An hour after I overheard the proprietor asking his little son if he had washed up the breakfast dishes.

"'Hadn't no need to, pop; the tiger licked 'em like he knew they wanted cleanin'!'"

The Family Pride.

"I suppose you're proud of your boy Josh, now that he's in the army."

"Of course," said Farmer Corntossel. "But that's not so important just now. What I'm supposed to do is to hustle an' run this farm in a way that'll make Josh proud o' me."

Subtle Patriotism.

"That's a funny little coat you're wearing."

"I know it. The tailors are doing the proper thing just now and making all clothes that aren't soldier clothes look as ridiculous as possible."

Position.

"What is your old enemy's position on this event?"

"I don't know exactly," replied Senator Sorghum. "But whatever his position is, it pays a good salary, or he wouldn't accept it."—Washington Star.

No Promotion.

"What business did you say the boss was in?" asked the clerk.

"Why, he's a promoter," replied the superintendent.

"Well, there must be some mistake. He's never promoted me. I've held the same insignificant job ever since I've been here."

The Serene Uninformed.

"What a man doesn't know doesn't hurt him," said the superficial philosopher.

"No," replied the cynical statesman; "but if he gets into a responsible position what he doesn't know is likely to hurt a whole lot of other people."

"Of course not. How otherwise could they stand?"

STRAW SHOULD BE SPREAD.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The feeding value of straw being comparatively low, and the fertilizing value being high, all straw should be spread upon the fields and not burned or wasted. The use of straw to prevent winter-killing of wheat is now well established.

THE DAIRY RATION

Feeding Tables Hard to Follow on Account of Variation of Ingredients.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

For many years feeders have endeavored to use so-called standard tables showing the theoretical number of pounds each of so-called digestible protein, fats and carbohydrates. These methods are fatally defective for the following reasons:

First, the tables call for so much digestible food. If there was such a thing as digestible food it might furnish a basis to go by, but digestible food is really apparently digestible food, in that it disappears in the body. Just what use is made of it is not always clear. Some of it turns into gas, some is converted into heat, and much of it is used in the labor of digesting and handling the food. In the case of straw and similar material, nearly all of its energy is used up in the labor of digesting it, leaving little or no net gain. Straw should be returned to the soil. Take two samples of dried barley grains, each containing the same amount of digestible food, and one will give twenty more therms or heat units than the other.

One hundred pounds of digestible food derived from roughage is about equal to eighty pounds derived from grain, so if we add together things which are unlike, we get no tangible results. It is like adding so many pounds to so many gallons. So, the digestible basis of figuring rations is very inaccurate. The correct way is, first, to ascertain how much protein and energy a cow needs to sustain life and keep weight. You can get this from your experiment station, and ascertain how much is necessary to make one pound of milk of a certain fat test, and then feed her as much protein and energy as is needed to maintain her and supply food for as many pounds of milk as she can make.

This is a very difficult problem and few can do it, and we challenge any two men to tackle the same problem under the same conditions and arrive at the same result.

We cannot tell unless we try to find out, that a cow will not give more milk on more feed, or maybe as much milk on less feed. So feeding is largely experimental, as no two cows are alike.

However, the law of averages will hold, and the feeder can save all this trouble and much loss by feeding a ration which his experiment station has in most cases made, say three to four pounds of milk for each pound of mixed feed.

There is one thing certain. The more solids and fat in the milk, the more feed needed per pound of milk. So, a good mixed feed which is properly combined and all the roughage she will eat will greatly simplify your feeding problem and a very little experimenting will soon show you how much concentrates each cow needs to produce a maximum yield.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; home-making as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing women for victory

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

INTEREST INCREASES IN FOOD CAMP

President Wilson And Food Administrator Hoover Back Movement To Utilize State Fairs And Expositions As Food Training Camps—People To Be Taught To Produce And Conserve.

The Food Training Camp to be conducted in connection with the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 3 to 8, is expected to prove one of the strongest cards in the government's food conservation campaign in this section of the country.

The food training camp movement is gathering force every day; public interest is becoming aroused; practically every organization in this state taking part in the food conservation work is co-operating to make the camp a success; the government has endorsed and is now helping to direct the movement and the exhibitors at the fair are offering to do their share in making it a success.

Practically every department at the fair will take a part in the work of food training. Virtually all of the exhibitors will, in their displays, lay emphasis upon the necessity of conserving our food supplies. Lecturers and demonstrators will be on hand to explain the food problems which now confront the American people, the plan being, not only to impress upon all visitors to the fair the necessity of making an economical use of food, but to show specific ways in which every man, woman and child may do a share.

Government Enthusiastic.

The government, particularly, is enthusiastic over the possibilities the food training camp offers for teaching food efficiency. Not only Mr. Hoover, food administrator, but President Wilson, himself, and the Department of Agriculture have endorsed the camp. It is the plan of the government to make the most of the opportunities offered by sending out lecturers and demonstrators to speak at the fair, and by arranging a series of exhibits by the different government departments, including the Army, Navy, Agricultural and Mr. Hoover's food department.

The government sees in the food training camp, for one thing, the possibility of reaching, in a result-getting manner, the men and women of the rural districts and from the farm. This has been one of the government's big problems in its food conservation campaign.

The people of the cities it is not so difficult to reach because of the many clubs and other organizations which already exist and which have taken up the food conservation work. As a large part of the attendance at the Minnesota State Fair comes from the rural districts, the food training camp, the government believes, offers a good opportunity to reach them with a direct appeal.

For, it is necessary that they be reached if the fruits and other food products, grown in abundance, are to be saved and prevented from going to waste.

The livestock exhibits and the exhibits and demonstrations to be put on by the dairy department of the University Farm are other departments in which valuable food efficiency work will be done. The directors of the fair are urging a greater production of meat by working for large exhibits of livestock so that the farmer may study the different types and breeds and decide as to which is best for the purpose.

To Develop Herds.

Much of the effort of the University Farm will be directed to the development of more efficient dairy herds and to the utilization of all possible dairy products. Much milk, especially skim milk, goes to waste in this state every year, and the dairy exhibits will point out the way to make use of all this food which is now being wasted.

In order to make the food training camp the greatest possible success in order that both the government and the people may derive the maximum benefit from it, the Minnesota State Fair directors are endeavoring to make the exposition a record breaker in all departments this year.

As one way of encouraging attendance, plans have been outlined for materially increasing the exhibits, and a greater variety of amusement and entertainment features have been secured.

Auto races, aviation, vaudeville, and a number of big spectacles, including the "War of the Nations," a gigantic display in which the famous British tanks and the other great forces of modern warfare are seen in action, are some of the entertainment features.

THE BEST DAIRY FEED

Made From Grain From Which the Human Food Values Have Been Taken.

By Prof. F. D. Fuller.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The reason why the best dairy feeds are less expensive than the same grains on the farm is because the principal elements of human food are taken from these grains before they are ever made into feed. The by-products of cereal mills, glucose factories, malt houses, etc., constitute often more than 50 per cent of the total bulk of mixed dairy feeds of the better class.

These oats, barley and corn by-products are considered by experts in animal nutrition as very valuable feed materials. After these cereals are ground in the manufacture of alcohol, for which the use is growing more important daily in the arts, the solid residue is dried in vacuo, and is then known as "dried grains." If made from corn, these grains contain on an average of about 30 per cent crude protein and 10 per cent crude fat. If made from rye, while valuable, they are of somewhat lower feed value. The barley residue contains over 70 per cent more crude protein than wheat bran and twice as much crude fat. In fact, their food value is largely increased by the process.

All these products are widely used by the best dairy feeders and are relied upon very extensively in milk production. There is no doubt of the fact that if the supply of these products were radically limited or entirely exhausted, it would have a serious effect upon the milk production throughout the country and the dairymen would have one more burden added to their already overtaxed strength.

Cottonseed meal is composed principally of the kernel, with such portion of the hull as is necessary in the manufacture of oil. Cottonseed meal, if choice, must contain at least 41 per cent crude protein. It is one of the richest of all feeds in this substance and carries about 8 per cent crude fat. On account of its extreme concentration it can be fed only in limited quantities and always in conjunction with some products to furnish bulk. This meal is an important ingredient in many manufactured feeds.

HOME MIXED FEEDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When a man undertakes to mix his own rations, what does he do? He buys straight feeds. Take cottonseed meal as a common example. There are a great many different grades of cottonseed meal, and the man who is looking for a low-priced feed is sure to get a low grade. The demand for cheap feeding ingredients has caused the quality to be gradually whittled down. Consequently the farmer nearly always works with feeds which are poorer than he believes them to be. He does not get adequate state protection because inspectors do not go to a farmer's barn to draw samples, and even if they did, it would be hard to get a complete chain of evidence.

A farmer has no facilities for having his feed analyzed and he doesn't know what he is working with. The analyses of mixed feeds costs about ten cents per ton, and if every farmer will read the various bulletins from the agricultural colleges he will soon know those brands which can be depended upon. There is no doubt that at the present prices of grain any farmer can save money by selling his cereal crops and buying mixed feed. Cornmeal, oil meal and cottonseed meal are all high, but the by-products of barley and rye are all more reasonable in price.

Corn has become costly largely due to the demand for pork and beef. Americans will have those meats at almost any price. This puts corn on a meat basis, and the dairy business will have to fall back on the by-products of grains.

GIVE COWS PLENTY OF WATER.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When cows are in full milk they require plenty of water. It is stated authoritatively that cows in full flow of milk will consume 50 per cent more water than when dry.

Poor feed sells to poor feeders.

Only that part of the feed that digest is of use—the rest is mostly fertilizer material.

No protein—no casein; no casein—no milk; not enough protein—not so much milk; also not enough feed—not so much food.

Foods with the highest protein and highest analysis are usually but not always the cheapest to use.

Cows won't make milk out of water and air.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Starchy feeds like corn and oats often sell as high as protein feeds because of the demand for them for horses and other work animals. Starchy feeds are also good to fatten steers. That is why they are often as high in price as dairy feeds, which are strong in protein.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Home-grown grains can often be profitably traded for protein feeds. While oats are generally demanded for horse feed, they are nearly always too expensive for dairy feed. Oats by-products, however, are very useful for bulk.

The coal barons are holding up prices and are not shipping to distributing points as they have always done before. It's about impossible to buy a supply at any price, for the above reason. Unless there is a change, some people will actually freeze to death next winter. President Wilson is seriously considering government control of the coal supply. The government should control the coal and oil fields and prices to the consumer, and send the coal barons where it is so hot, fuel is not needed to roast them.—Later: The President has issued an order fixing prices on coal at the mines and another is expected soon that will control the profits of the middle men and retailers. Already soft coal has dropped from $1.00 to $1.80 a ton in Chicago.

English services at the Misson church next Monday evening Aug. 27th, by Rev. G. O. Parish of Thief River Falls. Everyone invited.

Over at Rosewood the farmers are talking of building a creamery, tho they do not have to ship any farther than to T. R. Falls, and to a big farmers creamery at that.

Good care should be taken of all straw, corn stocks and everything else that can be fed, but usually is wasted. Everything will be needed before another crop is grown.

The hog market went to $20.00 a cwt. this week Tuesday. If the farmers beef cattle were hogs just now, they would be in it with the coal barons for a little while in making money off the consumer.

Coal prices in Illinois are to go tumbling. Illinois citizens are assured a bounteous supply of coal. The state now has a "coal dictator." He is Chief Justice Orrin N. BLAST WRECKS BIG WAR FACTORY; 250 REPORTED KILLED

EXPLOSIONS WIPE OUT POWDER PLANT AT RIGAUD, QUEBEC, WHICH COVERED FIVE SQUARE MILES.

FLAMES SWEEP DEBRIS; SMOKE COVERS COUNTRY

Disrupted Communication Makes It Difficult of Confirmation—Special Train Brings Aid—Explosion Heard Twenty Miles.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—First reports here from the scene of the explosion at Rigaud, Quebec, said that in the neighborhood of 250 persons had been killed.

Montreal, Aug. 20.—A terrific explosion at the powder plant of Curtis & Harvey, limited, at Rigaud, Quebec, is believed to have caused heavy loss of life. At latest reports the entire plant, covering five square miles, was in flames, and the fire had communicated to the village of Dragon at noon. It looked as though the village would be destroyed. Rigaud is south of the Ottawa river, 32 miles west of Montreal.

Five Thousand Employed.

Five thousand men and women are employed at the plant. Passengers on a Canadian Pacific railroad train, which passed the scene of the disaster, placed the number of dead in the first explosion at 20. Two other heavy explosions followed.

From points near Rigaud it was learned that three separate explosions occurred. The first, at 9 a. m., was heard in Vaudreuil, 20 miles away. This was followed by two others in quick succession.

Houses Miles Away Wrecked.

The terrific force of the explosion could be judged by the fact that two farmhouses more than a mile from the plant were blown down.

The passengers said it was impossible to obtain definite figures, as hundreds rushed into the open country when the first explosion occurred and few had returned when their train left for Montreal.

The explosion disrupted telephone and telegraph communication with Rigaud, making it difficult to obtain information. Traffic on the Canadian Pacific railroad's Ottawa-Montreal line, which passes close to the plant, has been suspended.

PERSHING SAYS ONLY HARD BLOWS CAN WIN FOR U. S.

Deplores Lukewarmness of American People—Says More Than Talk and Money Needed.

Paris, Aug. 20.—Major General Pershing, the American commander, has told the Associated Press that the war can be won only by hard and forceful blows delivered by a well-trained American army working in conjunction with the Allied armies.

Deploring the lukewarmness of the American people in regard to the war, General Pershing added:

"Every man, woman and child should support the administration in its determination to arm and equip the American army and to keep up its morale and that of the Allied armies. This war will not be won by talk or by subscribing to the Red Cross. The American people must come to a full realization of what the war means. It can be won only by striking hard and forceful blows, not otherwise."

The general was most emphatic in the interview, which lasted but a few minutes.

To Deny Right to Hold Meetings.

Copenhagen, Aug. 19.—Agitation at Stetting, Germany, over the announcement that the authorities proposed to suspend or limit the right to hold meetings has spread to Solingen.

BRITAIN FACES RAIL STRIKE

Engineers and Firemen Want 8-Hour Day Recognized.

London, Aug. 20.—There is considerable danger of an immediate strike involving about half the engineers and firemen employed on British railroads. The main point at issue is recognition of the principle of an eight-hour day. About 40,000 men are concerned.

To Oppose War Insurance Plan.

Washington, Aug. 20.—A pension clique in the house, headed by Representative John A. Key of Ohio, is to make an organized fight on the government's war insurance plan of compensation for soldiers on the battle line. The pension group, according to champions of the compensation system, is opposed to the government's plan for the reason that it will supplant the pension system and provide automatic aid for soliders' dependents that will remove the pension problem from politics.

H. L. Buck, postmaster of Winona for four years, has been re-appointed by President Wilson. The appointment has been confirmed by the Senate.

John Clausen of Germantown says he counted eighty straws from one kernel of rye in his rye field. The yield in that section, he stated, is going to run quite heavy

Annie Tettkowske, 20 years old, a domestic, is being held at St. Cloud on a charge of slaying her baby girl at the home where she was employed yesterday. The girl had tied a bandage tightly around the baby's throat. The child's head also was cut.

Morgan Keaton was exceedingly busy winning his commission at the reserve officers' training camp at Fort Snelling—he's Lieutenant Keaton now—but he found time to slip away to Red Wing with his fiancee, Miss Jessie Helen Brown, July 14, where they were married, unknown to their friends and relatives.

Burr Buswell of Winona beat the draft by a single day. He enlisted at Minneapolis Monday, and Tuesday his name was posted here as one of a group of registrants called to the colors. He enlisted in the quartermasters' reserve corps and will take the six months' course in baking at Dunwoody institute.

L. C. Brown was declared elected to the school board in the decision of Judge Rosser in district court filed in the office of the clerk of court at St. Cloud. Twelve ballots, considered doubtful by the election judges, were given to Brown. He had contested the election of W. W. Smith, president of the board. The vote on the court decision stood; Brown, 338; Smith, 222.

The actual fusion of the Evangelical Lutheran synods of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Nebraska is expected to be accomplished in St. Paul, delegates to the fourteenth biennial convention of the joint synods of these and other states predicted on their arrival there.

Favorable action by a local draft board on a claim for discharge is not in all cases to assure the claimant that he's "off." The government assistant to each local board, the "intervenor" for the government, is to be on the job and, if his investigation seems to justify it, he will ask the district board to overrule the lower one.

Mrs. Herbert Flansburg, wife of a county commissioner near Brainerd, broke her right leg near the ankle when a log fell from an old barn which had previously been badly damaged by a wind storm, as she passed by while putting the sheep in the lot. She was thrown to the ground by the log which rolled from the building without warning.

A jury has been completed at Brainerd for the trial of George A. Elder, Duluth bond broker, charged with offering $50 to a Koochiching county official to influence official action. The case was transferred to Crow Wing county on the plea of the defendant for a change of venue. Eighty talesmen were called before the jury was selected.

The offer of A. G. Whitney, St. Cloud, of $2,000 or more for an acre of ground in the State Normal school site in that city, adjoining his residence property, was presented to the state normal school board in session at the Capitol. It was said that the committee to which the matter was referred would report unfavorably and that the proposal would be rejected.

An anti-draft meeting, widely advertised by word of mouth in the vicinity of Hanover, lost its standing as such and was changed into a patriotic demonstration. At its close more than 300 persons, assembled to protest against sending American troops to Europe, stood with bared heads in a salute to the American flag and lustily sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Previous to this they had cheered the men who delivered the patriotic speeches and had made verbal pledges of fealty to the American government.

State Auditor Preus has accepted an invitation from Van H. Manning of the Federal department of mines to assist in drafting regulations to enforce the proposed new Federal law governing the manufacture, distribution and handling of explosives in time of war. Robert W. Hargadine, former state fire marshal, also will assist and both Minnesota men plan to go to Washington for an early conference with Mr. Manning.

J. O. Bentall, candidate for governor on the Socialist ticket, who was arrested on charges of interfering with enlistments and with the draft, has been unable to obtain bond of $6,000 and is still in the Hennepin county jail. When arraigned before United States Commissioner Abbott, Bentall asserted that he was sure the Socialist party would furnish the bond set by the commissioner.

Of the 650 men called for service in District No. 1, Stearns county, 338 have claimed exemption, the list shows. A large majority of the men claim exemption on account of marriage, while many of the others seek to be excused because of the fact that they are employed on farms or are conducting them.

Sheriffs Renew Allegiance.

Minnesota sheriffs are today under a voluntary pledge to Uncle Sam to perform any duties that may be assigned to them by the federal authorities, without compensation. A resolution by Sheriff Peter Bonde of Kandiyohi county was adopted at the meeting of sheriffs from all over the state. The sheriffs conferred with the Minnesota Public Safety commission at the state capitol:

The resolution follows:

Whereas, the sheriffs of the state of Minnesota have been appointed to assist the government of the United States in the registration, exemption and selection of our conscriptive army pursuant to act of congress;

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that we, the sheriffs of Minnesota assembled at the state capitol of Minnesota this 15th day of August, A. D. 1917, do hereby renew our pledge of allegiance to our beloved country and cheerfully consent to perform the duties so required of us during such time as may please the president and those acting under his authority, and be it further resolved that we cheerfully tender such services without compensation or emoluments.

Another resolution, offered by Sheriff N. Nicholson of Mower county, pledges the sheriffs to do not only their official duties, but any other service that the United States may ask of them.

The sheriffs had an "experience meeting," and were advised by Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith how to handle problems of vagrancy, liquor law enforcement and sedition.

The sheriffs were advised that when a man is found with a supply of seditious literature he should be arrested on the presumption that he has it for distribution and is not "carrying it around for ballast."

Phone Valuation Crews Start.

In three new automobiles of popular make, field crews in the telephone valuation work undertaken by the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, left the Capitol for Winona, where a practical school of instruction will be conducted. The physical valuation of all telephone properties in the state will be taken to serve as a basis for telephone rates and regulations.

D. F. Jurgenson, chief engineer for the commission, and two assistant engineers, F. F. Post and W. T. Donaldson, were in charge of the three crews. The crews are made up of a chief, one assistant and a chauffeur.

The pole counting and wire measuring crews will be increased to ten as the necessary help can be secured, Engineer Jurgenson announced.

Home guard commanders throughout of the state have been notified that home guard uniforms will consist of khaki or olive drab coats, pants and shirts, canvas leggings and campaigns, but that no insignia will be worn on the coat collar and no cords on the hat. Distribution of 2,523 rifles among the home guard companies has been begun. Major Oscar Seebach said that additional companies cannot be organized because of lack of rifles, the present number being sufficient to equip only three-fourths of the members of each company so far organized.

For the first time Louis was hearing the cherry-tree-and-hatchet story. It was very dramatically related by a patriotic aunt, but Louis was not so deeply impressed as he might have been. UNCLE JOE'S TRUE VERSION Veteran Congressman Retells Green Corn Story Which He Declares Is Thirty Years Old.

"Uncle Joe," said a new member of the house to Representative Cannon of Illinois, "I heard a good story about you and green corn."

"Great guns, man, that story is thirty years old," said Mr. Cannon.

"Well, I am a new congressman and I fell for it."

"If you are going to tell it again," went on Mr. Cannon, "let me tell it to you right. I have seen more versions of it than there are silk threads in a corn tassel. It's true, all right.

"It happened at the old Willard hotel when it used to be run on the American plan, with three meals a day. I am a light eater, but I am powerfully fond of green corn. One day I had a neighbor on from Danville, who took dinner with me. I had three orders of green corn.

"'Joe,' says he to me, 'how much board do you pay at this tavern?' I told him. He looked at the stack of corncobs, ruminated a moment, and then remarked: 'Don't you think it would be cheaper for you to board at a livery stable?'"

When Mark Twain was young and struggling, a friend of his met him walking through the streets with a cigar box under his arm. She said to him:

"It isn't that," said the imperturbable Mark; "I'm only moving again."

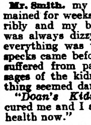
"There's a Reason"



IN BED FOR WEEKS

Mr. Smith Was in a Bad Way, But Doan's Restored Him to the Best of Health.

In April, 1916, Louis Smith, 90 New St., Hackensack, N. J., said: "Words fail to describe the misery I endured from kidney complaint. In my work I have to do a lot of heavy lifting and this weakened my kidneys. At first I only suffered from a slight backache, but almost before I knew it, I was all bent over like a man a hundred years old.

Mr. Smith.

"I began to grow worse as the days passed and finally I had to take to my bed where I remained for weeks. My head pained terribly and my back just throbbed. I was always dizzy and it seemed as if everything was whirling. Little black specks came before my eyes and I also suffered from painful and scanty passages of the kidney secretions. Everything seemed dark and dreary. "Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me and I am enjoying the best of health now."

"Sworn to before me."
E. M. Johnson, Justice Peace.

On March 19, 1917, Mr. Smith added: "I will never forget what Doan's have done for me. Whenever I catch cold on my kidneys, I can depend on Doan's to fix me up all right."

The beautiful girl smiled down from the window into the admiring eyes of a young clubman who was passing; then she bent her clear, considering gaze on the gray ruin opposite and replied:

HOOVER TELLS AMERICAN PEOPLE OF THE FOOD PROBLEM AND ITS SOLUTION

Shows Absolute Necessity of Increased Production and Elimination of Waste, Backing Up His Statements With Facts and Figures of the Supply and Demand.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Food Administrator Hoover tells the American people, in a lengthy statement issued today, just what is the food situation of the world, what are to be the needs of the nations allied against the central powers, and what must be done to supply those needs and to feed the population of our own land.

The normal imports of wheat and other cereals by France, Italy, the United Kingdom and Belgium, and the estimates of the 1917 crop in those countries compared to the normal production are given by Mr. Hoover in tabulated form, and the conclusion is drawn that in order to provide normal consumption it will be necessary for them to import in the next 12 months 577,000,000 bushels of wheat and 674,000,000 bushels of other cereals. If the crops of the United States and Canada all mature safely, North America will have an apparent surplus of 208,000,000 bushels of wheat and 950,000,000 bushels of other cereals. The allies, therefore, must use other cereals than wheat for mixing in their war bread, and the people of America must reduce their consumption of wheat flour from five to four pounds per week per person.

Decrease in Food Animals.

A careful estimate of the world's food animal position shows a total net decrease of 115,005,000, and this will be greater as the war goes on. As the increase of herds and flocks takes years, we must reduce the consumption, eliminate waste and carefully control meat exports.

Our home dairy products supplies are decreasing, while our population is increasing, and we must ship increasing amounts of such products to our allies. Consequently this industry must be stimulated, and home users must save the wastes in milk and butter. Much the same may be said in the case of sugar.

Mr. Hoover urges a greater consumption of fish and sea foods, in which our coasts and lakes are enormously rich. The products of the land, he reminds us, are conserved by the eating of those of the sea.

Our Duty.

In conclusion the food administrator says:

I have endeavored to show in previous articles that the world is short of food; that Europe is confronted with the grim specter of starvation unless from our abundance and our waste we keep the wolf from the door. Not only must we have a proper use of our food supply in order that we may furnish our allies with the sinews with which they may fight our battles, but it is an act of humanity towards fellow men, women and children.

By the diversion of millions of men from production to war, by the occupation of land by armies, by the isolation of markets, by belligerent lines, and by the destruction of shipping by submarines, not only has the home production of our allies fallen by over 500,000,000 bushels of grain, but they are thrown upon us for a much larger proportion of their normal imports formerly obtained from other markets.

They have reduced consumption at every point, but men in the trenches, men in the shops, and the millions of women placed at physical labor require more food than during peace times and the incidence of their saving and any shortage which they may suffer, falls first upon women and children. If this privation becomes too great, their peoples cannot be maintained constant in the war, and we will be left alone to fight the battle of democracy with Germany.

The problem of food conservation is one of many complexions. We cannot, and we do not wish, with our free institutions and our large resources of food, to imitate Europe in its policed rations, but we must voluntarily and intelligently assume the responsibility before us as one in which everyone has a direct and inescapable interest. We must increase our export of foods to the allies, and in the circumstances of our shipping situation these exports must be of the most concentrated foods. These are wheat, flour, beef, pork and dairy products. We have other foods in great abundance which we can use instead of these commodities, and we can prevent wastes in a thousand directions. We must guard the drainage of exports from the United States, that we retain a proper supply for our own country, and we must adopt such measures as will ameliorate, so far as may be, the price conditions of our less fortunate. We might so drain the supplies from the country to Europe as by the high prices that would follow to force our people to shorten their consumption. This operation of "normal economic forces" would starve that element of the community to whom we owe the most protection. We must try to impose the burden equally upon all.

Action Must Be Voluntary.

There is no royal road to food conservation. We can only accomplish this by the voluntary action of our whole people, each element in proportion to its means. It is a matter of equality of burden; a matter of minute saving and substitution at every point in the 20,000,000 kitchens, on the 20,000,000 dinner tables and in the 2,000,000 manufacturing, wholesale and retail establishments of the country. The task is thus in its essence the daily individual service of all the people. Every group can substitute and even the great majority of thrifty people can save a little—and the more luxurious elements of the population can by reduction to simple living save much. The final result of substituting other products and saving one pound of wheat flour, two ounces of fats, seven ounces of sugar and seven ounces of meat weekly, by each person, will, when we have multiplied this by one hundred million, have increased our exports to the amounts absolutely required by our allies. This means no more than that we should eat plenty, but eat wisely and without waste.

Food conservation has other aspects of utmost importance. Wars must be paid for by savings. We must save in the consumption in commodities and the consumption of unproductive labor in order that we may divert our manhood to the army and to the shops.

The whole of Europe has been engaged ever since the war began in the elimination of waste, the simplification of life, and the increase of its industrial capacity. When the war is over the consuming power of the world will be reduced by the loss of prosperity and man power, and we shall enter a period of competition without parallel in ferocity. After the war, we must maintain our foreign markets if our working people are to be employed.

The impact of the food shortage of Europe has knocked at every door of the United States during the past three years. The prices of foodstuffs have nearly doubled, and the reverberations of Europe's increasing shortage would have thundered twice as loudly during the coming year even had we not entered the war, and it can now only be mitigated if we can exert a strong control and this in many directions.

We are today in an era of high prices. We must maintain prices at such a level as will stimulate production, for we are faced by a starving world and the value of a commodity to the hungry is greater than its price.

As a result of the world shortage of supplies, our consumers have suffered from speculation and extortion. While wages for some kinds of labor have increased with the rise in food prices, in others, it has been difficult to maintain our high standard of nutrition.

By the elimination of waste in all classes, by the reduction in the consumption of foodstuffs by the more fortunate, we shall increase our supplies not only for export but for home, and by increased supplies we can help in the amelioration of prices.

For Better Distribution.

Beyond this the duty has been laid upon the food administration to co-operate with the patriotic men in trades and commerce, that we may eliminate the evils which have grown into our system of distribution, that the burden may fall equitably upon all by restoration, so far as may be, of the normal course of trade. It is the purpose of the food administration to use its utmost power and the utmost ability that patriotism can assemble to ameliorate this situation to such a degree as may be possible.

The food administration is assembling the best expert advice in the country on home economics, on food utilization, on trade practices and trade wastes, and on the conduct of public eating places, and we shall outline from time to time detailed suggestions, which if honestly carried out by such individuals in the country, we believe will effect the result which we must attain. We are asking every home, every public eating place and many trades to sign a pledge card to accept these directions, so far as their circumstances permit, and we are organizing various instrumentalities to ameliorate speculation. We are asking the men of the country who are not actually engaged in the handling of food to sign similar pledges that they shall see to it, so far as they are able, that these directions are followed.

Peculiarities of Sleep.

A person absolutely without sleep for nine days will die. Sufferers from insomnia sometimes maintain that they have gone for weeks without sleep but it has been proved that they actually sleep without being aware of it. At a certain point sleep is inevitable, no matter what the bodily condition, the alternative being death. A method of taming wild elephants is said to be that of depriving the animals of sleep when first caught. In a few days they become practically spiritless and harmless. The brain of the elephant is held to be more highly developed than that of any other wild animal; but, of course, as compared with a human brain, can be easily fatigued by new impressions, and so made dependent on sleep.

George W. Perkins' Method Is to Live Every Day as if It Were to Be the Only One.

"My own method has been to live every day as though it was the only day I had to live, and to crowd everything possible into that day. Pay no attention to the clock or what you are paid, but work and live for all that is in it—just as you play football—and everything else will take care of itself," said George W. Perkins.

"The head of the table is the place where there is most room. It is the tree that grows and grows until it overtops the others that gets the most air and sunshine. The thing for the young man to do is to strive with all the energy he possesses to excel in actual ability.

"Pull is not necessary. Nor should a young man bother too much about his wages. I never asked an increase in my life. You can command sooner or later what you are entitled to—if you pre-eminently deserve it.

"But you have got to be ultra-proficient in some particular thing. You must stand out and do it better than the fellows around you whether you are an office boy, a stenographer or an executive. You must use your head as well as your hands. Don't be afraid to do extra work lest it interfere with your theater going. I don't go to the theater half a dozen times during the winter, not that I don't like it, but there are other things more worth doing."—Leslie's Weekly.

A Reasonable Supposition.

The farmer alleged a freight train of the defendant company had hit one of his mules.

"Now, Mr. Jones," said the attorney for the corporation to the aggrieved party, who occupied the witness stand, "will you kindly tell the court whether or not your mule was on the track, the property of the defendant, when hit by the train?"

"Well, sir," replied Mr. Jones, "I didn't witness the occurrence, but I suppose things must have been about as you say. This was a pretty bright mule and I reckon if that train had took out after him in the woods which fringe the track there where he was killed he would have got behind a tree."—Macon Telegraph.

A lady while going downstairs to dinner had the misfortune to step slightly on the dress of a lady in front of her. The man on whose arm the former was leaning rudely said aloud so that the couple in front might hear:

Upon which the lady whose gown had been trodden on, turning round, replied with a sweet smile:

"Pardon me. It was the angel who stood in the way and the ass which spoke."

Tom Moore, the poet, was the son of a Dublin grocer. Without any pushing on his part his genius and his unaffected manner made him a welcome guest everywhere. All London went mad over him. On one occasion at a banquet he had made some brilliant witticisms. A snob thinking to humiliate him leaned over the table to the poet and quite audibly said in a drawling tone:

"Pway, sir, wasn't your father a grossah?"

Moore smilingly replied that he was.

"Then pway," continued the snob, "why didn't he make a grossah of you?"

Moore quite affably retorted: "Wasn't your father a gentleman?"

"Of course he was," was the rejoinder.

"Then why, pray, didn't he make a gentleman of you?"

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline.

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies--stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood--and quickly restores proper action. WOMEN AND CHILDREN IMPORTANT

Extra Efforts To Be Made To Have Exhibits At State Fair Bigger And Better Than Ever—Style Show To Eclipse Anything Yet Held—Children's Contests To Interest Many.

Women and children will take a most important part in the Minnesota State Fair, which is to be held September 3 to 8 and which, this year, is to be conducted as a Food Training Camp in the voluntary service of the government.

For years past the women and children have done their share to make the Minnesota State Fair the success it has been, but this year, possibly due to war conditions, they will be called upon, as has everybody else, to put forth extra efforts to make conditions as near normal as possible.

Because of a shortage of materials for the manufacture of high grade clothing it has become necessary for manufacturers to turn their attention to other materials besides pure woolens and other fabrics, which, before the war, were easily obtainable.

Big Style Show.

For some time past the women who will have charge of the exhibits in the women's department have been busily engaged planning the affairs and, while definite plans have not been announced as yet it is certain that among other things to be seen in the women's building will be a style show, which will eclipse anything of the kind yet attempted at the Minnesota State Fair. Living models will be used to display the very latest styles.

Plain sewing will be given special attention this year. This feature is particularly important because the war has brought about conditions that have necessitated doing away with frills and fancy things and has replaced them with the simpler and plainer wearables.

Demonstrations will be held along the line of how to do plain sewing and how to utilize different materials which will come into more common use as time goes on.

Boys' and Girls' Camps.

In the children's department there will be many features of interest. Among these will be the camp for farm boys and also one for girls.

Winners in last year's contests for farm boys, in raising pigs, corn and potatoes will contest for honors at the fair. They will make up the farm boys' camp and during the week will live right on the fair grounds. Great rivalry is said to exist this year and it is expected the judges will have more difficulty in selecting the winners than for some time.

The girls, who will contest in breadmaking and canning, will also have their share of attention. These girls have already been selected in the various counties, where they have won prizes and this year, with government officials present, they will doubtless outdo themselves to produce the best possible results. The girls will be quartered at the State Agricultural School near the Fair Grounds.

Besides these contests there will also be the annual spelling contest open to both boys and girls, by which the champion speller of the state will be determined. This contest, too, has always attracted lots of attention and this year will be no exception.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of women's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

One day we were foolish enough to venture the assertion that hay would be worth $20 00 a ton before another crop is grown, and only to be laughed at. Nevertheless from all over the northwest warnings are being sent out to cut every spear of grass and save all straw and fodder of everykind, also that throut the western part of Dakota and nearly all of Montana that farmers are obliged to sell their stock because of drought and a consequent lack of feed, thereby causing low prices for stock this year, a scarcity of same next year and high prices for stock for both meat and breeding purposes. Save your feed and keep all young breeding stock is advice worth taking, especially that the world war now confronts everyone in America. —Later: Since the above was put in type, we have learned on good authority that hay is selling for $25. a ton in Duluth. Did we set the selling price too high?

Petain Holding Gains.

General Petain is holding all his gains of the great Verdun offensive movement in the face of formidable counter attacks which the German crown prince now is launching.

The French commander reports the repulse of strong assaults on newly-won positions in this sector. He announces also the capture of 1,100 prisoners when the French lines were carried forward two-thirds of a mile on a two-and-a-half mile front to the outskirts of Beaumont village.

Thrusts By Crown Prince Fail.

The Germans have resumed their attacks in the Aisne region, where for many days in July and early August they met with repeated checks in attempts to drive the French from the valuable ground on the Chemin-des-Dames, won in the spring offensive. The renewal of the attempt met with no better success, the breaking up of the crown prince thrusts being announced by the Paris war office.

The British are continuing their systematic smashing of aviation and other bases behind the German front in Belgium. ITALIANS CAPTURE MOUNTAIN; FRENCH WIN NEW VICTORY

TRICOLOR OF ITALY FLIES AT SUMMIT OF MONTE SANTO—AUSTRIAN DEFENSE LINES ARE BROKEN.

FORTIFIED WORKS NEAR BETHINCOURT CAPTURED

Allies Take More Prisoners in West—201 German Officers Captured and Three Regiments Annihilated—British Occupy Important Trench Near Lens.

Paris, Aug. 27.—The French have scored a new victory on the Verdun front north of Hill 304. Three fortified works near Bethincourt were captured. The number of prisoners taken has been increased to 8,101.

"In Belgium there were rather violent artillery engagements in the region of Bixschoote," says the French statement.

"South of St. Quentin our detachments penetrated a German trench and brought back 31 prisoners. Another raid west of Pantheon also resulted in the taking of prisoners.

Fighting in Champagne.

"In the Champagne the artillery fighting became intense in the region of the heights. Enemy surprise attacks near Vauquois and northeast of Avocourt were completely repulsed. On the left bank of the Meuse our troops made new progress north of Hill 304. In a brilliant action they carried three fortified works in the vicinity of Bethincourt. The number of unwounded prisoners taken on the left bank of the river was 450. This brings up the total to 8,101."

Enemy Officers Taken.

One of the striking phases of the Verdun fighting is the large proportion of German officers captured, 201 being taken Monday with about 6,700 men. This is in sharp contrast with the number of officers taken in the French attack last December. At that time 208 officers and 11,000 men were captured.

Three regiments forming the German Sixth reserve division were annihilated as fighting units, losing 69 officers and about 2,800 men in prisoners. This was a Brandenburg division.

The newspapers recall that at the time of the great German attack last year several weeks elapsed before the Germans were masters of strong points west of the Meuse which the French took in a few days this week.

Austrian Lines Broken.

Lens Trench Taken.

London, Aug. 27.—The capture of a German position near Lens is announced by the war department. The statement follows:

"By successful attacks carried out with slight casualties west of Lens we captured a short length of a German trench of some local importance. We also captured an enemy post during the night in the neighborhood of Lombaertzyde and secured a few prisoners and a machine gun. There was considerable artillery activity east of Epehy."

German Aviator Brought Down Behind French Lines Found to Possess Incriminating Photograph.

With the French Armies in the Field, Aug. 27.—Proof that Germany is deliberately attacking field hospitals in air raids, has been obtained. A German aviator brought down behind the French lines was found to be carrying a photograph of the hospital at Vadelaincourt, which plainly showed the Red Cross insignia on the roof.

Four Hospitals Bombarded.

To date the Germans have bombarded four hospitals in the Verdun region—at Dugny, Mount Hairon, Belrupt and Vadelaincourt. They have killed 43 nurses and patients and wounded 55. Most of their bombs were incendiary. Nearly always the aviators swept close to earth and fired machine gun bullets at fleeing nurses and patients.

Hunt Woman Drug Smuggler.

Winnipeg, Aug. 27.—Three members of what the police believe to be an international drug ring, operating between the Twin Cities and Winnipeg, said in police court here that an unidentified woman was the brains of the gang. The police are searching for her. She is thought to be the missing link in the chain of drug thieves, carriers and peddlers, who since the operation of the Harrison anti-drug act have earned a living by smuggling drugs. The men were charged with stealing habit forming drugs.

New Ulm Officials Suspended.

Three public officials of New Ulm who participated in the anti-draft meeting at that place July 25, have been suspended from public office by Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, on recommendation of the Minnesota Public Safety commission, and face possible removal after due hearings.

Mayor L. A. Fritsche, City Attorney Albert Pfaender, and County Auditor Louis G. Vogel of Brown county are the officials to feel the weight of the executive action. Their conduct is reviewed in scathing fashion in a statement issued by the Public Safety commission.

The boycott of loyal business men in New Ulm was referred to in the commission's statement. "It is an appalling situation," said the commission, "when loyal merchants and bankers can be boycotted in Minnesota because they are loyal, as the commission is advised is the case; when a county auditor, who is clerk of the local exemption board, encourages and even leads a procession of draft malcontents, and when the mayor and the city attorney of one of the most prosperous cities of the Minnesota valley openly promote a pro-German propaganda."

Mayor Thomas Van Lear of Minneapolis is billed as principal speaker at an anti-war meeting in Lester Prarie.

Governor Burnquist, commenting on this information, said:

"Any public official who makes anti-American speeches or statements is subject to the same action that has been taken with regard to the New Ulm officials."

Potato Bread at State Fair.

Plans for making only potato bread at the bread making contest at the state fair have been changed. That the contestants might become a part of the save-the-wheat campaign, arrangements were made whereby only potato breads might be made in the contests. This has been found inadvisable. The contestants have given their year of preparation for the state fair contest in the making of the white bread. In fairness it seemed more advisable to conduct the contests on the white bread as heretofore and bestow the prizes for this contest. In addition, however, the same groups of bread makers will contest in the making of potato bread—a contest which will amount to a demonstration in that no prizes will be offered. In this fashion it is felt that every state fair contestant will be doing "her bit" and at the same time conform to the contest plans.

Willibald Eibner will serve as acting mayor and is authorized to select a temporary city attorney during the suspension of Mayor Fritsche and City Attorney Pfaender, and William P. Backer, will act as temporary auditor until the charges against Vogel are disposed of. Whether these appointments will be permanent, the Governor indicated, will depend first upon the result of the investigation.

Patrick Ryan of St. Paul was named by Governor Burnquist as commissioner to take testimony on the charges involving the three officials. He is expected to announce definite dates in the near future when the hearings at New Ulm will begin.

LIKE AJAX AND ACHILLES

Individual Prowess in This War Counts for as Much as It Did in Days of Ancient Greece.

Individual prowess counts for as much as it did in the days of ancient Greece, Waldemar Kaempffert writes in McClure's. Names will stand out in the history of this war like those of Ajax and Achilles in the epic of Homer. Lieutenants Immelmann and Boelke on the German side have brought down nine and ten adversaries in mortal combat. Their exploits are tinged with a chivalric glamour which seems anything but modern.

When Boelke landed to aid an enemy whom he had wounded he was greeted with the comment: "Since it is Immelmann who beat me, I am satisfied." When the German replied that it was "only Boelke," the interchange of compliments seemed like a parley between Hector and Ajax.

The analogy between Homer's battles and twentieth century aerial combats extends even to the vehicles used. What is a flying machine but the ancient war chariot soaring on wings? In many an encounter two man machines still battle for supremacy—one man an observer, the other a pilot. The observer is the fighting hero of old, wielding a machine gun instead of a sword; the pilot his faithful charioteer.

Carry the analogy still further and consider how much is at stake when battle plane meets battle plane. The fate of an ancient army depended on a prince in his war chariot; the fate of any army corps now hangs on the information gleaned by a victorious flier.

Almost Correct.

Charles was an only child and always associating with his very learned parents he sometimes talked like a book.

"My father is a sociologist," he told Petey, who lived in an alley and had met plenty of sociologists but had never learned to classify them.

"A what?" asked Petey.

"A sociologist, and he is very much interested in studying the conditions of the mentally deficient."

Petey considered for a moment and then asked: "Is he in a bughouse?"

It amounts to the same thing whether we eat in the kitchen or cook in the dining room.

Feed the Fighters! Win the War!!

Harvest the Crops—Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders, the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop. A short harvest period requires the combined forces of the two countries in team work, such as the soldier boys in France and Flanders are demonstrating.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters that are now engaged in the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been conserved, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

TASTY EATS.

A sandwich filling is so often used and a variety of combinations are so welcome that those following may be suggestive.

Gooseberry jam mixed with cream cheese, or chopped cherries mixed with cottage cheese.

A sandwich for state occasions when a most nourishing one is needed is one of peanut butter used as a filling between two thin slabs of sweet chocolate.

Take equal parts of diced banana and pineapple, mashed to a pulp, and mix with strawberry jam. This is a great favorite with the boys.

Mix together the solid portion of ripe tomatoes, diced cucumber, chopped chives or onion tops and crushed well cooked bacon with cottage cheese. Spread on buttered rye bread.

A thin slice of salt pork dipped in batter and fried a nice brown, then placed between layers of chow chow on buttered bread is a tasty sandwich, well liked.

Spinach well cooked and seasoned and rubbed with hard-cooked egg.

Raisin bread cut in heart shapes and spread with fudge enriched with nut meats is a sweet sandwich which will take the place of cake. These may be made in the ordinary way or the hot fudge may be poured on the slices and allowed to cool before the top slice is added.

Lima beans put through a sieve, seasoned with melted butter, a little onion juice and a pinch of mustard, a few chopped olives and a dash of tomato catsup spread on brown bread.

Corn Dainties.—Put well popped corn through the food chopper with a few walnut meats, add a little melted butter and the beaten white of an egg with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Spread on round crackers sandwich fashion and decorate the top with the same mixture and the half of a walnut meat. Bake in the oven until brown.

Patty Pie.—Fill large paper ice cases with any seasonable fruit cooked in sirup, and top the fruit with ice cream, spread around the edges and flute with a fork. Mark a leaf in the center to resemble a pie and serve at once.

Nut and Cheese Roast.—Cook two tablespoonfuls of chopped onions in a tablespoonful of butter, add three-fourths of a cupful of water and cook until the onion is tender, add a cupful of chopped nut meats, a cupful of cheese, a cupful of bread crumbs, salt and pepper to taste, the grated rind of a lemon and the juice of half a lemon. Turn into a buttered mold and bake twenty minutes. Decorate with lemon and parsley.

Better to search the fields for health unbought than pay the doctor for a nauseous draught.

PRESERVING FRUITS AND VEGETABLES FOR WINTER

To save cans for fruits it is wise to dry corn and many prefer the flavor to that of canned corn. Select young ears, husk and plunge into boiling water and boil five minutes to set the milk. Slice from the cob and arrange on the drying trays, spreading as thinly as possible, put into the oven or around the stove to dry as quickly as possible. Corn should be put in the trays for drying within an hour from the time it is pulled from the stalk. This insures a fine sweet flavor. The corn is soaked and cooked in the same water until tender, then dressed with cream and a dash of salt and pepper, making a dish that may, but never has, been equaled.

Salted Beans.—Take young tender string beans, preferably in the fall, string and cut them as for the table. In a stone crock put a layer of coarse salt just covering the bottom. Then put in a layer of raw beans about an inch deep, another layer of salt, just covering the beans and so on, ending with the salt. Tie a piece of muslin over the top of the jar and in a day or two they will settle, and more beans, and more salt may be added. Crocks holding several quarts are set in the cellar, where the beans will keep their color and flavor. When wanted, remove a few and soak them over night changing the water occasionally until they are right for eating.

Canning Tomatoes.—Scald the tomatoes and remove the stem end carefully, plunge in cold water to hold the coloring matter near the surface, then remove the skins and pack whole in jars, adding a teaspoonful of salt to every quart of the tomatoes. Place on a rack in a boiler and cover the jars to the depth of an inch above the highest jar. When they begin to boil count the time and cook thirty minutes for quarts and twenty for pints. The tops should be screwed down tight. When removing them be sure to tighten the ones, pressing down the edge of the cover with the handle of a knife to be sure that there is no way for bacteria to enter. To further secure the fruit dip the can tops into hot paraffin and place in a cool dark cellar.

I feel it my duty to emphasize that the food situation is one of utmost gravity, which, unless it be solved, may possibly result in the collapse of everything we hold dear in civilization. The only hope is by the elimination of waste and actual and rigorous self-sacrifice on the part of American people. We do not ask that they should starve themselves, but that they should eat plenty, wisely and without waste. —Herbert Hoover.

BARLEY DISHES.

Barley has been used for years in invalid cookery for broths and as infant food. High-grade barley contains as much protein as hard wheat. It furnishes starch, fat and mineral matter in equal amounts with wheat. As barley lacks gluten, wheat flour must be added to barley meal or flour to make successful bread, using one part of whole wheat or white flour to two parts of barley flour. Barley meal has a similar texture to cornmeal, both the flour and the meal may be obtained in many sections of the country and as the increasing demand for it grows, will be more commonly in the smaller markets. Barley cookery is being revived because of the lack of wheat flour, and we are beginning to appreciate its value as a food.

Barley Pone.—Add two cupfuls of milk to one cupful of cooked hot hominy grits or rice, three tablespoonfuls of butter, then cool and add a half teaspoonful of salt, a cupful of barley meal sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, then add two well-beaten eggs; pour into a buttered dish and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes. Serve from the dish, cut in triangular shapes.

Breakfast Food.—Add a half cupful of barley meal to two cupfuls of boiling water and a half teaspoonful of salt. Cook in a double boiler one hour or in a fireless cooker over night. Serve with cream and sugar. Figs, dates or raisins may be added if desired.

Barley Scones.—Take a cupful each of whole wheat flour, a cupful of barley meal, a half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of beef drippings, or any sweet fat, three-fourths of a cupful of sour milk or sour cream may be substituted, omitting the drippings and a half of a teaspoonful of soda. If the fat is used, cut it in as for pastry and proceed as usual in the mixing. Roll out half-inch thick and cut in diamond shapes. Brush with egg and sprinkle with sugar.

And the ploughman settles the share

For he saith: "The wheat is my care

When driving with a small child if her dress is spread so you can sit upon it, you will be able to support a rather small child safely and still manage the reins. One mother padded a small box for her small child when driving in the auto. The child was comfortable and so was the mother, as she did not fear for its safety.

You say to the drug store man, "Give me a small bottle of freezone." This will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, aching corn relieves the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, dries up and can be lifted off with the fingers.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that freezone dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without irritating the surrounding skin.

Horrors of War.

They were in the squad under training at a certain military center and furnished a contrast not uncommon these days. One was tall and wiry, the other short and pudgy, and an hour of Swedish drill had set the lesser of the two blowing hard.

"I can't stand much of this," he whispered. "I'm simply all in." And at that moment the drill sergeant intimated that he would give them another spell before they were dismissed.

This was too much. The podgy patriot felt it was time to protest.

"I'm really awfully sorry to seem unmilitary in addressing you, sir," he said, "but this Swedish drill is more than I can face in my present condition, besides," he added dolefully, "I never knew we were at war with Sweden."

Professor Gough, who had to make a certain train, said no, other than he wished to get home at a certain time. The farmer, instead of inviting him to a fine fried chicken dinner, said: "Say, my boy and me heard your talk and we wanted to know whether it was a sermon or an address." Professor Gough made his train and reached home without partaking of any fried chicken.

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline.

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

Wrong Position for Sleep.

Sleep cannot knit up the raveled sleeve of care or do any other reparative knitting, if the head is bent sharply to an acute angle with the collar joints. Frequently men and women who have slept in this supposedly objectionable fashion for years and years suddenly lose the capacity for sleep with no new discoverable reason. It is difficult to convince them that the elasticity and resiliency of youth has heretofore made up for their lifelong awkward pose.

"I hear Rev. Mr. Sharpe intends to resign from the ministry." "Yes. He says there is no money in marrying people, so he intends to practice law and divorce them."

WOMEN AND CHILDREN IMPORTANT

Extra Efforts To Be Made To Have Exhibits At State Fair Bigger And Better Than Ever—Style Show To Eclipse Anything Yet Held—Children's Contests To Interest Many.

Women and children will take a most important part in the Minnesota State Fair, which is to be held September 3 to 8 and which, this year, is to be conducted as a Food Training Camp in the voluntary service of the government.

For years past the women and children have done their share to make the Minnesota State Fair the success it has been, but this year, possibly due to war conditions, they will be called upon, as has everybody else, to put forth extra efforts to make conditions as near normal as possible.

Because of a shortage of materials for the manufacture of high grade clothing it has become necessary for manufacturers to turn their attention to other materials besides pure woolens and other fabrics, which, before the war, were easily obtainable.

Big Style Show.

For some time past the women who will have charge of the exhibits in the women's department have been busily engaged planning the affairs and, while definite plans have not been announced as yet it is certain that among other things to be seen in the women's building will be a style show, which will eclipse anything of the kind yet attempted at the Minnesota State Fair. Living models will be used to display the very latest styles.

Plain sewing will be given special attention this year. This feature is particularly important because the war has brought about conditions that have necessitated doing away with frills and fancy things and has replaced them with the simpler and plainer wearables.

Demonstrations will be held along the line of how to do plain sewing and how to utilize different materials which will come into more common use as time goes on.

Boys' and Girls' Camps.

In the children's department there will be many features of interest. Among these will be the camp for farm boys and also one for girls.

Winners in last year's contests for farm boys in raising pigs, corn and potatoes will contest for honors at the fair. They will make up the farm boys' camp and during the week will live right on the fair grounds. Great rivalry is said to exist this year and it is expected the judges will have more difficulty in selecting the winners than for some time.

The girls, who will contest in breadmaking and canning, will also have their share of attention. These girls have already been selected in the various counties, where they have won prizes and this year, with government officials present, they will doubtless outdo themselves to produce the best possible results. The girls will be quartered at the State Agricultural School near the Fair Grounds.

Besides these contests there will also be the annual spelling contest open to both boys and girls, by which the champion speller of the state will be determined. This contest, too, has always attracted lots of attention and this year will be no exception.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends
Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing women for victory

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

Lesson From the Lily.

How easily we lose poise, swept by the current of life! Our root is not deep enough. Consider the lily resting on the face of the waters, its roots far below. How serene it rides the ripples, and how confidently it has sought the light, that its life may expand t[illegible]n above the turbulence of the waves. Trinities and Sanctities.

Fireproof Wood.

To make wood fireproof, slack a small quantity of fresh lime and add water until it has the consistency of cream; stir well and add one pound of alum, 12 ounces of commercial potash and about one pound of salt. Stir again and apply while hot. Two or three coats will keep wood fireproof for many months.

Making It Personal.

It is sad to see family relics sold at auction, but the most painful thing under the hammer is generally your thumbnail.

Your country asks you to help save the live stock of the entire northwest. If you must sell, let it be to some farmer. No matter where he lives just so he can keep them over till pastures come again. Breeding stock is going to be scarce and animals sold must be saved for that purpose, as far as possible. Drougth in the northwest is compelling farmers to sell. You can help by saving hay and straw for shipping to them and feeding your stock at home all corn stocks, undeveloped cabbages, roots and tops of mangels, beets, carrots and rutabagas. unsaleable straw, etc. Oats straw will be worth $10.00 a ton for feed and wheat straw $7.50, when timothy hay is worth $20.00. Sow fall rye, save the waste, and do your part in helping the farmers to keep their breeding stock, which is being contracted for by Europe and to be delivered when the war is over. Feeders need to be kept too, as already there is a shortage of meats in this country. Help the Nation.

BIG CROPS IN WESTERN CANADA

Good Yields of Wheat, Splendid Production of Pork, Beef, Mutton and Wool.

The latest reports give an assurance of good grain crops throughout most of Western Canada, where the wheat, oats and barley are now being harvested, about ten days earlier than last year. Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Albertá are all "doing their bit" in a noble way towards furnishing food for the allies.

While the total yield of wheat will not be as heavy as in 1915, there are indications that it will be an average crop in most of the districts. A letter received at the St. Paul office of the Canadian Government, from a farmer near Delia, Alberta, says harvest in that district is one month earlier than last year. His wheat crop is estimated at 35 bushels per acre, while some of his neighbors will have more. The average in the district will be about 30 bushels per acre. Now, with the price of wheat in the neighborhood of $2 per bushel, it is safe to say that there will be very few farmers but will be able to bank from forty to fifty dollars per acre after paying all expenses of seeding, harvesting and threshing, as well as taxes. The price of land in this district is from $25 to $30 per acre. What may be said of this district will apply to almost any other in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Many farmers have gone to Western Canada from the United States in the past three or four years, who having purchased lands, had the pleasure of completing the payments before they were due. They have made the money out of their crops during the past couple of years, and if they are as successful in the future as in the past they will have put themselves and their families beyond all possibility of lack of money for the rest of their lives. It is not only in wheat that the farmers of Western Canada are making money. Their hogs have brought them wealth, and hogs are easy to raise there—barley is plentiful and grass abundant, and the climate just the kind that hogs glory in. The price is good and likely to remain so for a long time.

A few days since a farmer from Daysland, Alberta, shipped a carload of hogs to the St. Paul market, and got a higher price than was ever before paid on that market. Two million three hundred and seventy-seven thousand two hundred and fifty dollars was received at Winnipeg for Western hogs during the first six months of this year. 181,575 hogs were sold at an average price of $15 per cwt., and had an average weight of 200 pounds each. The raising of hogs is a profitable and continually growing industry of Western Canada, and this class of stock is raised as economically here as anywhere on the North American continent. There is practically no hog disease, and immense quantities of food can be produced cheaply.

It has been told for years that the grasses of Western Canada supply to both beef and milk producers the nutritive properties that go to the development of both branches. The stories that are now being published by dairymen and beef cattle men verify all the predictions that have ever been made regarding the country's importance in the raising of both beef and dairy cattle. The sheep industry is developing rapidly. At a sale at Calgary 151,453 pounds of wool were disposed of at sixty cents a pound. At a sale at Edmonton 60,000 pounds were sold at even better prices than those paid at Calgary. The total clip this season will probably approximate two million pounds. Many reports are to hand showing from six to eight pounds per fleece. 35 carloads were sent to the Toronto market alone.—Advertisement.

His Plea.

A negro who was well-known to the judge had been haled into court on a charge of having struck a relative with a brick. After the usual preliminaries, says Everybody's Magazine, the court inquired:

"Why did you hit this man?"

"Jedge, he called me a black rascal."

"Well, you are one, aren't you?"

"Yessah, maybe I is one. But, jedge, s'pose some one should call you a black rascal, wouldn't you hit 'em?"

"But I'm not one, am I?"

"Naw, sah, naw, sah, you ain't one; but s'pose some one'd call you de kind of rascal you is, what'd you do?"

The Ruling Passion.

Floor Walker—Hurry out, madam! The store's afire.

Mrs. Bargain—Oh, is it? Then I'll just wait for the fire sale.

Not All Awful.

Maude—"Marie says that she has an awful lot of friends." Miriam—"Yes; but some of them are not so bad."—Judge.

ITALIAN AVIATORS FLY SAFELY OVER AUSTRIAN CAPITAL

VISITED BY ENEMY AIRMEN WHO DROP NOTES TELLING PEOPLE OF DEFEAT OF TROOPS ALONG ISONZO.

TEUTON COUNTER-ATTACKS FAIL TO MAKE GAIN

Austrians Everywhere Beaten Off in Fierce Counter Thrusts Aimed to Regain Lost Ground—Plough Ahead in Some Sectors Taking Many Prisoners.

Turin, Sept. 4.—Five Italian aviators have returned from a successful flight over Vienna. Leaving the Italian front the machines passed over the Austrian lines unobserved and flew straight to the Austrian capital, where the aviators dropped pamphlets informing the people of the city of the great Italian victory.

London, Sept. 4.—Along the whole 90-mile front of the new Italian drive, two weeks old, the Austrians launched during the last 24 hours some of the fiercest counter thrusts of the war. Everywhere they were beaten off. Not a foot of ground was regained by them. Moreover, the Italians ploughed ahead appreciably in some sectors, taking additional hundreds of prisoners and adding to the huge booty.

Cadorna's Steel Wall Holds.

Along the southern edge of the blood-soaked Bainsizza plateau, on the northern slopes of Monte San Gabriele, and to the northwest of Tivoli, near Gorizia, the Austrian efforts were particularly desperate. Without the slightest regard for lives, they flung themselves into the teeth of Cadorna's wall of steel which, moving steadily onward threatens the collapse of Austrian war machine. Terrific losses were all that these furious onslaughts netted the attackers.

Monte San Gabriele, bathed in the Italian fire and almost surrounded is not expected to hold out much longer. Slowly the last remaining defense works of this great strategic height are crumbling to bits.

Advances on Carso Front.

On the Carso front the Italians made new important local headway, adding to their gains of August 30 and 31. Fourteen hundred rifles, nine machine guns and five trench mortars comprise the booty taken in the Brestovivizza sector alone.

The Austrians repeated their bombardment of an Italian field hospital near San Gabriele. There were no victims.

Alpine troops reconquered advanced positions to the Stelvio front, abandoned by the Italians on August 27. A number of prisoners were made.

Austrian Paper Alarmed.

Grave alarm is voiced in the Vienna Neue Freie Press, one of the leading Austrian papers, with regard to the situation at the front. The paper expresses great surprise that the Austrian high command, through anticipating the Italian drive, was unable to concentrate reserves to meet the offense effectively. The journal frankly characterizes the situation as extremely grave.

GERARD MAKES ANSWER TO HOLLWEG'S CHARGE

Contradicts Former German Chancellor Who Declared American's "Memoirs" Were Overdrawn.

Hamilton, Mont., Sept. 4.—James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany while visiting here, took issue with Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the former imperial chancellor of Germany. Mr. Gerard, issued a statement in which he contradicted the declaration of the former chancellor that Mr. Gerard had drawn on his imagination in the publication of his memoirs.

"Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg," said Mr. Gerard, "apparently did not have the exact copy of my articles, for if he had read them, he would have seen clearly that I said the peace terms described were the German peace terms and not the opinions of the chancellor. I wish to say that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg said he himself was always subject to the rule of the military party of Germany and could not follow his own desires.

Fire Drives 700 From Homes.

Jerome, Ariz., Sept. 4.—Fire in the Mexican and Austrian quarters destroyed thirty buildings including several rooming houses. It was estimated by city authorities that 700 people had been made homeless.

Makes Gopher Traps Exemption Claim.

Los Angeles, Sept. 4.—Frank M. Cushing based his claim for exemption on the ground that he was engaged in the manufacture of a commodity essential to the army and navy of the United States. In all seriousness, Cushing explained that he manufactures gopher traps. Cushing neglected to state whether the traps were to be used by the government to rid French trenches of rodents or to aid in capturing the burrowing Germans. Board officials are faced with the problem of deciding the question.

WOMAN STEALS ANOTHER BABY

Mother, Frantic Over the Loss of Her Own Infant, Resorts to Theft.

FOOLS HER HUSBAND

Man, Home From Extended Business Trip, Believes Child His Own, Until Police Reveal Age Discrepancy.

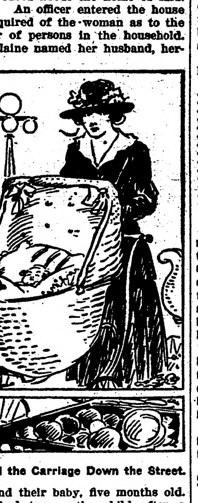
Boston.—When Mrs. Josephine M. Blaine of Dorchester, Mass., entered the Boston Homeopathic hospital, on the eve of motherhood, she did so with high hopes and ambitions for the little one that was to be brought into being. The baby came and died. When the mother was told, she lay as if stunned and her life was despaired of. But nature was strong and the woman recovered sufficiently to depart for her home a few days ago.

Leaving the hospital, a frail little woman clothed in somber black, Mrs. Blaine did not take a car to her home. Instead, she walked, brooding over an inestimable loss, picturing her greeting, when she should meet her husband, who was on a business trip and had not learned of the baby's death, but was on his way home to meet his wife and their little one.

Real Mother Discovers Loss.

As she passed a store in the heart of the shopping district she saw three baby carriages unattended. She peered into one of them. A lusty little fellow was sleeping quietly. Without a moment's hesitation she pushed the carriage down the street and took the baby home.

Meanwhile the real mother, after making her purchase, left the store and looked in vain for the baby and carriage. She notified the police and in a short time clews were obtained that focused about the home of Mrs. Blaine. An officer entered the house and inquired of the woman as to the number of persons in the household. Mrs. Blaine named her husband, herself, and their baby, five months old. He asked to see the child after a brief interview with the husband, who replied to an inquiry by stating that the baby was about three weeks old. Finding she was trapped, Mrs. Blaine broke down and confessed.



Pushed the Carriage Down the Street.

Law Steps In.

Mrs. Agnes Law, the real mother of the baby, was summoned and identified her child. She, too, cried, first with joy, then with a woman's sympathy for another. The law stepped in and Mrs. Blaine was taken to a station house, charged with kidnaping. Noting her condition, officers suggested that she be removed to a hospital for treatment. Her husband, shocked but loyal, accompanied her and spent the night in consoling the grief-stricken woman. It is not believed the charge of kidnaping will be prosecuted by the authorities.

WON'T LET HIM BE EXEMPTED

New York Woman Writes to Authorities That She Is Not Dependent on Husband.

Albany, N. Y.—Not all women in New York state want their hubbies kept off the firing line. Mrs. Mildred I. Mount, postmistress of Olcott, Niagara county, doesn't, for one.

The adjutant general's office has received a communication from Mrs. Mount in which she takes issue with her husband, Harry Blosser Mount, on the matter of dependency. Postmistress Mount declares that her husband registered on June 5 and claimed exemption from military service on the grounds that he was an assistant postmaster in the service of his wife. This, Mrs. Mount says, doesn't jibe with the facts. Her husband, according to the letter, has been employed on the International railway for about two months prior to registration and had in no way assisted her in the office.

"I am perfectly capable of caring for my two children and myself," the postmistress wrote, and to clinch the case added "and am in no way dependent upon him."

SOLD TWO FOR FIVE CENTS

Salesman Quick to Turn Action of Irrascible to His Advantage, and Won Out.

The quick wit of a traveling salesman who has since become a well-known proprietor, was severely tested one day. He sent his card by the office boy to the manager of a large concern, whose inner office was separated from the waiting-room by a ground glass partition. When the boy handed his card to the manager the salesman saw him impatiently tear it in half and throw it in the waste basket; the boy came out and told the caller that he could not see the chief. The salesman told the boy to go back and get him his card; the boy brought out 5 cents, with the message that his card was torn up. Then the salesman took out another card and sent the boy back, saying: "Tell your boss I sell two cards for 5 cents."

He got his interview and sold a large bill of goods.

YES! LIFT A CORN OFF WITHOUT PAIN!

Cincinnati man tells how to dry up a corn or callus so it lifts off with fingers.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callus, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted off, root and all, without pain.

A small bottle of freezone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callus. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to irritate the surrounding skin.

If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

SMALL BOY HAD NOTICED

That He Knew Man in Khaki as Marine Did Credit to His Powers of Observation.

A group of youngsters was playing on Riverside drive, says the New York Times. A military man, dressed in khaki and accompanied by a young lady, approached the group. The boys stopped their playing and, with nudges and gesticulation, were evidently trying to identify the man in khaki.

As the young lady and her escort drew nearer, one youngster with an air of superior knowledge informed his companions: "He's a United States marine."

Overhearing the remark, the young lady questioned the small boy: "How do you know he is a marine?"

"Why, lady," exclaimed the youngster, "he wears an ornament on his hat showing an eagle, globe and anchor, but doesn't wear any hat cord."

The colored hat cords, yellow, blue and red, help many civilians to recognize at once a cavalryman, an infantryman or artilleryman. However, the United States marine dressed in khaki is still an enigma to many persons who lack the powers of observation displayed by the small boy on Riverside drive.

To be found in bad company is often equivalent to being last.

With some people the season for killing time is always open.

PAINS SHARP AND STABBING

Woman Thought She Would Die. Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ogdensburg, Wis.—"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Etta Dorion, Ogdensburg, Wis.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

Black-Cat Luck.

A certain resident in a country suburb, says the Guardian, makes a point of keeping open the doors and windows of his house. As he sat in one of his breezy rooms the other evening, waiting for dinner, his wife came in from the kitchen.

"We've just had a visit from a black cat," she said.

"Ah," he replied, "that's good. Black cats are lucky, you know."

"Yes," answered his wife, who dislikes cats, "this one was certainly lucky. It has run off with the cod steak I was just going to cook for you."

SMASHED ALL SPEED LIMITS

As Cal Sized Up the Situation, That "Cyah" Certainly Must Have Been Traveling Some.

H. C. Frick said in Birmingham, where he had come to attend a Liberty loan meeting:

"The crack troops of the kaiser—some call them cracked troops now—are hiding in caverns forty feet under ground. The man who now thinks German militarism a wonderful thing is as badly doped as Cal Clay of Nola Chucky.

"Cal was escorting some ladies from Nola Chucky to Paint Rock, and as they passed a planter's the planter was playing with a powerful searchlight he had just put on his water tower, and he happened to turn it down the road, where it streamed into the eyes of Cal and his two girls.

"'Here comes one o' dem powerful racin' cyahs, to jedge by dat 'ere headlight,' said Cal. 'We'll just hustle to de side o' de road fo' safety till she's parst, ladies.'

"So they hustled up against the hedge, and the planter, after playing the light along the road for about a minute, suddenly turned it off.

"Cal gave a grunt of astonishment. "'Jee-rusalem!' he said. 'How fast dat cyah muster been a-goin'! Here she's done parst us by, an' we didn't even see her!'"

Might Work.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR BIRD HUNTING

SEASON EXPECTED TO BE ONE OF BEST IN HISTORY OF STATE FOR SMALL GAME.

48 COUNTIES SHOW GAINS

Increase in Money and Credits at Rate of 14.2 Per Cent May Bring Total for State Up to $270,000,000—Estimates Show.

St. Paul.

Reports from Minnesota and North Dakota indicate the hunting season of 1917, soon to open for small game, will be one of the best in the history of these two states. While nimrods already are getting down their guns, rubbing them up and using the oil freely, chickens, ducks, geese and other varieties of game birds are thoughtlessly hieing themselves to "no birds' land" for the annual slaughter.

George M. Hogue, secretary of the North Dakota Game and Fish Commission, is optimistic over the prospects. "The chicken and duck hunting will be very fine in this state this season," he says. "Chickens will be especially plentiful for the reason that the dry weather we have had gave the birds a good chance to hatch."

Others in touch with conditions are equally optimistic. While the season does not open until the middle of September, those versed in the hunting outlook declare that not for several years have so many birds loitered around.

It is a well known adage that small game hunting is prolific in seasons of good crops. This year Minnesota is to produce one of the largest grain yields in its history, while North Dakota, especially in some localities, will harvest bountifully. Therefore, hunters are preparing for a season of extreme joy.

48 Counties Show Gain.

Forty-eight counties have transmitted to the Minnesota Tax Commission abstracts of money and credit returns for 1917 which show a gain of approximately 14.2 per cent over 1916.

If this same rate of increase is maintained by the remaining thirty-eight counties, the total assessment for this class of property will come close to $270,000,000, as compared to the 1916 record of $234,108,268.

The total in these forty-eight counties for 1916 was $59,228,817 and for 1917 is $66,463,488. Ramsey, Hennepin and St. Louis county reports are not included.

Only three counties, Dakota, Red Lake and Dodge, of the forty-eight tabulated show a decrease.

Money and credits are assessed at full value and are subject to a general rate of but 3 mills. Prior to 1911 this class of property was assessed and taxed as all other personalty and as a result of the heavy burden then imposed the amount reported in 1910, the last year under the old law, was but $13,919,806, and the revenue derived but $379,754, contributed by 6,200 persons.

In 1916 the number reporting money and credits under the new system was 74,219, the assessment $234,186,268 and the revenue $702,588.

Must Pay for Shortage.

The state supreme court holds that the law providing for a maximum of 60 pounds loss to each car of grain while in transit is a penal provision only and does not affect the civil liability of the carrier. Accordingly, the municipal court of Minneapolis is reversed on the appeal of the National Elevator company in its suit against the Great Northern Railway company.

The elevator company delivered 85,086 pounds of rye to the Great Northern for transportation from Clarissa to Minneapolis. The company delivered 81,160 at Minneapolis.

The trial court found that 3,926 pounds of rye, valued at $64.55 were lost in transit. Making a deduction of 60 pounds, it awarded a judgment for $63.53. The appeal followed.

The removal of Sheriff Urness was recently recommended by the state public safety commission on allegations that he failed to enforce the liquor laws, but the governor announced no such action would be taken.

STORE THE POTATO

ARRANGEMENTS FOR CONSERVING THE COUNTRY'S SUPPLY.

Government Officials Tell of the Facilities That Have Been Provided—Complete Plan of Action Has Been Mapped Out.

Washington.—Means of conserving the nation's potato supply in the most effective manner have been worked out by food administration officials. They have issued the following statement:

Unusual facilities for financing storage are offered American potato growers as a result of war conditions. The federal reserve system is at their disposal, and farmers who store their 1917 potato crop in approved local warehouses, may obtain, upon their storage receipts, 90-day loans from member banks of the reserve system at a rate not to exceed 6 per cent. Mr. Lou D. Sweet, potato expert with the food administration, was instrumental in bringing this matter to the reserve board's attention.

New England growers have started a movement to take advantage of this ruling to help them solve their marketing problem. The prospect which the growers of this group of states face is that of handling 45,000,000 bushels of potatoes—one-tenth of the entire United States crop—without causing an overstocked market and the resulting loss of all profit on the crop.

The growers communicated with local authorities in their respective states, who in turn laid the situation before the food administration. A conference between the growers, local authorities and experts from the food administration was held recently at Boston, Mass. A plan of action was mapped out at this meeting which includes the following:

1. Marketing of only one-third of the crop at harvest time; another third in 90 days, or placing in storage and later distributed as demand affords opportunity; the remaining third to be stored by the grower and marketed throughout the year.

2. All potatoes to be graded with care, taking out culls, cuts, cracks and any that are bruised. It was recommended that a wire screen grader be used—one and seven-eighths-inch mesh for oblong tubers and two-inch mesh for round ones. Graded stock then to be placed in good two-bushel sacks—one hundred and fifteen pounds to the sack—and the sacks sewed tightly so as to prevent shucking and bruising.

3. Increasing the load in each railroad car from the normal 30,000 pounds. That these cars can be unloaded within 24 to 36 hours of their arrival at destination.

4. That municipalities and other bodies provide storage for as large quantities as possible at the peak of the harvest.

"A storage house," said Lou D. Sweet, who attended this meeting, "such as will conform to the requirements laid down by the Federal Reserve board, does not call for a specially constructed house. There are innumerable buildings, which, if properly cleaned, ventilation provided, and managed so as to maintain a temperature of about 35 degrees, will answer admirably for this purpose.

"This year the United States planted its potato crop from the poorest quality of seed that ever went into the ground, and naturally the harvest will be potatoes of poor quality. Strict grading, careful packing, common-sense storage, and careful shipping are necessary to insure just returns to the growers who have responded to the president's call for increased production of potatoes."

SHE HAD WAYWARD DAUGHTER

Neighbor Was Surprised When She Found Cause of Severe Rebuke Administered by Mother.

A lady living in a large apartment house relates the following:

"I had occasion one day to visit the apartment of a neighbor. Such grave and earnest tones of remonstrance reached my ears, as I approached my friend's room, that I hesitated about intruding. I found her winsome young daughter with her, and the mother had evidently been rebuking her, for the girl's face was flushed, and there were tears in her eyes.

"Come in," said my friend. "I have finished what I was saying to Jenny and I hope she will remember my wishes."

"Ah, these children—these children!" thought I to myself.

"I have just been telling her," continued my friend, "that she must not wear her evening gloves when she goes shopping in the morning. In the first place, it is not genteel; and in the second place, it is extravagant."

Her evening gloves! And yet, I assure you, her tone and expression, and the impression made on the child would have befitted a serious wrong doing—one that had issues in time and eternity.

Buy Outright, Is War Plan.

Washington.—Secretary of Commerce Redfield announced that the conference representing all interested departments of the government has completed its study of war contracts.

Where conditions of manufacture are particularly involved the conference recommends a contract in which a specified sum is awarded as the profit on each article instead of making the profit a percentage of the cost. This recommendation will do away with the tendency to increase costs to increase profits.

Feed the Fighters! Win the War!!

Harvest the Crops—Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders, the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop. A short harvest period requires the combined forces of the two countries in team work, such as the soldier boys in France and Flanders are demonstrating.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters that are now engaged in the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been conserved, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

Matter-of-Fact Lovemaking.

For downright prose Doctor Johnson's offer of hand and heart to his second wife would be very hard to beat.

"My dear woman," said Johnson, "I am a hardworking man and withal something of a philosopher. I am, as you know, very poor. I have always been respectable myself, but I grieve to tell you that one of my uncles was hanged."

"I have less money than you, doctor," demurely answered the lady, "but I shall try to be philosophical, too. None of my relatives has ever been hanged, but I have several who ought to be."

"Providence and philosophy have evidently mated us, my good woman," said the doctor as he pressed a chaste salute upon the lady's brow.—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Spoken With Feeling.

"There are all sorts of synonyms for money in this country," said the talkative man. "We call it 'tin,' 'mazuma,' 'kale,' 'dough,' and a dozen other names I don't recall just now."

"What is your favorite synonym for money?" asked the talkative person.

"'The unattainable,'" the solemn man replied, and then fell once more into deep thought.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

Storm Victims Trust God and the Red Cross

Men, Women and Children Are Stoical in Their Losses of Loved Ones and Homes —Kiddies Brave.

By CHARLES LEE BRYSON.

A firm belief in a protecting Providence, and in the Red Cross as one of the chosen agents of that Providence, was one of the first things that confronted a visitor to Mattoon and Charleston after the terrible tornado which swept across both cities in the spring. This attitude was best exemplified in a middle-aged man I found amid the ruins of Mattoon, but in varying degrees it was shown by almost every grown person I questioned.

I encountered this man in the very heart of the wrecked district. He sat on a little heap of timbers. Beside him lay the crushed frame and wheels of an inexpensive baby cab. All around him were boards, splinters, bricks, bits of bedding and household furniture—grist that had gone through the mill of the storm miller. I asked him if he had been in the storm—though his arm in splints and the lump on his head were evidence that he had.

"Yes, this was my house," he replied simply.

"Did you lose anyone?"

"Oh, yes. My baby and my five-year-old were killed. My wife and four others got hurt, but they're getting better."

I expressed my sympathy and added:

"And yet it seems to me you're lucky that anyone at all is left. I don't see how a cat could come alive through such a wreck as this."

"It was God watched over them," he answered earnestly. "I always asked him to look after them, and he did. He took the ones he wanted, and left the ones he didn't want yet."

Having no argument against his philosophy, I inquired after the injured wife and children.

"Oh, the Red Cross is caring for them," he replied brightly. "They are surely doing a good work. Doctors and nurses and hospitals and things to eat—they're doing great things for Mattoon."

I got him to talk further on his experiences in the storm. He had not been at home, but near Charleston, several miles to the east. He and several other men had taken refuge in a barn, but it was carried away and all were more or less injured. He was felled by a beam—or something, he could not be sure what—striking him on the head. Then he was pinned by an immense splinter driven through his arm.

"It was God's will," was his only explanation.

Not far away I found a woman of sixty-two clambering over the wreckage, picking radishes from a garden which was buried under fragments of her and her neighbors' houses.

"Did you live here?"

"Yes, this was my house." She swung her arm in a comprehensive semicircle, taking in much of the landscape. "Five rooms full of the nicest furniture."

"Were you at home? Did you get hurt?"

"Oh, yes, it broke three ribs, injured my spine, and hurt me all over," was the cheerful response. "Four hours after the storm they found me under that pile of timbers."

There was not a word of complaint. Only praise for the Red Cross, and the hope that if she could get the bricks and planks off her garden, she might grow some potatoes.

That was the spirit everywhere. Nothing to complain of, and a generous appreciation of the response of the Red Cross with surgeons and nurses and whatever was needed to help them back to a normal life again.

The children actually made a sort of holiday of it. I found a number of them in the Methodist Memorial hospital in Mattoon, and they were glad to have a visitor who would listen to their stories.

"It hurt my leg—just look!" exclaimed a young lady of perhaps nine years, pulling up her hospital gown and displaying with pride bandages from ankle to thigh. "And my arm, too—see!"

A nurse whispered that a great deal of flesh had been torn from the leg, but that she was improving nicely.

"Do you remember what happened?" I asked her.

"Sure. The window broke in, and the wind slammed me down in a corner and the sewing machine went on top of me, and then a whole lot of other things."

A chubby little girl in a neighboring cot had a great secret to tell me. She was sitting up among her pillows, one arm and her chest swathed in a multitude of bandages.

"I'm going home," she confided. "The doctor don't know it, and I'm not going to tell him, but I'm going."

She had suffered four broken ribs and a lacerated arm. Not a complaint out of her—nothing but chuckles at the dismay the doctor would experience when he should find that she had gone home.

Another was rather crestfallen that she had no broken bones to display.

"But I'm black and blue all over," she declared. "It's just hurt me everywhere."

"Did the sewing machine hit you, too?"

"I don't know," she confessed. "The house just went all to pieces around me, and I didn't know anything. And then I was lying in the potato patch and it was raining in my face."

Some regarded the theater as sinful, but a little boy who came to the Red Cross headquarters said that the theater saved him.

"I'd a been killed," he assured me, earnestly, "only I was down town to the second show, and it didn't blow the theater away."

He did not tell me, but one of the workers did, that his home was literally carried away, and both his father and mother killed. The Red Cross was supplying him with food and clothing, and a neighbor was caring for him.

The city of the dead fared worse, if possible, than the cities of the living. The most vindictive fury of the whole storm seemed centered in Dodge Grove cemetery.

Such trees as were not uprooted or twisted off short just above the ground were stripped of leaves, branches, large limbs—everything but the stub of a trunk. Even the gravestones were thrown about like so many bits of wood, some lifted into the air and driven deep into the soil, others shattered to pieces.

In one part of the cemetery a number of heavy stones were torn from their places and thrown to the west. Not ten feet away the wind had picked up an enormous block of solid granite and thrown it to the east. It was like a satire on the old Saxon phrase which calls the burial ground "God's Acre."

Telegrams at Half Rates.

All official messages between Red Cross chapters and the American Red Cross headquarters at Washington may now be sent at half rates. This is a courtesy by the Postal and the Western Union companies. The next step would seem to be the franking of all official mail, not only between Washington and chapters, but interchapter business. This can come only through congressional action.

Have You Joined Yet?

The Red Cross now has more than 1,200 regularly organized chapters in the United States, with considerably more than 2,000,000 members.

Wonderful Cuban Caves.

The wonderful caves of Bellamar, Cuba, to the east of Havana, attract the attention of the ambitious tourist. They are on a plateau as level as a table-top, which presents no signs of the existence of such caves. After descending into the earth, however, a picture unfolds itself. Then come many passages, and at last the great "Gothic temple," 250 feet long and 80 feet wide.

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest

As health is a first aid to beauty, this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, 'Take tonoline.'

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WHERE HE LOST INTEREST

Working Man Couldn't See Where There Were Any Bones to Be Left From His Sunday Joint.

For half an hour the working-class audience had listened patiently to the talented lady who was speaking to them about economical and nourishing cookery. She had talked about eggless puddings and butterless cakes, and now said, with a smile:

"I will now tell you about a splendid soup which can be made for next to nothing. Take the bones left over from your Sunday joint—"

At that a man in the middle of the hall rose to his feet with a disgusted look on his face, and said to his mate:

"'Ere, Bill, let's get out o' this."

"What's wrong?" asked the other, in surprise. "Don't you like soup?"

"Aye, I like soup well enough," was the grumbler's reply; "but how many bones does she think there are in a half a pound o' liver?"—London Tit-Bits.

Here Is a Record!

Talk about records! Here's one that apparently has every recorded record beaten to a frazzle.

Think of it—ocean to ocean in half a day.

We might possibly have believed it if our national defense board had announced the invention of some new and wonderful 100-mile-a-minute airplane—but on a bicycle—never.

But it's a fact. On August 2 Edward G. Arminger and two other young men covered the distance in twelve hours on bicycles—and what's more, they did it partly on railroad ties and loose gravel roads—and, of course, it's the first time it's ever been done.

Well, come on! What's the answer? If you must know, here it is. They did it across the Panama canal zone. —Financial American.

Benton County Taxpayer Begins Action to Enjoin Officials From Paying Past Deficits Out of Current School Funds.

St. Paul.

The special employment bureau opened by the Minnesota Public Safety commission in Minnesota to give state-wide war time service, furnished jobs to 2,058 men and 961 women during August, the report of Assistant Superintendent H. J. Beckerle to the commission shows.

While 3,899 application for help were received, 3,175 men applied for places and 2,058 reported that they obtained work. That there is a shortage in harvest help is shown by a special statement revealing that 1,028 applications for work and 996 for help were received and that 951 places were filled. The report showed that 1,134 women applied for places and that 1,195 applications for help were listed. Nine hundred and sixty-one women were hired, including three on agricultural work.

Action to Hold Up School Money.

Injunction proceedings have been started by J. F. Mussel, a taxpayer of Foley, Benton county, to restrain state officials from paying out of current state school aid funds the deficits in 1915-1916 state aid to high and graded schools as ordered by the state high school board after Governor Burnquist vetoed the $1,070,193 speciol deficit appropriation voted by the last legislature.

In the action to test the legality of the high school board order, District Judge Haupt of Ramsey county, on application by the complainant's attorney, signed an order to show cause returnable next Saturday and addressed to C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of education; Henry Rines, state treasurer, and J. A. O. Preus, state auditor.

Mr. Mussel alleges that the payment of the deficit from current bonds as proposed is unauthorized and contrary to law and that it will deplete current school aid funds, increase his individual taxes as a property owner at Foley and cause him irreparable damage. He contends further that the 1917 state school aid appropriation of $2,637,545 for 1917 and $2,400,000 for 1918 will be needed during those years and that payment of the existing deficits from either amount would simply create new deficits.

As the local boards have based their groups of men to be sent first to camp according to occupation as well as previous military experience, Captain Nyman is getting a line on the number of skilled men, such as chauffeurs, bakers, cooks, carpenters, blacksmiths, wagon makers, and so on, to be expected from Minneapolis.

Two Officials Face Disloyalty Charges.

Two inspectors in the state dairy and food commission are facing disloyalty charges. A. J. Anderson, Lindstrom, inspector of canneries, is accused of using abusive language toward Governor Burnquist in a recent conversation with W. W. Rich, doorkeeper at the capitol, and was summoned to appear before Commissioner James Sorenson to explain. Affidavits from citizens at Barnum received alleged that John E. Lindberg a creamery inspector, said he was ashamed o' the American flag, as recently reported. Commissioner Sorenson said the Lindberg case will be investigated by the civil service board and similar action taken against Anderson if the charges are pressed.

Time to Get Ready.

The other day a man telephoned to the draft selection board for Marion county outside of Indianapolis and asked whether it is necessary to have the wife's signature on an affidavit for an exemption claim. "Won't anyone else do?" the inquirer asked. "My wife says she won't sign it."

The board member told the man that the best thing he could do was to "get ready to go."

Got a Line on Them.

Two English laborers who were on the road to Birmingham to get work happened to meet an old Irishman breaking stones on the roadside. They inquired of Pat how long it would take to get there. Pat simply looked at them and made no reply. Thinking he was deaf they walked on. When they had gone about 300 yards he called after them, so they came back.

"Ye asked me how long it would take to go to Birmingham?"

"Yes," they said.

"Well," said Pat, "it will take ye four hours."

"Why didn't you tell us that before?" they asked.

"Well, now," said Pat, "how could I tell ye until I saw how fast ye could walk first?"

Feed the Fighters! Win the War!!

Harvest the Crops — Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders, the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop. A short harvest period requires the combined forces of the two countries in team work, such as the soldier boys in France and Flanders are demonstrating.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters that are now engaged in the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been conserved, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

SHARKS TO SERVE MANKIND

Veteran Fisherman Believes That, Properly Handled, the Meat of the Fish Is Edible.

Russell J. Coles of Danville, Va., who taught Colonel Roosevelt how to harpoon devilfish, announced that he has discovered a method of preventing world-wide starvation by tests he has carried out with regard to certain species of the dark shark and ray family. Mr. Coles has just come back from Morehead City, N. C., where he caught a number of fish, and despite the popular belief that the eating of them would bring death in a terrible form, he decided to take the risk and he sampled several of them. He has sent a complete record of his findings to Herbert Hoover in the hope that the food administrator will incline an ear and start the fashion of shark eating.

Mr. Coles believes that the sides of the larger fish may be tanned and converted into marketable leather.

After trying several methods the Danville man gives the following recipe for cooking shark steak:

Salt heavily for 30 minutes, soak out in three waters, parboil a few minutes, change water, parboil again, cook heavily seasoned and serve hot. The amount of seasoning must be used according to the odor of the meat.

WOMEN! IT IS MAGIC! LIFT OUT ANY CORN

Apply a few drops then lift corns or calluses off with fingers—no pain.

Just think! You can lift off any corn or callus without pain or soreness.

A Cincinnati man discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Any druggist will sell a tiny bottle of freezone, like here shown, for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it right off.

Freezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't eat away the corn or callus, but shrivels it up without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Hard, soft or corns between the toes, as well as painful calluses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. If your druggist hasn't freezone, tell him to order a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

SLAV COMMANDER REMOVED FOR PLOT AGAINST PREMIER

KORNILOV SOUGHT TO ASSUME CONTROL OF RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT IS CHARGE—KLEMBOVSKY APPOINTED.

DECLARES WAR STATE EXISTS IN PETROGRAD

Kerensky Issues Proclamation—Warns Civilians to Prepare to Leave as Precautionary Measure—Death Penalty May Have Caused the Split.

Petrograd, Sept. 11.—Premier A. F. Kerensky has ordered General Kornilov, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, to resign in consequence of General Kornilov's demand for supreme power.

General Klembovsky has been appointed commander-in-chief.

Kerensky has declared that a state of war exists in the town and district of Petrograd, and preparations for partial civil evacuation of the city have been begun.

Kerensky's Proclamation.

Premier Kerensky has issued the following proclamation:

"On Sept. 8 a member of the duma, M. Lvov, arrived in Petrograd and called upon me, in the name of General Kornilov, to hand over all civil and military powers to the generalissimo, who would form a new government at his pleasure. The authenticity of this summons was afterwards confirmed by General Kornilov himself who had a conversation with me over the direct telegraphic wire between Petrograd and main headquarters.

"Considering this summons addressed through me to the provisional government as an attempt by certain quarters to profit by the difficult situation of the country and establish a state of things contrary to the conquests of the revolution, the provisional government has recognized the necessity of charging me, for the safety of the republican regime, to take the urgent, indispensable measures necessary to cut at the roots all attempts against the supreme power and rights of the citizens won by the revolution.

"I therefore, for the maintenance in the country of liberty and public order, am taking all measures which I shall announce at the proper moment to the people. At the same time I order General Kornilov to hand over his functions to General Klembovsky, commander-in-chief of the armies on the northern front, which bar the way to Petrograd, and I order General Klembovsky to assume provisionally the functions of generalissimo, while remaining at Pskov.

"Secondly, I declare a state of war in the town and district of Petrograd.

"I appeal to all citizens to remain calm, maintain the order necessary for the welfare of the fatherland and the army and navy, and tranquilly and faithfully fulfill their duty in the defense of the fatherland against the foreign enemy."

At Odds Since Conference.

Premier Kerensky and General Kornilov have been at odds since the Moscow conference.

Kornilov at that time demanded institution of practically every rule of the old autocracy regulations—and particularly insisted on restoration of the death penalty. He declared Russia only could be saved by violent strengthening of her armies—and that this could only come about through enforcement of the most drastic disciplinary measures. A temporary truce between the army commander-in-chief and the premier was arranged shortly after the Moscow meeting, Kerensky agreeing partially to institution of the death penalty.

Evacuation Mere Precaution.

The civilian evacuation of Petrograd is purely a measure of precaution, according to official explanation.

Washington, Sept. 11.—After five weeks of debate the senate is in the last stage of the war revenue bill.

Before the final vote was reached, however, several features were to be disposed of, embracing consumption taxes on sugar, tea and coffee, the 3 per cent levy on freight transportation, the second class mail rate increases, proposed repeal of the sugar "drawback" and the provision taxing corporations' undivided surplus 10 per cent.

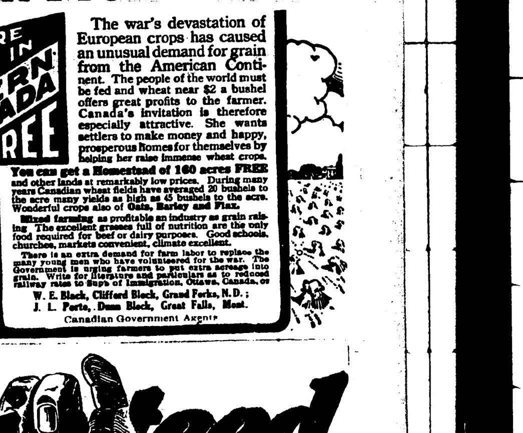
Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat



160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by helping her raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.

There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

Red Cross News

If the American Red Cross had never done anything else than organize, equip and supply the base hospitals which are now backing our armies, it would have justified its existence. Of course it has done, and still is doing, countless great things for America and for the world; but its accomplishment in the line of base hospitals is just now of prime importance.

As briefly as it may be defined, a base hospital is an institution which cares for the sick or wounded soldier from the time he is sent back from the firing line, until he is able to be removed to a hospital in his own country.

It is almost unbelievable, but nevertheless a fact, that until the American Red Cross took hold of the task a year ago, no nation in the history of the world had ever organized a base hospital until after war had been declared and the fighting begun, and the wounded men lay writhing on the ground.

Always, of course, there have been a few army surgeons with each regiment, who patched up the slightly wounded and got them back into the firing line as quickly as possible. Also, of course, there have always been in all countries some sort of hospital system for the care of the sick and wounded when they got home.

But always the intermediate institution, for the care and transportation of the sick and wounded between the front and the home hospitals, was missing. This has invariably led to a terrible congestion of wounded on the battlefields, where thousands suffered needlessly, lost arms and legs that might have been saved, or died when a little care would have preserved them.

Col. Jefferson Randolph Kean, U. S. A. Medical corps, director general of military relief of the Red Cross, has likened the former organization to a bridge of which the end spans were complete, but the middle span—the base hospitals—was entirely lacking.

When a man is wounded in battle, the method of caring for him is this—modified, of course, by varying conditions:

He lies on the field in No Man's Land between the lines, or in the trench, until he is able to drag himself away, or the stretcher bearers can reach him, and carry him to one of the little first-aid stations. These are always very near to the fighting lines—sometimes in a part of the trench where the men are fighting.

There an army surgeon stanches the flow of blood, puts a dressing on the wound to keep out infection, binds on splints in case of broken bones, and makes it possible for the patient to be moved to the little field hospital a short distance from the fighting line.

This field hospital is usually a tent—sometimes a hut or a barn or even a space in the open air sheltered by a hill or a clump of trees. It is really little more than an enlarged first-aid station, with a capacity for not more than 125 wounded, who lie on the ground on tarpaulins. There are no beds, and seldom any cots.

From the field hospital the wounded are taken, as rapidly as possible, to the evacuation hospitals, still farther from the danger zone. Each evacuation hospital cares for the wounded from three field hospitals. This, too, is an emergency station, and has no permanency. It is a collection station for wounded, where the worst cases may be given a little more attention than has been possible before.

As rapidly as the motor ambulances, the hospital trains, the hospital ships, or other agencies, are able to work, the wounded are taken from these collecting stations to the base hospital, located at the army base some distance to the rear.

Here, for the first time, the wounded man finds himself in a real hospital, in the hands of surgeons and nurses who have the time to give his hurts every possible care.

He is put into a real bed in a real hospital, supplied with X-ray, bacteriological and pathological laboratories, a diet kitchen presided over by skilled cooks, and with surgeons and nurses drawn from America's most highly trained to wait on him. If he requires an operation, he is in the hands of the best surgeons of the land, with the finest surgical tools to do their work. And the hospital has an ample supply of wound dressings, pads, splints, hospital gowns, surgical shirts—all the thousand and one things a first-class hospital must have.

That is the service which the American Red Cross has provided for the American soldier before our country was at war—before a single American ship or unit of the American army was headed for Europe. Thirty-six of these hospitals—enough to care for the wounded of an army of a million men—have been made ready to the last strip of bandage and the last enrolled stretcher bearer. Several of them are now in France, helping to care for the wounded of the allies, and ready to care for the American soldiers who are sure to fall into their hands before many weeks.

Each of these base hospitals calls for the services of 23 surgeons, 2 dentists, 75 Red Cross nurses and 150 privates, including orderlies, ambulance drivers, stretcher bearers and clerks.

The permanent minimum equipment of each hospital consists of three carloads of beds, mattresses, scientific apparatus, operating room paraphernalia, and all utensils. Units going to Europe these days, however, are taking double or triple equipment.

The consumable supplies of each hospital consists of 85 crates of bandages, wound pads, splints, fracture pillows, dressings and hospital supplies of every kind to the number of 42,482, all made up to army standard, packed, boxed and labeled so that surgeons and nurses can put their hands on them in a moment.

Now—from this it might seem that the Red Cross has done everything needful, and that there is nothing more to do for the base hospitals but to wait until the wounded begin to stream in, and give them the benefit of all this foresight.

Not so. It has been established that the supplies of bandages and splints and wound pads and gauze in a base hospital last through just about four days of heavy fighting. Then, unless there were a great store of supplies to draw from, the hospital would find itself with 500 wounded on hand, and no dressings for their wounds.

Here, again, is work for the Red Cross. All over the land, wherever supplies were made for these 36 base hospitals, are women trained in making hospital supplies. It is for these women not only to stand ready to furnish other supplies, but to train still other women to take up the work; for when the Americans begin to fight there will be no stopping the stream of wounded until the war is won. And the Red Cross cannot afford to let a single fighting man die for lack of a bandage or a splint. Is our community doing its part?

In France right now the supply of gauze and linen is so low that they are reported to be using old newspapers to stanch bleeding wounds. That must never happen to an American soldier. And unless the American people get behind the Red Cross with all their strength and in all their numbers, and train themselves to turn out supplies for their hospitals, it may happen.

It would be the irony of fate if a soldier from our own town—perhaps your own family, or mine—were to get gangrene in his wound, perhaps lose an arm or a leg or even his life, because we folks here had failed to furnish the dressings for his wound.

Wonderful Cuban Caves.

The wonderful caves of Bellamar, Cuba, to the east of Havana, attract the attention of the ambitious tourist. They are on a plateau as level as a table top, which presents no signs of the existence of such caves. After descending into the earth, however, a picture unfolds itself. Then come many passages, and at last the great "Gothic temple," 250 feet long and 80 feet wide.

The Boy Who Dreams.

It is a good thing for the farmer boy to have an imagination, says the Prairie Farmer. It is a good thing for him to "dream dreams and see visions." It takes a dreamer to see the transformation that intelligent effort will bring to pass on the old place. It takes a dreamer to see how much more desirable that place will be in ten years than a job in a dry goods store.—Emporia Gazette.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing women for victory

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest

As health is a first aid to beauty, this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline.

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

Set no fires, is the warning which is being sent out to everybody, by Gov. Burnquist and state officials.

The Northwest Experiment Station at Crookston has received Information regarding high class breeding stock that is offered for sale at market prices. Anyone interested in high class beef or dairy cattle will do well to write Supt. Selvig regarding this matter.

Your country asks you to help save the live stock of the entire northwest. If you must sell, let it be to some farmer. No matter where he lives just so he can keep them over till pastures come again. Breeding stock is going to be scarce and animals sold must be saved for that purpose, as far as possible. Drougth in the northwest is compelling farmers to sell. You can help by saving hay and straw for shipping to them and feeding your stock at home all corn stocks, undeveloped cabbages, roots and tops of mangels, beets, carrots and rutabagas, unsaleable straw, etc. Oats straw will be worth $10.00 a ton for feed and wheat straw $7.50, when timothy hay is worth $20.00. Sow fall rye, save the waste, and do your part in helping the farmers to keep their breeding stock, which is being contracted for by Europe and to be delivered when the war is over. Feeders need to be kept too, as already there is a shortage of meats in this country. Help the Nation.

Lesson From the Lily.

How easily we lose poise, swept by the current of life! Our root is not deep enough. Consider the lily resting on the face of the waters, its roots far below. How serene it rides the ripples, and how confidently it has sought the light, that its life may expand there in above the turbulence of the waves.—Trinities and Sanctities.

Laid Up In Bed, Barely Holding Onto Life. Doan's Effected Marvelous Recovery.

"Without warning I was dragged to the brink of the grave by malignant kidney trouble," says Robert Wengatz, 114 Cypress Ave., Bronx, N. Y. "My kidneys seemed to stop acting and the pains in my back were terrible. Big, bloaty puffs came under my eyes and attacks of dizziness often blinded me. My limbs swelled twice normal size and I could press big dents into the flesh.

Mr. Wengatz.

"I was confined to bed and had convulsions several times a day. Despite the best of treatment, I grew worse and was taken to the hospital. I didn't improve, however, and was brought home again, barely holding onto life.

"Toward the last of 1913, a friend persuaded me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I cannot put into words what they did for me. The first box helped more than all the other medicines and treatments I had taken. I continued and from an emaciated wreck of a man I have taken on good, solid flesh until I now weigh 225 pounds and am in the best of health. Doan's alone deserve the credit."

COSTLY CHIMES FOR CADETS

Big Set of Bells Is Being Made for Chapel at United States Military Academy at West Point.

What is said to be the most costly chime of bells in America and one of the most musical sets in existence is now being made at the foundry of the Meneely Bell company of Troy, N. Y., for the massive tower of Cadet chapel, Rev. H. P. Silver, chaplain, at the United States military academy, West Point, as the gift of Mrs. James M. Lawton, in memory of her father, the late Maj. Gen. Robert Anderson, who was graduated from the academy in 1825, and whose brilliant command of Fort Sumner at the outbreak of the Civil war has thrilled millions of readers of American history, says the Watchman-Examiner.

There will be 12 bells in the chime, the largest weighing nearly two tons and measuring 56 inches at its mouth. The cadet chapel is of stone, quarried from rock found on the military grounds and cost to build about half a million dollars. Its commanding position on the hill back from the Hudson river makes an ideal place for bells, and the patriotic airs from the chime will sound throughout the beautiful highlands, in the midst of which the military academy is situated, and prove a source of inspiration to the future generals of the United States army that will always linger with them pleasantly.

U. S. TIGHTENS BAN ON FOOD EXPORTS

BOARD ISSUES LIST OF ARTICLES REQUIRING LICENSE FOR SHIPMENT.

SWEDEN FEARS STARVATION

Population Gets Smallest Ration in Europe Is Plea—All Scandinavian Representatives Protest—Swedish Grain Crop Small.

Washington, Sept. 18.—A list of articles for which export licenses will be issued only when shipments will contribute to actual war purposes, has been issued by the exports administration board.

The list includes wheat and flour, sugar, butter, iron and steel in nearly all forms, cotton linters, flax, glycerin, wireless apparatus, tin plate, aluminum, ammonia, carbolic acid, cyanide of sodium, ferro manganese, ferro silicon, mercury salt, nitrate of soda, nitric acid, nitric salts, phosphoric acid, phosphorus, potash, saltpeter, searchlights, generators, sodium sulphate, spiegeleisen, stearin, sulphur, toluyl, tungsten and wool rags.

Fear Starvation.

Scandinavian representatives here—particularly the Swedish—pleaded that the new prohibition on wheat export will bring their nations to the brink of starvation. The Swedish representatives declared their nation will be the first to feel the pinch of famine.

The Swedish population, according to Axel Robert Nordvall, delegate to the United States, now gets only seven ounces of rye or wheat daily, the smallest ration in Europe.

"Sweden's grain crop this year," he said, "will be only two-thirds normal. We will need 12,000,000 bushels for bread, and it is impossible to cut our rations further."

Prussian officers, it was asserted are frequently insulted on the streets of various Austrian cities.

Italy's successful drive east of Gorizia is likewise reported as causing widespread apprehension throughout Emperor Carl's dominions.

Gunners fired one shot at random, as no submarine was visible.

Wireless warnings against U-boats off the American coast were picked up by this liner, passengers said. They declared the message came from Cape Race, a British station.

No trace of the submarine reported as shelling a vessel off Nantucket Friday morning has been found.

Feed the Fighters! Win the War!!

Harvest the Crops — Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders, the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop. A short harvest period requires the combined forces of the two countries in team work, such as the soldier boys in France and Flanders are demonstrating.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters that are now engaged in the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been conserved, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

Convincing Proof of This Fact.

Ridgway, Penn.—"I suffered from female trouble with backache and pain in my side for over seven months so I could not do any of my work. I was treated by three different doctors and was getting discouraged when my sister-in-law told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her. Mrs. Lindsey Now Keeps House For Seven.

Tennille, Ga.—"I want to tell you how much I have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About eight years ago I got in such a low state of health I was unable to keep house for three in the family. I had dull, tired, dizzy feelings, cold feet and hands nearly all the time and could scarcely sleep at all. The doctor said I had a severe case of ulceration and without an operation I would always be an invalid, but I told him I wanted to wait awhile. Our druggist advised my husband to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has entirely cured me. Now I keep house for seven and work in the garden some, too. I am so thankful I got this medicine. I feel as though it saved my life and have recommended it to others and they have been benefited".—Mrs. W. E. Lindsey, R. R. 3, Tennille, Ga.

The bright boy in khaki was dilating on the woes of army life.

"Yes," he said to his old mother, "we don't get much in the way of fancy foods, or anything like that. Our camp cook's all right on stews and soup, but he can't go beyond them. The other day, you know, when I went back, I took a cucumber with me that I was going to share with one or two of the boys. I gave it to the cook and asked him to get it ready for us, and what d'you think he did with it? Put it in the oven and baked it."

A young girl of plebeian ancestry achieved fame as an actress in London. Feeling the necessity, however, of a rest from her labors, she wrote to her uncle, a police sergeant of a country village, asking him if she might come and stay with him to recuperate. She ended her note: "Please send a P. C. to say if I may come."

A few days later her landlady rushed upstairs with an awestricken countenance—a policeman wanted her! The girl descended with an ominous feeling at her heart, says London Tit-Bits.

"If you please, miss," said the stolid being who confronted her, eyeing her with stern disapproval, "I'm the P. C. what you asked your uncle to send, but I may as well tell you straight away as I'm a respectable married man. Your uncle's prepared to take you in if you're willing to make yourself useful—feed the pig, clean his office and the two cells."

Left Them Outside.

"Where are your manners, sir?" asked the crusty business man of a stranger who unceremoniously rushed into his private office.

"I left them out in the main office," answered the irate caller, "where I was insulted by two or three of your impudent clerks."

Chronic Indigestion.

"You can't eat your cake and have it."

PORPOISE FISHERY IS OLD

One of Least Known Industries Has Been in Existence at Cape Hatteras for 200 Years.

One of the oldest and least-known industries in America is the porpoise fishery which has been operated from Cape Hatteras in North Carolina for about 200 years. It should attain an unusual prosperity in the next few years, for the bureau of fisheries is urging more general use of porpoise hides in place of cowhides. It is an excellent leather, and could undoubtedly be used more widely.

Heretofore the most valuable product of the fishery has been the oil which is extracted from the jaws of the porpoise, and is worth about $20 a gallon. It is universally used for lubricating watches and other very delicate mechanisms. The body blubber is also valuable. Attempts to manufacture fertilizer out of the carcass have failed because of the distance from a fuel supply.

The porpoise are taken at Hatteras in seines, operated from the shore, and it is probably the only place in America where this has ever been done successfully. During the fall, winter and spring many porpoises are seen off the South Atlantic coast, and at Hatteras they come within a few hundred yards of the surf. They are taken by spreading seines about 200 yards outside the surf lines. As soon as the porpoises have come inside the seines, they are dragged ashore. Often a whole school of these sea creatures is taken in a single haul.

On Writing Letters

"I was told by Capt. Harry [illegible] the other day," writes a Canadian major, "that there is a new style in trench letters. The censor's duties have been reduced by many per cent. The soldier now has the sense of the situation engrained in his thinking. He sees through the need of keeping quiet even on matters that call for some criticism. There is more humor and matter-of-factness about his letters. One of my men, who can't write very well, was telling me the other day that one letter a week is all that he can summon up his courage to write, and he gave this as a reason: 'The people at home don't, can't understand life here. We have got to go through it. Why tease them with anxieties—they have enough to put up with in pacifists and political grumblers.' And I think he is right. Don't you?"

Soldiers and Officers

A lieutenant was testing the [illegible] visional power.

"Tell me, No. 1," he said, "how many men are in the trench digging party over there?"

"Thirty men and one officer," was the reply.

"Quite right. But how do you know one was an officer at this distance?"

"'Cos he's the only one not working!"—Scottish American.

The Point

"I am afraid our bulldog has a [illegible] in his pedigree."

"Don't worry. It is only in his screw tail."

Cutting Down Gossip.

"How do you suppose some people spent their spare time before motion pictures were invented?"

"I don't like to appear unkind to those persons, but before they started to spending practically all of their leisure moments in photoplay houses they knew a great deal more about their neighbors' private affairs than they do now."

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

How to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out.

This drug dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without even irritating the surrounding skin.

A small bottle of freezone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

If your druggist hasn't stocked this new drug yet, tell him to get a small bottle of freezone for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

"Wife a Good Sport"

W. B. Desmond, a carpenter of Huntington Lake, Cal., is above the selective draft age limit but he wanted to join the army.

He told his wife. She objected. He offered to match pennies with her. She agreed. He suggested heads, stay at home, tails go to the front.

They matched and tails won. Desmond enlisted in the field artillery. "My wife's a good sport," he told the recruiting officer.

THE BEST DAIRY FEED

Made From Grain From Which the Human Food Values Have Been Taken.

By Prof. F. D. Fuller.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The reason why the best dairy feeds are less expensive than the same grains on the farm is because the principal elements of human food are taken from these grains before they are ever made into feed. The by-products of cereal mills, glucose factories, malt houses, etc., constitute often more than 50 per cent of the total bulk of mixed dairy feeds of the better class.

These oats, barley and corn by-products are considered by experts in animal nutrition as very valuable feed materials. After these cereals are ground in the manufacture of alcohol, for which the use is growing more important daily in the arts, the solid residue is dried in vacuo, and is then known as "dried grains." If made from corn, these grains contain on an average of about 30 per cent crude protein and 10 per cent crude fat. If made from rye, while valuable, they are of somewhat lower feed value. The barley residue contains over 70 per cent more crude protein than wheat bran and twice as much crude fat. In fact, their food value is largely increased by the process.

All these products are widely used by the best dairy feeders and are relied upon very extensively in milk production. There is no doubt of the fact that if the supply of these products were radically limited or entirely exhausted, it would have a serious effect upon the milk production throughout the country and the dairymen would have one more burden added to their already overtaxed strength.

Cottonseed meal is composed principally of the kernel, with such portion of the hull as is necessary in the manufacture of oil. Cottonseed meal, if choice, must contain at least 41 per cent crude protein. It is one of the richest of all feeds in this substance and carries about 8 per cent crude fat. On account of its extreme concentration it can be fed only in limited quantities and always in conjunction with some products to furnish bulk. This meal is an important ingredient in many manufactured feeds.

HOME MIXED FEEDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When a man undertakes to mix his own rations, what does he do? He buys straight feeds. Take cottonseed meal as a common example. There are a great many different grades of cottonseed meal, and the man who is looking for a low-priced feed is sure to get a low grade. The demand for cheap feeding ingredients has caused the quality to be gradually whittled down. Consequently the farmer nearly always works with feeds which are poorer than he believes them to be. He does not get adequate state protection because inspectors do not go to a farmer's barn to draw samples, and even if they did, it would be hard to get a complete chain of evidence.

A farmer has no facilities for having his feed analyzed and he doesn't know what he is working with. The analyses of mixed feeds costs about ten cents per ton, and if every farmer will read the various bulletins from the agricultural colleges he will soon know those brands which can be depended upon. There is no doubt that at the present prices of grain any farmer can save money by selling his cereal crops and buying mixed feed. Cornmeal, oil meal and cottonseed meal are all high, but the by-products of barley and rye are all more reasonable in price.

Corn has become costly largely due to the demand for pork and beef. Americans will have those meats at almost any price. This puts corn on a meat basis, and the dairy business will have to fall back on the by-products of grains.

GIVE COWS PLENTY OF WATER.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When cows are in full milk they require plenty of water. It is stated authoritatively that cows in full flow of milk will consume 50 per cent more water than when dry.

Poor feed sells to poor feeders.

Only that part of the feed that digest is of use—the rest is mostly fertilizer material.

No protein—no casein; no casein—no milk; not enough protein—not so much milk; also not enough feed—not so much food.

Foods with the highest protein and highest analysis are usually but not always the cheapest to use.

Cows won't make milk out of water and air.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Starchy feeds like corn and oats often sell as high as protein feeds because of the demand for them for horses and other work animals. Starchy feeds are also good to fatten steers. That is why they are often as high in price as dairy feeds, which are strong in protein.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Home-grown grains can often be profitably traded for protein feeds. While oats are generally demanded for horse feed, they are nearly always too expensive for dairy feed. Oats by-products, however, are very useful for bulk.

STRAW SHOULD BE SPREAD.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The feeding value of straw being comparatively low, and the fertilizing value being high, all straw should be spread upon the fields and not burned or wasted. The use of straw to prevent winter-killing of wheat is now well established.

THE DAIRY RATION

Feeding Tables Hard to Follow on Account of Variation of Ingredients.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

For many years feeders have endeavored to use so-called standard tables showing the theoretical number of pounds each of so-called digestible protein, fats and carbohydrates. These methods are fatally defective for the following reasons:

First, the tables call for so much digestible food. If there was such a thing as digestible food it might furnish a basis to go by, but digestible food is really apparently digestible food, in that it disappears in the body. Just what use is made of it is not always clear. Some of it turns into gas, some is converted into heat, and much of it is used in the labor of digesting and handling the food. In the case of straw and similar material, nearly all of its energy is used up in the labor of digesting it, leaving little or no net gain. Straw should be returned to the soil. Take two samples of dried barley grains, each containing the same amount of digestible food, and one will give twenty more therms or heat units than the other.

One hundred pounds of digestible food derived from roughage is about equal to eighty pounds derived from grain, so if we add together things which are unlike, we get no tangible results. It is like adding so many pounds to so many gallons. So, the digestible basis of figuring rations is very inaccurate. The correct way is, first, to ascertain how much protein and energy a cow needs to sustain life and keep weight. You can get this from your experiment station, and ascertain how much is necessary to make one pound of milk of a certain fat test, and then feed her as much protein and energy as is needed to maintain her and supply food for as many pounds of milk as she can make.

This is a very difficult problem and few can do it, and we challenge any two men to tackle the same problem under the same conditions and arrive at the same result.

We cannot tell unless we try to find out, that a cow will not give more milk on more feed, or maybe as much milk on less feed. So feeding is largely experimental, as no two cows are alike.

However, the law of averages will hold, and the feeder can save all this trouble and much loss by feeding a ration which his experiment station has in most cases made, say three to four pounds of milk for each pound of mixed feed.

There is one thing certain. The more solids and fat in the milk, the more feed needed per pound of milk. So, a good mixed feed which is properly combined and all the roughage she will eat will greatly simplify your feeding problem and a very little experimenting will soon show you how much concentrates each cow needs to produce a maximum yield.

Impedimenta.

I cannot call riches better than the baggage of virtue; the Roman word is better, impedimenta; for as the baggage is to an army, so is riches to virtue; it cannot be spared nor left behind, but it hindereth the march; yea, and the care of it sometimes loseth or disturbeth the victory; of great riches there is no real use, except it be in the distribution; the rest is but conceit.—Bacon.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing women for victory

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline."

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc

Wonderful Cuban Caves.

The wonderful caves of Bellamar, Cuba, to the east of Havana, attract the attention of the ambitious tourist. They are on a plateau as level as a table top, which presents no signs of the existence of such caves. After descending into the earth, however, a picture unfolds itself. Then come many passages, and at last the great "Gothic temple," 250 feet long and 80 feet wide.

Twenty-four young men from this county went to Camp Dodge at Des Moines, Iowa last week to begin training in the draft army. It was at first reported that seventy-two would be called, but if that was the first orders they were changed. It was also reported that the second call would be made Oct. 3, but that has been changed, according to official notice from Provost Marshall Crowder, it is expected the men will be notified to report about Oct. 10th to 15th for duty as U. S. soldiers.

Some people oppose the present war for democracy on the grounds that so many men will be killed, yet they fight for the liquor traffic that kills more men in a year than all the wars we ever had. Besides this, liquor is the cause of more hungry, thinly clad, diseased and dying women and children, more deformed and feeble minded children, more unhappy homes and divorces, more poverty and mortgages foreclosed on homes and furniture, more business failures, than all other causes combined. When will we as a people awaken as to our responsibilities?

BIG QUESTIONS WAR RAISES

Tremendous Variety of Problems Must Be Solved by Those Directing the World Conflict.

Somewhere in the Australian hinterland railway trackage is being pulled up in order to be laid down again in the desert of Sinai or along the Tigris or in Albania or near the White sea or in the sector of Arras, says a thoughtful writer in a New York journal.

Given a shipload of iron ore, it is for someone to decide whether that iron is to be shell, or barbed wire, or steel helmet, or airplane engine, or traveling crane, or farm tractor for the raising of potatoes to feed the crew of the ship that brings Chinese coolies from Canton to Marseilles to handle other masses of iron ore at the Creusot armament factories.

And when you multiply the task by the number of departments, war, admiralty, agriculture and subsistence, when the problem develops into one of determining whether a man can be best used for throwing hand grenades at Bullecourt or plowing in Sussex or unloading wheat at Liverpool or manufacturing boots for the Russian armies in Roumania, it becomes plain how inadequate is the ordinary pencil stub and newspaper margin for winning the war out of hand.

Hard Luck.

One day after shoveling [illegible] father's allotment for two hours little Jemmy began to cry. "What's the trouble, my little man?" asked a sympathetic bystander. "A bad tramp come along and stole the shovel from the boy in the next allotment." "Well, my lad, it's nice to be sympathetic," said the looker-on, "but you mustn't worry so over other people's affairs." "It ain't that," said Jemmy. "I'm cryin' because he didn't steal my shovel, too."

MORE PROOF GIVEN OF GERMAN PLOTS

COMMITTEE OF PUBLIC INFORMATION EXPOSES TEUTON INTRIGUES AGAINST U. S.

FAR-REACHING PROPAGANDA

Plotting Going on in This Country Prior to Diplomatic Break With German Empire—Damning Evidence Is Found.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Further disclosures of far-reaching German propaganda, intrigues and plots in this country prior to the diplomatic break with Germany have been made by the committee on public information.

In a bulletin styled "official expose" the committee quotes the numerous letters and extracts from letters seized by the Department of Justice in April, 1916, in a raid upon the New York office of Wolfe von Igel. Von Igel, in carrying on his manifold pro-German and anti-American activities, the documents show, was in constant touch with the German embassy and with Count von Bernstorff, then the German ambassador to the United States.

Damning Evidence Found.

"In the form of letters, telegrams, notations, checks, receipts, registers, cash books, cipher codes, lists of spies and other memoranda and records," the committee says, "were found indications—in some instances of the vaguest nature, in others of the most damning conclusiveness—that the German Imperial government through its representatives in a then friendly nation was concerned with—

"Violation of the laws of the United States.

"Destruction of lives and property in merchant vessels on the high seas.

"Irish revolutionary plots against Great Britain.

"Fomenting ill feeling against the United States in Mexico.

"Subornation of American writers and lecturers.

"Financing of propaganda.

"Maintenance of a spy system under the guise of a commercial investigation bureau.

"Subsidizing of a bureau for the purpose of stirring up labor troubles in munition plants.

"The bomb industry and other related activities."

Holland a German Way Station.

The committee, of which Secretaries Lansing, Baker and Daniels are members and George Creel, chairman, has this to say concerning Holland:

"It has long been an open secret that Holland is merely a way station for shipments of contraband and into Germany. Here is official confirmation from the von Igel records which would seem to indicate a suspicious and confidential relation between the Holland commission and the German diplomatic officials accredited to this country, or possibly a belief by the Germans that they could not successfully get the munitions to their own country. The message in code with interlinear translation is entered as 'A 24998' and headed 'German embassy, Washington, D. C., April 6, 1916.' It runs as follows:

"Telegrams from Berlin by secret, roundabout way for Carl Heysen: Consent sale Holland three hundred thousand chests (cartridges) and two hundred tons powder. Please get in touch with Holland commission. Sender, war minister, foreign office, in representation.

"(Signed) Hatzfeldt."

Prince Hatzfeldt was an official of the German embassy.

Hamburg-American Line Involved

The Hamburg-American line's bureau of investigation, the committee states, an "Inocent pretending agency was at the outset the secret service of the Hamburg-American Steamship company. Under Paul Koenig, its manager, it became an adjunct of the German diplomatic secret service. A letter dated July 20, 1915, from 'O. R.', one of its operatives to '7,000' (characterized by the committee as Captain von Papen, former German military attache) tells of the payment of $150, to an unnamed person under peculiar precautions, after the recipient had made this statement:

"I intend to cause serious damage to vessels of the Allies leaving ports of the United States by placing bombs, which I am making myself, on board. These bombs resemble ordinary lumps of coal and I am planning to have them concealed in the coal to be laden on steamers of the Allies."

Money for Irish Rebels.

Money apparently went from German sources in the United States through embassy channels to Sir Roger Casement, the Irishman executed in London.

"Several lines of communication between the German diplomatic service and the Irish revolutionary movement are indicated in the captured documents," the statement continues: "John DeVoy, of New York, now editor of the Gaelic American, a violently anti-British paper, was one of the active agents of this connection. Significant entries appear here and there: references to messages from the German embassy at Washington and the German consulate at New York; mention of a secret code to be employed in communicating with him and of a 'cipher Devoy'; also a notation the details of which remains undiscovered, concerning 'communication remanufacture hand grenades.'"

Justice Cohalan Mentioned.

The following reference to Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan of New York is contained, the committee states, in a letter found in the Von Igel papers in cipher with interlinear translation, dated New York, April 17, 1916, numbered 335-16 and ascribed at the top, "Very secret."

"Judge Cohalan requests the transmission of the following remarks:

"The revolution in Ireland can only be successful if supported from Germany, otherwise England will be able to suppress it, even though it be only after hard struggles. Therefore, help is necessary. This should consist primarily of aerial attacks in England and a diversion of fleet simultaneously with Irish revolution. Then, if possible, a landing of troops, arms, and ammunition in Ireland, and possibly some officers from Zeppelins. This would enable the Irish ports to be closed against England and the establishment of stations for submarines on the Irish coast and the cutting off of the supply of food for England. The services of the revolution may, therefore, decide the war.

"He asks that a telegram to this effect be sent to Berlin:

Addressed to Bernstorff.

This letter was signed "5132 8167 6230," and was addressed to Count von Bernstorff, "Imperial Ambassador, Washington, D. C."

A code message sent to Berlin was given as follows:

"National Germania insurance contract certainly promised. Executor is evidently satisfied with proposition. Necessary steps have been taken.

"HENRY NEUMAN."

Of this message the committee has this to say:

"Not so innocent and harmless as it looks, for what the message really means is this:

"'Irish agree to proposition. The necessary steps have been taken.'"

Prediction Far From Facts.

"Information carefully and extensively set forth in the secret documents of the German officialdom," the committee continues, "was sometimes wide of the facts. For example, a lengthy memorandum of March 1, 1916, transmitted by the secret agent, Capt. Boehm, dealing with the Mexican crisis, appears to have been largely the work of some fervid and projective imagination.

"It predicts that the President will attribute Mexico's anti-American activities to German money and incitement; that he will call upon Congress to support him in radical measures (the prophet even attempts to paraphrase the language to be employed in the message) that Congress will indorse the President's stand, following which upward of 150 German spies and agents provocateurs were to be arrested with the ambassadors of the Teutonic powers to receive their passports."

After citing an extract from Capt. Boehm's letter, the committee states that he was "too loose of tongue" for the good of his service and, citing a report of the German military information bureau of March 21, 1916, quotes the report as follows:

"Too great confidence in the silence of his fellowmen, especially the members of the American Truth society—was probably the cause of his becoming quickly known here."

"Pure War Expenses."

An entry entitled "Pure war expenses," from the Von Igel papers is made public by the committee as follows: "'Erwin Emerson, $1,000. Fair Play, (Mr. Braun). $2,000.

"'Fair Play, (Mr. Braun). $1,500.

"'Marcus Braun, $1,000.

"'J. Archibald, $5,000.'"

The statement continues.

"Concerning the identity of the last entry there might be room for doubt, but for a signed receipt from J. F. J. Archibald, acknowledging the sum of $5,000 from the German embassy for propaganda work."

The committee concludes its expose as follows:

"While chiefly concerned with military affairs in Europe the representatives of a supposedly friendly nation were keeping an interested watch on our own activities in that line. A secret code message of April 11, 1916, signed '13232 46729 46919' addressed Von Igel to this effect:

"'Herewith respectfully send an extract regarding the troops stationed in California and the armament of the coast fortifications.'"

Italians Give Jewelry for Country.

Rome, Sept. 24. — Nearly 1,000 pounds of gold has been donated to the treasury department during the past four months in the form of ornaments, old coins and family jewelry. The golden crown of Prince Amedeo, the father of the duke of Abruzzi, was one of the gifts originating in the city of Turin. Venice so far has led all the cities of Italy with 220 pounds of gold. Florence has given 90 pounds, Milan 200 pounds, Brescia 55 pounds, Rome 100, and Turn about 150.

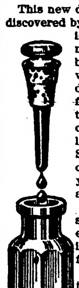
Britain Treats Prisoners Best.

London, Sept. 24.—Admission that the treatment of German war prisoners in Great Britain was superior to the treatment received in any other country was made by the chief German delegate to the recent conference of British and Germans on war prisoners, according to a statement made by Baron Newton, one of the British delegates, in the house of commons. Virtually no complaint was made of the British methods of handling prisoners.

PAIN? NOT A BIT! LIFT YOUR CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

No humbug! Apply few drops then just lift them away with fingers.

This new drug is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. It is called freezone, and can now be obtained in tiny bottles as here shown at very little cost from any drug store. Just ask for freezone. Apply a drop or two directly upon a tender corn or callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off, root and all, with the fingers.



Not a twinge of pain, soreness or irritation; not even the slightest smarting, either when applying freezone or afterwards.

This drug doesn't eat up the corn or callus, but shrivels them so they loosen and come right out. It is no humbug! It works like a charm. For a few cents you can get rid of every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses on bottom of your feet. It never disappoints and never burns, bites or inflames. If your druggist hasn't any freezone yet, tell him to get a little bottle for you from his wholesale house.—adv.

Neighborly Society.

"Oh, mother," cried Mabel, who had never visited in the country. "I have just had a letter from my schoolmate inviting me to spend two weeks on her father's farm."

Mabel's mother looked up languidly.

"Yes, dear," she remarked, "and what does she say about the society in the neighborhood? Does she mention anyone?"

"No," answered Mabel thoughtfully, "but I've heard her mention the Holsteins and Guernseys."

"Oh, well," said her mother. "I presume they are pleasant people."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Legally Tied.

"There is a tide in the affairs of men," said the man who habitually quotes Shakespeare, "which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune."

"Yes," replied the man who had married an heiress. "I remember the tide that led to my fortune well."

"What tide was that?"

"It was an eventide and we were sitting in the garden."

Willing to Listen.

He—You would never know how much I love you.

She—What is your objection to telling me?

If a man occasionally tells a woman how pretty she looks she will forgive most of the other lies he tells her.

Why That Lame Back?

Morning lameness, sharp twinges when bending, or an all-day backache; each is cause enough to suspect kidney trouble. Get after the cause. Help the kidneys. We Americans go it too hard. We overdo, overeat and neglect our sleep and exercise and so we are fast becoming a nation of kidney sufferers. 72% more deaths than in 1890 is the 1910 census story. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands recommend them.

A Montana Case

"Every Picture Tells a Story."

John S. Woosley, Bozeman, Mont., says: "For years I had kidney complaint with a tired, depressed feeling. My head ached I had dizzy spells and the kidney secretions were scanty. I was in severe pain and had rheumatic twinges all through my body. I have been practically free from these ailments since I used two or three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills.

SOME RIFLE FIRING KINKS

There Are a Thousand Things Not Mentioned in "Drill Regulations" That Recruit Must Learn.

The average recruit who starts in at West Point knows as much about the fine points of rifle firing as a longshoreman about flying. First he masters the elementary steps—the manual of arms and the correct firing positions, says the Popular Science Monthly. Then he must learn a thousand facts not mentioned in the "drill regulations." Among the rifle kinks, for instance, is the smoking of the glass rifle sights for work in the sun. By simply holding the sights over the flame of a match—or, better, over an alcohol flame—a light layer of lampblack is spread over the sight which enables the soldier to fire even when he is directly facing the sun. And reflected glare is eliminated so that he can work without danger to his eyes.

Another kink is the doubling up of the ordinary rifle strap in order to use it to obtain a sling-grip. By making the sling short enough, it is possible for the left hand to obtain a viselike grip on the rifle. This helps considerably in steadying it.

BERNSTORFF IN ANTI U. S. PLOT

Sought Authority From Berlin to Pay Money to Influence Congress Against War.

LANSING MAKES EXPOSE

Nations Still Friendly When Envoy Asked Permission to Pay $50,000 "As on Former Occasions" For Influence.

Washington, Sept. 24.—While his nation and the United States were still friendly, former German Ambassador Count von Bernstorff was an active anti-American plotter and asked the Berlin foreign office on January 22, for $50,000 to influence congress "as on former occasions."

His activity was in the nature of influencing Congress through an unnamed organization which he informed his government could "perhaps prevent war."

The department has made this fact public in announcing the text of a message he forwarded on that date.

Letter Made Public.

The State department announcement said:

"The Secretary of State issues the following message from Ambassador von Bernstorff to the Berlin foreign office, dated January 22, 1917:

"'I request authority to pay out up to $50,000 in order as on former occasions, to influence Congress through the organization you know of, which can perhaps prevent war.

"'I am beginning in the meantime to act accordingly.

"'In the above circumstances a public official German declaration in favor of Ireland is highly desirable, in order to gain the support of Irish influence here.'"

Revelation Clinches Case.

This revelation on the heels of the Swedish-American - Argentine-Mexican Philippine exposure and coupled with the Zimmermann Mexican-Japanese plot note clinches this government's contention that Germany carried on active plottings and propaganda all over the world.

This startling message, however, was the first positive evidence made public that Bernstorff had personal guilty knowledge of the German intrigue in this nation.

It had long been suspected that he was the directing head of anti-American work and this government had proved that his colleague, the Austrian ambassador, was conducting a vicious plot while the two countries were still at peace.

ARGENTINA MAY DECLARE WAR

Statement of High Official of Southern Republic.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 24.—Argentina probably will sever relations with Germany at once as a result of new developments.

News that the kaiser had expressed approval of the loyalty displayed by Count von Luxburg, the dismissed German minister, was received just before the opening of debate in the chamber of deputies on the resolution declaring for a rupture of relations between Argentina and Germany. This was looked on in some quarters as likely to hasten materially the decision in favor of a break.

The senate has already passed the resolution and President Irigoyen has announced he is willing to follow the dictates of the people.

After a meeting of the ministry it was announced that the government was prepared to take grave and rapid measures in view of certain new developments.

A high government official declared that these measures probably would include an immediate declaration of war against Germany, to be followed by the dispatch of troops to Europe.

2 KILLED, TEN HURT IN BLAST

Bomb on Japanese Ship Explodes German Arrested.

A Pacific Port, Sept. 22.—Explosion of a bomb in sacks of nitrate being loaded on the Japanese passenger and freight steamer Seiyo Maru at Iquique, Chile, killed two persons and injured 10, it was reported on the arrival of the vessel here. After the blast four other bombs were found. Members of the crew said a German agent was suspected.

The Rev. John I. Roeder of South Pasadena, Cal., said a German painter working near the pier where the Seiyo Maru was docked, had been arrested following the explosion and that a box of dynamite and bombs had been found in his house. The steamer left while the Chilean authorities were investigating, he said.

U. S. Ship Aided U-Boats, Charge.

A Gulf Port, Sept. 21.—Seizure of the American schooner Goldfields near this port and the arrest of its crew on charges of aiding the enemy, by agents of the federal government, has become known here. All members of the crew with the exception of the skipper, are said to be Spaniards. According to reports, the vessel was suspected of supplying oil to German submarines while en route from a southern European port. The Goldfields ran aground late last week. It was towed into this harbor last Sunday.

Potato digging operations are under way throughout the famous Clay county potato growing region, with indications pointing to a crop 200,000 to 300,000 bushels under normal. THIN MILK INQUIRY BEGUN OVER STATE

STATE SUPERVISION OF DAIRY INTERESTS TO BE EXTENDED TO SMALLER TOWNS.

OFFICIALS STILL FACE PROBE

Public Safety Board Asks New Ulm Council Not to Accept Resignations of Mayor and City Attorney.

St. Paul.

A campaign against thin and insanitary milk in the smaller cities of Minnesota is announced by James Sorensen, state dairy and food commissioner.

Four state inspectors have begun the campaign in six cities, and it will be carried to every town in the state if necessary to insure clean milk containing the butter fat content required by law.

"The campaigns for good milk have been confined largely to St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, where city inspectors are employed, but recent investigations indicate a need for state action in other towns," Commissioner Sorensen said.

"The percentage of insanitary dairies is high in small towns and the law against thin milk is almost totally disregarded in many instances. The dairymen not only pay little attention to cleanliness, but take some of the cream from the milk before selling it."

Inspectors have begun work in Mankato, Fairmont, Ada, Crookston, Brainerd and East Grand Forks and other towns are to be added to the list.

State-Wide Milk Inspection.

Mayor L. A. Fritsche and City Attorney Albert Pfaender of New Ulm probably will be forced to stand investigation on charges of disloyalty following adoption of resolutions in the State Public Safety commission, asking the city council of New Ulm not to accept their recent resignations from office. The charges followed participation of the officials in the alleged draft protest meeting at New Ulm and resulted in their suspensions and that of County Auditor Louis Vogel of Brown county by Governor Burnquist pending investigations before County Attorney James Hall of Marshall. Mayor Fritsche and City Attorney Pfaender filed their respective resignations with the city clerk at New Ulm and it was reported then that such action would enable them to escape the proposed inquiry. The resolution passed by the commission, however, was said to put a different aspect on the matter.

About 350 blue overcoats will be shipped at once to home guard men at Chisholm, Eveleth and International Falls, he said, and the uniforms will be sent out as fast as requisitions are received. The announcements followed a decision by J. F. McGee, military affairs commissioner on the state board.

"May I be permitted to inquire the reason why?" responded his sarcastic wife.

Raise High Priced Wheat on Fertile Canadian Soil

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming in Western Canada is as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. There is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. FARMER FEED EXPERTS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A farmer who has devoted his lifetime to the study of feeding generally has more success through his common sense methods than any scientific analysis can supply. If such a feeder could have on hand all of the ingredients (most by-products of cereal manufacture), which according to the market at the time would be more economical, he could, through his experience, be very successful in mixing his feeds. But the difficulty with the average man is to maintain an economical ration from the products of his own farm.

He may be an expert, if he chooses to study out a new ration every time the market changes, but he generally prefers to let someone who makes a business of mixing feeds do it for him. No doubt the majority of users of mixed feeds begin to buy it because of a shortage of forage and grain crops on the farm.

If such a man will keep books he will find that as a usual thing the use of mixed stock feed is a mere matter of arithmetic whether he could buy the ingredients cheaper than he could buy them in a so-called "balanced" ration.

MUST TASTE GOOD.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A dairy ration must, of all things, be palatable so that a cow will eat it. It must be bulky and coarse so as to avoid indigestion and sickness. It must contain a variety of foods so that the cow will not tire of it or get off her feed. It must contain enough real protein—all protein is not alike. It must contain the right amounts and kinds of mineral substances necessary to life, health and milk secretion. It must be highly digestible. Many feeds are only about fifty to sixty per cent digestible and the work of excreting so much waste matter is costly in that it uses up the energy of the food to do it.

SUCCESSFUL FEEDING.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

It is most significant and probably the best argument for mixed feeds when it is considered that a large number of the most prominent and skilled men in America have discarded their own mixed feeds and rations because they have found a satisfactory brand of feed which will make as much milk at less cost and no trouble and, above all, keeps cows in perfect health.

Many agricultural schools and experiment stations use and have used them for the same reason.

You can verify this by writing to any experiment station and they will give you the names of mixed brands which are best adapted to your purpose.

FIVE POUNDS OF MILK ON ONE POUND OF GRAIN.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

C. H. Packard, of Delavan, Wisconsin, a progressive and practical dairyman, was not satisfied with his ration of home-grown feed. Although he mixed his ration with brains and it seemed to be theoretically correct, he thought he would try out his own mixture in comparison with a first class dairy feed. Much to his surprise he found that he could save about five lbs. of grain per cow per day and nearly 5 cents per cow. He figured his own grain at prices much below the wholesale market and bought his mixed feed at retail.

Also when his ration was figured according to Armsby or Energy method his mixed feed proved to be the right combination to make a balanced ration with his own farm roughage.

EXPENSIVE PASTURE.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When you stop to consider that an acre of pasture will feed a cow, but that that same acre will raise ten tons of silage during the time the cow is feeding on it, it would seem that a grass cafeteria would be the most expensive way to feed your stock.

MORE FEED, MORE MILK.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Cows of a decided dairy type will return the greatest profit when fed to their full capacity.—Nebraska Experiment Station.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Ordinarily, silage will correct the tendency to costiveness. When it is not sufficiently effective for this purpose, add enough old process oil meal to keep the droppings moderately soft, but not necessarily loose. Usually all that is needed is to increase the allowance of concentrates.

There are always two sides to every question. If the government insists on more bran in flour, bossy will have to turn to still more artificial bran.

Wheat bran is a dear feed. Barley and rye by-products are more economical.

Poverty holds a mortgage on the feeder who can see nothing but the price. Some feeds are as cheap at $50 as other at $25 per ton.

When you buy hay for cows it usually costs more than grain by-products, although it costs half as much per ton.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

It is a fair assumption that any farmer who talks against mixed feeds does not know what a mixed feed ought to be. There is no danger of any man buying a fraudulent feed. The state laws are very stringent on this point and if any man has any doubt as to the value of a feed, all he has to do is to write his State Experiment Station and get the truth.

THE AVERAGE REFORMER.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The average reformer having so little at stake himself, plunges about like a bull in a china shop, regardless of the results of his ardor.

An amusing incident is told of the Secretary of Commerce. The can manufacturers put up a howl that unless they could get tin-plate to make up, no canning of fruits and vegetables could be done, so without looking over the field it is said that an order was made that steel was to be diverted by the manufacturers from other projects and put at the disposal of the can manufacturers. It looked all right on the face of it, but when the manufacturers of harvesting machinery demanded steel which they contracted for, and found that there was not steel for aprons, it having been diverted to cans, a hurry-up call modifying the order was issued, so that our harvesting machines could be made in time for the growing crop.

This illustrates how many plans are ignorantly made robbing Peter to pay Paul. Every enthusiast who has a pet reform which is always hitting some other business instead of his own, never looks around to see what the effect will be before he plunges. The manufacturers of feed and the most successful feeders in the country have a right to demand that that delicate machine—the dairy cow—shall not be wrecked by hasty legislation.

Revolutionary reforms are seldom efficacious. Anything which disturbs the food equilibrium should be handled gradually. Experience has shown that the most efficient way to handle cereal products is to remove the human food first and feed the residue to stock. Any other system is sheer extravagance.

WRONG FEEDING METHODS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

There is an old story about a ship captain who had a medicine chest. A sailor was sick and he found that No. 47 in his book was the indicated remedy, but alas! the bottle of No. 47 was empty, so he took equal parts of No. 40, which was strychnine, and No. 7, which was carbolic acid, and added them together and made No. 47—and the sailor died.

The application of this old story is that many a feeder will think that if a little of cottonseed or oilseed meal is good, a whole lot will be better. And, like the man who put the green spectacles on the horse and fed him shavings—just after he got him trained the horse died.

It is human nature to experiment in feeds, and the poor cow has to suffer for an overdose or an underdose before the proper ration is established.

DIFFICULT TO MIX FEEDS

A More Scientific Result Can Be Produced By Machinery.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

As no two lots run alike, it is very difficult to mix straight by-products of oats, barley, rye, corn, cotton-seed, flaxseed, etc., by measure, because it is purely guessing. Only a few years ago intentional fraud or unintentional carelessness was the rule. Before the feed laws were passed, each manufacturer adulterated all the trade would stand.

Every car of feed sold to the consumer is not analyzed, and the farmer cannot become a feed expert because he has no laboratory. Not one car out of five hundred is officially inspected. In the old days country millers were throwing feeds together with no knowledge of feed and were ruining valuable cows and making the farmer poorer. In those days the feed tables were wrong, the feeds didn't fit the tables; the digestible analysis method was incorrect; feed standards for animals were not agreed upon nor complete; the animals didn't fit the standards; the buyer didn't know what was in the feeds he bought to mix; and there was an unavoidable variation in the concentration of the feed.

These conditions have been largely overcome through the joint action of the government and state experiment stations and the mixed feed manufacturers who have every facility for maintaining a uniform product. By using these scientifically prepared feeds, many a herd has doubled its yield and profits. There are some painters who can buy lead, oil and dryer and mix and match their own color uniformly but the best painters of today have learned that mill-made brands are much better than anything they can mix with a paddle. The same is true in fertilizers to a great extent. In mixed feeds there can be no economy in home mixing because the mixing factories, being near the large markets, can utilize by-products to the very best advantage. Home mixing cannot be accomplished at one-tenth of a cent per lb., besides the result is never twice alike and cannot be without the help of a laboratory.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A practical test shows that eight tons of a first class dairy feed will replace 13 1-3 tons of farm grain, making a proportionate saving of about $20 per ton and it also puts three times as much fertilizer back on the [illegible] in the grain this farmer could sell.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

There is no sense in hauling two loads of cheap feed when one load of high-grade feed will do the work and costs but three-fourths as much as the two loads.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing women for today

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline.

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

One of the best yields of rye reported to us is that of Carl Engebretsen's. He had a small field of two acres from which he threshed 75 bushels. His whole crop of 18 acres gave an average yield of 20 bus. per acre, which is extra good for a dry season.

People living several miles northeast of Holt, sent in a call for help Sunday afternoon to fight the fire raging in that vicinity. Several auto loads went out and worked hard to save the large amount of hay put up on the prairie, but another fire the next day burned most of the hay. Another call for help came Monday and again the men responded willingly but were unable to do much on account of a hard wind blowing and the grass being so dry.

Among the heaviest losers were Jacob Jarland who lost about 80 tons of hay, Ostby & Ryan lost all but four small stacks of hay and all but a small part of a large field of flax. Several others had a large amount of hay burned, besides other losses by the fires. As both pastures and hay are burned, some of the people will be obliged to sell their stock for whatever they will bring. It is claimed the fires were set by responsible parties who will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

To Our Friends at Holt;

We had fully intended that this note should appear in last weeks paper, but the press of work prevented.

We wish to express our appreciation of the very splendid and substantial way in which our friends at Holt remembered us Monday night Sept. 24th. If another year finds us in Thief River Falls, we will be glad to serve the people of Holt the very best way possible.

MORE WHEAT PRIZES

Honors for Western Canada Come Year After Year.

At the recent Soil Products Exposition at Peoria, Ill., in a keen contest for the coveted first prize for wheat, Western Canada has again carried off all the honors. Not only has she won the first, but also the second and third prizes. These were won by Mr. S. Larcombe, of Birtle, Manitoba. In past years the Province of Saskatchewan had the distinguished honor of carrying off the initial prize.

Harvesting and threshing are now completed in Western Canada, and while it is early in the season to give exact figures as to the average yield per acre of wheat, oats, barley and flax it is safe to assume that the former will yield about 20 bushels per acre. The price to the farmer will be about $2.00 per bushel, giving him $40.00 an acre of a return. When it is considered that the land upon which this wheat is grown averaged less than $30 an acre, it takes very little figuring to arrive at an estimate of the profit there is to the grain grower of Western Canada. The writer knows where a farmer purchased 160 acres of land in the spring of 1916, broke it up the same year, put it in wheat in 1917. His crop was harvested a few days ago. It yielded 4,800 bushels and he sold it at $2.05 per bushel, giving him $9,840. The land cost him $4,800, breaking, seeding, seed, cutting and threshing, $1,920. His profit was $3,120 after paying for his land and his costs of improving. He has now $3,120 to commence another season with a "paid for in full" improved farm.

Never has farming offered such profitable returns for labor as at present and nowhere is the large profit equal to that of the low priced, high yielding lands of Western Canada.

There has been a big rush during the past few weeks of renters and owners of high priced lands in many parts of the United States to investigate these 100% profit reports. No better season of the year could be selected by anyone desiring to better their condition and wishing to give Western Canada the "once over." Threshing is now completed and the grain being marketed. The weather is fine and will be pleasant for a couple of months and a visit now to personally investigate the conditions will be convincing and profitable. While old home ties and family associations are one of the first considerations in the mind of the reader, who feels that the old five or ten per cent return is sufficient, it behooves the modern and progressive farmer always to be on the alert to grasp the opportunities of the hour. Land in Western Canada that is annually producing a gross return of from $40.00 to $80.00 per acre is purchasable at from $15 to $30 per acre. It can be seen at a glance that such values cannot help but increase as they have done in the older agricultural districts of the United States. The new settler will find himself surrounded by same contented and prosperous neighbors. The expense of making one visit to look into Western Canada's opportunities is small—a special reduced rate is available and you owe yourself a holiday and a trip may do you good. You owe your dependents a right to better your condition and Western Canada offers that opportunity.—Advertisement.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply on the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

At little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound, and dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding skin. Just think! You can lift off your corns and calluses now without a bit of pain or soreness. If your druggist hasn't freezone he can easily get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

HITS DISLOYAL HEAVY BLOWS

Roosevelt Routes "Huns Within Our Gates" in Twin City Speeches.

RECEIVES BIG OVATION

Colonel Flays La Follette as "Most Sinister Enemy Within Nation's Borders"—Gronna and Lundeen Also Scored.

Minneapolis, Oct. 1. — Theodore Roosevelt trained his heavy guns on "Huns within our gates" and put them to rout in his Twin City speeches.

From the time he arrived at noon and until he left, the former president, apostle of preparedness, kept up his fire. With the thousands upon thousands who heard him in Minneapolis and St. Paul he was stamping out all traces of disloyalty left by La Follette.

"Lesser Microbes" Denounced.

"While the men in khaki are warring against the Huns without our gates, let us war against the Huns within our gates," he said. And it was that purpose that guided him every minute of the time that he spent in the Twin Cities.

La Follette was called "the most sinister enemy of the United States within its borders." Senator Gronna of North Dakota, "Ernie" Lundeen and others of their kind were dubbed "lesser microbes" and "shadow-Huns."

The Nonpartisan league and its leaders, A. C. Townley and Congressman John M. Baer, were not spared. They came in for the most scathing denunciations for their utterances.

Man-handles La Follettism.

Mr. Roosevelt paid his respects to the conscientious objector. He would deprive him of a vote. He man-handled La Follettism and the "neo-copperheads" who advocated it. He wanted to see La Follette and the kaiser in close companionship because he "wished ill to both." He said America must become a great industrial democracy and he advocated compulsory, universal military service as the great requisite to make America really independent among the nations.

His hearers applauded him at every step. He drew the greatest demonstration, however, with a little personal reference out of the current of his speech:

"I am an old man," he said. "It is a matter of bitter regret to me not to be allowed to go abroad to serve in the army of the United States. I have made other sacrifices that were bigger, for I have sent my four sons."

House Is One With Speaker.

The house was on its feet in an instant, cheering and clapping and waving hats and handkerchiefs. It was one with the speaker.

"No father or mother here in my position, who understands, but would do anything honorable to avoid war," he continued. "I am not for war when war can be honorably avoided. I was president seven years and in all that time there wasn't a shot fired by us or an American citizen killed by a foreign power."

"We have heard much of the conscientious objectors to military service, the outcry having been loudest among those objectors who are not conscientious at all, but who are the paid or unpaid agents of the German government.

"It is certain that only a small fraction of the men who call themselves conscientious objectors in this matter are actuated in any way by conscience. The bulk are slackers, pure and simple, or else traitorous pro-Germans. Some are actuated by lazy desire to avoid any duty that interferes with their ease and enjoyment, some by the evil desire to damage the United States and help Germany, some by sheer, simple, physical timidity. In the aggregate, the men of this type constitute the great majority of the men who claim to be conscientious objectors, and this fact must be remembered in endeavoring to deal with the class.

"In some of our big cities, since the war began, men have formed vegetarian societies, claiming to be exempt from service on the ground that they object to killing not merely men, but slackers. Others among the leading apostles of applied pacificism are not timid men; on the contrary they are brutal, violent men, who are perfectly willing to fight, but only for themselves and not for the nation. These rough-neck pacifists have always been the potent allies of the parlor or milk-and-water pacifists, although they stand at the opposite end of the developmental scale.

Like Conscientious Polygamists.

"The peace people of the directly opposite type include the men who conscientiously object to all participation in any war, however brutal the opponents, and however vital triumph may be to us and to mankind. These persons are entitled to precisely the respect we give any other persons whose conscience makes them do what is bad. We have had in this country some conscientious polygamists. We now have some conscientious objectors to taking part in this war.

Who Says of the Pacifists "Let Me at 'Em."

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

"If these men are sincere they will refuse to interfere (for moral suasion is not interference) with a white-slaver who runs off with one of their daughters or a black-hander who kidnaps and tortures a little child or a ruffian who slaps the wife or mother of one of them in the face. They are utterly insincere unless they decline to take advantage of police protection from burglary or highway robbery. Of course if such a man is really conscientious he cannot profit or allow his family to profit in any way by the safety secured to him and them by others, by soldiers, in time of war, by judges and policemen in time of peace; for the receiver is as bad as the thief. I hold that such an attitude is infamous; and it is just as infamous to refuse to serve the country in arms during this war. If a man's conscience bids him to act, then his conscience is a fit subject for the student of morbid pathology.

"Respect the conscientious objector's opinions, but let him abide by the full consequence of his opinions. Universal suffrage can be justified only if it rests on universal service. We stand against all privilege not based on the full performance of duty; and there is no more contemptible form of privilege than the privilege of existing in smug, self-righteous, peaceful safety because other, braver, more self-sacrificing men give up safety and go to war to preserve the nation. If a man is too conscientious to fight, then the rest of us ought to be too conscientious to let him vote in a democratic land which can permanently exist only if the average man is willing in the last resort to fight for it, and die for it.

For Universal Service.

"I wish to see the principle of universal obligatory military service established in this country precisely because it is the only democratic principle. We are in the war and we must do the best we can with the instruments that are at hand. Whether or not I have disapproved of the methods adopted, when once they were adopted I have loyally tried to help them work. But I emphatically protest against the failure to make permanent provision by preparedness in advance against the occurrence of disaster to this country, and the failure properly to democratize our army.

"What we need is the permanent establishment in this country of the system of universal obligatory military training for all our young men, and for making officers out of the best fitted among these young men, without the slightest regard to whether they or their fathers have money or do not have money.

"Under this as a permanent system, every young man so trained—sometime between the ages say of 18 or 19 and 21 or 22—will spend one year with the colors in the field. He would not be allowed to vote until he had performed this service, no matter where he was born. The son of the railway president and the son of the brakeman, the son of the banker and the son of the bricklayer, the son of the lawyer and the son of the farmer will all live on the same food, sleep in the same tents, do the same work, go on the same hikes. This would not only help from the military standpoint. It would also help to bring about in civil affairs a realization of what is meant by democracy and a chance for real understanding of one another by all our citizens. It would mean the drilling into every man of a sense of true devotion to the flag."

Argentine President Against War.

Buenos Aires, Oct. 1.—President Irigoyen regards the Luxburg incident as closed and will do his utmost to continue Argentina's neutrality, according to those closest to him. Such a course is entirely opposite to the overwhelming votes recently of the senate and chamber of deputies in favor of a break with Germany, but the president was believed to have complete veto power over such resolutions. There is no perceptible change in Argentina's general strike.

Optimistic About Russia.

New York, Oct. 1.—A. J. Sack, director here of the Russian information bureau, said in an address at the College of the City of New York that from the latest available news from Russia, it was clear there was great reason for optimism in respect to the future of that country. He asserted that the greatest present danger to the existence of the Russian democracy was the Extreme Left Leninites, who wanted socialism to be put in operation in Russia immediately.

Rat Deadly Disease Carrier.

The Spanish war developed the fact that the mosquito was the carrier of yellow fever, writes E. W. Nelson in the National Geographic Magazine. Another type of mosquito is known to be the carrier of malaria. The European war has brought to almost universal public knowledge the fact that body lice are carriers of the deadly typhus and many diseases are known to be carried by other insects.

Among these deadly carriers of death and destruction none equals the house rat in its tremendous drain on the prosperity of nations by its destruction of food and other property, while at the same time it is the deadliest of all to mankind as a disease carrier. Within historic times it has caused the death of untold millions of human beings through its dissemination of the bubonic plague.

Little Mary was being initiated into the wonders of the Pullman car. She and her mother left the city early in the evening, each occupying a big cushioned seat in the car. Mary wished to know at once where they were to sleep, and after five minutes' explanation by her mother she realized that they were to sleep in a bed, made over their two seats, which would be completed by the porter about nine o'clock.

At the next stop a man entered the car and Mary was forced to give up her individual seat to him. He had reserved the upper berth, which she did not know. The giving up of the seat was for a time enough food for thought, but she finally burst out with this question:

"Mamma, if we sleep here, and all those other people sleep where they are sitting, where is that man going to sleep?"

"That man," and the rest in the car laughed. The explanation process began all over again.

One "On" the Teacher.

The school term was drawing toward its close in Normal City, a Muncie suburb, when the pupils of one room were asked to write compositions on any subject they might choose, according to Lee Baird, the principal.

One little boy turned in his composition with the sheet entirely blank except for the title, "The Home Life of the Fiji Islanders."

"Roscoe, why did you choose so peculiar a subject, but choosing it, why didn't you write a composition on the home life of the Fiji Islanders as you announce in the title?" asked Baird.

"Because they ain't any," was the boy's reply while the other children who had been let in on the joke, roared at getting one "on" the teacher.—Indianapolis News.

STUTTGART HIT BY FRENCHMEN

French Aviators Attack German City In Reprisal For Previous Attacks.

TURKS GET BEATING

British Obtain Stronger Hold On Bagdad By Notable Victory In Mesopotamia — 1,000 Prisoners Taken.

Paris, Oct. 2.—French airmen successfully bombed the German city of Stuttgart, it is officially announced.

Two French machines dropped the explosives over Stuttgart, the official announcement said. The raid occurred Saturday evening. It was in reprisal for German bombardments around Bar le Duc.

Stuttgart is the capital of the kingdom of Wurttemburg and is located 90 miles west of Munich. It is at least 132 miles from the nearest part of the French battle line in the Vosges.

Stuttgart is a city of nearly 200,000 population, about 100 miles from the French border.

Nine Killed in London Raid.

London, Oct. 2.—Although nine persons were killed and 42 injured in last night's air raid over England—the fifth within a week—defenders brought down one hostile machine at Dover, and London is absolutely unterrified today. The official statement of casualties today showed that the raids are losing efficiency, even in murdering civilians.

The last sky engagement furnished the most amazing exhibition of deadly fireworks London has ever seen. Despite a misty morn, efforts to trace the course of the battle across the heavens by following the sound of the airplane engines and the shell bursts were sometimes partially successful.

The German machines seemed to turn and twist, quickly alternating their courses when the British guns planted shells too close for the nerves of their pilots.

1,000 Turks Taken.

London, Oct. 2.—A stronger hold has been obtained by the British on Bagdad through the capture from the Turks of the main Ottoman position in the region of Remadie. The Ottoman general, Ahmed Bey, his staff and several thousand men were taken prisoner and a large quantity of guns and ammunition was captured.

The most telling blow at Turkish morale that has been dealt since the British capture of Bagdad, was the official view today of General Maude's latest success in Mesopotamia. British troops now occupy Mushaid ridge after a notable victory in two days of fighting during which a Turkish commanding general was captured and vast stores of supplies and food taken.

Impeachment of Senators La Follette, Stone and Gronna was demanded in a petition presented to the Senate by Senator Wadsworth of New York. The petition was signed by members of the Rotary club of Ithaca, N. Y.

It charged that La Follette, Stone, Gronna "and others" have been obstructing and hindering the government, and asked their removal "as enemies."

IRIGOYEN IS OPPOSED TO WAR

Says "United States Can't Drag Argentina Into Struggle."

Buenos Aires, Oct. 2.—President Irigoyen regards Germany's explanation of the Luxburg incident as satisfactory and will firmly adhere to a course of neutrality for Argentina, according to a detailed outline of his position made public by the national juvenile committee, which favors a rupture with Germany. In this conversation, President Irigoyen insisted that "Argentina cannot be dragged into the war by the United States."

CUT OUT CROOKED STICKS

Use of Dead Wood for Fuel Is Also Applied to Scoundrels and the War.

Forestry experts in New York, a state which has given much conserving attention to its wealth in trees, urge farmers to help the country meet the high cost of fuel by making more use of the dead and dying timber in their wood lots. They are advised to burn in their stoves and grates the fallen logs still sound enough to be converted into fire wood and to cut down and utilize crooked trees obviously foredoomed to worthlessness as timber, no matter how long they may be allowed to stand.

This is good advice, and there is a human moral in the crooked stick part of it, says an exchange. The same stress of war times, which led to the appeal issued to New York farmers in sifting out crooked men. Some rascals will profit by war conditions, but in the broad view of the nation's affairs the sound and straight will come to the front. The country can't take chances with scoundrels. It must cut crooked sticks out of the life-and-death work of the war, in places of authority.

Religion in France.

There is no state religion in France, but the adherents of any church or creed can hold their religious belief and observe their religious practices. Under the law promulgated on December 9, 1905, the church were separated from the state, the adherents of all creeds were authorized to form associations for public workship, and the state, the departments and the the state, the departmets and the communes, were relieved from payment of salaries to clergymen. For clergymen of forty-five years of age, pensions were provided. Buildings used for public worship were made over to associations for public worship. The association law of July 1, 19101, requires religious communities to be authorized by the state, and no monastic association can be authorized without a special law in each particular case. Before the passing of that law there were 910 recognized associations, and 753 not recognized. After the passing of the law, of the 753 not recognized, 305 dissolved themselves, and 448 asked for authorization which was refused by the chambers, or parliament, to the majority of them.

SOLDIERS FIRST, THE RULE

Gallant Warriors Willing to Give Right of Way to Visitors, but Plans Are Changed.

It was a Sunday evening at Ft. Benjamin Harrison and the crowd of sisters, mothers, aunts and sight-seers was waiting at the interurban station for a car. At last one came. At the same time a crowd of soldiers with leave to go to the city arrived. It was evident that the lone car and its small trailer could not carry all the passengers. The soldiers held a little consultation, and then suddenly offered to the women the use of the train. They said they would wait for another car. The train filled with sisters, mothers, aunts and sight-seers left the little group, and the soldiers were thanked many times for the favor.

At the siding just east of town the train bearing all these civilians was stopped and backed on to a switch. Two minutes later a car loaded with soldiers passed them on the main track, making a bee-line for town.—Indianapolis News.

"Well, then, how would you make a living?"

Aunty subsided.

HOW SHALL WE PAY FOR THE WAR?

A Constructive Criticism on the House Revenue Bill.

LOANS BETTER THAN TAXES

Five Reasons Why Excessive Taxes at the Outset of War Are Disadvantageous—Great Britain Example Worthy of Emulation—How the Taxes Should Be Apportioned.

By EDWIN R. A. SELIGMAN,
McVickar Professor of Political Economy, Columbia University.

On May 23, 1917, the House of Representatives passed an act "to provide revenue to defray war expenses and for other purposes." In the original bill as presented by the Committee of Ways and Means, the additional revenue to be derived was estimated at $1,810,420,000. The amendment to the income tax, which was tacked on to the bill during the discussion in the House, was expected to yield another $40,000,000 or $50,000,000.

In discussing the House bill, two problems arise:

I. How much should be raised by taxation?

II. In what manner should this sum be raised?

I. How Much Should Be Raised by Taxation?

How was the figure of $1,800,000,000 arrived at? The answer is simple. When the Secretary of the Treasury came to estimate the additional war expenses for the year 1917-18, he calculated that they would amount to some $0,000,000,000, of which $3,000,000,000 was to be allotted to the allies, and $3,600,000,000 was to be utilized for the domestic purposes. Thinking that it would be a fair proposition to divide this latter sum between loans and taxes, he concluded that the amount to be raised by taxes was $1,800,000,000.

There are two extreme theories, each of which may be dismissed with scant courtesy. The one is that all war expenditures should be defrayed by loans, and the other is that all war expenditures should be defrayed by taxes. Each theory is untenable.

It is indeed true that the burdens of the war should be borne by the present rather than the future generation; but this does not mean that they should be borne by this year's taxation.

Meeting all war expenses by taxation makes the taxpayers in one or two years bear the burden of benefits that ought to be distributed at least over a decade within the same generation.

In the second place, when expenditures approach the gigantic sums of present-day warfare, the tax-only policy would require more than the total surplus of social income. Were this absolutely necessary, the ensuing havoc in the economic life of the community would have to be endured. But where the disasters are so great and at the same time so unnecessary, the tax-only policy may be declared impracticable.

Secretary McAdoo had the right instinct and highly commendable courage in deciding that a substantial portion, at least, of the revenues should be derived from taxation. But when he hit upon the plan of 50-50 per cent., that is, of raising one-half of all domestic war expenditures by taxes, the question arises whether he did not go too far.

The relative proportion of loans to taxes is after all a purely business proposition. Not to rely to a large extent on loans at the outset of a war is a mistake.

Disadvantages of Excessive Taxes.

The disadvantages of excessive taxes at the outset of the war are as follows:

1. Excessive taxes on consumption will cause popular resentment.

2. Excessive taxes on industry will disarrange business, damp enthusiasm and restrict the spirit of enterprise at the very time when the opposite is needed.

3. Excessive taxes on incomes will de[illegible] the surplus available for investments and interfere with the placing of the enormous loans which will be necessary in any event.

4. Excessive taxes on wealth will cause a serious diminution of the incomes which are at present largely drawn upon for the support of educational and philanthropic enterprises. Moreover, these sources of support would be dried up precisely at the time when the need would be greatest.

5. Excessive taxation at the outset of the war will reduce the elasticity available for the increasing demands that are soon to come.

Great Britain's Policy.

Take Great Britain as an example. During the first year of the war she increased taxes only slightly, in order to keep industries going at top notch. During the second year she raised by new taxes only 9 per cent. of her war expenditures. During the third year she levied by additional taxes (over and above the pre-war level) only slightly more than 17 per cent. of her war expenses.

If we should attempt to do as much in the first year of the war as Great Britain did in the third year it would suffice to raise by taxation $1,250,000,000. If, in order to be absolutely on the safe side, it seemed advisable to increase the sum to $1,500,000,000, this should, in our opinion, be the maximum.

The second army draft will be made between Oct. 10th. and 15th.

A Bemidji firm secured the timber on the Red Lake Indian reservation, which was sold last week.

The army needs clerks, railroad men, gas engineers, machinists, carpenters and cooks. No need of anyone being idle these strenuous times.

If this country is worth living in—then it is worth standing by in the hour of need and men who refuse to do this are not desireable residents and should move to Europe.

MAILED DAILY, THREE MONTHS FOR ONE DOLLAR.

ADDRESS:—HERALD, DULUTH, MINN.

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, "Take tonoline."

Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily at your druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing women for victory

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

BROKEN DOWN IN HEALTH

Woman Tells How $5 Worth of Pinkham's Compound Made Her Well.

Lima, Ohio.—"I was all broken down in health from a displacement. One of my lady friends came to see me and she advised me to commence taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I began taking your remedies and took $5.00 worth and in two months was a well woman after three doctors said I never would stand up straight again. I was a midwife for seven years and I recommended the Vegetable Compound to every woman to take before birth and afterwards, and they all got along so nicely that it surely is a godsend to suffering women. If women wish to write to me I will be delighted to answer them."—Mrs. JENNIE MOYER, 342 E. North St., Lima, Ohio.

Women who suffer from displacements, weakness, irregularities, nervousness, backache, or bearing-down pains, need the tonic properties of the roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Submarine Improvements.

Since April 1 German submarines have been equipped with four new devices which increase their destructiveness, and render it more difficult for chasers to discover their whereabouts. Formerly the U-boats, to remain in one spot, had to come to the surface, or anchor themselves to the bottom; but four small pumps are now used which enable them to remain stationary while submerged. This not only conserves fuel, but prevents its enemies from hearing the throb of the submarine's propellers. Telescopic periscopes give further assistance to the submarine in concealing its position. A mixture of oxygen and strained gas is now used in the engines, and the exhaust is washed free of smoke and broken into small bubbles, which do not leave a wake. Finally, new listening devices enable it to hear and judge the size of ships at a considerable distance.—Exchange.

Help to Save Nation's Food Supply

In this time of high cost of living, everybody should use all possible means to prevent waste and to help save food. No one means can be more effective than a vigorous campaign to exterminate rats which destroy over two hundred million dollars worth of foodstuffs annually. Keep garbage in rat-proof cans, stop up their holes, and above all exterminate them with Stearns' Paste, which can be bought for a few cents at any store. A two ounce box will usually rid a house or barn of every rat. It destroys mice, cockroaches and waterbugs as well. Adv.

Prospects Excellent.

A friend dropped in to say hello the other day—he had been in the Blue Ridge region for a few weeks. He brought this story:

A young native, a widower of a year, called at the shack of the father of a numerous family, and after beating about the bush for a while, asked the parent for his daughter's hand.

"So ye want to get hitched with Sal?" said the old man. "I dunno about it. Yer fust wife didn't last ye long. What are yer prospecks?"

"Fine!" asserted the suitor. "All the wimmen what sent their washin' to my first wife has promised to do the same by her successor, whoever she mout be. Oh, we'll git erlong all right!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ARRANGE FOR MEASURES TO RAISE MONEY

Joint Conferees on War Revenue Complete Their Bill and Turn in Their Report.

TAX LEVIES WILL BE HEAVY

Under Legislation Provided, Powerful Corporations Will Pay Their Proper Share for the Finances That Must Be Provided for the Successful Continuance of the War—Best Efforts of Statesmen at Washington Have Been Put Forward to the Accomplishment of the Country's Ends.

Washington.—The joint conferees on the war revenue bill completed their draft after two weeks of deliberation.

As revised by the conferees the measure has been raised from the levy fixed by the senate of $2,416,670,000 to an aggregate of approximately $2,700,000,000. Chairman Simmons of the senate finance committee estimated that the increase made by the conferees would approach $275,000,000.

Profits Tax Modified.

The excess war profits tax, as agreed to by the conferees, is a modification of the senate bill, the principal changes being in the maximum and minimum rates of exemption upon which the tax is to be determined. The senate graduated scale of exemptions ran from 6 to 10 per cent, while the house exemption rate was 8 per cent. The conferees adopted the graduated rate of from 7 to 9 per cent.

The definition of capital, which was a point upon which the conferees argued for days, was modified so as to provide that the actual value of tangible property paid into a corporation or partnership or individual business before January 1, 1914, shall be taken as of that date. The proviso as to good will and other intangible property has been somewhat liberalized.

As to "Invested Capital."

In calculating war excess profits the terms "invested capital" of corporations and partnerships was declared to include "actual cash paid in, actual cash value and other tangible property paid for stock or shares at the time of payment or January 1, 1914, but in no case to exceed the par value of the original securities; paid in or earned surplus and undivided profits used or employed in the business, exclusive of undivided profits earned during the taxable year."

The allowance for intangible assets includes "actual cash value of patents and copyrights paid in for stock or shares at the time of payment . . . . good will trademarks, trade brands, franchises . . . if for bone-fide payments not to exceed the cash value."

It stipulates that such intangible assets exchanged for securities before March 3, 1917, not exceeding 20 per cent of the total, shall be included at a value not exceeding a fair cash value at the time of purchase.

Postal Increases.

A flat increase on reading matter of ¼ cent per pound until July 1, 1919, and ½ cent thereafter was provided. Advertising matter exceeding 5 per cent of the total space would be taxed from ¼ to 2¼ cents additional until July 1, 1919, and from ½ to 4½ cents more until July 1, 1920; and from ¾ to 6¾ cents to 1921 and from 1 cent to 9 cents thereafter.

An additional tax of ½ cent per pound until July 1, 1919, and ¼ cent thereafter, on religious, agricultural, fraternal and similar publications was adopted.

The 1 cent tax on letters, excepting drop letters and postal cards, was restored by the conferees. A 1 cent additional tax on postal and private mailing cards was added. The first-class mail increases are estimated to raise $90,000,000, and are effective 30 days afetr the passage of the act. The senate provision exempting from postage leetters written by soldiers and sailors abroad was retained.

Railroad Tickets Hit.

The conferees levied 8 per cent in lieu of the senate rate of 5 and the house rate of 10 per cent on passenger transportation, estimated to raise from the compromise levy abouot $60,000,000 instead of $37,500,000 under the senate plan. The 3 per cent tax on freight transportation was retained and the tax on express transportation was increased so that 1 cent would be levied on each 20 cents paid instead of each 25 cents. The house 10 per cent tax on Pullman accommodations, cut to 5 per cent by the senate, was restored and is estimated to raise $5,000,000.

In lieu of the house 5 per cent tax on sales of automobiles by manufacturers and the senate federal license tax on owners, the conferees adopted a 3 per cent tax on all motor vehicles, including trucks, payable by manufacturers, producers and importers.

New Inheritance Tax.

A new system of graduated inheritance taxes was written into the bill in lieu of the house plan and despite the senate's rejection of such taxes. The new rates on inheritances, with those of Americans in military service exempted, range from one-half of 1 per cent on $50,000 estates to 10 per cent on estates of $10,000,000 and more.

The bulk of the increases of between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 made by the conferees in the senate bill was secured from the postage, public utilities and manufacturing sales section and the new inheritance taxes.

With but few exceptions, the new taxes are effective with the passage of the act.

Senate Version Stands.

The income tax section was adopted virtually as written by the senate. The new 2 per cent normal tax on incomes of more than $2,000 for married persons and $1,000 for single persons is in addition to the present law exempting incomes of less than $3,000 for single persons and $4,000 for married persons. Thus those between the new low exemption bases and the present exemptions will pay only the 2 per cent tax, but single persons having an income of $3,000 or more and married persons whose income is $4,000 or more would pay the full 4 per cent normal tax.

The senate income provision allowing an additional exemption of $200 for each dependent child to heads of families subject to the present law was retained. The exemption for children, however, does not apply to those subject to the new reduced taxes with the $2,000 and $1,000 exemptions, respectively, for married and single persons.

Surtax Is Agreed Upon.

Surtaxes were agreed upon as follows:

One per cent on income over $5,000 and less than $7,500; 2 per cent between $7,500 and $10,000; 3 per cent between $10,000 and $12,500; 4 per cent between $12,500 and $15,000; 5 per cent between $15,000 and $20,000; 7 per cent between $20,000 and $40,000; 10 per 18 per cent between $80,000 and $100,- per cent between $60,000 and $80,000; 18 per cent betwene $80,000 and $100,000; 22 per cent between $100,000 and $150,000; 25 per cent between $150,000 and $200,000; 30 per cent between $200,000 and $250,000; 34 per cent between $250,000 and $300,000; 37 per cent between $300,000 and $500,000; 40 per cent between $500,000 and $750,000; 45 per cent between $750,000 and $1,000,000, and 50 per cent on incomes exceeding $1,000,000.

Increased Tax on Whisky.

Increased senate rates on whisky and beer were virtually retained, and that on wines somewhat reduced. The tax on distilled spirits was made $2.10 per gallon when for beverage use and $1 less for industrial purposes, estimated to raise $135,000,000. The amendment prohibiting importation of distilled spirits for beverage use was retained. Floor taxes to reach withdrawn liquors were approved. Beer was taxed $1.50 per barrel additional, to raise $46,000,000, an increase of 25 cents per barrel over the house rate.

Present wine taxes were doubled.

Taxes on nonalcoholic beverages were compromised. On prepared sirups and extracts the taxes graduated from 5 to 20 cents instead of from 3 to 12 cents a gallon were adopted. Grape juice and other soft drinks are taxed 1 cent per gallon, as provided by the senate in reducing the original 2-cent rate of the house.

Senate rates on cigars and cigarettes were retained, but those on snuff were increased from 4 cents to 5 cents a pound.

Stamp Taxes Fixed.

Stamp taxes agreed upon are:

Bonds of indebtedness, 5 cents on each $100.

Indemnity and surety bonds, 50 cents.

Parcel post packages, 1 cent for each 25 cents of the cost of transportation.

Capital stock, original issues, 5 cents per $100.

Sales and transfers, 2 cents per $100.

Sales of produce on exchange, 2 cents for each $100 value in merchandise.

Drafts, checks payable other than on sight or demand, promissory notes, except bank notes for circulation, and renewals, 2 cents for all sums below $100 and 2 cents for each additional $100 or fraction thereof.

Conveyance papers, 50 cents between $100 and $500 and 50 cents for each additional $500.

Customs house entries, from 25 cents to $1; entry for withdrawal from bonded warehouses, 50 cents.

Passenger vessel tickets for ports other than those in the United States, Canada and Mexico, between $10 and $30, $1; between $30 and $60, $3, and above $60, $5.

Voting proxies, 10 cents.

Power of attorney, 25 cents.

Playing cards, decks of not more than 54 cards, an additional 5 cents on the present rates.

Taxes on life insurance, eliminated from the house bill in the senate, were amended and reinserted, raising about $5,000,000. Effective November 1 the new taxes on new insurance policies issued are 8 cents per $100 or fraction thereof on life insurance and 1 cent per $1 on the premium charged on marine, casualty, fire and inland insurances.

Amusement taxes agreed upon provide that all persons entering places of amusement free, except employees and officials on duty and children under twelve, would pay a tax rate of 1 cent on each 10 cents or fraction thereof of the admission charge. This tax also would apply to cabarets and similar performances where the cost of entertainment is included in other costs, such as service. Holders of annual box seats would pay 10 per cent of the annual rental. Nickel theaters and shows, rides and other outdoor park amusements with a maximum admission of 10 cents and benefit entertainments and agricultural fairs were exempted.

After November 1, 1917, members of all clubs, except fraternal orders, paying more than $12 annual dues would be subject to a 10 per cent tax.

Exemptions Are Allowed.

On excess profits the conferees agreed upon a minimum deduction of 7 per cent and a maximum of 10 per cent, instead of the 6 to 10 per cent fixed by the senate. Other exemptions are $3,000 for corporations and $6,000 for individauls. Corporations, partnerships and individuals having no capital stock would pay a flat rate of 8 per cent on net profits in excess of $3,000 for corporations and $6,000 for individuals and partnerships.

Miscellaneous income tax amendments inserted by the senate were generally adopted, including the so-called Jones amendment for a tax of 10 per cent on corporations' indistributed surplus, without allowance for income taxes paid. The 10 per cent tax would not apply to undistributed income actually invested or employed in business or invested in federal securities after September 1, 1917, and 5 per cent penalty for surplus retained but not employed is provided.

In making provision for administration and collection of the new and existing taxes the conferees provided that the special tax of 12½ per cent on war munitions manufactures shall be reduced to 10 per cent, but retained to January 1, 1918. It now yields about $29,000,000 annually and the senate had proposed its repeal.

GARFIELD FIXES COAL PRICES

Fuel Administrator Announces Final Decision, Which Will Be Binding on All Dealers.

Washington.—Fuel Administrator Garfield announced regulations, effective at once, for the limitation of the retail prices of bituminous and anthracite coal throughout the country.

The fuel administration has fixed in the conclusions arrived at, not the specific price which the retail dealer will be allowed to charge the consumer, but the gross margin which the retail dealer will be allowed to add to the average wholesale cost of his coal in making retail prices.

The retail dealer will be allowed to sell coal to the consumer at a price representing an advance of not more than 30 per cent over the retail gross margin of 1915. In no case, however, is the gross margin from now on to exceed the gross margin of July, 1917.

If, for example, a retail coal dealer bought a particular kind of coal in 1915 at an average of $2 a ton and sold it to the consumer at $3 a ton, his gross margin was $1. Dr. Garfield now allows him to add 30 per cent to this amount, making his gross margin for 1917 $1.30, provided that is not in excess of his gross margin in July last.

If the retail dealer now pays an average of $3 for the same kind of coal he will be allowed to sell it to the consumer for not more than $4.30 a ton.

Doctor Garfield selected 1915 as a normal coal production year.

SPEAKERS ARE JEERED

Representatives of Michaelis Fail to Mollify Critics—Further Discussion Expected—Snow in Vosges—German Fleet in Baltic.

St. Paul, Oct. 9.—Internal conditions within the German empire threaten to compel the issuance of a full statement of Germany's war aims. What the German leaders want if they are succussful will be discussed in the reichstag.

Fails to Mollify the Critical.

The imperial chancellor, Dr. Georg Michaelis, sent Minister of the Interior Helfferich before the reichstag Saturday to make a statement on his behalf. Helfferich failed to mollify the critical members of the reichstag and the sitting was adjourned after the vice chancellor's speech had been interrupted. General von Stein, the war minister, was jeered when he attempted to explain the army's side of the accusation that the high command was using strong methods to help the pan-German agitation.

Tirpitz Busy Since Defeat.

Former Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg some months before his resignation had a test of strength with Admiral von Tirpitz, the reputed organizer of ruthless submarine warfare and the chancellor won. The admiral since has been busy and the fatherland party, of which he is a sponsor, according to recent reports, has been very active in opposing the reichstag majority declaration for peace without annexations or indemnities.

New Positions Used as Bases.

Approaching cold weather on the western front is forecast in the appearance of snow in the Vosges. In Flanders the weather has been most unfavorable the last two days, but official reports mention no letup in the violent artillery duels. The British are using the new positions won last week as a base from which to harass the Germans in the lowlands, preparatory for a new stroke in this plan to outflank the German positions in the north.

German Naval Fleet in Baltic.

Unofficial reports from Stockholm say strong German naval forces have been sighted in the Baltic sea off the Danish and Swedish coasts, bound probably for the Gulf of Finland for a drive on Telsingfors, Finland and Petrograd. The Germans are said to be concentrating a large force including mine sweepers, seaplanes and transports, and plan to take Helsingfors by land and sea.

Certain-teed Roofing

CERTAIN-TEED is the best roof, not only because it costs less to manufacture, but also because it is weather-tight, light weight, clean, sanitary, fire-retardent, and costs practically nothing to maintain.

There are many roll roofings on the market, but only one CERTAIN-TEED. It pays to get the best. It costs no more to lay a CERTAIN-TEED roof than it does to lay a poor roof, but there is a vast difference in the wear. You can't tell the quality of a roofing by looks or feel. Your only safety is the label. Be sure that it is CERTAIN-TEED — then you are certain of quality and guaranteed satisfaction.

CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply).

ADAM SPRUNG FIRST JOKE

Asked Eve If She Expected an Ichthyosaurus, When She Objected to Spider on Rose.

We believe that in the Garden of Eden, Adam gave Eve a rose in exchange for a kiss. And she shuddered and said, "Ugh! There's a spider on the rose?" And he answered, "Well, what do you expect for one stingy little kiss—an ichthyosaurus?"

We believe that to be the oldest joke in the world—older than the goat, the mother-in-law, or any that are supposed to be included in the Original Seven. In varying forms one finds it in the Talmud, in Plautus, in Aesop, in Rabelais, in Joe Miller, in all the almanacs and comic papers.

When we were a boy, it was told in a minstrel show, thus: A man buys a suit of clothes at a second-hand store. He comes back and complains that the coat is inhabited by unpleasant insects. And the dealer says, "Well, what do you expect for $5—humming birds?"

Vaudeville knows it in this form: Tenant—"Look here, you'll have to make some repairs in this house. The cellar is full of water! Landlord—"Well, what do you expect for $15 a month—champagne?"

And just last week we ran across our old friend again in a weekly comic paper. This time a passenger on a street car calls down the conductor for not calling the names of the streets distinctly. And the conductor replies, "Well, what do you expect for $14 a week—a tenor solo?"

Lastly—a few days ago, we ran a version of the old thing in this column. We cut its hair, trimmed its whiskers, and fitted it with a new suit, but we could not disguise it completely. When you run across it in any of its costumes, send us a clipping, will you? We are making a collection of that joke.

HERMIT SCULPTOR IS FOUND

Spends Time Modeling Little Masterpieces Which He Promptly Destroys Upon Completion.

There has been discovered at Cape Scott, one of the most solitary points in Vancouver island, by the chief engineer of the public works department of British Columbia, a sculptor who spends his time in modeling little masterpieces from lumps of clay and then destroying them, relates an exchange.

He is A. F. Whittier, and he calls himself a "prospector." Living entirely alone, he has for the past two years been carrying out lonely investigations of mineral claims in his neighborhood. His sculptor's tools are of the simplest kind, and it is his habit to work with the same piece of clay, which weighs scarcely five pounds, but with that he has modeled scores of objects.

The government engineer found him just as he had completed a bust of the martyred British nurse, Edith Cavell. Mr. Whittier was about to destroy the work in order that he might use the clay for a miniature statue of his son, who was recently killed. He was, however, persuaded to part with the bust, which is to be auctioned in aid of the Red Cross funds.

The Spirit That's Needed.

G. Bernard Shaw, the Irish playwright, said recently in London that nobody but an idiot could imagine that the pacifists and socialists would be allowed to have any say in the peace negotiations which will end the world war.

"If Shaw is right," said a labor leader, "it's a bad thing for the world, and so I hope he's wrong.

"I hope the peace negotiations will create among the nations the spirit embodied in a saying which an old grandmother used to quote in my childhood, namely—

"'If you want a neighbor, be one.'"—Exchange.

Quite Sufficient.

EXTRAORDINARY SESSION ENDS

Remarkable Record of Achievement Marks Work of Body Now Adjourned

$2,700,000,000 REVENUE PROVIDED IN FINAL WEEK

Army Draft Law, Two War Credit Measures, Food and Fuel Control and Espionage Acts Were Passed

Washington, Oct. 7.—At the conclusion of a day's thrilling debate on the alleged disloyalty of Senator La Follette in the upper house, and a day of marked time in the house of representatives, congress Saturday closed its extraordinary session convened on April 2, adjourning sine die. The next regular session will begin on December 3. With galleries crowded to capacity, the senate and chamber was the scene of five hours of stirring debate of La Follette's attitude, three hours of that time being devoted to a set speech of the Wisconsin senator in his own defense. In the closing hours of the day many minor matters were cleared up by both houses, and the session adjourned with perhaps the most remarkable record of achievement ever made in the annals of American legislation.

Marking the session were its war declaration; provision for quick and large increases in the nation's fighting forces; appropriation of more than $20,000,000,000; measures of taxation and credits to meet the financial drafts, and vesting the president with large powers.

Among the most important measures enacted were:

The army draft law, two war credits measures, authorizing loans to the allies, the sale of domestic bonds, the war tax law, appropriation of $640,000,000 for airplants, the espionage act, control of foods, feeds and fuel; the trading with the enemy act, including authority for the president to embargo imports; the soldiers and sailors' insurance act and two war budget bills.

The new war revenue bill, passed by both houses during the closing week, has been estimated to raise revenues approximating $2,700,000,000.

WHITE SOX WIN OPENERS

Chicago Takes First Two Games of World's Series

Chicago, Oct. 8. Eddie Cicotte of Detroit, pitcher extraordinary to the Chicago Americans, piloted his team to victory over the New York Nationals Saturday by a score of 2 to 1 in the first game of the 1917 world's series, played at Comiskey park. Cicotte proved himself master of the Giants every stage of the contest, and was ably assisted by the White Sox machine, which played almost faultless baseball throughout the game. Thirty-two thousand spectators witnessed the event, and the receipts were $73,152. Sallee pitched for the New Yorkers, with McCarty behind the bat, while Schalk held down the home plate for the Chicago team.

Chicago, Oct. 8. Following their advantage of Saturday's game, the White Sox yesterday trimmed New York's McGrawmen in the second world series game by the decisive score of 7 to 2. Faber pitched for the locals while the visitors put up successively Schupp, Perritt, Anderson and Tesreau without satisfactory results. Runs by innings were two for each side in the second, and five for Chicago in the fourth.

HAS PLAN TO STOP STRIKES

Great Falls Unions Would Prevent Strikes During War

Great Falls, Mont., Oct. 7.—Presenting a concrete plan for a national arbitration board, moulded on the plan of the Great Falls method of handling labor problems, the Great Falls labor unions and the employers have sent to President Wilson, the secretary of commerce and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, a request to establish a national arbitration board and handle all labor problems through it during the period of the war. They assert that their experience has demonstrated if the plan is given a trial there will be no abandonment of it. They propose a board of seven, three to be appointed by Samuel Gompers, three by the National Employers' association, and one by the president of the United States. Labor will provide the pay for its three men, employers for their three and the government for one. When the board has been named, the plan would be for the president to declare as a military order that no strikes be called.

Norton Presents Grading Bill.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Congressman P. D. Norton of North Dakota yesterday introduced a bill to amend the grain standards act which was passed as a part of the agricultural appropriation act of August 11, 1916. Mr. Norton's bill proposes to amend the law so as to require that any grades or standards for the quality and condition of wheat established by the department of agriculture shall be based upon the actual milling value of the grain. A hearing of the bill is expected at the next session of congress.

URUGUAY SEVERS RELATIONS

Montevideo, Uruguay, Oct. [illegible]—Uruguay has severed diplomatic relations with Germany. A presidential decree announced the rupture, following a vote in favor of it by the chamber of deputies, 74 to 23. The German minister has been sent his passports. President Viera in his message to the parliament declared that the Uruguayan government had not received any direct offense from Germany, but that it was necessary to espouse the cause of the defenders of justice, democracy and small nationalities.

Some Satisfaction.

At a ball given by Lord Derby in Canada, writes Douglas Sladen, I watched his A. D. C. taking an important politician, whom he should have known perfectly well, to introduce him to his (the politician's) own wife, a young and pretty woman, who considered herself one of the lions of Canadian society.

The situation struck me as a promising one, so I listened to hear what he would say:

"Mrs. Um," he said, "may I introduce Mr. Um-um to you?"

She looked up at him with an amused smile, and he continued quite blissfully:

"He's a stupid old duffer, but I'll get him away from you as soon as I can."

An Exaggeration.

"Crossing the ocean nowadays is a serious proposition," said J. P. Morgan, who crosses the ocean continually, "but it isn't, after all, as terrible a thing as certain exaggerations would make you believe.

"'Anything to declare?' a customs officer said to a man who had just crossed the ocean.

"'Yes,' said the man. 'I declare that I'm one mass of black and blue bruises from jolting and bumping for six days over a regular corduroy road of German mines and submarines.'"

True to His Word.

"I haven't any case," admitted the client, "but I have money."

"How much?"

"Sixty thousand dollars."

"Phew! You have the best case I ever handled," said the lawyer. "I'll see that you never go to prison with that sum."

And the client didn't—he went there broke.

An Emphatic Assurance.

"If you don't marry me," exclaimed the suitor, "I'll join the army."

"Let me tell you something," answered the girl. "If you don't join the army you won't even be well enough acquainted with me hereafter to ask me to marry you."

BONDS OR BONDAGE– Which ?

IF THE Germans should win this war, the fate of your home would be the fate of those of Belgium.

You would have no choice as to what would be done with your money. It would be taken from you by force.

Today your boy, who is prepared to give his life to save your home, is looking to you for the money which will buy the bullets with which he will make his fight.

Buying a Liberty Bond is not giving money to the Government. It is loaning money, every cent of which will be returned to you with interest. Liberty Loan Bonds are backed by all of the resources of the richest government in the world.

The second Liberty Bond issue is for $3,000,000,000. The share of every American family is $150. The Government pays you 4% interest, half of which is payable November 15th and half May 15th of each year. If, before the end of the war, there should be another bond issue at a rate higher than 4%, your bond will pay the higher rate from then on.

All who bought the first Liberty Loan Bonds at 3½% may now convert them into 4% bonds.

Liberty Bonds are as marketable as wheat. You can go to any bank at any time and get your money for them.

Liberty Bonds are in denominations of $50 and up. In this issue all purchases of $5000 or less are tax exempt.

Buy your Liberty Bonds now. October 27th is the last day subscriptions will be received in Washington.

Don't wait for someone to ask you to buy a bond. Go at once to your nearest bank or post office. Your neighbors and your friends are watching you. They are depending upon you to do your share.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing woman for victory

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

Liberty Bond Meeting

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the town officers of the towns of Holt, Adgar, Excel and Mud Lake, also the village of Holt, was held at the M. W. A. hall Tuesday for the purpose of organizing and receiving instructions for sale of the Second Liberty Bonds of 1917.

Mr. H. L. Wood, of Warren, the county chairman, presided and gave a very enthusiastic and instructive speech. The town and village officers are practically drafted for this work and must interview each and every man in their respective townships and villages and use their best efforts to sell each and every individual a Liberty Bond. If a man refuses to buy a bond he must be reported on a "blue card" with particulars as to his nationality, occupation and reasons for not buying. The only valid reason considered, if a man refuses to buy a bond, is if he is a pauper.

Reports are coming rapidly stating that all are meeting with great success, and it is sincerely hoped this section will not send in a single blue card.

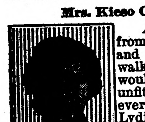
A Medicine for Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Relieved the Sufferings of Women.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

Mrs. Kieso Cured After Seven Month's Illness.



Aurora, Ill.—"For seven long months I suffered from a female trouble, with severe pains in my back and sides until I became so weak I could hardly walk from chair to chair, and got so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise. I was entirely unfit to do my house work, I was giving up hope of ever being well, when my sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and today I am a healthy woman able to do my own housework. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find out for herself how good it is."—Mrs. Karl A. Kieso, 596 North Ave., Aurora, Ill.

Could Hardly Get Off Her Bed.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I want you to know the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in such bad health from female troubles that I could hardly get off my bed. I had been doctoring for a long time and my mother said, 'I want you to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So I did, and it has certainly made me a well woman. I am able to do my house work and am so happy as I never expected to go around the way I do again, and I want others to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. Josie Copner, 1668 Harrison Ave., Fairmount, Cincinnati, Ohio.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

His Sensitive Soul.

George Challis, owner of a theater in Muncie, Ind., believes that the craving for passes to shows becomes a mania, and relates a case in point, according to the Indianapolis News. He had been besieged for weeks by a man for passes to shows in the theater, and two or three times, just to get rid of him, had passed him in, which only seemed to make him the more insistent the next time, although Challis was under no obligation to him. Finally the fellow struck Challis one day when the latter was suffering from the effects of a "poor house" the night before, and, exasperated, he reached down in his pocket and, handing the importuning one a dollar, said, "Go over there to the box office and buy yourself a ticket like other people do." Puffing up, his dignity ruffled and his feelings apparently hurt, the other replied, "What do you take me for—a cheap skate?" And then haughtily walked away—with Challis' dollar in his pocket.

What's the Use.

"I have been reflecting," said an old-timer, "upon the case of the average man, as his neighbors see him.

"If he is poor, he is a bad manager. If he is prosperous, everyone wants to do him a favor.

"If he is in politics, it's for pork. If he is not in politics, one can't place him, and he's no good for his country.

"If he gives not to charity, then he's a stingy dog. If he does give, it's for show.

"If he is active in religion, he is a hypocrite. If he evinces no interest in matters spiritual, he's a hardened sinner.

"If he shows affection, he's a soft sentimentalist. If he seems to care for no one, he's cold-blooded.

"If he does young, there was a great future ahead of him. If he attains old age, he has missed his calling."

Wireless Air Raid Warning.

The London Daily Chronicle reports that Mr. Thorp Hincks has devised apparatus for giving warning of impending air raids. It is claimed to be especially applicable to factories and public buildings. An electric resonator is placed on the roof, and on the sound of a given pitch being produced, the resonator causes a bell to ring in the building until it is stopped. It is said that large areas, such for instance as the whole of a city, can be simultaneously and instantaneously warned.—Scientific American.

Surprises in Housekeeping.

Mrs. Simpleton, having been a business girl, was a bit worried over the intricacies of housekeeping.

"I'm having such trouble keeping our food," she confided to her bosom friend. "I bought a real nice-looking refrigerator, but it doesn't seem to work well at all."

"Do you keep enough ice in it?"

"Ice!" gasped Mrs. Simpleton. "Ice! I hope you don't think, after spending all that money on a refrigerator, we'd go to the additional expense of buying ice!"

Correction.

"Is your wife a good plain [illegible]"

"No, she isn't; she's a good pretty one."

It pays better to appreciate fools than to be appreciated by fools.

BIG NAVAL FIGHT IN BALTIC LOOMS

Steamers Arriving at Stockholm Report Hearing Violent Cannonading at Sea.

ENEMY HAS 100 SHIPS

Petrograd Reports Great Fleet Participated in Landing of German Marines at Islands of Oesel and Dago—Expect Clash.

Stockholm, Oct. 16.—Steamers arriving here report hearing the sound of violent cannonading in the Baltic—presumably a naval engagement between the German and Russian fleets.

100 German Warships in Move.

London, Oct. 16.—Petrograd dispatches relate how nearly 100 German vessels, including eight dreadnaughts, a number of cruisers, a great flotilla of torpedo boats and auxiliaries, participated in the fighting which marked the landing of German forces on the island of Oesel and the demonstration against the island of Dago.

Russia Rallies Forces.

Russia is rallying her forces to the impending fight in the gulf of Finland. Dispatches from the capital quoted a powerful appeal issued by Premier A. F. Kerensky warning the Baltic fleet that the "hour of trial" had arrived.

Warships Clash in Gulf.

London looks for an early and important sea battle between the German and Russian forces. Desultory engagements between various craft on both sides have already occurred on Oesel and Dago islands and the shore batteries on the latter were officially reported to have sunk four German torpedo boats and a cruiser. Petrograd reports assert Russian naval forces had "successfully prevented" approach of German naval forces between the two islands and had forced a German landing party on Dago island to withdraw.

Push East and South From Oesel.

The German forces landed on Oesel island are pushing east and south, placing in a difficult position the Russian forces and batteries in the district of Arensburg at the southern end of the island and especially those on the Serel peninsula.

WHITE SOX WORLD CHAMPS

Chicago Defeats New York in Sixth Game of Series.

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 16.—The Chicago White Sox won the world's championship in baseball here Monday, defeating the Giants for the fourth time.

The batteries were: New York, Benton, Perritt and Rariden; Chicago, Faber and Schalk.

Benton and Faber hurled tight ball on even terms until Benton's support wobbled in the fourth. Herzog's triple gave the Giants two runs in the fifth.

The weather was the best that had been produced for any game of the series. A warm sun was shining, so warm that overcoats were doffed and the crowd could look on in comfort.

It appeared the crowd would be smaller than that which witnessed the fourth game here and which was but slightly more than 27,000. The playing field was in excellent condition.

All along the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coasts, American registered and enrolled ships, all carefully listed in advance in the shipping board files, were taken over for government control. As requests from the army, navy, Allies and other government sources are passed upon for use of a certain amount of tonnage, orders will be telegraphed to ships assigned them to particular service.

WAR FACTORY WANTS WOMEN

Eastern Munitions Plant Sends Out Call for 300 Laborers.

New York, Oct. 16.—A munition factory near here has sounded an urgent call for 300 women laborers.

"This is the first opportunity which American women have had to serve their country so directly," said Mrs. Strakosch, secretary of the employment section of the mayor's committee of women of national defense. "We will be glad to do it."

Gopher Veterans in Sunny South.

Fulton, Ky., Oct. 16.—The Minnesota civil war veterans, on their way to Vicksburg to attend a reunion, held a meeting on the train, the Vicksburg Special, Commander Tower presiding. Governor Burnquist and others addressed the veterans. In his speech the Governor referred to the fact that they were passing through the state of their former commander, Abraham Lincoln. He praised the loyalty of the old soldiers and pleaded for the same loyalty in the present struggle.

GERMANS BRIBED THE UMPIRE

Carl Emil Junck Tells How Teutons Are Tricky in Other Ways Than in War.

Carl Emil Junck, a dye importer of Chicago, was talking about Germany.

"The German spirit today is tricky, shifty and false," he said. "The Germans today think it's clever to cheat. Their war, with its violation of every war law and every international agreement, is a cheating war.

"Here is an illustration of the German spirit:

"When I lived in Elberfeld I organized a football team among the Elberfelt boys. Once, when the team was to play a neighboring team, I gave the boys 100 marks to buy shoes, leg-guards or whatever would most help them to win.

"Well, they won, but their shoes and leg-guards were very old and shabby, and I said to the captain after the game:

"'Glad you licked 'em, though certainly some of the decisions were close. But what did you do with the money I gave you?'

"The captain answered with a knowing smile:

"'You said, Herr Junck, that we were to use the money in any way that would best help us to win; so of course we made a present of it to the umpire.'"

Can't Live on $25,000 a Year.

The somewhat irritating story of the woman who cannot support herself on a large income bobs up again. Mrs. Olga Kohler Florman of New York has been drawing $25,000 annually from the state of her father, but she asks an increase because she has gone in debt. She alleged that her husband earned only $60 a week and that she had to contribute to the support of an infant son. The court allowed her a bonus of $120,000.

Codfish Are Scarce.

Last year the codfish caught off the coast of New England amounted to 60,000,000 pounds—less than half the amount caught a hundred years ago.

WAS ALL RUN DOWN
Faulty Kidneys Caused Acute Suffering. Completely Recovered Since Using Doan's.

Mrs. Harry A. Lyon, 5 St. William St., S. Boston, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have surely done me wonderful good. About two months prior to the birth of my baby, I had two convulsions and was taken to a hospital. Doctors said the convulsions were due to my kidneys not working properly.

MRS. LYON.

"I had swelling of the feet and ankles so that I had to wear large-sized slippers. My back ached intensely, I was nervous and unable to sleep. I also suffered from awful headaches and felt weak, tired, languid, and run down.

"After I came home a friend suggested that I try Doan's Kidney Pills, and I got some. I soon noticed improvement; my back became stronger and I felt better in every way. I kept on taking Doan's and was cured. They are surely reliable."

Mrs. Lyon gave the above statement in May, 1915, and on March 12, 1917, she said:

"My cure has lasted. I take Doan's occasionally, however, as a strengthener for my kidneys."

WORDS LOST THEIR FORCE

Schwab Should Have Spoken Into Phonograph, He Is Told, When Discussing His Speech.

A banker who was told that Charles M. Schwab, the president of the Bethlehem Steel works, was one of the most forceful speakers ever heard at a banquet table, said he believed it, and then told this story:

About the time that Schwab was buying Bethlehem steel, and had made arrangements with Piny Fisk of New York, to handle the bonds, he went over to New York, and, of course, was entertained at a dinner. There he made one of his most forceful utterances. Mr. Fisk was moved to such an extent that he said to Mr. Schwab:

"That will sell the bonds. Only, you should write it out for me when you return, so I shall have an accurate statement."

Mr. Schwab wrote out his remarks as soon as he got back to his home and sent them to Mr. Fisk.

Mr. Fisk saw him soon afterward, and said: "Why didn't you write me what you said?"

"I did," responded the steel master. "I wrote the exact words."

"Well," answered Mr. Fisk, much disconcerted, "you should have spoken them into a phonograph."

After the death of her husband she continued her life on the sea on board a ship captained by her son-in-law.

SET APART DAY FOR BOOSTING LIBERTY BONDS

President Asks American People To Meet Oct. 24 To Help Big Drive.

"LET RESULTS BE IMPRESSIVE," EXECUTIVE'S PLEA

Would Show "Empire of Our Enemy" What America Intends to Do—Secretary of Labor Adds Effective Plea

Washington, Oct. 15.—President Wilson in behalf of the Liberty loan has issued a proclamation setting aside Wednesday, Oct. 24, as Liberty day and urging the people of the nation to assemble in their respective communities and "pledge to one another and to the government the fullest measure of financial support.

The president's proclamation is as follows:

"By the president of the United States, a proclamation:

"The second Liberty loan gives the people of the United States another opportunity to lend their funds to their government to sustain their country at war. The might of the United States is being organized to strike a mortal blow at autocracy in defense of outraged American rights and of the cause of liberty. Billions of dollars are required to arm, feed and clothe the brave men who are going forth to fight our country's battles and to assist the nations with whom we are making common cause against a common foe. To subscribe to the Liberty loan is to perform a service of patriotism.

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States, do appoint Wednesday, the twenty-fourth day of October, as Liberty day and urge and advise the people to assemble in their respective communities and pledge to one another and the government that represents them, the fullest measure of financial support. On the afternoon of that day, I request that patriotic meetings be held in every city, town and hamlet, throughout the land, under the general direction of the secretary of the treasury and the immediate direction of the Liberty loan committees which have been organized by the federal reserve banks. The people responded nobly to the call of the first Liberty loan with an oversubscription of more than fifty per cent. Let the response to the second loan be even greater and let the amount be so large that it will serve as an assurance of the unequalled support to hearten the men who are to face the fire of battle for us. Let the result be so impressive and emphatic that it will echo throughout the empire of our enemy as an index of what America intends to do to bring this war to a victorious conclusion.

For the purpose of participating in Liberty day celebrations, all employes of the federal government throughout the country whose services can be spared, may be excused at 12 o'clock Wednesday, the twenty-fourth day of October.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done in the District of Columbia, this twelfth day of October, 1917, A. D.
(Signed) "Woodrow Wilson,
"By the President.
"Robert Lansing, Secretary of State."

An appeal to the wage earners of the United States to invest in the bonds was issued by Secretary Wilson of the department of labor. "Workers have more at stake in this conflict than any others," said the secretary, "because it is only in a democracy that the common people can come to their own."

"SOX" WIN 5TH OF SERIES

Pendulum Again Swings to Chicago in World Series

Chicago, Oct. 15.—With the return of the American and National pennant winning teams to Chicago for the fifth of the hotly contested world series games Saturday, luck again turned the scale in favor of the western city and its American league team. While enthusiasm gave the contest more intense interest than in any of the preceding games, this will not be listed in baseball circles as a game of great skill. It abounded with errors and misplays, but all was forgotten when the American leaguers gained an advantage nearly as commanding as the two straight victories which marked the opening of the series. Chicago commenced to score in the third inning—after twenty-four innings in the series in which they had not been able to put a man across the home plate. They were still behind New York in the game, however, until the seventh, when they tied the Giants with a total of five runs each. The eighth gave Chicago three more, bringing the tally 8 to 5, where it stood at the close. Russell, Cicotte, Williams and Faber took turns in the box for the White Sox, and Sallee and Perritt collaborated as twirlers for the visitors. The financial receipts have been highly satisfactory throughout the series.

NEW MENACE WAKES RUSSIA

Germans Reach Point Within Eight Miles of Arensburg

Petrograd, Oct. 15.—The German forces which landed on Oesel island in the gulf of Riga, under the cover of ninety war vessels Saturday morning, were within eight miles of Arensburg on the southern shore, according to an announcement by the Russian naval staff. The Russians still occupy Serel point and the Svorve peninsula on the southwestern coast. The Germans did not occupy Dago Island, at the head of the Gulf of Finland, but made a demonstration against it.

FOE TRADE LAW PUT INTO EFFECT

President Issues Regulations for New Trading With the Enemy Law.

RULES ARE IMPORTANT

Every Citizen Is Affected by Act Which Is Expected to Force the Germans to Submit.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Regulations for the trading with the enemy act have been issued by President Wilson. They constitute the most far reaching control of every phase of intercourse between the United States and the world.

They give legal force to every move of the United States in casting about Germany an economic barrier which will compel her into submission.

Not only the new regulations for cutting off trade between the United States and Germany, but they do the following:

Cut off trade with Germany's allies.

Cut off trade with those who do trade with either Germany or her allies.

Provide custodians for all enemy property in the United States.

Require special licenses for trade or intercourse with any enemy or ally of an enemy within the United States.

Authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to investigate and supervise all foreign exchange and prevent its working to the advantage of the enemy.

Empower the Secretary of the Treasury to stop the taking from or into the United States of any communication other than by mail, telegraph, cable or wireless.

Creates Censorship Board.

Officially creates a censorship board consisting of representatives of the Secretaries of War and the Navy, Postmaster General, War Trade board and committee on public information to censor mail, cable, radio and other means of communication.

Authorize the Federal Trade commission to keep secret all patents that may be developed for the interest of the United States and to provide for working in the United States under patents held by enemies or allies of the enemy.

Vest in the Postmaster General the authority to censor foreign language publications.

Charge the Secretary of State with control over the entry and egress from the United States of enemies or allies of the enemy.

Authorize the Secretary of Commerce to hear appeals of refusals of customs officers to grant clearance papers to vessels.

Charge the Attorney General with the enforcement of the criminal sections of the trading with the enemy act.

Empower the President to regulate imports as well as exports.

SHORTAGE IN GERMAN CROP

Wheat Alone Shows Shortage of Forty Per Cent.

London, Oct. 16.—The Press Association publishes an economic review of the condition of the Central powers, in which it says that a special investigation ordered by the German chancellor of the 1917 harvest shows that the yield will be 40 per cent lower than in normal years for wheat and 45 per cent lower for rye, oats and barley. The total harvest of wheat and rye amounts to 7,500,000 tons, compared to 13,000,000 tons in 1913. The shortage will be partly compensated from the Roumanian granaries.

The reviewer considers the situation during the coming winter will depend mainly on the results of the potato harvest.

Should frost, lack of labor or other reasons cause a shortage in potatoes, it will spell disaster.

The situation in Austria-Hungary, it is declared, is worse than in Germany.

NEW CABINET FOR SWEDEN

Liberal Leader Asked to Choose Advisors

Stockholm, Oct. 16.—M. J. Widen, president of the second chamber and former minister of the interior, who was charged by King Gustave with the formation of a cabinet, has replied that he is unable to accomplish the task. The king now has invited the Liberal leader, Professor Eden, to organize a ministry.

M. Widen's failure means that the king has been forced to abandon his hope of a coalition cabinet. The new ministry will unquestionably contain only Liberals and Socialists. Professor Eden is widely known as an educator and politician.

Gopher Troops Ready for France

Camp Mills, Ill, Oct. 16.—Minnesota's contingent in the "Rainbow division" is ready for the front. A visit to the Minnesota streets today showed that the men are fit and that their morale is high. All who were interviewed said they are eager to start for the trenches. The increase in mail being sent back home in the last day or two indicates that they anticipate an early departure. The whole division of 27,000 men can, if necessary, be moved from Camp Mills in five hours after the order comes.

FOOD PLEDGE WEEK CAMPAIGN COMING OCTOBER 21 TO 28

Every Family Must Do Utmost to Conserve Resources and Lend Money to Nation So We May Crush Enemy.

LEARN LESSONS OF ECONOMY

Washington.—America's place in the industrial competition of nations that will follow peace will be determined in large part by the response that the American people make to the coming food pledge week campaign. This is the belief of the United States food administration and is one of the thoughts that is spurring on its forces in their preparations by enrolling the families of the nation in the cause of food conservation during the week of October 21.

"When the war is over," the food administrator declared recently, "Europe will find herself with a reduced standard of living, with a people greatly disciplined in all directions, and in a position to compete in the world's markets in a way that they never have been able before. We shall also face a world with a reduced consuming power, and unless we can secure such discipline in our own people, we will be in no position to meet that condition when peace comes."

The idea that the purpose of food saving is not alone the present one of feeding our army and the allies, is further developed by the belief of the food administration that wars are paid for out of the savings of the people. It is pointed out that the decision is up to the American people right now whether they are to help pay for the present conflict out of the savings of today or after the war by mortgaging the future of the people. A saving of six cents a day per person will amount to two billion dollars a year.

If the United States were an autocratic country there would be no popular appeal for the conservation of food. There would be an autocratic food control. The mailed fist would rule in the kitchen. Imperial food decrees would be enforced at the point of the bayonet. But ours is not an autocratic country. Food control is in the hands of the people themselves and it is to the people that the food administration has appealed in the food pledge card campaign.

Herbert Hoover has termed this appeal an "unprecedented adventure in democracy"—an adventure that will determine whether or not a democratic form of government is, after all fitted to engage in a death grapple with autocracy.

The food pledge week campaign resolves itself into an effort to secure as a result of voluntary agreement pledges insuring the general support of a well-defined program of food conservation. The food pledge week campaign represents an effort to induce as many American homes as possible to unite in a common policy. Our wheat reserves can be conserved if everybody helps. Our meat reserves can be conserved if the whole public co-operates.

The American people are asked to join together in a common conservation policy. As evidence that they are supporting this policy they are asked to hang a card denoting membership in the United States food administration in their window. In order that the conservation policy may be understood, the reasons for it made plain and the manner of observing it rendered certain, instruction cards—"The War Creed of the Kitchen," are to be hung in the home.

And that is what the national food pledge week campaign is all about.

Whole Family Under Fire

A land owner of Vergeze, according to a Paris correspondent, has received the following letter from his son, a staff captain:

"I heard a strange story today that a woman and a boy of sixteen had been found among the men of the —— battalion of unmounted chasseurs. An investigation was made and they were found to be the wife and son of a chasseur who had determined not to be separated from him. Both went into the trenches with other poilus, and the most striking thing about it is that they had been with the battalion for five months before the authorities found out. Of course everybody in the battalion knew, but as you see, the secret was well kept.

"As an old chasseur yourself you will be proud to learn that a father, mother and son have been under fire together in your old battalion."

She Studied Byron.

Mrs. Hawkins, who posed as a literary woman and professed a great admiration for Byron's works, had recently purchased a little dog and was showing him to a caller.

"What have you named him?" asked the caller.

"Perchance," was the reply.

"What a singular name for an animal!" commented the caller.

"I named him after Byron's dog," she explained. "Don't you remember the line in 'Childe Harold,' where the poet says, 'Perchance my dog?'"

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war.

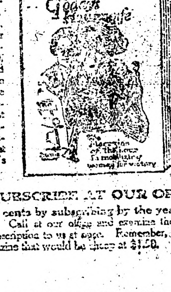
Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of women's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.



While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

Everybody Buys Bonds

No Blue Cards From Holt

Every family in the village of Holt now are the owners of a liberty bond, also all the men who do not have families were purchasers, as were some of the young ladies. No blue cards will be sent in from this village and we feel rather proud of the out come of the sale of liberty bonds. The success of this sale is due to the untiring efforts of B. Docken who worked hard to make it a success. The amount subscribed in this village was $6,100 which is considerably above our quota. The total amount for the village and surrounding townships which will pass thru the Holt State Bank is $12500

IMPROVEMENTS ARE NOT TAXED

Western Canada Does Not Tax Stock or Improvements but Collects an Additional Tax From Land Speculators.

Owners of uncultivated lands in Western Canada are loud in their protests against an extra tax on their lands because they are not under cultivation. Western Canada, through its provincial governments, is endeavoring to force the speculative land owner to either sell his land to a settler or to cultivate it himself. At present a surtax of a few cents an acre is levied against all wild land, so that the owner of land held in its natural state, without improvements, is contributing more taxes to the government than the owner of a farm that is cultivated and even improved with buildings and stock to the value of thousands of dollars. In order to encourage the farmer to improve and to go into stock raising, he is not charged one cent of taxes on any of his improvements, implements or stock of any kind.

As a result of this surtax on uncultivated or speculatively held lands, the owners are now trying to sell them to actual settlers, and, in nearly every instance, have been offering on very easy terms of payment, usually a quarter down, and the balance extending over a term of years at prices much lower than their productive value would warrant.

A world-wide shortage in farm stuffs has given a new value to all agricultural products and the margin of profit today is greater than ever in the past. It is true labor and implements have increased in price, but it is now possible to secure 50% profit in farming, and higher. Possibly not on the $100 to $200 an acre farm lands but on land that can now, under existing conditions, be purchased at from $15 to $30 per acre. Western Canadian farm lands are as productive as any in the world and can be as economically farmed. Wheat yields of from 30 to 50 bushels per acre have been common in Western Canada during the past few years, and the farmers have been too busy farming all they can so as to sell as much wheat as possible at $2.00 a bushel, that they have not had time to do any talking or writing. It is doubtful if there ever was such an opportunity to make big profits in farming. The value of each year's crop has been in hundreds of cases more than the market value of the land it was grown on. It is unreasonable to suppose such a condition will last long, as the land now being forced onto the market by surtax on speculative owners will soon become absorbed by those who have learned of these highly profitable wheat lands. The news is spreading gradually throughout the high priced land districts in the United States, where there is a renewed awakening to the realization that the maximum profit in farming is not being obtained when it is possible to secure from forty to seventy per cent return on the investment in Western Canada. Many who have been planning to visit Western Canada for the purpose of personally investigating conditions are leaving this month, when the good weather can be enjoyed. As threshing operations and marketing of grain is under way, no better time could be selected to secure first hand and reliable information from the farmers themselves. The winter months afford ample time for completing moving arrangements, to allow the settler to take up residence in early spring, so as to get something done next year and to make a start on the big and profitable farming operations in Western Canada.—Advertisement.

U. S. TRANSPORT IS TORPEDOED; 70 LIVES LOST

Antilles, Troop Vessel, Sunk While Returning Home From War Zone.

UNSEEN ENEMY GETS FIRST U. S. BOAT LOST IN SERVICE

Transport, Torpedoed Athwart Engine Room, Disappears Within Five Minutes — Remarkable Rescue Work.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The American transport Antilles, homeward bound, was torpedoed in the war zone, Oct. 17, and went down with a loss of about seventy lives. The ship, a former Ward liner, was under convoy by a naval patrol when attacked. The submarine was not seen, nor was the torpedo. All naval and army officers aboard were saved and all but three of the ship's officers, but 16 soldiers out of 33 aboard were lost.

Those lost include Walker, third engineer officer, and Boyle and O'Rourke, junior engineer officers. No army units were on board. Officers and men of the army who were on the ship were being sent home on special assignment, invalided home or discharged for special reasons. The list of these will not be available until received from Gen. Pershing.

A statement authorized by Secretary Daniels of the naval department says the torpedo which struck the ship hit abreast of the engine room bulkhead, and the ship sank within five minutes. One hundred and sixty-seven persons out of 237 on board were saved.

This tragedy of the sea is the first in which an American ship engaged in war duty has been lost. It carries the largest casualty list of the war of American lives and marks the first success of German submarine attacks on American transports. That the loss of life was not greater was due to the safeguards with which the navy has surrounded the transport service and the quick rescue work of the convoying warships.

Quick upon the wave of sorrow at the news of the loss of the transport came a feeling of distinct relief because she had met her fate homeward bound and not on the way over with troops.

New York, Oct. 20.—The Antilles, sunk by a torpedo en route home from a European port in transport service, was a freight and passenger steamer of 6,878 tons gross, owned by the Southern Pacific Steamship company, and was one of the crack American coast liners. She had plied between New Orleans and New York, and had carried thousands of persons to the Mardi Gras celebration in the southern city. The vessel was taken over by the government for transport service early in the war. Captain H. F. Boyd, master of the Antilles, retained his command when the vessel entered the government service, as did most of the officers. The ship was built by the Cramps at Philadelphia in 1917. She was 421 feet long with a beam of 53 feet and a depth of 37 feet.

LOAN DRIVE SHOWS PROGRESS

Splendid Reports Reach Washington From All Sections.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The Liberty loan gathered fresh impetus throughout the entire country, within the past twenty-four hours, in its progress towards the $5,000,000,000 goal. Total unofficial estimates up to the close of business Friday night gave subscription aggregates at $1,715,000,000. Many thousands of subscriptions, it is believed, have not yet been reported. The plan of the campaign is to raise five billions by Oct. 27. A statement issued from the treasury says: "Never before in the campaign has there been shown such grit, pluck and determination to triumph as are reflected in the messages received tonight from district chairmen. If the $5,000,000,000 mark is not attained it certainly will not be through lack of effort on the part of the workers."

A roll of honor of the millions who buy Liberty bonds is to be preserved in the nation's archives. Secretary McAdoo yesterday instructed the preparation of the long roll. Names will be inscribed on the parchment, but not amounts, so that the man or woman who buys only a $50 bond will stand an equal footing with his wealthier brother. "The name and address of every one who subscribes to the second Liberty bond issue of 1917 will be placed on a roll of honor which will be kept among the permanent records of the treasury department," reads Secretary McAdoo's announcement.

U. S. Provides Ships for France.

Washington, Oct. 20. — To meet France's urgent shipping need, the shipping board has ordered twenty steel ships of from 3,500 to 6,000 gross tonnage each turned over under charter to the French government. All the ships turned over are cargo ships, and it is explained that their delivery to the French will not delay the United States army transport plans.

ASK HELP ON WHEAT GRADES

Washington, Oct. 20.—A delegation of congressmen and state officials from the Northwest left Washington last night for New York to confer with Julius H. Barnes, president of the United States grain corporation, an agency of the food administration on marketing problems. They will particularly urge changes in the methods of grading wheat. In the delegation are Representatives Young and Baer, Attorney General Langer, and Railroad Commissioners Jacobson and Elmquist of Minnesota and Doherty, Wells and Murphy of South Dakota.

BUTCHER WOMEN ON NORSE SHIPS

Raiders Fire Ruthlessly on Attacked Merchantmen and Life Boats.

DEATH REPLY TO PLEA

Germans Fire Volley at Women Who Wave White Cloth—No Effort Made to Spare Lives in North Sea.

Stockholm, Oct. 23.—Newspaper accounts of the attack by German raiders on convoys in the North Sea say that two German cruisers and three torpedo boats fired ruthlessly on the Scandinavian merchantmen and subsequently on their lifeboats. They made no effort to spare the lives of the seamen.

Fought Single Handed.

London, Oct. 23.—The British destroyer Mary Rose fought single handed against the German cruisers in the convoy section in the North sea according to a story ascribed to a British officer rescued off Bergen and transmitted by the Christiania correspondent of The Times. The other destroyer, which should have been present, never appeared, and it is thought likely that it was destroyed at the beginning of the action.

Butchery Undescribable.

After fighting heroically for half an hour during which she was subjected to the most terrific concentric fire, the Mary Rose sank. Ten members of the crew were rescued.

The correspondent says that the reports of the butchery of those aboard the merchantmen pass description. Two women on one ship waved a piece of white cloth which was perfectly visible. They were silenced by a volley from the German cruiser.

PERSHING SENDS DEATH LIST

Reports Total Casualties in Sinking of Antilles Were 67.

Washington, Oct. 23.—Sixty-seven lives were lost when the army transport Antilles was sunk by the torpedo of a German submarine. The official list of casualties cabled by General Pershing shows 67 lost, total survivors 170 and one unaccounted for.

Not All Victims Americans.

The casualty list shows that all the lost were not Americans. The firemen, of whom many were probably killed by the explosion, came principally from Spain and Portugal. Some of the non-commissioned officers lost were men of foreign birth. Two of them have mothers living in Germany.

General Pershing's report throws no new light on the circumstances of the attack and so far as is known neither a submarine nor a torpedo was seen.

TRANSPORT SURVIVORS LAND

Men from Antilles Praise Officers and Gunners.

A French Port, Oct. 23.—Survivors of the United States transport Antilles, which was sunk by a German submarine last week while being convoyed on its homeward trip by American warships, have been landed here by auxiliary vessels and are being cared for by the American consulate. Some of the men have been lodged in local hotels and a few have left for Paris.

Survivors praise the captain of the Antilles and the members of the gun crew, who stuck to their posts while the officers searched with field glasses for the submarine until the waves closed over the ship.

Fearful Suffering Near Monastir Reported By Red Cross.

Rome, Oct. 23.—Fifty thousand Serbians are starving and thousands are dying from insufficient rations in the Monastir district alone, according to the report of the American Red Cross mission, which is on its way to America. The mission has just returned from the Serbian front. They reported the destruction of 35 villages in the Monastir section and fearful suffering among the inhabitants.

BLAST IN AUSTRIAN PLANT KILLS 4,000

Washington Oct. 23.—Four thousand persons were killed and 10,000 wounded in Stefeld, Austria's great arsenal, in a series of explosions June 16, according to official Rome cables received here. Workers who miraculously escaped were forced by the armed guard to return to their tasks.

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—Daughters of the American Revolution in Minnesota are going to be kept busy during the war supplying knitted goods, comfort bags and such luxuries as preserved fruits and candy, if they are to continue the work they have started. The men on five battleships are being "mothered" by the Minnesota D. A. R. The quarterly report of the state regent showed that 2,341 knitted [illegible] and 920 comfort kits and 50,793 jars of preserved fruit had been sent the sailors.

Very Poor Speller.

Miss Bizness was a very capable girl in the office, but she couldn't spell. Her employer found her so useful in every other way that he bought her a dictionary and advised her to use it regularly.

The next morning when he came down to his office he noticed that to protect the new book from the constant wear she was expected to give it she had carefully covered the back with cloth, and across the cover she had written:

War Declared on Rats by U. S. Gov't.

The government at Washington is preparing a campaign that should be effective in killing the rats that are so destructive both to lives and property. A conservative estimate places the loss of foodstuffs from rats at over two hundred million dollars annually, and in the present scarcity of food, this loss must be prevented. The most efficient way to "Kill the Rat" is by the use of Stearns' Paste, and thousands of dollars worth have been bought by the government. Every housekeeper troubled with rats, mice, roaches or waterbugs should buy a small box of this reliable exterminator for thirty-five cents, and stop further loss of food in her home. Adv.

Memorial to Tom Thomson.

A fitting memorial has just been erected in the wilds of Algonquin park to the late Tom Thomson, the distinguished young Canadian artist, who was drowned there last July, says the Toronto Globe. On the hill overlooking Canoe lake, where Thomson lost his life, and whose beauties he had transcribed for an ever widening circle of admirers, there now stands a cairn built from native stone, and on its face a brass plate with the following inscription:

"To the memory of Tom Thomson, artist, woodsman and guide, who was drowned in Canoe lake, July 8, 1917.

"He lived humbly but passinoately with the wild. It made him brother to all untamed things of nature. It drew him apart and revealed itself wonderfully to him. It sent him out from the woods, only to show these revelations through his art, and it took him to itself at last.

"His fellow artists and other friends and admirers join gladly in this tribute to his character and genius.

"His body is buried at Owen Sound, Ontario, near where he was born, August, 1877."

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat

The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by helping her raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.

There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or Fuel Gas as Petrol Substitute.

The shortage of petrol, as gasoline is known abroad, occasioned by the enormous quantities needed on the battle fronts, has resulted, in England, in the introduction of a fuel alternative. In England the use of motorcycles for private use necessarily came to a standstill when the gasoline became acute. But it is reported that motorcyclists there soon discovered that coal gas would serve just as well. A gas container in the form of a balloon is hoisted on steel supports above the machine, giving the whole outfit the appearance of a zeppelin pup.

They are popularly termed "balloon bikes," and are said to operate much more cheaply on coal gas than on gasoline. The possibilities that might result from a meeting between this new contraption and a good broadside gale can only be imagined, but there would undoubtedly be no lack of thrills.—Exchange.

Activity of Russian Women.

As Russia was the first country where women were given control over their inherited property, and as Petrograd has had for some years the largest medical college for women in Europe, it is not strange that women have taken such an active part in the military campaigns. In all the revolutionary movements the women students have been made dangerous perhaps, to the government, than the men. It is believed that the majority of the women amazons are evolutionists and that their military experience was sought for the opportunity it gave them to spread their doctrine.

KING LEWANIKA'S STATE BOAT

Royal Craft Is 100 Feet Long, Carries Monster Elephant Emblem, Court Jester and Musicians.

"While traveling in Rhodesia," writes a contributor in the Wide World Magazine, "I managed to get a glimpse of King Lewanika's state barge. The chief of the Barotse is a fine fellow, but I was much amused one afternoon to see him going out for a row attired in a top hat and a gaudy dressing gown.

"Soon after the rains commence the Barotse valley is flooded and natives migrate to the sandy belt some miles away for the season. The king always makes the trip in the royal barge, an enormous craft about 100 feet long. In the center are two compartments, both covered in, one being the living room and the other the sleeping quarters. On the roof of one of these compartments is erected a monster elephant, as a sort of kingly emblem, while on the other stands the court jester, who, on this occasion, amused the populace by pretending to hunt and shoot the elephant. A band of 20 musicians were accommodated on the barge, in addition to whom there were 50 or 60 paddlers and a host of bailers, for the barge was by no means watertight. To the accompaniment of weird music and barbaric song the huge craft was propelled along on its journey, the return voyage taking place four or five months later."

QUESTIONNAIRE FOR DRAFT MEN

New Order Provided for Further Calls from Remaining Men Registered.

PLAN MORE SIMPLE THAN THAT USED ON FIRST CALL

Selective Principle More Fully Developed than Heretofore—Next Draft Not Probable This Year

Washington, Oct. 22.—President Wilson has approved the new draft regulations which will be promulgated to govern the selection of the remainder of registered men for the national army. The new plan aims to classify each of the nine million not yet drafted in his place in the national scheme of defense and to postpone the drafting of men most needed in war industries and those having dependents.

To each registered man a questionnaire will be sent for him to fill out and return to his local board. Upon perusal of the questionnaire, he will be assigned to one of five classes. If he is dissatisfied with the position assigned him by the local board he has the right of appeal to the district board to change his status.

Class number one, the first from which the armies will be drawn, will include all physically fit men who have nothing to keep them from serving. Class number two will include those less fit or those engaged in an industry necessary to the prosecution of the war; class three, those still less fit or highly skilled operators; class four will contain men who should be the last to be taken. Class number five will be known as the "discard class" and in it will be placed those wholly unfit for military service, either on account of total physical disability or indispensability to the government.

A statement issued by Provost Marshal General Crowder indicates that the new methods will be greatly simplified as compared to those used in last summer's draft. A further statement as to ample time being provided for the study of the new system by local draft boards is taken to indicate that a further call of men will probably not be made before the first of the year.

SURVIVORS DESCRIBE LOSS OF TRANSPORT ANTILLES

High Praise of Ship's Officers Heard as Rescued Men Reach French Port

A French port, Oct. 22.—Survivors of the United States transport Antilles, which was sunk by a German submarine while being convoyed on her homeward trip by American warships, were landed here yesterday by auxiliary vessels and are being cared for by the American consulate. Some have gone to Paris.

The torpedo struck the ship at 7:15 Wednesday morning. Many of those on board were killed in their berths and others were killed while dressing. The explosion killed the engineers, oilers and mechanics and those of the crew who were in bunks below.

Survivors praise the captain and members of the crew, who stuck to their posts while the officers searched with field glasses for the submarine until the waves closed over the ship. When the Antilles sank, forty or fifty men were at the stern. Most of them leaped fifty feet or more into the sea as the stern rose to a perpendicular position, and some were drawn down by the suction of the sinking vessel. The sea was running high, making it difficult to save the crew and passengers. Some survivors, clinging to debris, were in the water an hour before they were sighted by the lifeboats.

PREMIER KERENSKY APPLAUDED

Makes Address as Preliminary Parliament Is Opened

Petrograd, Oct. 22.—Premier Kerensky on opening the Russian preliminary parliament Saturday made a ringing speech in which he said, "Russia wants peace by right but we never will bow our heads to force." This declaration was warmly applauded by the members of all political factions. Continuing, he said: "We must fight only to save the country." The Bolsheviki left only occasionally applauded. Many members, including some of the leading constitutional democrats were silent.

After his address the premier offered the presidential chair to Madame Catherine Breshkovskaya, the "grandmother of the revolution," as she is the senior member of the preliminary parliament. She received a great ovation as temporary chairman and after a speech, invited the assembly to elect its president. M. Avskentieff, chairman of the executive committee of the Council of Peasants' Delegates, was elected.

French Get Four Zeppelins.

Paris, Oct. 22.—Four out of a fleet of eight German zeppelins sailing over France were brought down and destroyed or captured. The fleet is believed to be the same which had previously raided England, having lost its way on the return journey. The disaster is one of the most severe that has yet befallen the big German dirigibles.

Time to Fight Mice.

The time to fight mice is when your house is still rid of them. First make a hard and fast rule that not a crumb of food is left exposed in kitchen, pantry or cupboard. See also that in the bedrooms of your home no wafers or other tasty bits are left where a mouse might get them and thus find encouragement to take up his permanent abode there.

The next thing to do is to cut off the means of entrance to your home, and this is done by seeing that there are no loose passageways into the cellar or open cavities in the wall or loose woodwork. As a final resource you will perhaps have to choose between a mouse trap and a cat. It all depends on your affinity for the feline pet which you will do. But remember that, whereas permitting mice to lodge in your house was formely only an act of slothful neglect, it is now one of the crimes of wastefulness, of which no patriotic woman should be guilty.—Exchange.

His Enforced Absence.

A Columbus correspondent tells us an anecdote in which the names must be suppressed, but which is none the less true and moral, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A state senator died during the session, and a committee was appointed to accompany the body back to the old home of the decedent. Two of the committee met in the state house that afternoon.

"Are you going to take this trip?" asked one.

"Yes. I can ill afford the time, but I believe it to be my duty. Are you going?"

"Yes, I feel as you do. It will take a whole day, but I wouldn't feel right if I didn't go. Will Senator X accompany us?"

"No. He says he is too busy, and besides he doesn't drink."

Melancholy Thoughts.

"The falling leaves fill me with melancholy thoughts," said the poetic person. "They used to have that effect on me," said the unpoetic person. "What changed you?" "I moved into an apartment and don't have to rake them any more."

Chicago restricts religious meetings in the streets.

Rasputin's Religious System.

The Christian Advocate reports the Countess von Schaumberg as giving this succinct sketch of Rasputin's theology:

"He made fundamental the doctrine that there was 'no salvation without repentance,' and as the righteous need no repentance, the best preparedness for salvation was a heavy course in sin. 'Blessed are the sinful, for they shall be saved through repentance,' was his diabolic beatitude. No wonder he had followers, or that he gave practical lessons in sinning as a means of grace."

Wooden Bedsteads.

Furniture manufacturing has been greatly stimulated in South Africa in recent months. Because the steel tube factories of England have been engaged in making munitions the South African furniture market shows many wooden bedsteads.

An Army Dentist.

A gunner of the Garrison artillery, who had successfully passed a blacksmith's course, was home on furlough, bearing the hammer and pincers on his arm, when he was accosted by a civilian, who asked what the decoration was for.

"Oh," replied Tommy, "I'm an army dentist!"

"I see," said the civilian. "Of course, the pincers are for extracting teeth. But what is the idea of the hammer?"

"Well, you see, it's like this. Some of the chaps are a bit nervous, so we use the hammer to chloroform them with," was the reply.—London Tit-Bits.

Kindness.

Private Simkins had returned from the front to find that his girl had been walking out with another young man, and naturally asked her to explain her frequent promenades in the town with the gentleman.

"Well, dear," she replied. "It was only kindness on his part. He took me down every day to the library to see if you was killed."

Your Neighbors and Friends are Watching YOU

Dont be a Slacker

CAN you look the world squarely in the face and feel you have done your full duty?

Are you buying every Liberty Bond you can afford?

Your right to Liberty and happiness has been attacked. If your boy, whom you have sent to the front to fight for you is not given enough munitions and provisions to hold back the German horde, the fate of your home will be the fate of the homes of Belgium.

Your boy has staked his life for your country. If you do not stake your money by buying a Liberty Bond his life may be sacrificed to your selfishness!

Buying a Liberty Bond does not mean giving your money. It means loaning your money and receiving every cent of it back with 4% interest.

Liberty Bonds are backed by all of the resources of the richest government in the world and are the safest investment man has ever known. Purchases of Liberty Bonds up to $5000 are exempt from government taxes.

Liberty Bonds may be purchased in any amounts in units of $50. The share of every American family on the second Liberty Loan is $150.

If you know of a man or a woman who has not bought his full share of Liberty Bonds, do not be afraid to call him a slacker!

Your neighbors and your friends are watching you. Your boy has staked his all. If this bond issue should fail—if our army should not be equipped—the day will surely come when with your home gone—your money taken from you—and the lives of your women and children in jeopardy, you will ask yourself: "Why didn't I heed that warning in my own newspaper and act before it was too late?"

Any bank, post office or department store will sell you a bond today.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Take Notice

The postal laws require that all letters, post and postal cards must be stamped with the right amount of stamps before being put in the mail boxes for the rural carrier to pick up. Now that the weather is cold the carriers are unable to handle money with their mittens on and the law does not require them to do so. Please keep a supply of stamps on hand, then you have them when you need them. From now on all letters require a three cent (3c) stamp and all postal and post cards two cents (2cts) postage. Therefore a regular U. S. Postal Card stamped with one cent postage will require another 1c stamp.

The law requires that the weeds and brush must be cut along the side of the road so that the snow will not drift in them. The roads must be kept open, or the carrier is not obliged to deliver the mail.

Efficiency.

After many trials and tribulations Mrs. Timson had managed to get a "maid" of sorts.

"Now, Thurza," said she, "be careful about the water. We only use the well water for drinking, as we have to pay a man to pump it. The rain water is good enough for washing up and so on."

After tea Mrs. Timson asked:

"Did you remember about the water, Thursza?"

"Oh, yes, m'm," said Thurza. "I filled the kettle half full of water from the butt and the other half with water from the well. I thought that bottom half might as well be getting hot at the same time for washing up after tea."—San Francisco Argonaut.

OFFICIAL U. S. REPORT

First Statement Issued By American Headquarters Is Made Public.—Helmeted Infantry Given Wild Greeting.

With the American Army in France, Oct. 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Following is the first official statement issued by the American headquarters:

"In continuation of their training, as a nucleus for instruction later, a contingent of some battalions of our first contingents in association with veteran French battalions, are in the first line trenches of a quiet sector, on the French front. They are supported by our batteries of our artillery in association with veteran French batteries.

"The sector remains normal. Our men have adapted themselves to actual trench conditions in the most satisfactory manner."

First Shot Fired at Germans.

American troops are in the first line trenches on the French front. The artillery fired the first shot of the war at 6 a. m. of a recent day, at a German working party. There has been intermittent artillery fighting since.

The helmeted infantry marched in, without the knowledge of the enemy on the same night, through rain and mud. The French soldiers in the trenches welcomed them enthusiastically.

Casualty List Coming.

The nearest enemy trench is several hundred yards away. The sector is one of the quietest of the front. It has not been taken over, being under the control of troops under the direction of the French.

The Americans have shelled German positions and troops, the enemy sending shell for shell. The first casualty list will be sent President Wilson.

The empty case of the first shell fired will be sent to President Wilson. It is now in the possession of General Sibert. The shot was fired by a red haired gunner as his comrades in the ranks and the assembled officers cheered. Later a luncheon in the field was attended by the American and French artillerists in celebration of the First American contact with the enemy.

Get Benefit of Actual Warfare.

The gun used in firing the first shot was one of the famous French 75s. On the second day the French shelled a German battery position which was located by sound and the enemy replied vigorously, projectiles falling close to the Americans who joined in the artillery duel. All the troops will be relieved after a certain period by others. Thus the American expeditionary forces are getting the benefit of actual war conditions.

Standing in a little, almost deserted shell wrecked village well within hostile gun range and a few kilometers from the trenches, the Associated Press correspondent watched the troops marching up in a driving rain over roads covered with sticky mud. The artillery had been firing all day and as a result the impression was given that there was considerable more activity on this front than there had been for some time.

Missouri Mules There.

It was soon after lulls in the firing and after dark that the first machine guns hauled by Missouri mules, the drivers swathed in slickers and with shrapnel helmets over their eyes came up on the road beside a dark canal. There was a long line of these and then came some infantry rolling kitchens, giving off a savory odor of warm food. All passed in silence. The last gun carriage had sprawled on it the form of a soldier who had been taken ill and who was being held on by two of his walking comrades. Through another street paved with cobbles and its sides lined with gaunt skeletons of shell wrecked houses came the sound of the tread of many hobnailed boots and in the darkness the forms of men could be seen marching.

March As If On Parade.

The cautious flash of an electric pocket lamp disclosed that they were American infantry, packs on their backs, rifles slung on their shoulders, rain glistening on their helmets and coats, the wind whipping the bottom of their coats around their legs, which were moving with machinelike precision.

The Americans swung down the street apparently as proud as though on dress parade, notwithstanding that they had marched miles from the billets where they had been since coming

MAJOR GEN. SCOTT

Veteran goes to French Front as chief instruction officer.

Major General Hugh L. Scott, former chief of the United States army, has arrived in France and gone to the front. After his retirement last month as chief of staff, General Scott was made chief instruction officer of the new national army.

by motor truck and railway from the instruction centers. As the ranks passed every now and then a soldier could be heard whistling softly to himself, his nearby comrade listening silently to sentimental and popular pieces.

Go Into Battle Whistling.

Finally from the rear came the whistled strain of a tune which all knew and from many places in the ranks whistles and voices joined in. The tune was "Tipperary." It lasted briefly as an officer turning, ordered "Stop that noise!"

As the Germans were near by much depended on approaching the scene quietly. The troops turned a corner and disappeared down an ink black screened road. As a major standing there listened he looked continuously at an illuminated watch dial. He said:

"The men from the other direction should now be entering the trenches. I have been standing here waiting to hear if the Germans discovered the movement." He paused, listened and then continued:

"There is no firing yet, although I expect it, for no doubt we are in for a 'strafe' if the 'boche' knows we are going in."

French Greeting Cordial.

No "strafe" developed although the Germans put over a few customary shells, hitting nothing.

The troops entered the trenches safely, unit by unit passing quickly to the places assigned them. Quietness was essential but the French welcome none the less was heard and it was enthusiastic. Every American was shaken by the hand, some were hugged and, even kissed on both cheeks in the French custom. Some of the French troops were those who helped to train the Americans. The trenches were found to be muddy but nevertheless in a condition of excellent construction. Greetings being over, the Americans settled down and at daylight, under low hung dripping clouds, they got their first view of the German lines stretching away in the rolling terrain.

One American battery observed and scattered a marching enemy group with shell fire.

Y. W. C. A. To Protect Morals.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Young women and girls of this country, and of France and Russia, are to be safeguarded from the moral risks of the war. This is the task before the sectional conferences of the Young Women's Christian association. Delegates from the central and north central fields—Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, North and South aDkota, Nebraska and Iowa—were in session here Saturday, while similar meetings are being held in other cities.

REJECTS ST. PAUL INVITATION

Wilson Says "Clearly It Is My Duty To Remain Here."

St. Paul, Oct. 29.—President Wilson has had to decline the invitation to attend a patriotic rally in St. Paul November 8.

President Wilson's letter received by Governor Burnquist follows:

"My Dear Governor Burnquist.

"Thank you for your cordial telegram urging me to accept the St Paul invitation. If I were free, I should be glad to accept, but clearly it is my duty to remain here.

"Cordially and sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

ALL U. S. MAY SALUTE FLAG

Chicago, Oct 29.—Mrs Lillian Bell, president of the Children's Patriotic League of America, says she has received the promise of Congressman George E. Foss of Illinois to introduce at the next session of congress a bill providing that the army salute—hand to the hat brim when the flag is six paces away and not removed until it has gone six paces past—be required of every one.

The league of which Mrs. Bell is the head plans to enroll every club in America in patriotic service.

Warns of Incendiary Plot.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Intimation that a widespread conspiracy exists to destroy livestock and grain in stockyards and elevators in the middle west, was contained in a telegram received by Harry A. Wheeler, Illinois food administrator, from Hoover. Hoover urged Wheeler to warn packers and grain men against incendiary fires and other means of destruction and advised him to take up the plan of having all stockyards and elevators patroled by home guards.

ATROCITIES AS THEY EXIST

Orphaned Children, Homeless Families, Devastated Towns, Marked Germany's Path in Belgium.

The Germans entered Belgium in August and September, 1914; we began to come in November. Hence we saw none of the atrocities of the invasion—we saw only results of them, writes Vernon Kellogg in the Atlantic. Among these results, as soon by us, were, I hasten to say, no women without breasts or children without hands. But there were women without husbands and sons and daughters and children without mothers and fathers. There were families without homes, farms without cattle or horses or houses; towns without town halls and churches and most of the other buildings, and even some without any buildings at all, and a few without many citizens. But there were cemeteries with scores and hundreds of new graves—not of soldiers; and little toddling children who came up eagerly to you, saying, "Mon pere est mort; ma mere est mort." They were distinguished from some of their playmates by this, you see!

And we had to hear—and endure—the stories, the myriad stories, of the relicts of Dinant, Vise, Tamines, Andennes and all the rest. Of course there were stories exaggerated unintentionally, simply by the inevitable inaccuracies that come from excitement and mental stress. But there were stories that were true, all true.

Their Favorite Wine.

"An American 'Sammie' is as fond of his wine as a German soldier," I remarked to an old sailor friend.

"Yes," he agreed, "but an American sailor doesn't like the same kind of wine that a German sailor likes."

"Why, how's that, uncle?" I asked.

"Well, you see," he answered with a chuckle, "the German sailors like to stick to 'port.'"

Bound to Get There.

"In spite of the fine war-training the editor has had at home—meaning in his particular household—the army people turned him down three times," says the Adams Enterprise, "but he hasn't lost hope; he's going to get in that war somehow! They shouldn't discriminate against a man who is merely gray headed from worry."—The Atlanta Constitution.

ALL MEN AT HOME SHOULD PREPARE FOR WAR

The first test a man is put thru for either war or life insurance is an examination of his water. This is most essential because the kidneys play a most important part in causing premature old age and death. The more injurious the poisons passing thru the kidneys the sooner comes decay—so says Dr. Pierce of Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., who further advise all people who are past thirty to preserve the vitality of the kidneys and free the blood from poisonous elements, such as uric acid—drink plenty of water—sweat some daily and take Anuric, double strength, before meals.

This An-u-ric is a late discovery of Dr. Pierce and is put up in tablet form, and can be obtained at almost any drug store. For that backache, lumbago, rheumatism, "rusty" joints, swollen feet or hands, due to uric acid in the blood, Anuric quickly dissolves the uric acid as hot water does sugar. Take a little Anuric before meals and prolong your life. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for trial package of Anuric. Large package 60 cents.

WHEN IT LOOKS DARK to any weak or ailing woman, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to her help. For "female complaints," pains, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down sensations, and all chronic weaknesses and derangements, this is the proven remedy. Its' the only medicine put up without alcohol—ingredients on wrapper. Liquid or tablets. All Druggists. Tablets 60c.

An easily procured vegetable pill is made up of May-apple, the dried juice of the leaves of aloes, and the root of jalap, made into a tiny pellet and coated with sugar. It was first put into ready-to-use form by Dr. Pierce nearly 50 years ago. Almost every drug store in this country sells these vegetable pellets in vials for 30c—simply ask for Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They have Dr. R. V. Pierce stamp.

His Bright Idea.

"Now, look here, Mr. Mikey! This won't do! You haven't paid any rent for over a month."

"I'm sorry, but I really can't pay just now," replied Mikey.

"You're the third one today with that 'yarn!" exclaimed the landlord, "and I can't afford such a loss. You must see what you can do to help me!"

"All right—I will! I will write you tonight," answered Mikey.

Next morning the landlord eagerly opened the letter, expecting to find a remittance, but this is what he read:

"Dear Sir: I've thought it over, and the only thing I can suggest, to diminish your loss, is to lower the rent."

The Turtle's Choice.

The auto had skidded and upset. An Irishman came up and said to another in the crowd: "What's the excitement, Pat?"

"Shure, an automobile has turned turtle."

"Turned turtle, is it?" said the newcomer. "Begad, that must be the rayson it chose a mud puddle."

What He's Going to Be.

"Yes," said the nice little old lady, "I am much interested in the war. I have two nieces who are going to be Red Cross nurses, and one fine nephew who is now at Ft. Sheridan studying to be an Armenian."

The less a man says the more guessing his wife has to do.

Suffered For Years
Back and Kidneys Were in Bad Shape, But Doan's Removed all the Trouble.

"My kidneys were so weak that the least cold I caught would affect them and start my back aching until I could hardly endure the misery," says Mrs. D. C. Ross, 973 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y. "In the morning when I first got up, my back was so lame, I could hardly bend over and any move sent darts of pain through my kidneys. It was hard for me to walk up stairs or stoop, and to move while lying down sent darts of pain through me.

MRS. ROSS

"The kidney secretions were scanty and distressing and the water remained in my system, making my feet and hands swell. There were dark circles under my eyes and I became so dizzy I could hardly see. I had rheumatic pains in my knees and it was all I could do to get around. For years I was in that shape and I wore plasters and used all kinds of medicine to no avail until I tried Doan's Kidney Pills. They rid me of the trouble and strengthened my back and kidneys. When I have taken Doan's since, they have always benefited me."

TEUTONS SHAKE ITALIAN FRONT

Invaders Break Through Mountain Passes and Increase Prisoners To 100,000.

ENEMY TAKES CIVIDALE

Gorizia Is Also Captured By Germans—Second and Third Armies Declared To Be In Retreat.

Rome, Oct. 30.—The Italians are checking the advance of the Austro-German troops into the plains of Northern Italy, the war office announces.

The Italian troops are fulfilling their duty and all movements ordered by the general staff are being carried out, the statement says.

Allies Take Steps To Aid.

Steps have been taken for rendering the fullest possible assistance to the Italians, is the message sent from London.

The French war committee is meeting to determine what can be done.

Italians Lack Cannon.

Whether General Cadorna, outnumbered nearly four to one, can check the spectacular onrush of Von Mackensen and the Teuton hordes, depends, military authorities in Washington believe, entirely upon the number of big guns the Allies are able to get to the Italians before the next great battle begins. That will be along the Tagliamento river, where General Cadorna is expected to make his stand.

Ammunition Supply Short.

Most of the 700 cannon lost by General Cadorna were taken without having fired a shot because of lack of ammunition, Italian cables to Washington said.

Entire Italian Line Shaken.

London, Oct. 30.—The entire Italian line, from the Julian Alps region to the Adriatic sea is being shaken by the Austro-German army under command of Emperor Charles, who has as his chief assistant Field Marshal von Mackensen.

Pressing back the Italians on Italian soil, the combined enemy forces now have pushed forward on the Italian left wing and captured Cividale, northeast of Udine, and are nearing the plains beyond. The Austrian town of Gorizia, a point of great strategic value on the Isonzo river had been retaken from the Italians.

Berlin official communications say 100,000 Italians have been made prisoner and over 700 guns have fallen into Austro-German hands. The second and third Italian armies are declared to be in retreat.

Rome Admits Defeat.

Rome admits the falling back of the second army, asserting that cowardice like that shown by the Russians in Galicia was exhibited in the face of the foe, the Italians surrendering or retreating without giving battle, permitting the breaking of the left wing and thereby offering easy access to the town of Cividale. Before falling back the Italians destroyed all their depots and stores. Cividale was on fire when the Austro Germans entered it.

Possibly the Italians in this region who are declared by Rome to be retreating to prepared positions on the plains, will turn about and meet the enemy in open country fighting.

Situation Most Grave.

If they do not and the enemy is able to keep up westward the fast pace maintained since the operation began, the greater part of the Italians along the northeastern line will be threatened with capture. So grave is the situation that a special meeting of the French cabinet has been held to decide the question of Allied co-operation on the Italian front.

SOFT COAL PRICE IS RAISED

Advance of 45c Ordered by Wilson on Recommendation.

Washington, Oct 30.—To meet the demands of coal miners for wage increases, President Wilson, by executive order, has added 45 cents a ton to all the government proclaimed prices for bituminous coal. The new prices go into effect at once.

The president's action was based on a recommendation from Fuel Administrator H. A. Garfield, who urged the increases after a careful investigation of the coal mining and labor situation throughout the country.

Germans Sink Boat to Avoid Seizure.

Rio Janeiro, Oct. 30.—The Germans set on fire and sank the German gunboat Eber, 984 tons, which has been lying at the port of Bahia, fearing seizure of the gunboat by the Brazilian authorities. Brazilian torpedo boat destroyers had been ordered to take possession of the Eber.

Slav Railway Demoralization Increases.

Petrograd, Oct. 30.—M. Andsberg, manager of the exploitation department of the ministry of ways and communications, in an interview regarding the critical state of the Russian railroads, declared total shipments during July, August and September were less than during last January and February. Many trains are idle for lack of locomotives, while anarchic conditions on the railroads had reached such a state that the executive heads were resigning and on some of the roads virtually the entire staffs had drawn out.

Answered.

The motorist was looking disconsolately at his car that lay helplessly on its side on the border of a small plowed field. It had obviously skidded off the road.

Presently a passer-by of the genial kind that will ask senseless questions came along.

"Hello! Have you had an accident?"

"No," returned the exasperated motorist. "I've just bought a new car, so I brought the old one out to bury it in this field. Got a pickaxe and shovel in your pocket you could lend me?"—Answers.

Jim Garry believes that if you don't like a job, quit the job. Jim enlisted in the Sixth regiment and soldiered for 17 days, when he got leave to go home. A few days later the Sixth got back Jim's uniform, and the whole outfit. A note accompanied it. It read:

"I've thought it over and decided I don't want to be a soldier. So I quit now. My outfit is on the way."

But the soldier's job is one job you can't quit when you want to. So Jim is back in the ranks, trying to like it.—Toledo News-Bee.

A Suspicious Note.

A school teacher felt that she had every right to feel suspicious when a young boy pupil presented her with a note written in a boyish scrawl which read as follows:

"Mis Jones pleas let Johnny out of school this afternoon as I want to go to the ball game.

Johnny's mother, Mis Perkins."

Bayberry Shrub.

The plant from which the bayberry candle is made is the shrub Myrcia cerifera, a plant which is common in New England, and especially along the coast of Maine. The bayberry shrub is not closely related to the Myrcia acris, or West India bay, from the leaves of which bay rum is obtained by distillation.

Invented in 1589.

The knitting frame was invented in 1589 by William Lee, a graduate of Cambridge university and a native of Woodborough, near Nottingham, England. So perfect was the invention in every detail that to this day the essential features of the machine continue in use for the class of work to which Lee applied it.

EVERYONE PAYING TO CRUSH ENEMY

New War Tax Squeezes Purse of Wage Earner, but All Must Help.

KAISER TO BLAME FOR COST

Mad Prussia Must Be Broken Before Conflict Can End—Good Patriots Steel Selves for Sacrifice and Then Victory.

Postage.—Three cents an ounce or fraction thereof on letters for other than local delivery; two cents on all postal cards.

Admissions—Ten per cent tax on tickets to theaters, cabarets, and other amusement places.

Dues—Ten per cent tax on dues of clubs exceeding $12 a year.

Tobacco—Graduated taxes on cigars, tobacco, cigarettes, cigarette papers and snuff.

Express—Five per cent tax on amounts paid for express transportation.

Passengers—Eight per cent of the cost of railroad tickets, except local.

Berths—Ten per cent of the cost of berths, staterooms, and parlor car seats.

Oil—Five per cent tax on amounts paid for transportation of oil by pipe lines.

Messages—Five cents tax on each telegraph, telephone, or radio message costing 15 cents or more.

Insurance—Eight cents tax on each $100 or fractional part thereof of each life insurance policy; one per cent of the premium on fire, marine, inland, and casualty insurance policies.

Washington.—Uncle Sam is rather pleasantly surprised at the way the nation is standing the war tax gaff. The grouching, such as there is, has been growled in a minor key, and most of it comes from the trouble-makers, the whining pacifists, those of a sickly cast of loyalty.

Nobody really enjoys paying excess taxes, such as three cents postage for letters, extra charge for freight, express and passenger transportation, telephone and telegraph messages and amusements. But all true Americans who realize that the kaiser is to blame for the trouble, stand ready and willing to pay their share of the cost of exterminating the world's greatest menace.

By the way, do you know that if you are single and earn more than $1,000 yearly, you must pay two per cent tax on what you make over $1,000. And if you are married, you must pay two per cent on what you make over $2,000. The tax for all of 1917 must be paid by June 1, 1918.

All of the new taxes fall upon the average man. They have nothing to do with the "conscription" of wealth." They are a part of the program of taxation to make each man, woman and child in the United States feel a direct personal part in the war. They apply to freight, passenger and express transportation, pipe lines, Pullman seats and berths, telegraph and telephone messages, insurance policies, admissions to theaters and "movies" and to club dues. The effect of most of them is felt, therefore, in a slight rise in the high cost of living.

The taxes are expected to net the federal government the following revenues:

Freight transportation	$77,500,000
Express transportation	10,000,000
Passenger transportation	60,000,000
Pipe lines	4,500,000
Seats and berths	4,000,000
Telegraph and telephone messages	7,000,000
Insurance policies	5,000,000
Club dues	1,500,000
Admissions	50,000,000

The war tax on facilities furnished by public utilities is now levied as follows:

Three per cent of the amount paid for transportation by rail or water or by any form of mechanical motor power in competition with carriers by rail or water, on freight consigned from one point in the United States to another.

One cent for each twenty cents or fraction charged by express companies for transportation from one point in the United States to another.

Eight per cent of the amount paid for the transportation of persons by rail or water or by any form of mechanical motor power on a regular established line in competition with common carriers, from one point in the United States to any point in the United States, Canada or Mexico where the ticket is issued in the United States. No tax is imposed on commutation or season tickets for trips less than 30 miles, or in cases where the fare does not exceed 35 cents.

Ten per cent of the amount paid for seats, berths or staterooms.

If a mileage book used for transportation or accommodation was purchased prior to November 1, 1917, or if cash fare is paid, the conductor or agent collecting the fare is required to collect the tax.

Five per cent on the amount paid for the transportation of oil by pipe line.

Five cents for each telegraph, telephone or radio dispatch originating in the United States where the charge is 15 cents or more.

The foregoing taxes are paid by the persons paying for the services or facilities rendered. A carrier making no charge for transporting a commodity because of its ownership thereof, or for any other reason, is required to pay a tax equivalent to the amount which would be imposed if it received payment, except in the case of commodities which are necessary for its use in the conduct of its business or the business of another line constituting a part of the same railroad system. Service rendered to the federal and state governments is exempt from taxation. Persons collecting these taxes are required to make monthly returns and monthly payments to the federal government.

The new levies upon insurance take effect in the following manner:

On life insurance, eight cents on each $100 or fraction of the amount of the policy, except industrial insurance policies not in excess of $500 issued on the weekly payment plan, in which case the tax is 40 per cent of the first weekly premium. Policies of re-insurance are exempt.

On marine, inland and fire insurance, one cent on each dollar or fraction of the premium charged under each policy including renewals, but not including policies of re-insurance.

Casualty insurance, one cent on each dollar or fraction of the premium charged under each policy (except indemnity and surety bonds, which are taxable under another title of the bill) including renewals, but not including re-insurance policies.

Policies issued by any corporation exempt from the income tax are exempt from this tax.

The person, partnership or association issuing such policies of insurance is required to make monthly returns and monthly payments to the government.

For every ten cents or fraction thereof you spend on the movies you must turn over to the government one cent. Of course, the movie proprietors may save you the inconvenience of handling pennies by raising his admission price a nickel, as many other persons selling goods affected by the war tax have already done.

Here is the way admission tax and the club dues levies will fall upon the public:

One cent on each ten cents or fraction of the amount paid for admission to any place including admission by season ticket or subscription, to be paid by the person paying for such admission, except in the case of children under twelve, where the tax in every case is one cent. Persons admitted free pay the tax on the basis of the charge made to other persons of the same class, except employees, municipal officers on official business and children under twelve. Where the charge for admission to a cabaret or similar entertainment is wholly or in part included in the price paid for refreshment, service or merchandise, the amount paid is to be computed under regulations to be prescribed by the treasury department.

In the case of persons having the permanent use of boxes or seats, or a lease thereon, the tax is equivalent to 10 per cent of the amount for which a similar box or seat is sold for the performance or exhibition at which the box or seat is used or reserved by or for the lessee or holder.

These taxes are not to be imposed in the case of a place where the maximum charge for admission is five cents or for shows, rides or other amusements in outdoor general amusement parks where the admission is ten cents or in the case of shows, rides or other amusements (the maximum charge for admission to which is ten cents) within outdoor general amusement parks, or in the case of admissions to such parks. Where the proceeds inure exclusively to the benefit of religious, educational or charitable societies or organizations, and in the case of admissions to agricultural fairs, no tax shall be levied, provided none of the proceeds are distributed to stockholders or members of the association.

A tax of 10 per cent is imposed on the amount paid as dues or membership fees, including initiation fees, to any social, athletic or sporting club where such dues or fees are in excess of $12 per year, such tax to be paid by the person paying the dues or fees. Dues or fees paid to fraternal or beneficiary societies orders or associations operated on the lodge system are exempt.

Those collecting admission dues or fees are required to collect the tax and make monthly returns and payments to the government.

Greatest Thing in the World.

Love has been called the greatest thing in the world, but the greatest thing in the world is not a thing at all; the greatest thing is a person. Personality is the greatest thing in the world. The greatest thing in personality is not strength of body nor strength of mind. It is strength of heart. "Clever people are as common as blackberries, the rare things to find a good one." It is not Daniel Webster's brain, but Lincoln's heart, that wins a nation's love.—Exchange.

Antoine Watteau, one of France's foremost artists, painted his celebrated decorative panels while dying of the white man's scourge. He sprang from humble and poverty-stricken surroundings, and was forced to work on the brink of starvation for the greater part of his thirty-seven years. Just as his fame rose to national proportions his tubercular condition became worse and he worked desperately during his last few years to complete as much work as possible before he died.

PERSHING'S MEN IN FIRST CLASH

3 U. S. Soldiers Killed, Five Wounded and 12 Captured In First Real Battle.

DETAILS ARE MEAGER

German Forces Launch Desperate Effort to Overcome New Enemy As Soon As Position Is Learned.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Three Americans were killed, five wounded and 12 captured or missing when armed forces under the American flag had their first clash with German soldiers in an attack which the Germans made on first line trenches where the United States troops had been taken for instructions.

The War department made this known on receipt of a dispatch from General Pershing, showing that the German forces soon after learning the position of the new enemy from overseas, had launched a desperate effort to overcome them.

Heavy Barrage Fire.

The Teuton attack came in the form of a heavy barrage fire which isolated a salient of the American trench, and apparently left a small force of Americans at the mercy of their enemies. That the American soldiers fought gamely is shown by Pershing's report of a prisoner being taken by them.

How some of his troops escaped bringing this German back with them is not told in the brief dispatch of the American commander.

No Names of Casualties.

The United States troops were taken in charge of veteran French soldiers to quiet portion of the long line that runs from the North sea to Switzerland, and for a few days conditions were normal. Cable dispatches have been telling of artillery activity somewhat above "normal," but still not of anything like the furious fire on other portions of the front. A rather cryptic announcement told of "North American" prisoners being brought in, and this is taken here to refer to the soldiers whom General Pershing's dispatch says are captured or missing.

Allies Warned Americans.

Many French and British military writers have warned America that Germany would hurl terrific blows at the Americans as soon as news of their location reached the German side, and when the Americans went into the trenches War department officials here predicted this might happen. It was pointed out that this was a favorite trick of the Germans when the British territorials from Canada or Australia went into the trenches for the first time.

John F. Hylan, candidate of Tammany hall with his only newspaper support coming from the publications owned by William Randolph Hearst, announced his election as assured.

William M. Bennett, who won the Republican nomination from Mayor Mitchel in the primaries, asserted he was confident of election.

TEUTON PLOT TO CLOG MAILS

Chain Scheme of Letters Being Probed by Secret Service.

New York, Nov. 6.—A plot, the apparent purpose of which is to clog the mails, both domestic and foreign is under investigation by the secret service, it is learned.

The scheme, which calls for flooding the mails with millions of letters, each letter a link in one of a dozen or more chains, is said to have originated in Boston.

Some of the letters which have fallen into the hands of the government it is said, are out-and-out German propaganda documents, while others are on their face harmless affairs, usually prayers for peace, or for the protection of American soldiers and sailors in Europe.

War May Force Standard Shoe

Washington, Nov. 6.—Russia is preparing to adopt a standard shoe for its civilian government workers in an effort to meet the situation created by the world shortage of leather. American manufacturers have been called upon to supply the demand and bids will be opened November 12 by an auxiliary committee of the Council of National Defense. France already has had a standard shoe, and in the opinion of leather experts the United States will be compelled to take similar action if the war continues long.

Peat Bogs in Ireland.

Ireland possesses 25,000,000 acres of peat bog—one-seventh the total area of the island. Much of this peat is concentrated in the center of the country, in the Bog of Allen, but there are also large tracts in other localities. To utilize this peat, not merely for domestic use, but also for power purposes, is a problem which has exercised the minds of prominent Irishmen for many years, and the department of scientific and industrial research appointed a committee, with Sir John Griffiths of Dublin as chairman to investigate the whole question. Some successful attempts have already been made in Ireland to deal with the substance on a commercial basis, but any efforts to utilize the deposits must always have regard to three circumstances—that peat contains and retains a large amount of water; that, compared with other fuels, it has a low caloric value, and that it is extremely bulky, involving a high cost of carriage.

Egotism.

The man who had built up the new town and was showing a prospective settler about the place pointed with pride to a pretty little church just completed.

Charm Is Necessary.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, the great French actress, in a signed article in Harper's Bazar, attributes the numerous divorces that have come into the courts of late years to lack of charm in the women concerned.

"If I stood at the threshold of life," says Mme. Bernhardt, "asking of it something with which to buy happiness, I should beg for charm. For if one has charm, she will be loved. And a woman must have love to be happy. Beauty does not matter. If a woman has charm she can secure whatever she wants—love, success, power."

The divine Sarah also says that this invaluable quality can be cultivated.

Different Kind of Pitch.

A woman who thought she was a singer was walking through a building where some workmen had left some pitch in such a position that she swept her dress against it and, of course, soiled the dress. "Oh, what shall I do to get it off?" she said to her woman friend. "Why don't you sing to it?" said her friend. "Why, what good would that do?" said the singer. "You always get off the pitch when you sing."

Artillery Firing Directly Across Canal Into German Territory Is Belief.

ENEMY FIRE RECKLESS

Costly Barrage Resorted to By Kaiser In Effort To Stop Harassing Tactics—Berlin Locates Scene of Raid.

New York, Nov. 5.—The German war office's location of the first raid on American trenches as along the Rhine-Marne canal, indicates that American artillery is now firing its shells directly on German territory.

Presence No Longer Secret.

The Western battle front crosses the Rhine-Marne canal within easy artillery range of the German boundary of Lorraine. By revealing the spot where Teutonic raiders found the American trenches, the kaiser has been compelled to permit the German people to know that America's first bombardment on the European battle fields must have caused demolition of positions upon the German empire's own soil.

German Ground Shelled.

The first announcement that American artillery had been engaged in action in France was made on October 27, while the date of the German raid on American trenches was November 3. For at least a week, therefore, before the Germans sent a patrol to investigate the sudden activity opposite the Lorraine border, American guns must have had German ground under actual or potential bombardment.

Explains Use of Barrage.

This is doubtless the reason why the Germans took such unusual measures to raid the American trench sector by providing a barrage artillery fire and cutting off the American victims from all possible help during the period of the raid. Artillery ammunition is too precious to Germany to be thrown away in this costly manner of attack. The damage, however, that American shells had probably been doing on German soil for at least a week makes explicable the apparently reckless expenditure of barrage fire to assist a party of raiders.

There was no way to fight the fire, as water itself will cause the bronze powder manufactured there to let go.

ADRIATIC SEA BATTLE IS HINTED BY ITALIANS

While Gen. Cadorna's forces are holding the invading Austro-German hordes along the Tagliamento, an Italian naval bulletin, referring to intense activity in the Gulf of Trieste, indicates that the Adriatic may soon be the scene of an important development on the turning point in the present struggle in that theater of the war.

Sailors' Pay Stolen, Charge

Chicago, Nov. 6.—An embezzlement of $3,000 of the funds of the paymaster's department of the Great Lakes naval training station became known when it was announced that the monthly disbursements of more than $1,000,000 has been held up for a week. The pay of more than 15,000 jackies has been delayed. Secret agents of the department of investigation as well as the naval station are assigned to the case. All of the paymaster's assistants are under bond and none has left the station.

Royal Baking Powder saves eggs in baking
In many recipes only half as many eggs are required, in some none at all, if an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder is used, about a teaspoon, in place of each egg omitted.
Try the following recipes which also conserve white flour as urged by the government.
Corn Meal Griddle Cakes
1½ cups corn meal
1½ cups boiling water
¾ cup milk
1 tablespoon shortening
1 tablespoon molasses
⅔ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
NO EGGS
Scald corn meal in bowl with boiling water; add milk, melted shortening and molasses; add flour, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together; mix well. Bake on hot greased griddle until brown.
(The Old Method called for 2 eggs)
Eggless, Milkless, Butterless Cake
1 cup brown sugar
1¼ cups water
1 cup seeded raisins
2 ounces citron, cut fine
⅓ cup shortening
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup flour
1 cup rye flour
5 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
Boil sugar, water, fruit, shortening, salt and spices together in saucepan 3 minutes. When cool, add flour and baking powder which have been sifted together. Mix well; bake in loaf pan in moderate oven about 45 minutes.
(The Old Method [Fruit Cake] called for 2 eggs)

Outdoor Barbering.

Shaving in the street was the way a Beckenham, Ireland, barber got over a difficulty recently. The customer was a wounded soldier, and the man's invalid chair was too wide to enter the barber shop. Accordingly the barber went to his customer, and shaved him in the street.

His Choice.

"Isn't it terrible the way prices keep going up?"

"It is. My husband said if it kept up he'd either have to work harder and make more money or eat less."

"What do you think he'll decide to do?"

"Knowing him as well as I do, my guess is that he'll decide it to be easier to eat less."

Housekeepers Can Save $200,000,000 on Food
In these days when the high cost of living pinches nearly every home, no waste should be overlooked. One of the most flagrant and the most easily prevented, is the destruction of food by rats. One rat will often do a hundred dollars damage of food and property in a single night, and a careful estimate gives over $200,000,000 as the value of foodstuffs destroyed annually by these pests. Exterminate them with Stearns' Paste and save this enormous loss of food. A small box of Stearns' Paste costs only 35 cents and is usually enough to completely rid the house of rats and mice; also effective against cockroaches and waterbugs. Adv.

Spoken With Feeling.

"How about your wife?"

"Eh?"

"You used to complain that she didn't know how to market. Wouldn't shop around, couldn't remember prices and all that."

"She does now. Prices nowadays are engraved on her heart."

Natural End.

"What has become of Professor [illegible]'s balloon school?"

"I hear it has gone up."

Least of Two Evils.

An employee in the office of a noisy munition plant was absent from work one morning. After luncheon, however, he presented himself. He looked pretty bad, but he claimed that he was ready for work.

"Why, what are you doing down here?" cried the boss. "Your wife telephoned that you probably wouldn't be able to work for several days. She said you were on the verge of nervous prostration, and that the least noise was bad for you. Why didn't you stay at home?"

"Well," answered the wage slave, raising his voice to be heard above the distracting din. "I did get through with the morning at home. But my wife had a bridge party this afternoon, so I thought I'd be better off down here."

"Georgie, Georgie, you mustn't act so when you are eating," said mamma at the breakfast table. "If you do, you will surely get something in your windpipe."

"Windpipe? H'm. What's my windpipe?"

"Don't you know what your windpipe is?" broke in the six-year-old brother. "Why, that's where your smoke comes from on cold days."

THE LAST EXAMINATION OF WAR'S DRAFT
Many a man has fallen down because a test of his water showed unmistakably that he had kidney disease.
The kidneys are the scavengers and they work day and night in separating the poisons from the blood. Their signals of distress are easily recognized and include such symptoms as backache, depressions, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic twinges, dropsy, gout.
"The very best way to restore the kidneys to their normal state of health and cure such symptoms," says Dr. Pierce of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., "is to drink plenty of water and obtain from your favorite pharmacy a small amount of An-u-ric, double strength, which is dispensed by almost every druggist." You will find Anuric more potent than lithia, dissolves uric acid almost as water does sugar. Large package 60 cents.
Send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial pkg. and ask for advice if there is need.

TO RESIST THE ATTACK of the germs of many diseases, such as Grip, Malaria, means fight or die for all of us. These germs are everywhere in the air we breathe. The odds are in favor of the germs, if the liver is inactive and the blood impure.
What is needed most is an increase in the germ-fighting strength. To do this successfully you need to put on healthy flesh, rouse the liver to vigorous action, so it will throw off these germs, and purify the blood so that there will be no "weak spot," or soil for germ growth.
We claim for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery that it does all this in a way peculiar to itself.
It cures troubles caused by torpid liver or impure blood. All druggists. Tablets 60c.

For Sale

A 1914 Carter car, in complete running order, with electric lights and self starter. Will sell cheap or consider a trade.

Holt, Minn.

Take Notice

The postal laws require that all letters, post and postal cards must be stamped with the right amount of stamps before being put in the mail boxes for the rural carrier to pick up. Now that the weather is cold the carriers are unable to handle money with their mittens on and the law does not require them to do so. Please keep a supply of stamps on hand, then you have them when you need them. From now on all letters require a three cent (3c) stamp and all postal and post cards two cents (2cts) postage. Therefore a regular U. S. Postal Card stamped with one cent postage will require another 1c stamp.

The law requires that the weeds and brush must be cut along the side of the road so that the snow will not drift in them. The roads must be kept open, or the carrier is not obliged to deliver the mail.

Nils Engebretsen, P. M.

Narrow Escape

Clarence Kolden narrowly escaped being killed last week Thursday eve when his auto turned turtle. He made the deal for the car at Fargo the same afternoon and was driving it home. At Eldred a traveling man asked for a ride to Crookston. Everything went fine for a few miles until they noticed the slippery clay at the approach to a bridge. Mr. Kolden slowed up, but when the wheels struck the slippery planks he was unable to control the car, altho he applied the brakes and tried in every way to do so, but it glided sideways off the bridge, which was about 8 feet high and had no railing or other protection, and overturned. He was pinned down by the car, which laid across his side, and he was unable to get loose and the weight of the car almost prevented breathing. The traveling man finally got out but was unable to lift the car off the injured man, so he ran towards a nearby house calling for help, which came quickly. Mr. Kolden was taken to the home of his cousin, Mr. Tveeten, in Crookston and a physician was called to dress his wounds, which are very bad bruises and some cracked ribs. He was able to come home Monday and is getting along as well as could be expected.

The auto was not badly damaged which is due to slow driving at the time of the accident.

WILSON PLEADS FOR LABOR'S AID

Tells A. F. of L. United Support of All is Needed to Win War

GERMANY IS ACCUSED

Imperial Government Started War, President Declares—Pacifists and Critics Scored—Samuel Gompers Is Lauded.

Buffalo, Nov. 13.—President Wilson made a personal and eloquent appeal here for the full support of organized labor for the government for the conduct of the war. Speaking before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor he declared the war could not be won unless all factions unite in a common cause, sinking their differences.

Tribute To Gompers.

The President paid warm tribute to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and virtually called upon the federation to give him united support. He denounced pacifists and critics. He appealed for co-operation.

"Between Power and Freedom."

Discussing Germany the President declared flatly that Germany had started the war and that he was willing to await the verdict of history on that statement.

The creation of new instrumentalities for better co-operation between labor and capital was one suggestion by the President which was of prime interest to the delegates to the convention.

The President alluded to the present war as "The last decisive issue between the old principle of power and the new principle of freedom."

Great Crowds Gather.

"I believe," he said, "that the spirit of freedom can get into the hearts of Germans and find as fine a welcome there as it can in any other hearts. But the spirit of freedom does not suit the plans of the Pan-Germans. Power cannot be used with concentrated force against free peoples if it is used by free people."

Tremendous crowds gathered at the railroad station and in the auditorium to greet the President.

DEMANDS PEACE TABLE PLACE

A. F. of L. Report, at Buffalo, Asks Representation.

Buffalo, Nov. 13.—Demand for "adequate and direct" representation of wage earners at the world peace conference is made in the annual report of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, submitted to the federation in convention here. The report declares that the world war "must wipe out all vestiges of the old conceit that the nation belongs to the ruler."

Questions raised by the war occupy virtually the entire report. No room is left for doubt that the United States has the unanimous support of organized American labor in the war, and it is asserted with equal emphasis that the vital interests of the average citizen demand that he have a voice in the readjustments to come with the dawn of peace.

"HOLY RUSSIA" MOVE GROWS

Religious Campaign to Defeat Nation's Foes Given Impetus.

Washington, Nov. 13.—It has become known that word came through official channels several days ago that the upheaval at Petrograd had greatly stimulated a religious movement in Russia designed by its leaders to save "Holy Russia" from foes from without or within. This movement is said to have resulted already in the pledging of 500,000 soldiers to support the Kerensky government, and the reports concerning it are believed to be largely responsible for the optimistic feeling apparent in administration circles.

Whole regiments and their commanders have enlisted in the new Holy Russia movement, the report says, and the movement is growing rapidly.

LABOR BACKS BRITISH ARMY

Votes in Favor of Fighting Until Victory Is Won.

London, Nov. 13.—An important section of British labor has given a decision in favor of continuing the war until victory is attained.

The South Wales mining area, sometimes called the storm center of British industry has been balloting for seven days past on the question whether to strike if the government proceeds with a scheme for "combing out" more men of military age for service in the army.

Austrian Ruler Nearly Drowns.

Amsterdam, Nov. 13.—Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary is reported in a dispatch from Gorizia to have narrowly escaped death in a mountain torrent on his return from a visit in northern Italy. His automobile broke down while he was crossing a swollen mountain stream. The emperor's two footmen attempted to carry him ashore, lost their footing and all three were swept a considerable distance by the swift current. The rescue of the emperor was accomplished by members of his suite.

KERENSKY MAY GIVE BATTLE

Reported Moving on Petrograd With 200,000 Troops from 30 Miles Southwest.

BOLSHEVIKI FAIL TO HOLD TOWN OF TSARSKOE-SELO

Rebels Have Destroyed Railway, However, Which Will Handicap Movement of Kerensky's Loyal Troops

Washington, Nov. 12.—Last night's dispatches from Russia appear to indicate that the Bolsheviki uprising in Petrograd is nearing its end and Premier Kerensky may soon again be in power. Late advices are to the effect that the revolutionists have been defeated in Moscow and at Tsarskoe-Selo, and from the latter town, which is fifteen miles from Petrograd, are retreating a disorderly mob towards the capital.

In Petrograd street fighting has taken place, with the Cossacks and other loyalists having the better of the Bolsheviki element, while Kerensky with 200,000 men is on his way from Gatchina to reinforce the loyalists. To stay his progress, however, the rails of the Petrograd-Gatchina railway have been torn up and large forces of the Bolsheviki are said to have gone out to give battle.

To add to the troubles of the Kerensky government, a state of war has been proclaimed in Finland and the governor-general dismissed, his place having been taken by a sailor. The diet has voted to elect a state directorate which will have supreme power in the province.

Gatchina, where Premier Kerensky is reported to have made his stand, is thirty miles southwest of Petrograd. The premier's following is reported to constitute practically an army corps.

The wireless station at Tsarskoe-Selo is under control of loyal troops, and a report is given out that the red guard, representing the Bolsheviki movement, has been defeated in Moscow.

ITALIAN SITUATION IMPROVED

Reinforcements Greatly Strengthen Defense on Piave Front

Washington, Nov. 12.—On the Italian front the Italian line in the north has stiffened under the reinforcements it has received from the British and French. Even the German official communication does not mention any further retirement by the Italians, but on the contrary admits that east of Asiago, where the Austro-Germans made gains last week, the Italians attacked the invaders and recaptured lost positions.

Along the middle and southern reaches of the Piave, the Italians are holding their line. The pressure of the Austrian offensive has been greatly lessened as it has gone further from its base with a steadily lengthening line of communication to the rear. The largest guns brought into play thus far are about five-inch, the invaders having been unable to bring forward heavier guns because of the condition of bridges and roads destroyed by the retreating Italians.

A dispatch from Paris says that Premier Painleve has returned from his visit to the Italian front, in company with other French and British officials, and he expressed unwavering confidence in the ultimate victory of the allied forces. A meeting of the war council issued a note confirming the establishment of a permanent inter-allied staff under Generals Foch, Wilson and Cadorna. The note adds that nothing has impressed the Italian government and people more than the celerity with which this has been accomplished.

HAWAIIAN EX-QUEEN IS DEAD

Famous Liliuokalani Passed Away After Illness of Several Days

Honolulu, Nov. 12.—Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii, whose death has been expected for several days, passed away yesterday morning. The queen had been in bad health for many months. A week ago she began to fail rapidly and last Thursday physicians announced that the end was near. Preparations have been made for the body to lie in state with a territorial guard of honor.

The queen's death was announced by the tolling of bells and the half-masting of flags. Her old subjects, among the natives, including chiefs of the old regime, immediately gathered to mourn. The funeral is to take place next Sunday, preceding which time the body will lie in state. As it will be the funeral of the last native monarch in Hawaii, all the pomp and splendor of the old days will be revived and ancient customs observed.

In her later activities the former queen had shown striking patriotism for the United States. She subscribed liberally for Red Cross funds and the Liberty loan. When news first came that a state of war had been declared she raised the stars and stripes over her residence, advising her former subjects to support the United States to the fullest.

New York Has Disastrous Fire

New York, Nov. 12.—New York City's water front was the scene of another disastrous fire yesterday when the factory of the Washburn Wire Co., which was working on large orders for the government, was destroyed, with an estimated loss of nearly two million dollars. Three separate blazes were reported to have been discovered in the factory. It was said that a score of Germans and an equal number of Austrians, only one of whom possessed a zone permit, were included in the force of 1,000 employes in the factory. The fire was most spectacular.

TRAGEDY WHERE COMEDY REIGNS

Roses Stolen From Chicago Theater Found Right Spot After All.

SOLVE DEEP MYSTERY

Three Detectives' Work Several Days on Case, When They Find the Culprit—the Hat Is Passed for Real Flowers.

Chicago.—Folks who went to the La Salle theater the other night saw a comedy. Upstairs in the office of Nat Royster, the manager, a tragedy was being enacted.

Several days ago Royster received complaints from Joe Daly, property man, that artificial roses used in one of the sets were being stolen. The flowers were not taken in large numbers. But every other day or so three or four would be missing.

Three detectives worked on the case for a few days. The roses continued to disappear.

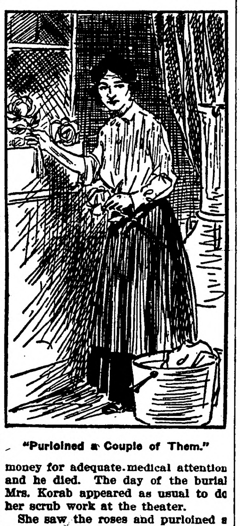
Then the detectives arrested Sophie Korab, a theater scrubwoman. When the detectives and Royster questioned her she sobbed violently, but would not talk.

Where the Roses Went.

Finally she found a champion in Miss May Dowling of the theater staff, who pleaded for her release. Then Mrs. Korab broke down and told her story.

Six months ago her husband, Anton, joined the army, leaving her to take care of the two children, John, 2 years old, and Mary, 3.

A few weeks ago little John contracted an ailment. There was no money for adequate medical attention and he died. The day of the burial Mrs. Korab appeared as usual to do her scrub work at the theater.



"Purloined a Couple of Them."

She saw the roses and purloined a couple of them. Next day she went to the cemetery and put the artificial flowers on John's grave.

Real Flowers for the Living.

The detectives made an exit. Miss Dowling slipped out and returned with a handful of real flowers.

"For Johnny," she said, and wiped her eyes.

The scrubwoman fearfully asked if she could go. Royster requested her to stay. He left the room for a few minutes and he saw Daly, the property man; Charlie Heede, in the box office; Bob Gorning, the superintendent; the stage hands, the ushers, the doorman, the cigar store man next door, and the cafe fan next door, and when he returned he handed $60.85 to Mrs. Korab.

"For Mary," he said.

BEAR HUNTS THE HUNTERS

Misses Men in the Fog and Is Shot, White Mate Escapes the Bullets.

Newton, N. J.—James N. Dobbins and Henry DeWitt returned to their camp at Montague township recently with the carcass of a black bear, weighing 201 pounds, and with a thrilling story. For two days they had been chased by the bear and his mate in the woods near Dingman's but they were aided by the fog in eluding the animals.

One of the gunners ran short of ammunition and had to make his way alone to Dingman's for more, and then the two of them undertook the work of seeking the bears. They came upon the big black bear in the woods, and, after repeatedly shooting at him, managed to kill him. Leaving this bear where he had fallen, they made a search for his mate, but, after several hours of this work, had to give it up.

They obtained a large log, strung the bear on it, and marched into camp.

Rescued After Twenty-Four Hours.

Ashland, Pa.—Patrick Gilroy, entombed in the Blast mine, near here for 24 hours, was rescued by miners who found that a stone barrier had saved his life.

Mr. Reuter Went Through a Terrible Siege of Kidney Trouble. Doan's Brought Back His Health.

"After an injury I was in terrible shape from kidney trouble," says D. Reuter, North St., West Chicago, Ill. "I couldn't stoop because of the awful pains in my back and the steady, dull misery almost drove me frantic. I had to be helped out of bed mornings, the pains across my kidneys were so bad and nobody knows the agony I went through. I couldn't do anything and was almost helpless; it seemed I would never get well.

Mr. Reuter

"The urine passed far too often and burned like scalding water. The passages were scanty and I had no control over them. At times everything in front of me grew dark and I couldn't see for several minutes. I perspired profusely and I was thirsty all the time. For two years I suffered, trying medicine after medicine without relief. I was just about discouraged and didn't think I would ever be able to work again.

"Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills I used them and four boxes cured me. My kidneys became normal, my back got well and strong and all the other troubles disappeared."

First Dreadnaught.

It is hard to realize that the original dreadnaught is now ten years old, and that, big as it is, close upon 18,000 tons, it has been far surpassed in tonnage and armament, observes an exchange. It gave a new word to the world, for the name of the ship, one of the traditional names of the British navy, is now applied to all ships of its class in every country. The word has taken the place of man of war, line of battle ship, and ironclad. Even now we have been obliged to go one better and the word superdreadnaught has arisen. It is interesting to hark back to the most famous of Nelson's ships, probably the most famed vessel which ever sailed the sea, the Victory, and to compare it with even the first dreadnaught. The latter took 14 months to complete and cost $9,000,000, while the Trafalgar flagship, a little over 2,000 tons, required many years to build and cost only $415,000, a sum at that time considered colossal.

"After all, there is nothing in a strange land like a newspaper from home. Even a letter, in many respects, is nothing in comparison with it. It carries you back to the spot better than anything else."

Horrified.

A man who is given to doing "odd jobs" about his house was very proud of a bit of painting he had accomplished.

About midnight following the completion of the outside of the house he was awakened by a noise. Creeping to the window, he looked out, and, to his horror, saw a burglar climbing up a ladder to the second-story window.

"Look out there!" yelled the householder to the burglar. "Look out for the paint!"

ACID POISONING!

The most eminent physicians recognize that uric acid stored up in the system is the cause of gout and rheumatism, that this uric acid poison is present in the joints, muscles, or nerves. By experimenting and analysis at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce discovered a combination of native remedies that he called An-u-ric, which drives out the uric acid from the system, and in this way the pain, swelling and inflammation subside. If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, backache, pains here or there, you can obtain Anuric, double strength, at any drug store for 60 cents, and get relief from the pains and ills brought about by uric acid; or send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial pkg. Anuric which you will find many times more potent than lithia and eliminates uric acid almost as hot water melts sugar. A short trial will convince you. Send a sample of your water to Dr. Pierce and it will be tested free of charge.

Anuric is a regular insurance and life-saver for all big meat eaters and those who deposit lime-salts in their joints.

Apple Full of Gold.

Gold coins were found in an apple by a minister in Albany, Ore., a short time ago. The apple was a gift from his congregation, and when he began to eat it he found it contained a sufficient quantity of gold coins to pay the expense of himself and family on a trip to the minister's old home in Ohio. He had been planning to visit his mother and the congregation, learning of this, decided to pay his expenses.

Hoarding New Bread

Old Fatwaste was a food hog. He went from shop to shop buying pounds of this and packets of that, and stored these ill gotten gains in his larder "for a rainy day." It was a Saturday night, and a neighbor met Fatwaste emerging from a baker's shop loaded with bread to the eyebrows.

The neighbor wanted to know what the mountain of bread was for.

"Oh," said Fatwaste in a whisper, "haven't you heard that new bread mustn't be sold after today? I am just getting a stock of it in."

FATE PURSUED THIS TOMMY

Nearly Spent Bullet Goes Through Hole Made in His Helmet by German Sniper.

James Dickinson, a convalescent Canadian soldier, in a letter to a friend, tells this story of the great war:

During a lull in the battle of the Marne one of the Canadian troopers took off his steel helmet, and, placing it on the end of his rifle, held it so that about half of it protruded above the top of the trench. A German sniper, observing it, at once shot at it, and the ball, striking it squarely, pierced the steel, going out the other side. The "Tommy" laughingly showed it to his comrades and placed it back on his head.

Fifteen minutes later the order came to "go over the top," and this same "Tommy" was among the first. He was also among the first to fall, mortally wounded.

It was discovered at the dressing station that he had been struck by a nearly spent bullet that had gone through one of the holes that he had so recently shown his fellow soldiers in laughter.

Wonderful Cuban Caves.

The wonderful caves of Bellamar, Cuba, to the east of Havana, attract the attention of the ambitious tourist. They are on a plateau as level as a table top, which presents no signs of the existence of such caves. After descending into the earth, however, a picture unfolds itself. Then come many passages, and at last the great "Gothic temple," 250 feet long and 80 feet wide.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war.

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TO-DAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better home-making in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; home-making as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing women for victory

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

ITALIANS SEIZE GERMAN POSTS

Launch Offensive On Asiago Plateau—Enemy Losses Staggering.

RETREAT IN FLANDERS

Forced Enemy Retirement On Dixmude Line in Belgium Officially Reported—Mountains in Italy Are Stormed.

Rome, Nov. 20.—Italian forces have begun an offensive on the Asiago plateau and have occupied advanced elements of trenches, the War office announces.

Further attempts of the Austro-German troops to cross the Piave have been stopped.

On the front west of the Piave, south of Quero, great numbers of Austro-German troops are attacking the Monte Monfenera and Monte Tomba lines.

Huns' Losses Staggering.

Battlefront descriptions thrilled Rome with heroic narratives of the Italian defense. In the mountains the fighting is over slippery, snow covered rocks and crags or centering about the peaks of the Alps. Along the river Piave the stream itself has been dyed in blood of the fighting men. The enemy's losses have been staggering.

Retreat in Belgium.

Washington, Nov. 20.—A German retirement on the Dixmude front has been reported officially to the Belgian legation.

"The enemy is abandoning fortified farms on the Yser left bank, blowing up elaborate and intricate concrete redoubts," said an official statement. Belgian detachments occupied the positions, caused severe losses to the enemy and captured scores of prisoners."

Take Posts by Storm.

Berlin, Nov. 20.—Quero and Monte Correlle, on the northern Italian front, have been taken by storm and the Italians have been driven from Monte Tomba, the war office announces.

The announcement follows: "Northeast of Asiago the enemy repeated his fruitless and costly attacks to gain the lost heights. Between the Brenta and the Piave the last few days have brought the Teutonic allies further successes in difficult mountain fighting."

Kaiser's Troops Nervous.

London, Nov. 20.—Positions east and northeast of Ypres on the Passchendaele ridge have been under heavy bombardment by the Germans for several days, apparent evidence that the Germans are nervous and hope to check a new British thrust.

WILSON TO CONTROL ROADS

Would Be Reins in Case of Crisis, Announcement Says.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Formal announcement has just been made that the railroads of the United States have decided that if any crisis should arise, to place their interests in the hands of President Wilson for protection and such disposition as he may deem necessary to prevent interruption of transportation during the war.

The announcement by the railroad board is regarded by officials as eliminating the possibility of a strike, by giving the president a free hand so far as the railroads are concerned, when he meets the brotherhood leaders in conference here Thursday.

ALL MEN LIABLE TO CALL FOR WAR

New Draft Registrations Allow Draft for Work as Well as Fight.

APPROVED BY WILSON

Full Strength of Country to Be Called and Only Extreme Disability Will Debar Men From Service.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Making practically every one of the more than 9,000,000 men registered subject to war duty, if not at the front then behind the lines, drastic new regulations for the draft have been approved by the president and made public by Provost Marshal General Crowder.

Affecting more than 9,000,00 homes, the regulations mobilize the war strength of the country to a point where only a word is necessary to take a man from his desk or plow or work bench and put him in a trench or armored motor car or munitions factory or shipbuilding plant.

Here are some of the radical new provisions which give teeth to the revised rules.

Secretary of War Baker is given authority to revoke any exemption or disregard at any time the deferred classification and order of call of any registered man, if that man's special trade or qualification make him necessary for special service. Thus, if the army finds itself facing a sudden need for 25,000 chauffers, Secretary Baker is authorized to direct local boards to get the number of chauffers, no matter where they stand in order of call.

Voluntary enlistment in the regular army of men between 21 and 31 years of age will be completely stopped on December 15.

Discharged Men Recalled.

Men previously discharged for slight deformities, such as flat feet, will be recalled. They will not be sent to the front but will be put on government work either at army depots or where they are most needed.

Men employed in the building and fitting of ships for the navy and Emergency Fleet corporation are not subject to call as long as they remain in those employments.

Registered men for the first time are permitted, if they so desire, to enlist in the navy or marine corps. Permission to do so will be granted, however, only in case the number of the man is so far down on the order list that he is not subject to call in the second draft.

New Physical Examination.

An entirely new system of physical examination is ordered whereby a man is examined not only by the physicians of the local board, but by an expert board of seven specialists before being finally accepted or discharged from military duty.

The provost general marshal's office has been given the assistance of the entire postal machinery of the country in tracing down men who have moved from their original jurisdictions, leaving no addresses behind.

General Crowder said that it could not be made too plain that the regulations affect every one of the registered men not at present in the uniform of the United States.

The rules will become effective in part on November 20. They are to go into effect as a whole on a date to be set by the provost marshal general, which probably will be December 10.

DESTROY SALTPETRE PLANT

Firebugs at Work in Brooklyn War Contract Factory.

New York, Nov. 19.—Incendiaries with German sympathies brought about the destruction of the saltpeter and nitre plant of the Bradley-Knowles Manufacturing company in Brooklyn, officials announce. The loss was over $300,000. The saltpeter was for use by the United States government in gunpowder manufacture. The nitre was for preserving canned fruit for the Allies.

Twelve explosions that shook the neighborhood for many blocks occurred when the fire reached vats containing high inflammable liquids. The plant was torn asunder.

Firemen said the fire was started in several places. Other buildings along the water front were threatened.

Villa Moves on Juarez.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 19.—Soldiers of the United States border patrol have reported sighting numerous bands of armed Mexicans moving toward Juarez, both from the east and the west. These are believed to be Villa followers moving up for a general attack on the town.

To Build Non-Sinkable Ships in U. S.

Washington, Nov. 19.—The shipping board has approved the building of 20 4,000-ton non-sinkable ships by the French government in the United States. By doing so it has waived the rule that no foreign construction should be permitted at this time. The non-sinkable ships, developed by French experts, is said to have withstood torpedo atatck in a test in which four shots were fired into her hull and the only effect was to destroy the cargo immediately surrounding the point of attack.

Aunt Virginia Says:

To attempt to plan your life for a year, a month, a week ahead is just as foolish as it would be to commence to add up a column of figures without knowing what more than half of them were.

Justice to the innocent sometimes demands that we expose the faults of our neighbor, but we ought to meet the occasion as an unpleasant duty, not as a joyful opportunity.

It pays to be generous if only for the claim it gives us on the generosity of others when our time of need comes.

It ought to be made a penitentiary offense to thrust upon the radiant happiness of newly married lovers the cheap, coarse, cynicism that "it won't last."

Some people imagine they are disciplining their children when they punish them brutally for doing something the tenth time that they have been allowed to do without protest nine times before.—Farm Life.

Chinese Like Automobiles.

American automobiles are rapidly growing popular in China. Their use is limited not by the desire of the wealthy natives to possess them, but by the total lack of roads outside of a few city districts. Many of the wealthy Chinese own several motors, and in Shanghai it is said to be difficult to maintain a taxicab business because the natives charter all the cars. The Chinese have also established several motor driven bus lines. Chinese chauffeurs are said to be the coolest and steadiest drivers in the world, but poor mechanics.

"So do I," returned Miss Cayenne. "If there is, I am going to suggest that baseball be played the year round. Nobody seems to pay the slightest attention to the climate when he can stand out in the street and watch a scoreboard."

Easy to Rid Home of Rats and Mice

There is no need of suffering from the depredations of rats and mice now that Stearns' Paste is readily obtainable at nearly every store. A small box of this effective exterminator costs only 35 cents and is usually sufficient to completely rid the house, store or barn of rats and mice. The U. S. Government has bought thousands of pounds of Stearns' Paste for use in cities where rats and mice are plentiful. The Paste is also efficient in destroying cockroaches and waterbugs. Adv.

Not Bread Alone.

A Japanese newspaper, in emphasizing the gravity of the responsibility resting on Japan and America on account of the fact that the world activity is shifting from the Atlantic to the Pacific, says that these two great nations are bound to exchange more and more of their products and declares that they must come to agree on high principles. "Man cannot live by bread alone," quotes the editor—which is perfectly true; but, as the old darky remarked, observes an exchange, "It keeps er man hustlin' fo' a little piece o' meat."

War Behind the Lines.

In the house of commons the statement was made some time ago that it needs a man and a half behind the line to keep one man in the trenches; and that is only at the front. How many men, women and children at home are needed to keep going the man with the rifle and hand grenade we can only conjecture, but if we say ten civilians to every fighting man we shall not exaggerate.—Simon Strunsky in the Yale Review.

OUR BOYS IN FRANCE AND HOME PROTECTION

The men on the firing line represent the pick of our American youth. One in four of our boys at home was sick, rejected because of physical deficiency. Many times the kidneys were to blame.

If we wish to prevent old age coming on too soon, or if we want to increase our chances for a long life, Dr. Pierce of the Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., says that you should drink plenty of water daily between meals. Then procure at your nearest drug store Anuric (double strength). This An-u-ric drives the uric acid out and cures backache and rheumatism.

If we wish to keep our kidneys in the best condition a diet of milk and vegetables, with only little meat once a day, is the most suitable. Drink plenty of pure water, take Anuric three times a day for a month.

Step into the drug store and ask for Anuric (60 cents a package) or send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial pkg. Anuric, many times more potent than lithia, eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar. A short trial will convince you.

A PRETTY FACE is the result of a healthy physical condition. "Beauty is but skin deep" yet it greatly depends on a clear complexion, free from wrinkles and hollow cheeks. Health always brings wealth of beauty. A healthy state of the system comes with Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a medicine prepared for woman's ailments—it cures those derangements and weaknesses which make womans' life miserable.

You can overcome most bodily ills, escape sickness, build up your health with regular hours, plenty of water, sensible food, and a chance to get the poison out of the system. Take a natural laxative once or twice weekly. Such a one is made of May-apple, juice of aloes, and root of jalap, sugar-coated and supplied to all druggists years ago by Doctor Pierce and known as Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Teaching Youth Courtesy.

It is true that the one-time honored "ma'am" has gone to voyage. Yet wait—what takes its place? Sometimes nothing. Poor modern child!

Little Willie, you see, is taught that "ma'am" is decidedly bad form, don't you know, a mode of address only to be used by servants, indeed, and so his youthship comes out with an abrupt "No" or a brief "Yes," to old ladies and playmates alike, an exchange observes.

The really correct thing for Willie to be taught is that the name or relationship of the persons addressed must be given in place of that socially ostracized "ma'am." He must say "Yes, mother," or "no, father" (if he has been taught not to use "sir"), or "No, Mr. Smith or Miss Jones," as the case may be.

The mentioning of a person's name when speaking to him or her is always a pleasant little mark of courtesy, even from one older person to another, and is charming to hear from a child's lips.

U.S. SENDS OUT DRAFT CALL TO 9,000,000 MEN

All Registrants Required to Fill Out Questionnaire Classifying Order of Call.

INVENTORY OF MAN POWER

Five Divisions to Be Formed Depending on Occupation and Claims for Exemption Allowed—Local Boards Will Help Registered Men.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Uncle Sam has begun the most gigantic inventory of man power ever attempted.

Preparations for the second draft were started when copies of the questionnaire for every one of the nine million men registered for military service were sent to the local exemption boards.

This questionnaire must be filled out by every registered man between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one. It will place in the hands of the government the life history of every registered man and will give a complete census of the men of military age in 87 trades, industries and professions. The questionnaire will classify all registered men for service.

Classification of registered men in the order of their liability for military service will be the first accomplishment of the questionnaire. Men will be classified in five divisions, the first division to be called the first and the fifth division last.

The classes and the order in which they will be called are as follows:

CLASS 1.

Single men without dependent relatives.

Married man, with or without children, or father of motherless children, who has habitually failed to support his family.

Married man dependent on wife for support.

Married man, with or without children, or father of motherless children; man not usefully engaged, family supported by income independent of his labor.

Unskilled farm laborer.

Unskilled industrial laborer.

Registrant by or in respect of whom no deferred classification is claimed or made.

Registrant who fails to submit questionnaire and in respect of whom no deferred classification is claimed or made.

All registrants not included in any other division in this schedule.

CLASS 2.

Married man with children or father of motherless children where such wife or children or such motherless children are not mainly dependent upon his labor for support for the reason that there are other reasonably certain sources of adequate support (excluding earnings or possible earnings from the labor of the wife) available, and that the removal of the registrant will not deprive such dependent of support.

Married man, without children, whose wife, although the registrant is engaged in a useful occupation, is not mainly dependent upon his labor for support, for the reason that the wife is skilled in some special class of work which she is physically able to perform and in which she is employed, or in which there is an immediate opening for her under conditions that will enable her to support herself decently and without suffering or hardship.

Necessary skilled farm laborer in necessary agricultural enterprise.

Necessary skilled industrial laborer in necessary industrial enterprise.

CLASS 3.

Man with dependent children (not his own), but toward whom he stands in relation of parent.

Man with dependent aged or infirm parents.

Man with dependent helpless brothers or sisters.

County or municipal officer.

Highly trained fireman or policeman, at least three years in service of municipality.

Necessary customhouse clerk.

Necessary employee of United States in transmission of the mails.

Necessary artificer or workman in United States armory or arsenal.

Necessary employee in service of United States.

Necessary assistant, associate or hired manager of necessary agricultural enterprise.

Necessary highly specialized technical or mechanical expert of necessary industrial enterprise.

Necessary assistant or associate manager of necessary industrial enterprise.

CLASS 4.

Man whose wife or children are mainly dependent on his labor for support.

Mariner actually employed in sea service of citizen or merchant in the United States.

Necessary sole managing, controlling or directing head of necessary agricultural enterprise.

Necessary sole managing, controlling or directing head of necessary industrial enterprise.

CLASS 5.

Officers—legislative, executive or judicial—of the United States or of state, territory or District of Columbia.

Regular or duly ordained minister of religion.

Student who on May 18, 1917, was preparing for ministry in recognized school.

Persons in military or naval service of United States.

Alien enemy.

Resident alien (not an enemy) who claims exemption.

Person totally and permanently physically or mentally unfit for military service.

Person morally unfit to be a soldier of the United States.

Licensed pilot actually employed in the pursuit of his vocation.

Member of well organized religious sect or organization, organized and existing on May 18, 1917, whose then existing creed or principles forbid its members to participate in war in any form, and whose religious convictions are against war or participation therein.

Boards to Aid Registrants.

To aid the registrants in filling out these questionnaires and determining their classification legal advisory boards have been provided for each local exemption district. Disinterested lawyers have been taken into service to aid in the general administration of the law.

All exemptions made prior to this time or revoked. Every man not in the military service must fill out a questionnaire, and the merits of his case will be decided upon again.

Any person failing to fill out a questionnaire is automatically placed in Class 1 and liable for immediate duty.

Following the classification comes a series of general questions. There then follow eleven other series of questions which fit particular cases ranging from the man who claims physical disability to questions asked of men seeking exemption because they are divinity students.

The general questions establish a most intimate knowledge of the personal characteristics of the registrant. He must state every occupation at which he has worked during the past ten years, giving not only the name of the occupation, but the number of hours worked each week and a statement of his education.

In these questions the registrant is given the privilege of stating his preference of service, and may state whether he is willing to attend a night school fitting him for service prior to being called into camp.

There then follows a list of 87 trades and professions, and the registrant is given space to indicate which he has worked in and for how long a period.

Occupational List.

The occupational list follows:

Accountant; artist, dramatic or otherwise; auto and gas engine man (a) factory, (b) garage, (c) ignition system, (d) marine engines; auto and motor truck driver, baker, band instrument, barber, blacksmith (a) helper (b) forger; boatman, boilermaker, bookkeeper, butcher, canvas worker, carpenter (a) brigde, (b) cabinetmaker, (c) house, (d) ship; chemical industry worker, clerical worker, concrete worker, contractor, cook, dentist, detective, draftsman (a) architectural (b) mechanical, (c) topographical; druggist, electrician (a) instruments repair, (b) motors and dynamos, (c) outside work, (d) wiring; engineer, graduate, (a) automotive, (b) chemical, (c) civil, (d) electrical, (e) mechanical, (f) mining, (g) sanitary; factory worker, farmer, furrier, fire-fighter, forest ranger, foundry man (a) core maker and molder, (b) furnace man; grocer, guard, gunsmith, harnessmaker, horseman, horseshoer, laborer, lawyer, lineman, (a) telegraph, (b) telephone; locksmith, longshoreman, lumberman, machinist (a) drill press, (b) general mechanic, (c) grinding machine, (d) lathe, (e) miller and planer, (f) toolmaker; mason, merchant, millwright, miner (a) digging and loading, (b) drill, (c) explosives, (d) timbering, (e) track laying; moving picture expert, nurse, painter (a) house, (b) sign, (c) scene; patternmaker, physician, plasterer, plumbing trades, policeman, printer, quarryman, railroad man (a) construction, (b) operation, (c) maintenance, (d) repair; railway motorman, rigger (a) bridge, (b) building, (c) ship; salesman, sawmill man, seafaring man, sheet metal worker (a) copper, (b) iron, (c) tin; shipbuilder, shoemaker, stableman, steam engineer (a) motive, (b) stationary; stenographer, stockkeeper, structural iron and steel worker, student, surveyor, tailor, teacher, teamster, telegrapher, telephone operator, telephone repairman, tile man, typewriter, veterinary, watchman, welder, acetylene, etc.; wheelwright, wireless operator.

Many Questions Asked.

Persons claiming exemption on the ground of being aliens are asked to give the date of their birth, their birthplace, the time of their entrance to this country, the name of the vessel upon which they entered and their companions. They are also asked, "Are you willing to return to your native country and enter its military service?"

Claimants for exemption on grounds of dependency must answer a series of thirty-one questions, supported by affidavits of the dependents. These questions are most intimate, seeking a declaration of the exact amount of money contributed to the support of the dependent each month. Each registrant must also declare the amount of his income for the past twelve months and the amount of his property, real and personal. If a registrant owns a house he must state whether he rents it and if so how much rent he receives. Encumbrances upon property must be declared, as well as the amount of taxes paid in the past year. "Has your wife ever been employed?" is one question asked. "Is your wife trained or skilled in any calling?" "Do you or your wife live with her parents?"

New Docks at Halifax.

The new docks at Halifax have reached a point where they can care for a considerable amount of Canadian and American shipping, although they will not be finally completed for some time yet. The war has given Halifax a great advantage as a port, because it shortens the trans-Atlantic voyage by several days. The new docks are being erected at a cost of $30,000,000. When complete they will be able to dock 375,000 tons of shipping at one time.

We have arranged for a series of six interesting articles, "War Talks, by Uncle Dan," written by Mr. Howard H. Gross, president of the Universal Military Training League, of which this is the first. They tell in a graphic way why military training is of value, both to the nation and to the individual, and our readers will find them of unusual interest.

WAR TALKS

By UNCLE DAN

Number One

America Must Fight Hard or Germany May Win—Necessity for Military Training.

"Now, Billie," said his mother, "your Uncle Dan is coming tomorrow to spend a week with us on the farm, and if you want to know about the war, here's your opportunity. Uncle Dan is probably one of the best-informed men in the country." Billie clapped his hands and gave such a whoop that he wakened the baby, but what could you expect of a fifteen-year-old boy who is a living interrogation point and wants to know about war?

Uncle Dan arrived in due time and Billie watched for an opportunity. It came that evening after dinner when Uncle Dan had lighted a cigar and taken a seat on the porch.

"I'm mighty glad you came, Uncle Dan. I want to talk to you about the war. We have just put military training in our township high school, but we had a hard time to do it. The Joneses and the Greggs objected. They said the war wouldn't come over here. Grandma Jones said: 'They ain't no use to worrit, it will soon blow over.' Well, we put the training in just the same. You orter heard Judge Brownell, the president of the school board, do the slackers up. He said unless we take off our coats and go to it, Germany may yet win, and if she does, she will take over the great British fleet as a war trophy and compel us to do what ever she wants to; that she could make us pay all the cost of the war; the kaiser could tax us as he pleased and that we couldn't help ourselves. He could make every one pay over a part of what he earns; that he could make the farmers pay rent for their own farms, etc. Now, Uncle, what do you think of that?"

"Well, my boy," said Uncle Dan, "all that Judge Brownell says might really come true and may unless we go quickly to the aid of the allies with large numbers of men and help them break the German line. Unless we can beat the submarines, they may prevent us from getting enough food to the allies to keep them going. In that case Germany would win. As matters stand today, our greatest need is trained men. If we had had several millions of men with military training in our industries and on our farms when the war came, who could have been called at once for service, I do not believe the kaiser would have forced the war upon us. As it was, he had no respect for us, and now we are in it and must go through with it. But never again must we be caught so wholly unprepared.

"There is only one safe way," said Uncle Dan, "and that is to adopt permanently universal military training, apply it to every young man who is physically fit, say in his nineteenth or twentieth year. The training can be carried forward in the United States training camps that are now being established for training men called by the selective draft. As soon as these men vacate these stations, they should be filled by younger men, and this should be made the permanent policy of the country."

Billie's mother, Mrs. Graham, had overheard the conversation. She came out and said: "Really, Brother Dan, are you serious as to the dangers of our country? If it is as bad as that, it is high time for us to wake up and do something about it."

"Exactly," replied Uncle Dan. "It is better to wake up now than to be rudely awakened later. We may as well understand, sister, that this is our war and we must win it or God help America. Everything that we have or hope to have—our liberties, our blessings, our opportunities are all involved in the great issue before us. Nothing must stand between us and winning this war. It is a question whether the peoples' right or the kaiser's might shall dominate the world. If there ever was a holy war, this is it. We are fighting for world liberty. We are fighting for the freedom of humanity. We are fighting for the right of men to govern themselves instead of being governed against their will by a war-mad overlord. Perilous times are ahead of us. We must be prepared to make any sacrifice, to perform any service that may be required of us."

"Oh, Uncle Dan," exclaimed Billie, "may I bring my chum, Jimmie Collins, when we have our next talk? He is a bug on this war business and just crazy to see you."

"Certainly," said Uncle Dan, with a hearty laugh. "If we are to have more talks, I shall be glad to have Jimmie Collins."

Billie clapped his hands and ran to the 'phone and told Jimmie to be over at seven o'clock the next evening.

Are You Eating To Win the War?

This Newspaper recommends Today's Housewife to every patriotic woman who wishes to help win the great war

Today's Housewife is especially needed by every homemaker in the present war-crisis, because the seven Courses in Domestic Science now running in the magazine help housewives to better select, prepare and conserve food supplies, to cut down waste, and at the same time to add to the health and welfare of the entire family.

Today's Housewife is the only magazine that maintains a model home where cookery recipes, new household devices, cleaning methods, etc., are put to practical tests before their appearance in the pages of the magazine.

The monthly lesson on "Cookery, Foods and Nutrition" under the direction of Caroline Hunt of the Department of Agriculture, is alone worth the price of a ten-year subscription not only to the woman who follows each lesson but to the government of the United States in helping to win the terrific war with the Central Empires of Europe.

Favorite Magazine of Home-loving Women

REMEMBER, better home-making is the ideal back of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE, its reason for existence, its earnestly planned-for goal. Better homemaking in its largest sense, with the spiritual and mental no less than the material needs of the family in view; homemaking as the biggest of woman's opportunities rather than housekeeping as the most dreary of woman's drudgeries.

Today's Housewife
The Magazine of the hour in mobilizing woman for victory

While Today's Housewife stands in a class by itself in its practical value to homemakers, it is also noteworthy for its wonderfully inspiring editorials and special articles, for its clean, delightful stories, and its beautiful illustrations and covers by leading artists. Over one million women agree that TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE is worth several times the price of 10 cents per copy.

Banquet a Success

The soldiers and sailors banquet given Monday evening at the Mission church, under the auspices of the Red Cross Chapter, was a success in everyway. The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion, as was the table in the basement which was reserved for the soldier and sailor boys, the three speakers and the chairman.

The church was crowded and there was hardly standing room for those who came late. The program consisted of songs, recitations and three splendid addresses by Prof. Hay and Rev. Parish of Thief River Falls and Rev. Ordahl of this place, and was enjoyed by all present.
